WHEN A TRAIN goes fast, railmen call it "highballing." But the gang which went to Catalina aboard a rail car Saturday was also concerned with highballs that came in glasses. Car was packed on barge for wet trip.

Highballing!

By CHARLES SUTTON

The nation's newest railroad, the Long Beach & Avalon, Ephemeral & Western, completed its maiden (and matron) run Saturday when the 72-passenger Senator A. J. Volstead Palace Lounge car "steamed" into Avalon Harbor on Catalina Island.

"I feel like Lucius Beebe doing good for mankind," said Commodore Richard Shaw, tears pattering down his windburned cheeks.

Shaw heads the Balboa Island Sculling & Punting Club, a 33-man organization of wits recruited from the ranks of America's most famous cartoonists, motion picture animation writers, and creative literati.

The LB&A, E&W trip Saturday, a 22-mile run with a rented Santa Fe railroad parlor car aboard a barge, was planned as the topper to a stunt pulled by the same organization three years ago when they "sailed" a fully rigged yacht to Las Vegas aboard a truck-drawn trailer.

Leaving from Berth 32-D in Long Beach Harbor at 8:02 a.m. Saturday, ("Trains never leave on the hour!") the parlor car faced what veteran channel seamen called "the roughest day of the season" with choppy seas whipped by a 20-knot wind.

The weather and rough seas made the inaugural run an hour and a half late arriving in Avalon.

"It wasn't the roadbed," Vice Commodore Richard Lehman protested. "There was just too much featherbedding by the engineer."

The only emergency arose when the refreshments ran out about two-thirds of the way

Dirksen Clarifies Ike on A-Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen said Saturday night that former President Eisenhower did not intend to infer he wanted a formal revision to the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

The Illinois senator said "The word 'reservation' is not quite what President Eisenhower had in mind. What he wanted was a statement of assurance in respect to use of atomic weapons in time of war or some other emergency."

* * * *

DIRKSEN added that he had received authority to interpret the former President's statement, which was contained in a letter to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee two weeks ago.

In the letter Eisenhower said he favored Senate ratification of the treaty "with one specific reservation."

"The reservation that I suggest would provide that in the event of any armed aggression endangering a vital interest of the United States this nation would be . . . sole judge of the kind and type of weaponry and equipment it would employ as well as the timing of their use," Eisenhower wrote.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., has said he will offer a reservation to the treaty giving the United States the right to use nuclear weapons when and how it chooses.

The Foreign Relations Committee stipulated this in its report on the agreement and contends a formal reservation is unnecessary.

Supporters of the test ban treaty were concerned Saturday with another reservation, one which Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he will offer.

* * * *

WITH THE Senate opening formal debate on the pact Monday, administration strategists conceded that if Goldwater goes through with his plan to offer a reservation he might attract as many as 30 votes. They hope to cut into this total of nearly a third of the Senate.

Even if they can't, they said they remain confident no more than 20 members finally will oppose ratification, which would require the affirmative votes of 67 if all 100 senators participated.

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — The White House announced Saturday that President Kennedy will hold an important round of foreign policy meetings Monday, including a discussion of the nuclear test-ban treaty with Senate Democratic and Republican leaders.

The President will meet at 11 a.m. EDT Monday with Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, of Montana, and GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, of Illinois. The Senate begins debate on the test-ban pact next week.

U.S. Takes New Look at Asians

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has started what one official termed a "massive resurvey" of its relations with South Viet Nam. The aim is to find ways of achieving the reforms which President Kennedy considers necessary to victory in the southeast Asian anti-Communist war.

The problem is especially critical not only because of the situation in Viet Nam itself but also because the United States seems to be suffering a decline in influence all over Asia.

* * * *

EFFECTIVE influence—the ability to get other countries to take action without having to threaten or pressure them—is what is meant by U. S. prestige abroad. This prestige, the capacity for strong leadership, has been damaged by several recent events.

These include failure to unseat strongman Ngo Dinh Nhu from his position of power in the government of his brother, Ngo Dinh Diem. They also include the almost contemptuous disdain shown for U. S. advice and criticism by the military junta ruling South Korea. Relations between the United States and Pakistan are on a more dignified plane but in terms of hard poltical realities cannot get much worse short of an actual break.

Undersecretary of State George Ball is evidently returning empty-handed from his talks this week

Five Hurt as Mine Caves In

MURPHY, N.C. (AP)—Five miners were injured and another was trapped but believed to be alive in a talc mine cave-in a mile west of this mountain community late Saturday.

The trapped man was identified as Carl Dockery, 44. Mine officials said he was believed to be alive in an air space somewhere between 230 and 240 feet below the surface.

Two of the miners who escaped, Ray Stewart and Jack Pope, were hospitalized with critical head and chest injuries suffered when they were struck by falling timbers. Two others, Willard and Wilford Beavers, received only minor injuries. A fifth, Buford Bryant, had serious head and chest injuries but was listed in satisfactory condition.

Three of the miners walked out of the Hitchcock Corp. mine within 15 minutes of the cave-in which occurred shortly after a shift change at 4 p.m. Two others were brought out by cradle lifts.

DONNA AXUM
Miss America of 1964

Arkansas Beauty Is Crowned

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Donna Axum, a 21-year-old brown-haired brown-eyed beauty from Arkansas, was named Miss America of 1964 Saturday night.

Donna, who eats to keep her figure, won a preliminary swim suit contest after stoking up on fudge brownies. She stands 5-foot-6½, weighs 124 pounds, and measures 35-23-35.

A senior at the University of Arkansas, Donna says her weight problem is the opposite of most girls. "I can walk around town and lose two pounds," she said.

* * * *

DONNA is a native of El Dorado, Ark., where she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hurley B. Axum. She likes to paint and swim and has had special training in modern dance, voice, piano and dramatics.

She stood there smiling and embraced the former Miss America. The crown was put on her head and the Miss America sash over her shoulder.

When the announcement was made she put her hands over her face. Then she exclaimed "Oh, oh."

RUNNERSUP in the contest, in order, were:

Miss District of Columbia, Rosanne Tueller, 20, McLean, Va.

Miss Hawaii, Susan Dee Pickering, 18, Honolulu.

Miss Tennessee, Martha Ellen Truett, 19, Tiptonville.

Miss Arizona, Susan Jean Bergstrom, 21, Phoenix.

YUGOSLAV DUE AT U.N.

Tito-JFK Meeting Seen in October

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (UPI)—President Tito of Yugoslavia, who mended fences with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev last month, Saturday mapped a far-reaching travel itinerary that will take him to Poland, the United States and Latin America in October.

Informed Washington sources said Tito will meet with President Kennedy in either Washington or New York sometime next month during the United Nations General Assembly.

"I hope to be in the United States between Oct. 15 and Oct. 20," Tito told reporters who followed him when he conducted U.S. Secretary Luther Hodges on a tour of the Yugoslavian Trade Fair in Zagreb Saturday.

* * * *

BUT TITO said his U.S. visit will be limited to a stay in New York "for a few days" to attend the U.N. General Assembly. "I have no intention to visit any other places in the United States," he said.

Washington sources said the date for the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting had not been determined, but they indicated it would coincide with the U.N. trip.

Before coming to New York, Tito will tour several Latin American nations, including Mexico. A Catholic newspaper in Guadalajara, Mexico, said Saturday the church "does not look with favor" on Tito's visit. "He is a cruel enemy of the Catholic Church," La Epoca a weekly, declared.

In Warsaw, Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki and his Yugoslav counterpart, Koca Popovic, announced in a joint communique that Tito would visit the Polish capital "soon."

The communique said the exact date for the visit would be fixed later. Tito was asked to come to Poland in 1957 by Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, but the trip was put off "to a more convenient time" because of the frayed relations between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union.

Those relations were shored up last month when Khrushchev took a 15-day "working vacation" with Tito in Yugoslavia and succeeded in welding the maverick Communist country into the economy of east bloc Socialist nations.

Four Men Hurt in Plane Crash

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Four Southern Californians suffered minor cuts and bruises Saturday when their light plane developed engine trouble on take-off and crashed near the runway of McCarran Field here.

Sheriff's Deputy Chuck Smith said the men were headed for Southern California in a single-engine Stinson piloted by owner Haywood Shelton, 35, 4914 Via El Sereno Torrance, when the crash occurred.

Taken to Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital with Shelton were Allen Firstenberg, 21, Sepulveda; Steven Hirsh, 22, Van Nuys, and Sidney Robinson, 20, Los Angeles.

Egan Urges Caution

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Fourteen Russian fishing boats were reported harassing American fishermen Saturday in and near the Shelikoff Strait which Alaska claims as part of its inland waters.

Gov. William A. Egan of Alaska immediately told the American skippers to keep their tempers and cause no violence.

* * * *

TWO OF THE U.S. fishing boat skippers told United Press International by radio-telephone that Russian crab fishing drags had fouled and ruined American gear, and that at least one Russian vessel had violated the American three-mile limit.

Shelikoff Strait runs between Kodiak Island and the Alaskan mainland. It varies in width from 18 to 33 miles, but all of it has been claimed by the state of Alaska as inland waters separating two large parts of the state.

The area where the Russians were reported is about 300 air miles southeast of here, the state's largest city.

The Alaska Fish and Game Department was waiting for a break in the weather to make a reconnaissance flight to check on the reports. But it appeared the planes might not be able to take off Saturday since the ceiling was less than 200 feet and visibility less than a mile.

* * * *

EGAN, attending a conference at Mt. McKinley National Park north of here, talked to the skippers by radiotelephone.

"The skippers asked me what I would do if they took a 30.06 rifle and blasted the windows of the Russian vessels when they foul American gear," the governor told UPI, "I told them that, of course, I want to avoid all violence and

Sole Survivor of 11 in Crash

BOY, 10, LEARNS FAMILY DEAD

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Troy Odom, a 10-year-old with a black eye and a broken jaw, asked for his mother from his hospital bed.

The adults beside the bed skirted the answer. They talked of how well he looked and said he would soon be on his feet again.

He asked when he was brought to the hospital. He asked the next day. And the next.

Each time they talked of other things.

Then the doctor told them: "Tell him. He has to be told."

That afternoon Troy asked:

"Grandpappy, where is mother?"

"SHE IS gone, son," Bill Josserand replied.

"For good?"

"Yes."

Troy slipped his hand into his grandfather's.

"And daddy?"

"He's gone too."

"And Peggy and Keith?" (His 12-year-old sister and 6-year-old brother).

"Yes."

And yes to Uncle Matt and Aunt June.

Troy couldn't cry. His face was a hemstitched suture, his jaw locked with wire.

"Where am I going to live?" He had borne up manfully. Now he was being a little boy.

"You can come live with me and granny," Josserand said, "or you can live with Paw-Paw and Granny Odom. It is your choice."

TROY made his choice. He picked Mr. and Mrs. Matt Odom, his paternal grandparents.

Troy loves his other grandparents, the Josserands, and he will never forget how they stood beside his bed day and night after the tragedy. But they live in Brazoria. The Odoms live in Mont Belview, his home.

It will be easier for Troy to get back into the sunny routine of his life in familiar surroundings. He can rejoin his fourth-grade classmates at Mont Belview elementary school, pick up his spot on the Little League baseball team.

LAST MONDAY, Troy was riding in a car near Dayton. Also in the car were his uncle, Matt Odom Jr., 38, of Baytown, Odom's wife, June, 35, Troy's father, Carl Odom, 33, his mother, Rowena, 33, his sister and brother. They were on their way to a Labor Day visit with Troy's aunt in Saratoga.

The car collided with one driven by Marshall Tynes, 21, of Pasadena. He had three passengers.

Ten persons—all except Troy—died in the wreck.

L.A.C. Says:
Top Pension Group

When he accepted the chairmanship of the Constitutional Convention George Washington asked: "If to please the people we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we afterwards defend our work?" He was pointing out that the members of the convention must place safeguards around the people's own demands for benefits which they should provide for themselves. He apparently did not foresee the danger of the elected officials providing benefits for themselves which were to be so great they could not justify denying them to the people.

These words of Washington might well have been quoted by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce president when he charged that congressional "pork barrel" actions were as great a scandal as the sex and spy scandal in Britain. He was referring to the way Congress gave in to pressure groups in awarding them contracts, subsidies and other benefits which the congressmen did not approve of—but which they voted because it meant votes for themselves back home.

In our own state legislature we find the elected officials providing for themselves pensions and other fringe benefits which can be in excess of the annual salary they receive. Some excuse these actions on the basis that the people have refused to vote them increases over the $6,000 a year they now receive. So they have voted the use of expensive automobiles with all expenses paid and other benefits estimated to equal a total of over $10,000 a year. Then comes the pension which builds up after the first four years at the rate of 5 per cent a year to 75 per cent at the end of 15 years when a state senator or assemblyman can retire on $4,500 a year. If he remains in office longer than 15 years, further pension increases bring him—or her—up to more pension than the $6,000 a year salary.

As one analyst explains it, the legislator pays 4 per cent of his $6,000 salary into the pension fund—or $240 a year. Thus, in 15 years, he will have paid into the fund a total of $3,600. For this he will receive $4,500 for his first year pension. If he is 60 years old this pension is the equivalent of handing him a paid-up annuity valued at around $75,000. The difference between the $3,600 paid by the legislator and the value of the annuity is paid by the taxpayers.

At any future time if the legislative pay is increased, the pension is increased proportionately. The federal congressional pensions are on much the same basis with their salaries being more than three times as great as our state legislative pensions—the federal pensions are proportionately higher. A move is now on in Congress to increase its salary basis from the present $22,500 a year to $35,000 with many additional fringe benefits.

This granting to themselves of many securities is a factor that must affect the legislators when they are faced with demands for higher social security pensions for all the people—or medical insurance paid for from taxes. It is hard for the legislator to return home and justify not voting for such benefits when he has just voted for so much greater benefits for himself.

I do not feel that increased salaries for legislators is wrong. But, when you add up all the fringe benefits they receive it is understandable that the great majority of taxpayers feel they are not justified. The spiraling pension programs for public workers places them far ahead of the people who must pay the costs. It is evidence that our public pension program for workers in all levels of government is one of the greatest factors in our ever increasing tax load. If the same trend was used in all private and social security pensions, it would be disastrous to our monetary system. But there seems to be no end to the trend the legislators set for themselves.—L.A.C.

GOP Win Forecast by Rocky

OREGON, Ill. (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York flew into the heart of "Goldwater country" Saturday and predicted the GOP would sweep President Kennedy out of office next year—no matter who the Republicans nominate for President.

Rockefeller, who appeared with his wife, Happy, for a day of speech-making and picnicking in northern Illinois said the Republicans would "reconcile our differences" by campaign time.

* * * *

ASKED BY a newsman if he could agree with Sen. Barry Goldwater's platform, Rockefeller replied "there are bound to be differences within our party. We, as Republicans, will reconcile our differences."

He said, "I'm confident that whoever is nominated will be elected."

Asked if this meant he would support Goldwater should he get the nomination, he said "I think I've already answered that."

Rockefeller said the Republican Party would pick up votes in the South because "the Democratic Party is to blame for civil-rights problems."

In the last session of Congress, Rockefeller said, "President Kennedy renounced civil-rights legislation introduced by congressional leaders based on the Democratic platform."

* * * *

HE SAID the President called for the civil-rights legislation now before Congress "after demonstrations pushed him."

When Rockefeller alighted from his plane at Rockford, Ill., he was met by about 1,000 welcomers. But most top elected state officers were missing from the greeters.

He said he was not offended by the absence of many top Illinois Republicans.

SPEAKER VISITS L.B.

Unruh Laughs Off Ouster Campaign

State Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh Saturday in Long Beach laughed off attempts by a citizens' committee to unseat him from his ranking legislative post.

Here to speak at the annual convention of the California Municipal Court Clerks Association, Unruh told newsmen:

"The fact that only five of the 16 guests invited to the first meeting of the committee Thursday in Los Angeles showed up speaks for itself."

With a wide grin, he added, "One of my colleagues told me it was a good thing this meeting was held in Los Angeles where there are so many people or else it would have been a total flop."

JESSE M. UNRUH
Addresses Convention

Eleven guests invited to the meeting of the much publicized "Citizens Committee for Honest Government" did not apepar. Even Miss Juanita Sayer, public relations coordinator for the anti-Unruh drive, was late 45 minutes to the closed-door strategy meeting in the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

MISS SAYER, who started the drive to unseat Unruh, said "grass-roots support" would develop later.

One of those attending the Thursday meeting was Assemblyman Gordon H. Winton Jr., D-Merced, who ran unsuccessfully against Unruh for the Assembly speakership in 1961. Unruh Saturday had no comment to make about Winton.

More than 300 delegates to the court clerks' convention heard Unruh at a noon banquet in the Lafayette Hotel. The Assembly speaker did not touch on the ouster movement in his talk.

THE TWO-DAY convention ends today in the hotel when Mayor Edwin Wade swears in new officers. To be installed are John Petersen of San Diego, president, and George Barbour of Los Angeles and Elma Walpole of Sacramento, vice presidents.

Altogether, more than 500 court clerks and their guests are attending the convention.

Turncoat Awaited by Mom

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The 52-year-old mother of Korean turncoat Scott Rush says she will provide a home for her son and his Chinese wife if they want it.

"I'm so glad," Mrs. H. L. Rush said Saturday upon hearing the news that her son was out of Red China. "All my prayers are answered. After all these years."

However, her happiness was dampened somewhat when she saw news photographs of her son who stayed 10 years in China after three years as a prisoner of war.

* * * *

"OH MY GOD," she cried. "He looks so bad. Bad. He told me in his letters he had been sick."

Looking at pictures of the Chinese daughter-in-law she has yet to meet, Mrs. Rush exclaimed, "She looks so beautiful."

"The only reason he stayed was to get his wife and child out," Mrs. Rush added. She said her son had wanted to come home all along.

Every year, she said, she would expect him home by Christmas, but "Christmas would come and go without Scott."

Now she hopes he'll be home in time for her birthday Oct. 19.

across the channel.

"From then on, it was rough," Shaw told Catalina Islanders who swam out to meet the arriving train holding aloft symbols of welcome—empty glasses.

Maiden-run tickets, priced at $1 each, were sold to almost 1,000 railroad lovers, according to Shaw. Only about 70 could be accommodated on the actual voyage, however.

"We wanted to run like a typical railroad," Lehman explained. "Besides, we donated the proceeds to the Boy Scouts of America."

* * * * *

AFTER leaving the Long Beach Harbor breakwater, an airplane—piloted by some wag—buzzed the train and bombed it with bathroom tissue.

"That thoughtful gesture was entirely unnecessary," Lehman said.

"The Senator A. J. Volstead Palace Lounge was, of course, fully equipped."

"This is no Toonerville Trolley we're running," mustachioed Shaw added.

* * * *

THE VINTAGE 1914 parlor car claimed a number of "firsts" on its maiden voyage, according to club members. Among them:

The first new railroad started in America in 50 years without a government mail subsidy;

The first radical departure in railroad power in history;

The first "problemless" right-of-way acquisition in history;

The first railroad to offer fishing tackle as standard equipment.

The club members—whose emblem is a yacht flag sporting a bent elbow symbol—trolled for marlin on the 22-mile voyage.

"The results were disappointing," Lehman admitted. "The clickety-clack of the wheels must have scared the fish."

After mooring the train to a 200-pound concrete-weighted buoy in the harbor, the B&A, E&W promptly drifted 100 yards out in the Pacific, dragging the mooring base.

* * * *

A HASTY rescue by the Avalon harbormaster and anchoring with steel chains, brought the parlor car to rest on the northwest side of the harbor, near the Avalon Casino.

Saturday evening, the club members held a spike-driving ceremony at Casino, driving a gold spike into the ground and "spiking everything in sight."

Decked out in white duck trousers, blue blazers and straw sailor hats, the club members sang "We've Been Railing on the Workroad," to the delight of onlookers.

A "night" in the roundhouse" is planned and the return (and final) trip back to Long Beach is scheduled for today.

"We expect a lot of folks will share with us," Shaw moaned, "the catch in the throat, the tug at the heart, at a grand railroad making its last run."

L.B. Truck Firm to Haul New Telescope to Arizona Site

A Long Beach trucking firm, starting Monday, will transport one of the world's most valuable telescopes in five giant loads from Huntington Park to Flagstaff, Ariz.

The $2-million telescope will be carted from the L & F Machine Co., 2110 Belgrave Ave., Huntington Park, by the Lacey Trucking Co. here, 2700 Lime Ave.

* * * *

SCIENTISTS say that the telescope, which weighs 70 tons will be able to make more precise measurements of astronomical bodies than were ever possible. Astronomers from throughout the world, including the Soviet Union, are expected to attend the dedication at the Naval Observatory near Flagstaff next year.

Electronically aimed and actuated, the giant telescope was built in a special hangar by the machine company in Huntington Park in more than two years. It has a 61-inch mirror. Photographic plates, rather than the human eye, will take views of outer space.

Experts who have inspected the telescope label it "the most accurate ever constructed."

* * * *

MILITARY authorities aided the local trucking firm in gaining special permission to use Highway 66 for transporting the telescope. Pilot cars will be used in front and back in two of the five cargo trips because of the width of equipment.

John A. Lacey, vice president of the trucking company, said the U.S. Weather Bureau is supplying weather information because excessive moisture or dust would create major problems. The start of the trip has been postponed once because of weather.

He said the load will include tooling and miscellaneous materials, with other loads leaving at two-day intervals for Arizona.

Russ Buy Scot Cattle

ABERDEEN, Scotland (UPI)—The Aberdeen Angus Cattle Society announced that a group of Russian livestock experts has purchased 104 head of Aberdeen Angus cattle.

The 43 bulls and 61 heifers will be shipped to the Soviet Union. The price was not disclosed.

Space Program Bill Signed by Kennedy

HYANNIS PORT (AP)—President Kennedy signed Saturday a bill authorizing a $5,350,820,400 civilian space program for the current fiscal year.

The measure passed by Congress 10 days ago totals about $362 million less than the President requested, $160 million less than the Senate had approved and $147 million more than the House originally voted.

The space package includes $1,147,400,000 for the Apollo Project designed to send a man to the moon and bring him back alive by 1970.

It also provides $3.9 million to start building a controversial electronics research center originally planned for the Boston area, but none of the money can be committed until space committees of the Senate and House have reviewed detailed plans.

Bellflower Boy on Bike Gravely Injured by Auto

A seven-year-old Bellflower boy was in critical condition Saturday night in St. Helen's Hospital, Bellflower, after he was struck by a car in front of his home.

Lakewood sheriff's deputies said that Michael Eugene Klement, son of Robert and Shirley Klement, of 8812 Cedar St., rode his bicycle out of his driveway and into the path of the auto. He suffered two broken ribs and internal injuries.

Driver of the auto, Jan Visser, 72, of 8740 Cedar St., told deputies he could not stop his car in time to avoid hitting the youngster. Witnesses informed deputies that Visser's car was moving at a slow rate of speed.

Test Ban Blasted by Chief of SAC

By BILL SUMNER
I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The United States is steadily phasing out its present fleets of manned bombers and is filling the void with missiles which have yet to be tested through to detonation, according to Gen. Thomas B. Power, commander of the Strategic Air Command.

POWER

His detailed by censored testimony in opposition to the nuclear test-ban treaty was made public Friday by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the preparedness investigating subcommittee. At the same time, Stennis announced to the Senate he would vote against ratification.

Power appeared before the subcommittee Aug. 19 and stated flatly that the treaty was not in the best interests of the United States. "I feel that we have military superiority now," he said, "and I feel very strongly that this has resulted in a world that has been free from nuclear warfare. I have a lower confidence factor that we can and will maintain that military superiority under the test-ban treaty."

He said there were voids in our knowledge about the vulnerability of our ballistic missile systems, and that the United States was depending on missiles more and more in its defensive posture.

Power contended that the only way a system could be proved was "to take it out of the stockpile in a random pattern and let the tactical unit take it out and detonate it. We have not tested any of the operational warheads in our inventory. That includes the missiles and the bombs."

Tour Cancelled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Cyrus Vance Saturday canceled plans to visit South Viet Nam on a Far Eastern tour beginning Wednesday, and it was learned that several other Defense Department officials are putting aside plans for trips there.

VANCE

The moves follow a State Department announcement Wednesday restricting official travel to Viet Nam because of the current "unsettled conditions" there.

As it now stands, Vance will see troop units and confer with officials in Hawaii, Formosa, Okinawa and South Korea—and then head back to Washington on Sept. 21.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. Vance.

Argentine Floods

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — New rains swelled already flooding rivers and threatened to convert the federal capital into a major disaster area today.

Murky river waters covered huge areas of Buenos Aires Province causing thousands of dollars in damage, but no injuries or fatalities were reported. Thousands of families fled their homes.

Krebiozen Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government announced Saturday that the controversial drug Krebiozen, hailed by its promoters as a lifesaver for hopeless cancer victims, is really a cheap, common laboratory chemical called creatine which has proved ineffective against cancers in animals.

A ranking federal scientist said he found it "impossible to conceive" how creatine could have any value in treating cancer in humans.

Credited with the key identification of creatine in the Krebiozen sample was Miss Ruth Kessler, a 20-year-old senior in biochemistry at the University of Pennsylvania.

Struck Ship Bombed

CHICAGO (AP)—A dynamite blast knocked a hole in a Canadian ship early Saturday and touched off action and demands for action on both sides of the international border.

The explosion punctured the hull of the Howard L. Shaw, a freighter that has been empty and idle for 4½ months because of a dispute between two unions.

Detective Frank Kasky said the police bomb squad had determined that six sticks of dynamite had opened the hole at the water line on the port side of the 450-foot ferighter. Nobody was hurt, and the ship was in no danger of sinking.

Teacher Strike Near

NEW YORK (UPI)—A three-member mediation panel began meetings with union officials and the board of education Saturday afternoon, less than 48 hours before the city's 43,000 public school teachers were to begin an illegal strike.

Salary increases at all levels head the list of demands of the United Federation of Teachers (UFT), bargaining agent for the teachers.

More than a million youngsters in 845 schools would be kept from classes if the teachers walk out as scheduled when the fall term begins Monday.

Phone Labor Pact

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Union and company negotiators reached full accord Saturday night on a back-to-work agreement that has stalemated settlement of the bitter and often violent General Telephone strike.

INTRACTABLE DISEASE CURBED

Australian Girl, 3, Happy Guest Here After Surgery

By CHARLES SUTTON

Some day, perhaps, when she's back in her native Australia and a bit older than she is now, pretty little Dorothy Atkinson will look back on the few days she spent in Long Beach in 1963 and smile in grateful remembrance.

By then, she'll have come to realize that it was here that she spent some of her first days playing and running like a normal child.

Right now, though, Dorothy, being only 3, is too young to appreciate that happy fact. Besides, she's much too busy skipping around the Long Beach home of Mrs. Suzanne Greenfield to think about anything but having a gond time.

* * * *

THE YOUNGSTER and her mother, Dulcie, 28, are spending the better part of a week here as house guests of Mrs. Greenfield, who lives at 367 Temple Ave. The two women became acquainted through a pen-pal correspondence.

Until very recently, Dorothy was afflicted with a rare condition known as giantism, a disease characterized by extraordinary growth of one or more limbs. In Dorothy's case, her right leg grew to almost twice the size of the left.

Sitting in the living room of the Greenfield residence Thursday, Mrs. Atkinson, recalled her daughter's story.

"Dorothy was born with the condition," she said. "But Australian doctors had never come across a case like hers. They tried for a long time to help. Poor thing, she spent more time in hospitals than she did out.

"Finally, through one of the Australian papers, I learned of a specialist in Chicago—a Dr. Kelikian—who had helped other victims of the disease. The newspaper, Truth, started a campaign to raise money for Dorothy, and in time the people of Queensland raised over $3,500." (Queensland is Mrs. Atkinson's native state in Australia.)

DOROTHY ATKINSON . . . Rides and Runs

With the money, Mrs. Atkinson was able to pay not only for a series of operations on Dorothy at Chicago's Wesley Memorial Hospital, but also for their plane fares.

"After three months, Dr. Kelikian finished with Dorothy, and now, except for some swelling in her leg, it's as good as the other one," she said.

Mrs. Atkinson reflected a moment, then added quietly: "I can't tell you how grateful I am to Dr. Kelikian. He was so wonderful. Everybody at the hospital was so nice. I'll never forget it."

Just then, Dorothy, her blond hair flying, ran past her mother pushing a roller toy.

Mrs. Atkinson glanced at her in mock irritation. 'Ever since she had the operation, she's been more spoiled than ever. But I expect that's not too heavy a price to pay for the wonderful thing that's happened, is it " she said.

Farmers Going to Europe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown announced Saturday that 45 California farm leaders will leave Los Angeles Monday for a 22-day agricultural goodwill mission to Europe.

Brown, who himself returned Thursday from a six-week European trip, said the group would "tell the story of democracy in America in face-to-face visitations."

The group, headed by Lionel Steinberg, Palm Springs, vice president of the California State Board of Agriculture, will visit growers and agricultural leaders in England, Belgium, the Soviet Union, Bulgaria and Italy, Brown said.

* * * *

BROWN said the group would discuss the Freedom From Hunger foundation program, headed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and determine "what part California farmers can play in alleviating hunger from which nearly one half of the people of the world suffer."

Steinberg said members of the group grew "forty of the most important crops in California" and could speak the language of every country to be visited. He said "the group should receive a more than ordinarily comprehensive report on conditions."

$1.25 Million El Toro Zoning Suit Set

By JACK BALDWIN

SANTA ANA—Initial testimony in a 1¼-million dollar damage suit against Orange County Board of Supervisors is expected to be presented Monday during the first-day proceedings in an anticipated week-long trial in Superior Court.

Instigating the action is Louis Laramore, 41-year-old wealthy Orange County new-home builder whose court testimony in 1961 sent five officials of the City of Westminister to jail on bribery charges.

Laramore, through his attorney, Roger Howell of the Santa Ana law firm of Rutan and Associates, claims the county has prevented him from developing a proposed tract of 696 new homes adjacent to El Toro Marine Corps Air Station by rezoning the land for light manufacturing (M-1) usage only.

* * * *

LARAMORE'S plan to build low-income homes in a 165-acre tract located 9,000 feet south of the air station property and directly beneath the jet plane approach to the main instrument controlled runway has met with vigorous resistance from the Marine Corps, interested citizens, and by legislative action by the Board of Supervisors.

In addition to the damage suit for $1,252,500 which is scheduled to be heard by Judge Ronald Crookshank in Department7 of the Superior Court Monday morning at 9 a.m., the court will simultaneously consider a writ of mandate also filed by Howell. The writ, an injunctive action, asks the court to enjoin the Board of Supervisors from permanently rezoning of the land to prevent residential development in the area.

"We feel," said Howell, "that the ordinance is not lawful, but that if the court finds that it is legal, then it constitutes a 'taking of land' and requires compensation."

* * * *

HOWELL termed two ordinances passed by the supervisors as "inverse condemnation" and that the action was costing his client $300 per day interest on money he borrowed to develop the proposed tract.

Jack Bennett, a vice-president of Moral Investments—a corporation of investors formed to finance the development, told the Orange County Planning Commission at a hearing on August 28 that the supervisors' action had already cost him and his associates $100,000.

When court convenes on Monday (a holiday for some objecting witnesses for the county) appearing as an ally of the county will be the City of Costa Mesa. City Council of the coastal city recently instructed City Attorney C. A. Dungan of the law firm of Dungan, Tobias, Tornay, and June to enter the case as Amicus Curiae—Friend of the Court.

Costa Mesa became interested when the Marine Corps indicated it might have to change its main instrument-approach runways at the air station—creating an air traffic pattern that would bring approximately 205 jet planes daily directly over the city.

* * * *

WHILE the Marine Corps is not a party to the legal action, it will send Major H. H. Zagrodsky, officer-in-charge radar traffic control center, as an expert according to testify as to the nature of jet approaches to the air station, according to Col. Evans Carlson, assistant chief of staff at El Toro.

Col. Carlson told the Planning Commission at a hearing in late August that on the very day of the hearing the Marine Corps would log its 250,000th radar - controlled landing on runway 34-R—the main instrument approach runway at the busy military air base.

He said that in the immediate 24 hours preceeding the hearing the control tower had logged 205 ground control approach (GCA) landings at the air station. He said this number did not include many other landings made under visible flight rules (VFR) nor the many over-flights by helicopters from near - by Santa Ana Marine Corps Air Facility.

Meanwhile on Thursday, September 12 while Judge Crookshank is hearing the lawsuit against the Board of Supervisors — if the trial should last the expected seven days, the supervisors are scheduled to hold a hearing a block away in the old County Court House to consider the permanent rezoning of 1875 acres (including Laramore's holdings) to light manufacturing.

* * * *

WHILE Laramore through Moral Investment Corp., of which he is president, owns 158 acres in the area to be considered for nonresidential use, the largest land owner affected is the Irvine Co., owner of 1545 acres which would be affected by the rezoning from Agricultural to M-1.

Raymond Watson, manager of planning for the Irvine Co., told the I, P-T, "I don't think we will raise any objection to the rezoning by the Board of Supervisors." The company's reaction to a Planning Commission recommendation to the supervisors that they approve "Exhibit E" caused considerable anxiety among interested parties.

Watson had stated earlier at a Planning Commisssion hearing that the company had no objection to the rezoning of "Exhibit C" to light manufacturing, but "Exhibit C" contained only 493 acres of company property while "Exhibit E" affected 1,545 acres of the holdings within the large Orange County ranch property.

An extension for 60 days of an interim emergency ordinance affecting 790 acres (a strip of land 4,000 feet wide and approximately 11,000 feet long) lying directly beneath the approach to El Toro's runway will expire on September 15—three days after the scheduled hearing at 2 p.m. on Thursday.

While there was evidence of anxiety expressed by those favoring the rezoning, such was not the reaction of attorney Howell in anticipation of the board's action.

* * * *

COMMENTING on the Planning Commission hearing on the rezoning matter August 28, Howell said, "The hearing was mere formality. It was certainly not a desirable hearing. The commission was acting on direction received from the supervisors. There is no doubt in my mind the board will approve by a 5-0 vote, if all supervisors are present, 'Exhibit E.'"

Governmental agencies, business leaders, and individuals opposing Laramore's plan to build approximately 700 homes beneath the GCA corridor contend the development will create for the occupants of the homes "an untenable situation" and that they, "will be demanding relief, by county action, from the existing noise and crash hazards."

Accident records of the Marine Corps show there have been nine plane crashes within a one mile perimeter of the proposed Laramore development. There have been 22 crashes within the approach area to runway 34-R within the past 10 years, the records show.

An acoustical engineering firm—Bolt, Baranek and Newman — conducted a sound study of the area on which Laramore intends to build his new home tract. They reported that noise created by jet aircraft passing overhead would be "very unsatisfactory" in speech interference levels.

The Marine Corps has stated that loss of the GCA approach to the air station resulting from complaints of homeowners beneath the approach pattern "presages loss of this major Pacific Fleet support base. Its replacement would cost the taxpayers $125-175 million."

* * * *

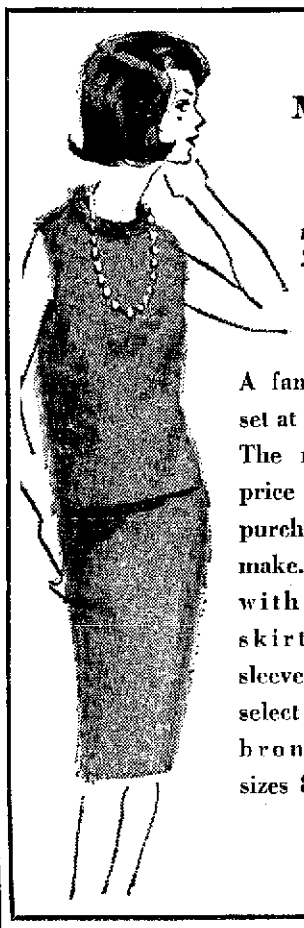

CHAMBERS of Commerces of nearby communities claim that loss of the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station would rob the county of its second largest employer.

Major Gen. John F. Dobbin, commanding general of the air station commented that, "A guarantee of a way in and way out of the air station was vital to the continued operation of El Toro."

Laramore's legal action against the Board of Supervisors marks the second occasion on which he has tangled with governmental agencies in court. In November of 1961 he turned state's witness after being granted immunity by District Attorney Ken Williams and by Attorney General Stanley Mosk. He testified that he had paid $24,000 to four city councilmen and the city administrator as a bribe in exchange for the council dropping a plan to annex his Eastgate new-home development into the City of Westminister. All five defendants served jail sentences. Laramore was not jailed.

Wallace Reticent on School Opening

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George Wallace refused to say Saturday night whether he will permit the opening of Alabama schools faced with desegregation Monday.

"You can refer back to our executive orders," the governor told newsmen after arriving here for a speech at a meeting of the United Americans for Conservative Government, a segregationist group.

His executive orders prevented opening of schools at Tuskegee and Huntsville where Negroes were to attend classes with white pupils last week. But both orders will have expired by Monday.

* * * *

ASKED IF, on the assumption that he would permit schools to open, would he bar Negro pupils at white schools, Wallace again replied:

"I refer you to the executive orders."

This left up in the air the whole segregation crisis as four Alabama cities prepared uncertainly for school opening Monday.

Unless Wallace does intervene again—as he has four times in the hectic week gone by—white and Negro students are scheduled to attend class together in Birmingham, Huntsville, Mobile and Tuskegee.

The crisis, if it continues, could bring U.S. marshals, or troops, to Alabama again to carry out federal court orders to admit a total of 24 Negroes to previously all-white schools for the newly started fall term.

Wallace, reticent now in marked contrast to his earlier willingness to talk about his plans, has given no indication of the course he will take. But he scheduled a speech on statewide television tonight.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, the fiery segregationist governor — whose inauguration eight months ago brought a defiant promise of "segregation today, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever" — found himself confronted with a swelling chorus of public protest and legal action because of his use of armed state troopers in the past five days to keep schools closed.

At one Tuskegee school Monday and at four in Huntsville Friday, Wallace invoked his police power to prohibit the schools from opening. He said there was grave danger of violence.

Helmeted troopers kept students away, even though school boards in both communities rejected the closing orders and, technically, kept the schools open.

Name Woman Postal Chief, JFK Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., wants President Kennedy to appoint a woman to the vacant post of Postmaster General.

Federation President Virginia R. Allan wrote Kennedy that the "partnership of women in our economy and society will be recognized by the appointment of a woman to the cabinet in your administration." Kennedy has not yet named a successor to J. Edward Day, who resigned recently as Postmaster General.

could not condone such action. It has long been a fear of mine that something of this sort might happen."

The skippers charged that the fouling of their gear appeared to have been deliberate.

Egan said the state was investigating the activities of the Russian fishing fleet, and he promised he would apply all possible pressure on the federal government to protect Alaska's historic fishing grounds.

"It would appear that they (the Russians) are fishing far beyond the intention of international law," Egan said. "When international law specifying the three-mile limit was formulated, it was assumed that nations would respect each other's traditional fishing grounds."

* * * *

THE GOVERNOR said the time has come for the federal government "to declare the continental shelf and the crabs and bottom fish that live on it under U.S. ownership and protection."

He also said there is a definite need for an international conference on fisheries with the Russians included.

"Decency and common sense has to be evolved," Egan said.

In addition to historic fishing grounds, the governor said an international conference also should go into the kind of gear that should be permitted in fishing. U.S. crab fishermen use the pot method of gathering crabs and complain that the Russians' drag lines and gear destroy the U.S. gear and harm the crab fishery.

U.S. Garbage Tosser Ousted From Saigon

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — An American officer is being sent home for throwing garbage from a Saigon roof which landed on Vietnamese security forces, highly reliable sources reported Saturday.

The officer's identity was not disclosed but he was described as being of field grade —major, lieutenant colonel or colonel.

At the same time, U.S. authorities issued stern instructions to servicemen throughout Saigon to stop throwing garbage from roofs of their billets on Vietnamese police. Some cases have been reported of urinating over the sides of buildings.

* * * *

AMERICAN servicemen in downtown billets often have ringside views of the stormy demonstrations rocking this capital. Feeling sometimes runs high among the spectators.

During one demonstration of Buddhist monks in the downtown area several months ago, U.S. officers on the roof of one building loudly cheered the demonstrators. But on the question of throwing garbage, an American general said Saturday:

"We are the windowcase of the free world. We just can't allow this kind of a conduct."

* * * *

FEELINGS among the American servicemen in Saigon began running high after numbers of them witnessed some of the beatings administered to Buddhist demonstrators by combat police. At one demonstration, two American soldiers, tears streaming down their faces, screamed to newsmen:

"Washington must know about this! Somebody tell them!"

But other American servicemen, most often officers, say they are sympathetic to government handling of the Buddhist problem, and express belief the United States should stay out of the whole thing.

with Pakistan President Mohammad Ayub Khan.

* * * *

U. S. differences with its key Asian ally are centered on Pakistan's bitter opposition to U. S. military help to India and its consequent flirtation with Communist China against which the Indian defenses are being raised.

Even in relations with India, which has long received kid-glove treatment from Washington, the United States has found itself unable to make assistance a two-way street. The Indians have resisted U. S. efforts to set up a broadcasting station in their country lest this somehow infringe their asserted neutrality in the cold war.

* * * *

FRANCE is the outstanding example in Europe. Under President De Gaulle's leadership she long since decided to go her own way. But France is not dependent on U. S. support. Nor is another NATO ally, Portugal; the situation there is rather reversed since this country hardly needs continued use of air bases in the Azores despite the break between Lisbon and Washington over Portuguese colonial policies in Africa.

Viet Police Nip Protest by Students

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Students demonstrated against President Ngo Dinh Diem's government at several Saigon schools Saturday, reviving open opposition, and combat police arrested about 300 jeering, stone-throwing youngsters.

"Help us! Help us!" several youths screamed to foreign newsmen as they were hauled away in army trucks. "President Kennedy supports Ngo Dinh Diem beating and arresting students."

Direct intervention of the United States in South Viet Nam's political-religious crisis is a major aim of Buddhist and student elements that the government accuses of seeking—like the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas afield — to overthrow Diem, a Roman Catholic.

Backstage at the Sideshow

By BILL JONES

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Kids and adults alike have marveled for generations at the feats of the sideshow performers. Here is a backstage glimpse of some of these people, their past, their thoughts, their dreams.)

"You may think I'm partly nuts," said Curtis Collins thoughfully as he placed the lighted cigarette into his mouth. "But, then, you're only half right."

He swallowed the burning cigarette.

"That's one way not to litter the ground."

* * * *

COLLINS popped a razor-blade into his mouth.

"Hugo the Human Ostrich, they call me," he said. "I'm 35 and I've been eating blades, glass, tacks and phonograph records since I was 14.

"I saw this fellow at the circus and he was eating a soda bottle. I told him I wanted to learn. 'Got any ulcers?' he asked. 'Nope,' I said.

"Well, I tried, but I just couldn't eat the bottle. I finally had to settle for a small glass. I got better after that.

Collins, a mild, ordinary-looking fellow, started biting away on a phonograph record like a cracker. "The only thing with taste," he said. "The glass and blades have no flavor. But you get a carbon taste with the records."

(Outside, the Great Chante was breathing into the microphone: ". . . 13 living nightmares inside . . . if you're easily shocked, stay away . . .")

* * * *

"NO TROUBLE at all with my stomach," said Collins. "The greatest acid is the juice in your stomach. It disintegrates the stuf.

"But, you can eat it all day and still feel hungry. It gives you no nourishment. Me, I like fried chicken best. I like bacon and eggs. I like good foods. But, I can't always afford them. Not much money in this business."

* * * *

THE FIRE-EATER joined us. His fellow performers call him "Fire John." He calls himself "Ali Khai" and he is 26.

"One of my dad's friends was one of the greatest fire manipulators. Bruno. He was the original Human Volcano. He taught me and, later, he met death while doing his act."

Fire John, a handsome, curly-headed young man, takes off his dark, bubble sunglasses and Ivy League jacket and puts on a black cape.

He pours a shot-glass of gasoline into his mouth.

Then he lights his mouth with a small torch. Twice he tries to light a candle from his fiery mouth. The heat brings out drops of sweat from his face. He makes it the third time.

"I've only been burned three times severely. At the World's Fair in Seattle, this gal, my assistant, put too much gasoline in the glass. I shot out flames from my mouth when there was a gust of wind. The blowback set my face and costume on fire. A person in the audience threw my cape over me. I performed the next night."

(Outside, the Great Chante is getting angry because some of the other sideshows have copied his "Headless" Woman. ". . . They are imitators . . . ours is the original . . . we use no mirrors . . .")

FIRE JOHN . . . Blisters on His Tongue

* * * *

"I KEEP going because of people," Fire John says, lighting a cigarette. He smokes 4½ packs a day. "When a kid comes up to you with big eyes and says, 'Gosh,' it just gives me a great, big, good feeling.

"I don't cheat them. I'm not a phony," he says.

And he sticks out his tongue. On it are horrible blisters.

(Outside, Chante is getting generous. . . . "We're putting away the 50-cent tickets today . . . it's 25-cents for adults and a dime for kids . . . worse than the Depression . . .")

* * * *

WATCHING CHANTE at work is John Turk, 26, the show's second-string "talker."

"Chante is great," he says. "When I was a kid in Long Beach, I used to come here and stare at him and tug at his coat and ask him questions. He taught me the business."

He breaks off the conversation to greet a girl dressed in clinging tights. "I like you better now that you're half-nude," he tells her. She laughs.

"Sometimes the 'talker' gets a smart alec out in the crowd," John continues. "When that happens, I ask the crowd to turn around and pay attention to him because he has the floor. That generally shuts them up."

The crowd, mostly youngsters, is now coming in, clearing throats, moving close to the stage and looking up in wordless expectation.

Curtis Collins appears on the stage. He puts a lighted cigarette in his mouth.

"You may think I'm partly nuts . . ." he begins.

L.A. Port Board Head Active Exponent of Foreign Trade

By LOU JOBST
I. P-T Marine Editor

World War II taught Air Force officer Albert Perrish a couple of significant things: the world suddenly was a lot smaller and there was certain to be a crying need everywhere in a battle-torn globe for American products.

"It seemed to me world trade was the place to go," says Perrish, who went, and 18 years later, is president of the Los Angeles Harbor Commission and possibly the Southland's busiest and best-known businessman abroad.

The Canadian-born Perrish, who grew up in Long Beach and graduated from UCLA, is the personification of the modern world trader, a knowledgeable man who wears many hats and is constantly on the go.

* * * *

AS A relentless exponent of expanded international trade, the 48-year-old Perrish, in addition to being chief official of the Pacific Coast's largest port, is president of Winter, Wolff & Co., Inc., one of the region's leading steel-importing concerns; chairman of the West Coast Metal Importers Association, an influential and powerful industry combine which has created a prosperous and growing domestic market for foreign-made steel; a director of the elite Southern California Trade Association and a member of the World Trade Committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

* * * *

ALSO in recent months he has found time to serve as general chairman of World Trade Week in California, to receive three high foreign decorations (Italy's Star of Solidarity, Belgium's Order of Leopold, Frances Order of Merit and Commerce) and to travel more than 60,000 miles in Asia, Europe and Africa.

Two technological developments — instant worldwide communications and the jet airplane—have altered vastly the ways of world trade, says Perrish.

ALBERT PERRISH
Saw World Shrink

Where once U.S. businesses had to rely almost exclusively upon the importer-exporter to buy foreign products or sell goods overseas, they no longer need these middlemen.

* * * *

"IF THRIFTY Drug Co. or any other American firm, for instance, today wants to buy novelties from Japan they can put their own people on a jet and fly them there in a matter of hours," asserts Perrish.

Perrish also believes that the average American no longer is hostile to foreign products per se and now realizes that stepped-up trade with the rest of the world is a key ingredient, both politically and economically, in our national survival.

"To buy from us they must sell to us," he explains. "The man in agriculture now understands that the man overseas can buy his grain only if he has money he has gotten from selling us something we need."

* * * *

PERRISH also says that America need have no fear it will lose the world leadership in manufacturing and production.

"Nobody can produce a cheaper automobile than the U.S. and no place in the world can you get a cheaper TV or refrigerator," he continues. This, he says, is due to American know-how, a constant improvement of products and the means of manufacturing.

Robertson's Position on A-Ban Bared

By VIRGINIA KELLY
I. P-T Washington Corresondent

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., will vote for the Long and Goldwater reservations on the nuclear-test-ban treaty. These reservations can be defeated by a majority vote in the Senate.

If the reservations are defeated, as Sen. Robertson expects, he told this reporter, he will vote against the nuclear-test-ban treaty.

In Congress 31 years, Sen. Robertson is one of the ranking of members of the Senate; a senior member of the Appropriations Committee, and for two years the acting chairman of the defense appropriations subcommittee. He is chairman also of the powerful Banking and Currency Committee.

* * * *

THE LONG reservation, authored by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., provides that the United States can use nuclear weapons in defense of the United States or its allies. The Goldwater reservation provides that the nuclear-test-ban treaty would not become effective until the USSR removes from Cuba all nuclear weapons and nuclear warheads, all military and technical personnel, and until international inspection within Cuba could confirm these facts.

In this exclusive interview for The Independent, Press-Telegram, Sen. Robertson said that the overwhelming testimony of military experts proved the military disadvantages to the U.S. from the nuclear-test-ban treaty.

* * * *

THE KENNEDY administration, Sen. Robertson said, declares that the political advantages outweigh the military disadvantages.

Sen. Robertson said he has spent his entire adult life in politics and that he considers all of the political advantages of the treaty are in favor of the USSR.

The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and the second-ranking member of the Armed Services Committee, Sen. John C. Stennis already have stated that they will vote against the treaty. Sen. Russell and Sen. Stennis also hold powerful places on the Appropriations Committee. Sen. Harry Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Finance Committee also has said he probably will vote against the treaty. Stennis is chairman also of the Senate Preparedness Committee. His opposition is based on the testimony heard in executive session which has convinced him there is great cause for alarm about the security implications.

Young Demo Convention in San Diego

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—About 225 delegates attending the California Federation of Young Democrats convention discussed Saturday various proposals in an effort to formulate a platform.

Proposed planks included recognition of Red China, abolition of the House un-American Activities Committee and the Senate Internal Security Committee, removal of bans against college-campus speakers and support of the proposed nuclear-test-ban treaty.

Pronouncements on water fluoridation, euthanasia, unionization of farm labor and presidential nominating procedures were being considered by the resolutions committee. The committee is expected to report today to the State Central Committee which will take final action on resolutions.

Paul Schrade, Western states director of the United Auto Workers, addressed delegates Saturday afternoon.

The convention, which failed to complete its business last May during a meeting at San Francisco, also will consider proposed amendments to the constitution and by-laws.

RED CROSS SPONSORS WATER FITNESS TEST

Swimmers Going 50 and 100 Miles

Long Beach is discarding hiking shoes for swimming fins in President Kennedy's 50-mile physical fitness test.

The Long Beach Chapter of the American Red Cross is sponsoring the 50 and 100-mile swimming assaults with mileage clocked off in segments of a quarter-mile.

Recently, 82-year-old Henry T. Reidell was awarded the chapter's 125th certificate for completing his 50-mile swim. The durable octogenarian made 36 miles in 1962 and completed his goal last week.

Aside from swimming, the retired accountant's chief passion is music. He spends hours a day at the organ and grand piano in his home at 4322 E. Fourth St., and composes church music. He has a surgeon son in Whittier and four grandchildren, "all swimmers," he said.

Probably the "swimmingest" family is Mr. and Mrs. John Bezusko and their two children of 6722 Driscoll Ave.

Mrs. Bezusko is nearing her 100-mile goal.

Her husband, a test engineer on North American's Apollo missile program at Downey, made his 50-mile swim in six weeks.

Bezusko, a fighter pilot previously with the Polish, British and U. S. Air Forces, averaged a water mile daily after work and from two to five miles on the weekends.

Their son, Mike, 16, and daughter, Katie, 7, have won all possible Red Cross swim badges for their age groups.

Mike swims for the Wilson High School team and plays water polo. Katie swims in weekly competition at the Colorado Street Lagoon.

Exposition Park Backed for Center

By P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Regardless of Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and "downtown interests," boosters of a $6 million exposition and trade center at Exposition Park say they will continue their plans.

Yorty advocates construction of a trade center and convention hall near Pico Boulevard and Figueroa Street in downtown Los Angeles.

George Kinsey, vice president of the State Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park, and Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, chairman of the Coliseum commission's special committee to plan the trade center, said Yorty's site could cost taxpayers as much as $25 million.

* * * *

THE EXPOSITION Park site, underground and either directly north or southwest of the Sports Arena, would not cost taxpayers a penny, Hahn said. It would be financed by revenue bonds, which would be repaid from receipts from the Coliseum, Sports Arena and trade center itself.

This method was used to finance the arena and repayments already are more than $1 million over the required amount at this time, he said.

Told that Mayor Yorty has charged that a major hotel chain was behind the Exposition Park site because it intended to build near there, Hahn said he knew of no such plans and commented:

"The mayor makes a lot of public statements that are not sound."

Hard to Hit a Gal, John Wayne Finds

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Wayne, who has smacked bad men and Indians all over the screen, says the hardest thing to do is hit a woman in a movie.

"It's the toughest thing for an actor to do. The usual heavy—no matter how big he is—will ask you to pull the punch a little.

"But women — when the script calls for you to hit them — demand that you really smack them. In 'The Quiet Man' and again in '"McLintock', I had to spank Maureen O'Hara.

"And all she did was bawl me out for not smacking her hard enough."

Service Exams Set

Federal service entrance examinations for 1964 are being accepted in Long Beach, Paul Hare of the local Civil Service Commission announced Saturday.

The examination is open to college seniors and graduates regardless of major, as well as to those of equivalent experience. Starting salaries go to $5,795 yearly.

Opportunities are offered in 60 occupational fields. The positions are in Washington, D.C., and throughout the U.S.

Applicants who file with Hare by Sept. 19 will take their test on Oct. 12. Six additional tests are slated through April 14.

Hare will supply further details at the Post Office Building, Room 405.

Oil Output Nears 1957 High Mark

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Crude oil is being produced in the United States at a record rate.

A daily average in excess of 7,500,000 barrels the first eight weeks of 1963 was well above last year's record level.

A late August daily average of 7,660,000 barrels also was within striking distance of the all-time high for a single week. A healthy demand for petroleum products in the early winter could push crude output to its highest level in history before the end of the year.

* * * *

LOUISIANA is pacing the upward trend, having broken its own production record 11 times this year.

Domestic production averages a record 7,332,000 barrels a day as demand for products increased 4.3 per cent. The January - August climb to 7,500,000 barrels daily has kept pace with another 2 per cent increase in demand.

Crude output in the United States has exceeded the last August average of 7,660,000 barrels daily only once.

Production ranged from 7,786,300 to a record 7,818,400 barrels a day in March 1957, the final month of a sharp upward swing prompted by efforts of the U. S. industry to supply Western Europe with oil during the Suez Canal emergency.

* * * *

DOMESTIC PRODUCTION has its annual seasonal fluctuations but output sagged sharply after the reopening of the canal. Gradual recovery has been aggravated by a world surplus of crude, but U. S. operators now are in a position for the first time to challenge the all-time mark set in 1957.

A new record would require that about 160,000 barrels a day be added to the late August average at some point between now and the end of the year.

Averages for the last six years are favorable.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Autos, Steels, Stocks Signal Economy Pickup

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The economy passed the Labor Day milestone this week with motor purring.

Businessmen consider Labor Day a second New Year's Day because it signals the end of the summer vacation period and the beginning of the usually more active fall season.

When business is good on Labor Day it usually continues favorable until the end of the year. That is the outlook this year.

With sales booming, the automobile industry was getting up steam in turning out 1964 models. Steel production was leveling out with indications of an increase close ahead. The stock market, thriving on such developments, climbed to an all-time peak.

* * * *

A PREDICTION that 7.5 million passenger cars will be sold this year and 7 million next year was made by Lee A. Iacocca, a vice president of Ford Motor Co. This was in line with earlier forecasts by General Motors and Chrysler officials.

Iaccoca said output of Ford vehicles in the final quarter of this year is scheduled to be the highest for any quarter.

Rushing to supply dealers with 1964 models, auto makers will increase their production this month sharply over August, when the changeover from 1963s was being made. It was estimated that 500,000 cars will be turned out this month.

Production this week was estimated at 66,800 cars as General Motors resumed production after a closedown for model changeover. This would be 73.3 per cent above last week and 2.8 per cent ahead of a year ago.

* * * *

OUTPUT probably will exceed 100,000 next week and 150,000 a week by the end of the month.

Forecasts from industry sources indicated that steel production this year will exceed 100 million tons for the first time since 1957.

Output last week held steady with the 1,765,000 tons topping the previous week by 1 per cent.

Prospects for an earlier and stronger pickup by the economy this fall were bolstered by the outlook for the steel industry. Clear signs were seen that orders were picking up.

The stock market, as measured by the popular barometer, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues, jumped to an all-time high. It topped the previous high established Dec. 13, 1961.

* * * *

WALL STREET credited good business developments—particularly favorable corporate earnings—for having lifted the market from the depths of the 1962 plunges.

In its monthly economic review, the First National City Bank of New York found that business sentiment remained generally good.

It concluded that the three major reasons were better than expected sales and profits, renewed buoyancy in the stock market, and tangible progress of the tax reduction bill in Congress.

"Recent business reports betray no faltering of the pace of activity," the bank said.

* * * *

THIS WAS supported by a report by the National Association of Purchasing Agents that the rate of production and new orders continued at a high level in August. A survey of its members by the association showed 29 per cent of purchasing agents' companies noting higher production levels, 52, per cent finding them unchanged from July and 19 per cent reporting they were lower.

Factory orders increased in July after declining the two previous months, the Commerce Department reported. Manufacturers' new orders rose 1 per cent from June to a total of about $35.5 billion.

Furniture orders and shipments advanced 9 per cent in July over July 1962, according to the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers.

CONSUMER installment credit continued to expand rapidly in July, moving up to a record $5,106,000,000. The net increase was $501 million.

The federal minimum wage rose to $1.25 an hour from $1.15 and at least 2.6 million workers benefitted. The pay increase will cost employers an estimated $365 million a year, the Labor Department said.

Briefly around the business scene: Ninety-five companies boosted their regular dividend rates in August against 76 in August 1962 . . . Mercedes-Benz introduced a $20,000 limousine; it's equipped with a bar but air conditioning is extra . . . In the first seven months of this year 80,990 mobile homes were shipped from factories to dealers, compared with 67,670 a year earlier . . . Canada enjoyed a surplus of exports over imports of $138.1 million in the January-July period.

Mormons' Head Is 90 Today

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—White-haired David O. McKay, spiritual leader of two million members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, observes his 90th birthday today by "just relaxing" at his boyhood home.

"I never felt better in my life and I mean it," he chortled with a twinkle in his blue eyes. "The only thing that worries me is that I get tired after working 8 or 10 hours a day."

Talking about his birthplace in Huntsville in northern Utah made him recall the past.

"I certainly gave my mother a lot of trouble as a little rascal," he said. "I'm extremely happy I was able to attend the dedication of a new chapel in Wales. It makes amends for my childhood capers."

The chapel dedication took place last month in Cardiff about 12 miles from the birthplace of his mother. The overseas roundtrip flight boosted his lifetime travel log estimate to at least 1 million miles by all types of transportation.

* * * *

PRESIDENT OF THE Mormon Church since 1951, McKay became acquainted with missionary activity at the age of seven, when his father was called to serve in the British Isles for a two-year period. The family remained at the Huntsville farm to maintain the father in his missionary labors.

McKay followed in his father's footsteps shortly before the turn of the century after graduation from the University of Utah in Salt Lake City. He was class valedictorian. Later, he became and educator and in 1906 was called to serve as a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles of the Church.

This was the start of fulfillment of a remark made years earlier to McKay by a Scottish leader in the church, who said:

"If you are faithful, you will yet stand in the leading councils of the church."

In the ensuing years of his apostleship, he served in a wide variety of church posts, traveling far and wide in the world to spread the word of God. He also devoted time and energy to civic responsibilities on a local, state and national level, acquired business acumen and maintained avid interests in youth work, horses, automobiles and airplanes.

* * * *

THE PROPHECY issued in Scotland reached full blossom on pril 9, 1951.

McKay was "sustained" by church members assembled in the famed Salt Lake City Tabernacle on Temple Square as president. As "prophet, seer and revelator" of the church, McKay became the ninth successor to founder and first prophet Joseph Smith.

He brought the presidency a strong sense of individual freedom which he has retained through the years.

"I believe in freedom of choice for the individual," he said. "An individual can choose to be a saint or sinner.

"The individual is the center of all our activity. Our church stands for the salvation of the individual, not the group or state. That is what Jesus Christ has shown us."

McKay's avid belief in the freedom of the individual makes him a strong foe of what he describes as the "Communist conspiracy."

"My feelings would not be authoritative," he declared, "but since you asked, I must say I do think the Communist conspiracy is one of the greatest menaces in history. The individual inherently objects to being controlled by any one man or group. The Communist principle strikes at the freedom of man."

U.S. Aide Finishes Talks in Portugal

LISBON (UPI)—U. S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball Saturday night left for Washington after trouble-shooting visits to this country, France and Pakistan for President Kennedy.

Ball boarded a special plane after a second round of meetings with Portuguese Prime Minister Antonio Oliveira Salazar and Foreign Minister Alberto Franco Nogueira.

SIP OF WATER CAN DROWN WEIGHTLESS MAN

Astronauts' Food Far Better Than K Rations of War II

By LEE CRAIG
I, P-T Aerospace Editor

When America's astronauts take off for the moon near the end of this decade, they can leave their knives and forks behind.

At the same time, the three Apollo spacecraft riders will have to watch their table manners. No chewing with their mouths open. Crumbs floating in the weightlessness of space could get into essential equipment and jam it.

Each man aboard the spacecraft, now under construction at North American Aviation's Space and Information Division, Downey, will be allotted 1.4 pounds of food per day.

* * * *

THANKS to a new method of processing, freeze-drying, they will have a fantastic variety of foods available.

A suggested menu for a three-man, 14-day mission includes such items as crab Newburg, ham in mustard sauce, beef with spaghetti and tomatoes, Swedish meatballs, various soups and snacks.

Each day's rations are repeated every fourth day except dinner, which is not scheduled again until the eighth day.

* * * *

I SAMPLED one of the dishes — chicken with potatoes and gravy—and decided immediately that much progress has been made since the K rations of World War II.

In freeze-drying, the moisture is removed from foods without altering the taste or structure. They may emerge weighing as little as one-fifth of their original weight.

For the moon, trip, the food will be enclosed in flat, plastic bags, with a narrow neck at one end and a one-way valve, according to the latest design.

* * * *

AT MEALTIME, an astronaut will take a syringe filled with hot water, which he will insert in the bag through the valve. After kneading the contents to assure complete mixing, he will tear off the end of the neck, place the resulting spout in his mouth and squeeze in the food.

If he wants to put the bag down, he won't worry about the food spilling out. A crimp has been placed in the bag's neck and it snaps shut when pressure is released.

Contrary to science fiction, there is little possibility that future astronaut food will be in pill form, according to Larry Osborne of 25 St, Joseph Ave., research engineer for NAA's Apollo Life System's bio-medical group.

* * * *

A PILL doesn't give an astronaut's stomach enough of a workout, Osborne says. Roughage provided by real food is needed.

The Mercury astronauts ate pureed food from squeeze tubes and didn't like it. "Baby food," they called it, and demanded something more palatable. Now they have it, thanks to freeze-drying.

There are some foods, of course, which do not respond well to this process. The astronauts will have to get along without salads, for instance, and fresh vegetables. The cell structure breaks down when the food is reconstituted.

* * * *

MEATS must be comparatively fat-free. The fat tends to come out rancid after a freeze-dehydration treatment.

Liquids, which are readily reduced to crystals, are no problem except the hazard in drinking them after they are reconstituted.

Man is used to the one-gravity conditions on earth. If he turns a bottle upside down, he expects the liquid to come out. In the weightlessness of space, he would have to pull the bottle away from the contents.

If liquids were spilled in a spaceship, they would float around the cabin in little globules, coating every surface they brushed against.

* * * *

ONE experimenter found this out the hard way, while under brief weightless conditions in a parabolic flight in a test plane.

He attempted to pour water from a container and the water just hung in a mass in the air. He didn't know what else to do, so he bit it.

He very nearly drowned. The water went down his throat and into his lungs, coating them and preventing them from performing their life-giving function.

Fortunately, help was nearby and gravity took over a few seconds later. Still, he had to spend several days in a hospital before he recovered.

Unnecessary Lawn Mowing for VA Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government auditors say unnecessary lawn-mowing at an average of $5 a job has boosted the cost of maintaining and managing properties acquired by the Veterans Administration through default of loans.

The auditors said lawns of property in the Detroit area were mowed an average of three times a month at a cost of $5 a mowing. In the Los Angeles area, they said, lawn and shrubbery maintenance costs amounted to $255,000 in fiscal year 1962 for 1,100 properties.

Mount San Jacinto's Tramway Open Soon

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — The towering peak of 10,831-foot Mt. San Jacinto has been looking down on this desert spa since before it had its first palm.

Its slopes are cool and green, nfttimes snow covered, while the temperatures on the valley floor below soars well past the 100-degree mark.

Starting Thursday, huwever, Mt. San Jacinto will lose some of its cool aloofness.

The people are coming—by tramway.

* * * *

THURSDAY WILL be the official opening day for the Mt. San Jacinto tramway. A tramload of civic leaders and public officials will be the first passengers to ride a $7.7 million tramway claimed as the world's longest single-lift tram in the world.

It will cost the assembled dignitaries $1,000 each for the honor. Then, Saturday, the tramway will open to the public at a more reasonable rate: $4 for adults, $2.75 for children.

It will be cheaper on weekdays—$3.50 and $2.25.

The 80-passenger cars rise from Valley Station, elevation 2,643 feet, to Mountain Station, at 8,516 feet. The distance, by cable, is 2½ miles.

Gen. Aulick Takes Over Job in Civil Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Carl H. Aulick of Sacramento, has been sworn in as director of civil defense for Region 7, comprising five states.

The oath was administered by Stuart Pittman, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Civil Defense, in a ceremony at the Pentagon.

Gen. Aulick retired in July from the California National Guard after 40 years service.

His civil defense headquarters are at Santa Rosa, Calif. The region covers California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Hawaii, American Samoa and Guam.

Hi, Neighbor Party Slated in Seal Beach

Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce will hold a "Hi, Neighbor" party Sept. 17 at McGaugh Intermediate School, Bulsa Avenue and Bay Boulevard, Chamber president Bill Jones announced. The party will last from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

The party's purpose will be to establish better relations between residents and churches, clubs, social and civic organizations, and cultural projects.

Free refreshments will be served. An exhibition of square dancing and a musical revue will be presented.

* * * *

THEME OF THE party will be "Saluate to Leisure World," Seal Beach's new retirement community. Chairman Jerry Brockman said the party was expected to attract several thousand residents.

Brockman called the party "a quick way to get everybody interested in what we are doing, instead of just coming to town and remaining an outsider for a great length of time."

At the previous "Hi, Neighbor," party, held in 1959, about 75 per cent of Seal Beach's residents were present.

Seaborg Chosen for Atom Parley

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy Saturday named Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, U.S. representative to the seventh session of the general conference of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The meeting is scheduled to be held at Vienna, Austria, beginning Sept. 24, 1963.

The nomination of Dr. Seaborg and four alternates will go to the Senate Monday for confirmation.

Cal. Business Warned Defense Spending Will Stop Increasing

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Chairman Robert W. Crown of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee warned California's business and government leaders Saturday to prepare for the day defense spending stops increasing in the state.

"It now appears that the Department of Defense is approaching a plateau of spending," Crown said in a statement.

He said Congress seems to be ready to turn down a big hike in such expenditures next year.

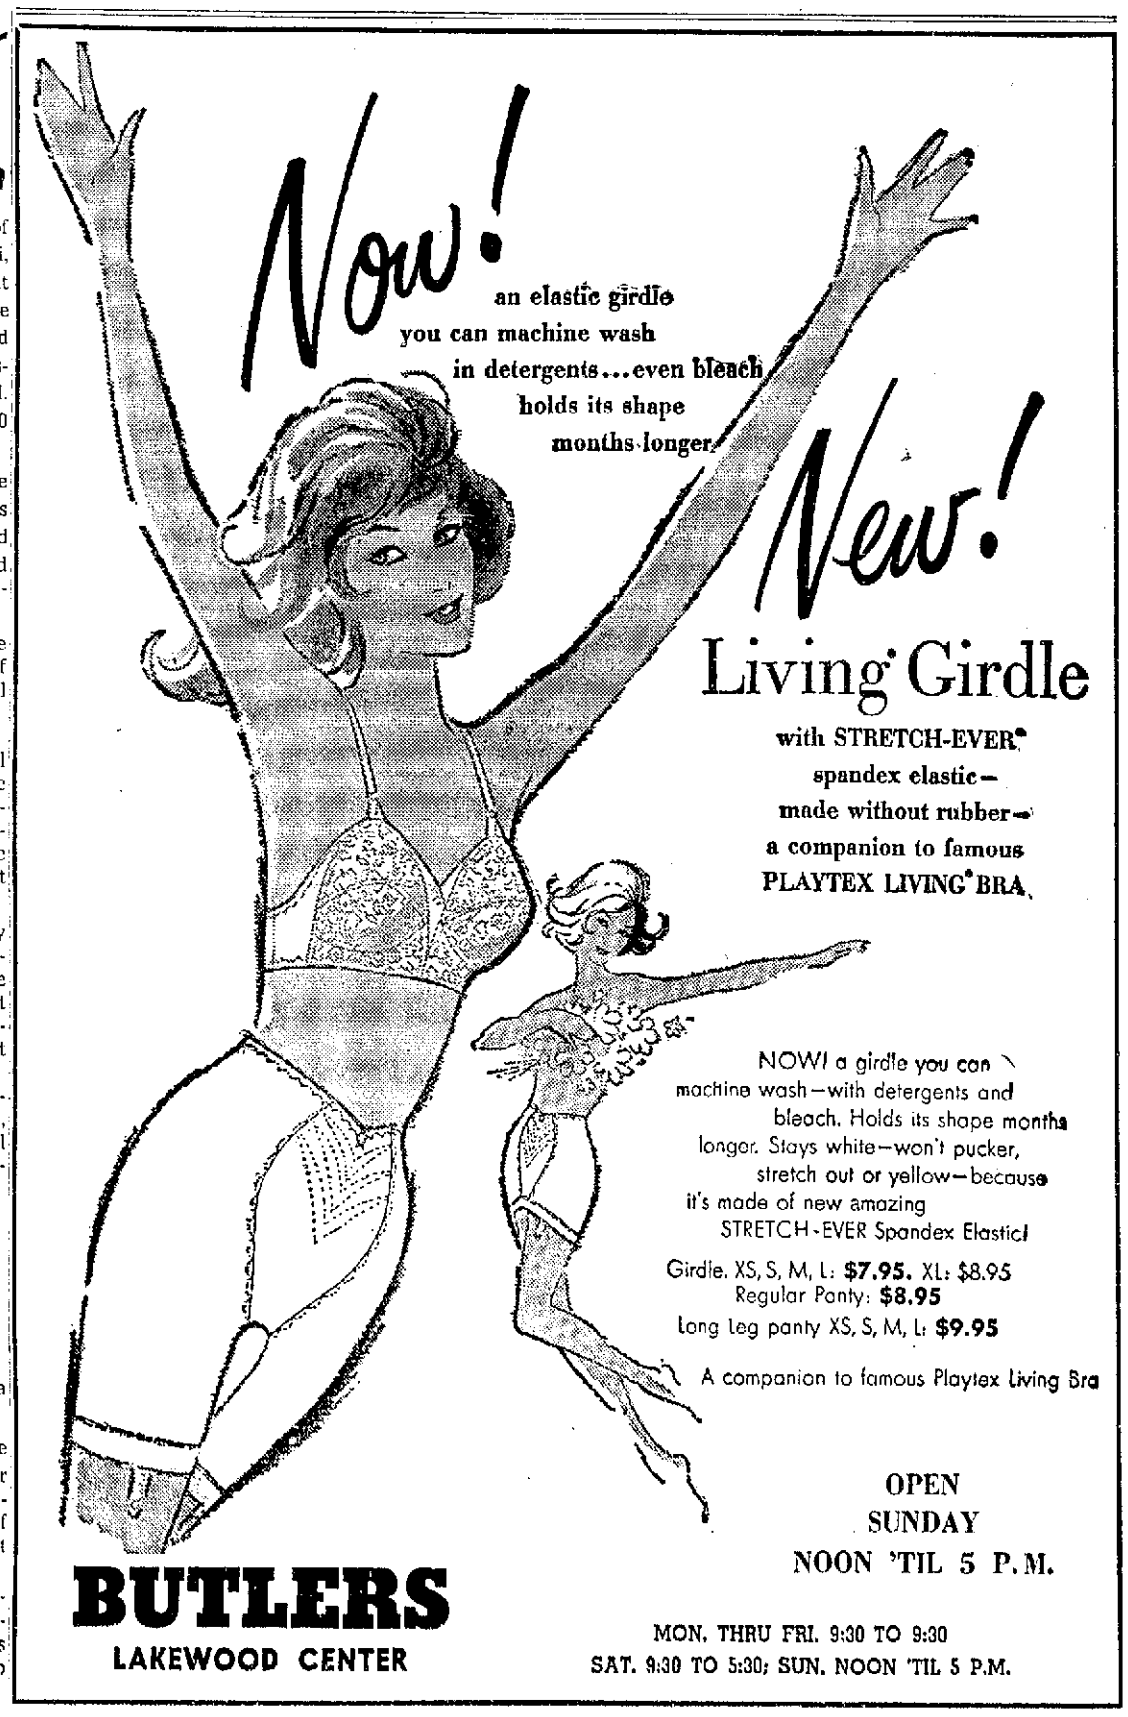

* * * *

"FEDERAL spending has been a major spur to California's growth," Crown said. "It now amounts to approximately $10 billion annually, with 23 per cent of the prime defense contracts awarded to California firms."

He said the state must plan a "strategy of growth" for the economy, so California will be prepared.

The state can adjust, he said, "if we plan now for changes which can be accomplished with a minimum of job dislocation and plant shutdown."

Crown's committee, studying the impact of federal expenditures in California, has been told that spending is up 157 per cent from 1951.

IT SEEMS POPULAR VERSIFIER ALSO DONE HER WRONG

Sift Frankie, Johnnie Legend

By JERRY CURRY

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The last note in the ragtime legend of "Frankie and Johnnie" faded when a broken old woman died in a mental hospital 11 years ago.

Frankie Baker, the bosomy Negro who claimed she began the tale in a spangled dress with a smoking pistol in her hand, said she was "done wrong" by folklore and not by her man. She died at an institution in Pendleton, Ore.—far from the syncopating sounds and rinky-tink music of St. Louis' Targee Street.

She shot and killed Allen (Johnny) Britt at her home on that bar-lined street Oct. 15, 1899.

Targee Street had long since disappeared when Frankie died Jan. 10, 1952, at the age of 75. The street had been reduced to a narrow alley behind Kiel Auditorium, where the sounds of basketball and conventions replaced the old music and drinking chatter in that area of downtown St. Louis.

* * * *

THE OLD SONG still says:

"Frankie threw back her kimona,
"Took out that old forty-four.
"Roota-toot-toot, three times she did shoot,
"Right through that hardwood door.
"She shot her man, who was doing her wrong."

"That song got it all wrong," Frankie insisted in later years. "It was just a little old Harrington and Richardson .38, and I just shot once."

There was some doubt that Frankie Baker was the heroine in the lilting lyrics of that ribald ballad depicting life in St. Louis at the end of the 19th century. But no one could doubt, after the wild trial that ended in 1942, that she was the swinging "Queen Sport" who strutted her spangles and vibrant dusky body at 212 Targee.

* * * *

FRANKIE FIRST served notice on the world that she was the "Frankie" of song, legend and silver screen when she filed a $200,000 damage suit against Republic Pictures Corp. on April 22, 1938. She charged that the movie version of the shooting invaded her privacy and held her up to ridicule.

She came back to St. Louis from a shoeshine emporium she operated in Portland, Ore., for the trial after sending attorney Joseph L. McLemore to blaze the trail for her in the courts.

When he filed the suit, McLemore said that until the killing Frankie was the girl who decked herself with bangles, bought Johnny expensive suits and swayed her way to the top of the gay '90s nightlife era.

Targee Street bordered the wealthy nightlife zone in those days.

Here Frankie was a reigning force and here she gunned down Johnny. After the shooting she was exonerated by a coroners' jury. Two people testified at the hearing, Frankie and a girl friend.

Q. What is your name?

A. Pansy Marvin.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. I work out on Missouri Avenue.

Q. What do you know about how Allen Britt received the injuries which caused his death?

A. She (Frankie) says, "Don't you cut me, Al!" and he says, 'Yes, I will,' and made a swipe (with a knife) and she hauled away and shot him.

* * * *

THEN FRANKIE took the stand to make her statement:

"I was standing there, pillow lays this way, just run my hand under the pillow and shot him. And he says, 'Oh, you have me.' And I says, 'No, you are not,' I says. 'You are just wanting to up on to me to cut me.' Didn't shoot but one time. Standing by the bed."

About two weeks later, Frankie said at the 1939 trial on her suit, she began hearing the ballad which St. Louis composer Jim Dooley is credited with writing, Dooley died in 1932. The song said:

"Frankie and Johnny were lovers.
"Oh lawdy, how they could love!
"Swore to be true to each other,
"As true as the stars above.
"He was her beau, but he done her wrong."

Frankie packed her grip and headed for Omaha. But the ballad, with a few fleshy phrases added, followed her. Then she went to Oregon, only to find she was famous there, too.

* * * *

SHE LIVED IN PORTLAND until she was 67 years old and saw the movie version of her old way of life. Then Frankie decided to file her damage suit.

The trial ended in 1942 after three years of interruptions. The jury ruled against Frankie, and she paid the court costs and returned to Oregon. She entered a mental hospital in 1950 and died two years later.

She never waivered in the belief that she was the famous strutting "Frankie."

Some folklore historians said Frankie Baker was all wrong. They said the song was heard before 1899 and was based on a killing in St. Louis around 1850. But other critics said the incident couldn't have happened then because of the Negro slave status prior to the Civil War.

No matter how the rollicking sad ballad started, Frankie Baker kept her claim:

"This story has no moral.
"This story has no end.
"This story only goes to show,
"That there ain't no good in men."

New Prince of Wales to Ride Horses

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles—the Prince of Wales—is about to follow in his father's footsteps and take up polo.

Prince Philip, Charles' father is looking for a suitable docile pony for his son, who will be 15 Nov. 14.

This has led veteran courtiers to privately express hopes that Charles will have better luck staying on his horse than did the last Prince of Wales.

When the Duke of Windsor was Prince of Wales he made world headlines with the frequency with which he fell off his horses.

A Buckingham Palace informant said that Prince Charles, who started riding when he was a small child, has been practicing polo shots from the back of a specially made wooden horse at Windsor Castle.

Eight Hurt in Freeway Crash

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — Eight persons were reported in serious condition Saturday night at Central Receiving Hospital following a three-car collision on the inbound Harbor Freeway near Vernon Avenue.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Mrs. Tommie Williams, 30, Los Angeles, plowed into the rear of another car and pushed it into the rear of the car ahead of it.

With Mrs. Williams were her daughter, Carol, 7, and a friend, Mrs. Louisa Green, 28, and her daughter, Denise, 7.

In the second car, driven by Thomas A. Dunham, 43, of Los Angeles, were his wife, Katherine, 41, and Robert Woods, 74, of 2552 Elm Ave., Long Beach, and his wife, Betty, 72.

In the third car were Robert Bloomingdale and his brother, whose name was not given. Both men live at 5745 Oakbrook St., Long Beach. Although they complained of injuries, the pair left the scene of the accident and did not seek treatment.

All four passengers in the Williams car were scheduled to be transferred to General Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Woods were scheduled to go to a private hospital, as were the Dunhams.

According to traffic officer John de Coup-Crank, Mrs. Williams, who suffered a broken right leg and a severe scalp laceration, was travelling at "an excessive rate of speed." He added that charges would be filed against her for felony drunk driving.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Gunfire Marred Peaceful Integration

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

Many previously all-white Southern schools were integrated peacefully last week, either under court orders or voluntarily. But there was a somber backdrop of gunfire, rioting and death in Birmingham, Ala., where last spring President Kennedy had to call out troops to prevent bloodshed.

Mixing of the races in Alabama had been scheduled in some public schools in Birmingham, Tuskegee, Huntsville and Mobile.

* * * *

ALL EXCEPT Mobile's were shut down when white supremacy Gov. George C. Wallace encircled them with state police who barred protesting parents and their children. Two Negro boys enrolled in a Mobile school failed to show up.

The smouldering racial situation in Birmingham exploded in wild and sanguinary rioting and the death by gunshot of Negro James Coley, 20, after the home of integrationist Negro lawyer Arthur Shores was bombed for the second time in less than three weeks.

Citizens' protests at Birmingham, Tuskegee and Huntsville, the latter the site of the federal government's Redstone rocket arsenal, marked the first time Wallace's own people had openly turned against him. A Huntsville committee charged him with interfering with local self-government—a charge Wallace has lodged repeatedly against Washington for enforcing Supreme Court desegregation orders. The governor finally agreed the Huntsville schools could reopen Monday.

Huntsville mothers angrily shouted "Go back where you belong," when Wallace's police surrounded the schools.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who had called Wallace "a punk" and in turn was branded "a pink," read the governor's World War II record in the Senate. He said Wallace was still collecting $20 a month for a war time psychiatric disability and suggested he should "volunteer for a new checkup."

* * * *

WALLACE retorted that he received a disability pension "for a nervous condition caused by being shot at in combat missions." To what, he asked, "does Sen. Morse attribute his condition?"

In other news spheres, Roy M. Cohn, 36, boy wonder of the Army-McCarthy Communist investigation in Congress a decade ago, was indicted in New York on charges of perjury and conspiracy in a $5 million United Dye & Chemical Co. stock fraud case. Also indicted was Murray E. Cottesman, a corporation lawyer.

Cohn, one-time chief counsel for the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's Communist hunters and lately promoters of heavyweight championship fights, was accused specifically of trying to shield four men from being indicted in a grand jury inquiry into the United Dye case. The men subsequently pleaded guilty.

* * * *

COHN claimed that U. S. Attorney Robert V. Morgenthau was "out to get me." He pleaded innocent to the charges and then cited 11 instances which he said established that the allegations were prompted by "personal animus and a desire for political revenge" dating back to the McCarthy investigations.

Asked whether he was referring to Atty. Gen. Kennedy, who is Morgenthau's superior, he said: "You can draw your own conclusions."

Adm. George Anderson whom President Kennedy dropped as chief of naval operations and named ambassador to Portugal, made an angry speech sharply criticizing Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's attitude toward high military advisers. He charged that "the abrupt reversal of military recommendations without interim consultation is fraught with unpleasant developments and potentially with grave dangers."

* * * *

SEN. BARRY Goldwater, Ariz., potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, hinted he would vote against ratification of the nuclear test-ban treaty with Russia unless the Senate adopts his reservation demanding that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev remove all his bases and personnel from Communist-dominated Cuba.

The State Department curtailed non-essential travel of American officials and their dependents in strife-torn South Viet Nam where the pro-Catholic Diem government has waged a religious war against Buddhists. The order was precautionary. The U.S. is supporting the government in its fight against Communist guerrillas, but has split with it over suppression of the Buddhists. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge informed the President that as of now Washington has no choice but to live with the present regime. Lodge, on State Department orders, refused to surrender three Buddhist priests who took refuge in the embassy.

On the Communist front, Pope Paul VI said in Vatican City that the Catholic church had not changed its opinion about the "contagious and lethal malady" of communism and will fight it "not only theoretically but practically."

* * * *

COMMUNIST China, split ideologically with Russia over which should control world communism, accused Moscow of trying to overthrow a local Chinese government and said relations were on "the brink of a split."

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, also a prospective GOP presidential nominee, charged the Kennedy administration's policies lack direction and are determined solely by events. He called for measures to "avoid misuse of federal power."

The Senate passed and sent to the House two parts of the President's manpower and development training act. One earmarks $100 million a year to provide job training for youths 16 to 19 and the three Rs and basic skills for adults. The other relieves the states from making matching grants for such programs. The Labor Department reported meantime that unemployment fell by 465,000 in August to 3,857,000.

FOREIGN PRESS VIEWS

JFK's Handling of Affairs Draws Praise, Criticism

By United Press International

President Kennedy drew both praise and criticism from the world press last week for his handling of home and foreign affairs.

The strongest all-round attack came from the Belgian journal, EUROPE, which said, "It is impossible to imagine an uglier bankruptcy report than the balance sheet of John Fitzgerald Kennedy and his brains trust."

It said, "because the intelligent young man of the White House yielded to the siren songs from the left his country is three times menaced; firstly it is dangerously weakened in front of the Russians because of the limited test-ban agreement, secondly it is risking violent interior subversion because of the White House policy toward American Negroes, and finally it is well conceivable that the dollar will have to be devalued."

The East German Communist party newspaper NEUES DEUTSCHLAND said "the white mob rages on" and the "law of the jungle" prevails in the Southern United States. It asked, "What changes can there be as long as the President takes no really decisive steps to ensure civil rights to 20 million oppressed American Negroes?"

However, the Austrian ARBEITER-ZEITUNG said, "Upon first glance, it is certainly surprising that the Negroes in the United States are demonstrating just at this time. They are better off now under President Kennedy than ever before. But the problem still is far from solved."

WHAT'S a celebrity — or, more in point today — who's a celebrity?

That's the $75-question now bugging members of the Diamond Jubilee celebrity committee, charged with the difficult task of selecting 75 personalities to receive special recognition at Long Beach's upcoming Diamond Jubilee ball.

Ev Hosking, our Sunday editor, is chairman and last Sunday he asked readers to write in nominations. He has been getting replies, but unfortunately, it appears that the criteria for selection on this list are not too well understood.

This is an effort to help him.

HARDLY any of the names submitted so far ring the bell.

They've included pillars in somebody's church, early-day residents, leading civic workers, a teacher loved by two or three generations, a real estate developer, a local youth leader, a Sunday painter, a nurse's aid who saved somebody's life.

Now these are all fine people, real community assets. We need them and more like them.

But they don't fit the celebrity category as set out by the Jubilee people.

AGAIN the question: "What's a celebrity?"

Let's look at the criteria as set out in the Jubilee's official program plan:

"Persons should be selected solely upon the basis of nationwide fame which they have achieved through good works, with the consideration of their having a direct connection, either past or present, with Long Beach (had their training or start here, have their family here, have a special interest in the city.)

It must be someone known nationally. That's the key.

Hosking explains that the entire U. S. populace doesn't have to know the nominee, but at least, he must have national recognition by others in his field.

Long Beach has and has had many such people.

FOR EXAMPLE, there's Arjay Miller, the "whiz kid" who is now president of the Ford Motor Co., a product of L.B.'s old junior college. There's Dr. Richter of Cal Tech, the earthquake expert, and others in science and education.

In sports, there are many luminaries. Like Morley Drury, who brought fame to the city in the 'twenties as a great USC gridiron hero, and Greta Anderson, a top woman swimmer busy in her field right now. And Vicki Van Hook, international women's water ski champ; Marlene and Alice Bauer, the golfing sisters; Bob Lemon of baseball fame. And many others in sports.

In the entertainment field, the list should include Loraine Day, Robert Mitchum, Spike Jones, Barbara Britton, Van Heflin, the Academy Award-winning George Chakiris.

And don't forget the military, like Arleigh Burke, the former chief of naval operations, who had a tour of duty here.

This short list suggests the type of celebrity the committee wants to honor. The selection jury is made up of news chiefs of the regional wire news bureaus, and these men of course will be alert for names that mean something nationally.

OBVIOUSLY, the committee has a sort of ticklish job. Local people have their heroes and heroines and they could get sore if a nominee isn't chosen. This is an effort to make it easier by defining just what is wanted.

But suggestions are wanted. Send them to Box 7831, Independent, Press-Telegram. Deadline: Sept. 15.

L.B. COUNCIL UNIT TO REVIEW HAYES PROPOSAL

Broader Use of Tidal Oil Funds Urged

By GEORGE WEEKS

Proposals for broadening the uses of Long Beach tideland oil funds for the direct benefit of communities throughout California —but within the terms of the trust—will be reviewed soon by the City Council's Harbor, Industries and Oil Committee.

Advanced by Vice Mayor James A. Hayes, the new concept calls for the establishment here of research centers and related projects to aid science and industries pertinent to commerce, navigation and fisheries, the three main uses specified by the tideland grant.

Hayes suggested that Long Beach invite ideas along these lines from other cities, counties and areas of the state.

But he offered some suggestions of his own, such as:

A seamen's hospital and research center, possibly as an adjunct to Long Beach State College or the University of California.

A raisin research center for expanded marketing and uses.

A center to study and eliminate the diseases of fresh-water and salt-water fish and also to increase the market for these California products.

A fresh produce center, also for greater marketing as well as control of insect damage.

Similar centers for research and promotion of fruit trees and their products, grain, feed, cattle and dairy industries as well as forestry and lumber.

Where could such facilities be placed? Hayes recommended Pier J, under construction with financing from tideland funds. Large areas will be availiable there after the World's Fair, he noted, and in addition new piers can be constructed if necessary.

* * * *

THE VICE MAYOR emphasized that his concept is not "just a means of finding other ways to spend tideland revenue," nor is it intended to supplant or eliminate any of the city's beach, shoreline and harbor plans.

"We must take the initiative," he said, "if we expect to retain the use of our portion of the tideland revenues, which deserve to be a monument on our shoreline and in our harbor to our ingenuity as a city in developing our tideland oil."

Under his plan, all stewardship as to construction and development of the new projects would remain in the City of Long Beach, although consent of the State Lands Commission would be required.

Aside from strengthening the city's position in the face of efforts by some state legislators to cut Long Beach's share of the trust funds, Hayes pointed out that the program would provide direct local benefits.

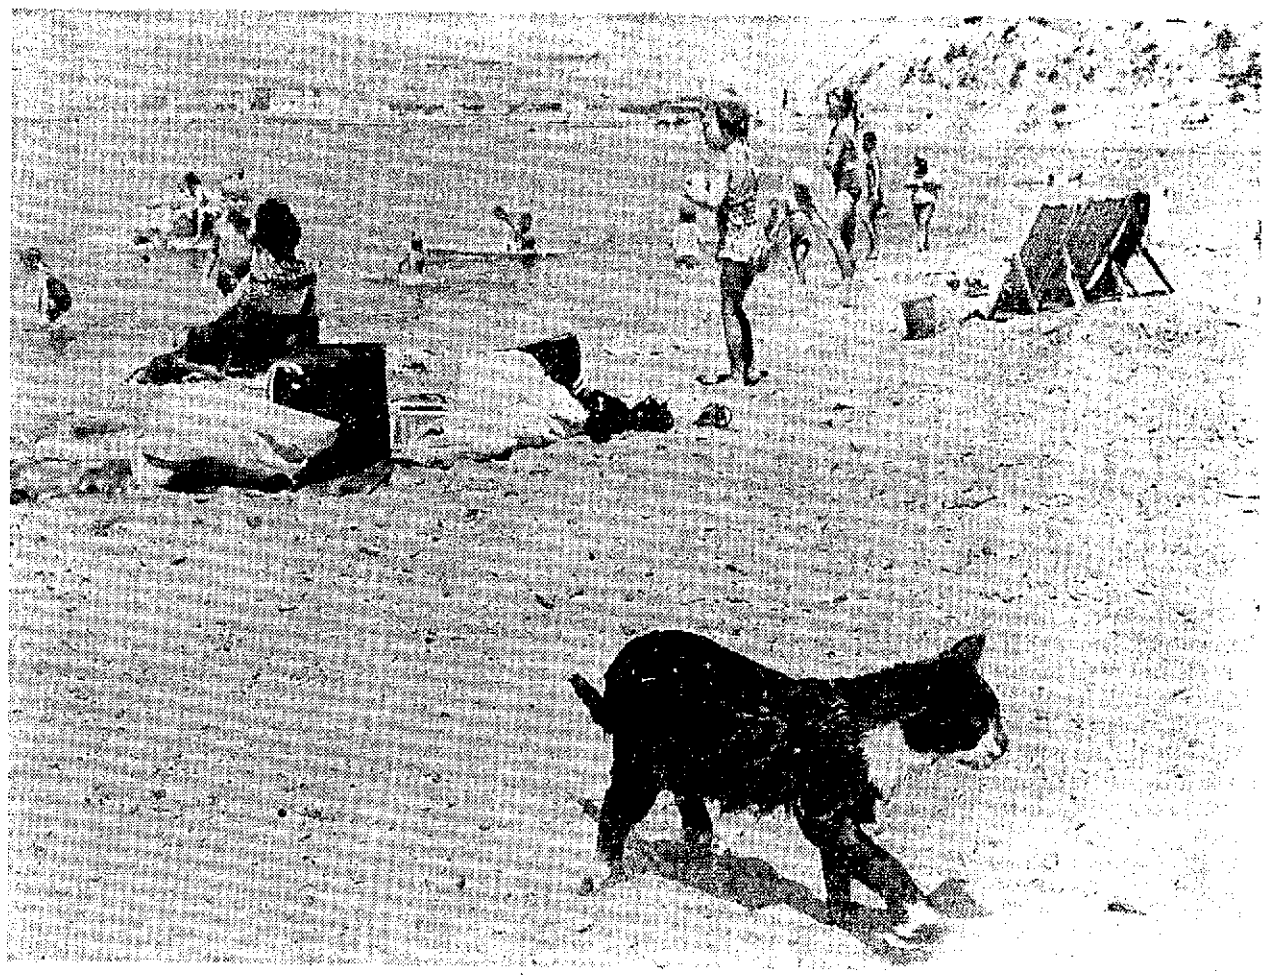

* * * *

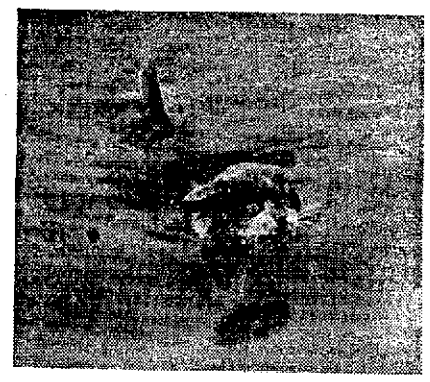

HE NOTED that the projects would produce jobs for construction and operation of new facilities, expand use of the harbor, bring in new businesses and aid those already established.

First reaction in the City Council, where Hayes revealed his proposals in a five-page letter, was favorable.

"The idea has tremendous potential with proper handling," commented Chairman Raymond C. Kealer of the Harbor, Industries and Oil Committee.

Kealer said he will submit it to the committee for study after urgent questions of tideland oil development, also pending before the committee, have been decided.

Dog, the Cat: He's a Real Beach Hound

THEY WANTED a dog for a mascot, but now the lifeguards at Dunes aquatic park in Newport Beach are purrfectly satisfied with Dog, who isn't. They found the stray kitten wandering on the beach recently, and promptly gave him a new leash on life by indogtrinating him into the pleasures of swimming and sunbathing. Now he earns his keep by catching mice and entertaining lost youngsters, and even comes when he's whistled for. "I don't want to be dogmatic," said lifeguard Stu Pinkerton (right), "but as a dog, our cat is fine as whine. The only thing we're worried about is that he may get confused during mating season and go barking up the wrong pedigree."

School Registry Slated This Week

Boys and girls who have not completed their enrollment in public elementary and high schools should do so during this week, according to W. Odie Wright, superintendent of schools.

"Late registration keeps a youngster from getting off to a good start," Wright said. "It is important that every pupil report to class on the first day of school. The advance registration dates give each boy and girl an opportunity to complete enrollment before the start of classes."

Advance registration will be taken Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 10, 11 and 12 at junior and senior high schools, and on Thursday, Sept. 12, at each elementary school.

The hours for the advance enrollment at each of the schools will be from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

* * * *

AT LONG BEACH City College, students already preregistered for day classes must verify their programs this week according to an alphabetical schedule. Verification will be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday at the Business and Technology Division and Wednesday at the Liberal Arts Division.

Advance enrollment of new day students will continue through Thursday at both divisions, by appointment only. Pre-registration for evening classes is scheduled Tuesday through Thursday, 6 to 9 p.m., in the LAD cafeteria, 4901 E. Carson St., and the BTD gymnasium, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. Prospective students must first present proof of high school graduation and secure a permit to register.

Boys and girls enrolling in kindergarten and first grade must meet minimum age requirements established by the state. A child must be 4 years and 9 months of age on or before Sept. 1 to be admitted to kindergarten and 5 years and 9 months of age on or before Sept. 1 to be admitted to the first grade.

Parents enrolling pupils in kindergarten and first grade are required to furnish the school with an approved verification of date of birth, such as birth certificate, baptismal certificate, passport, or verification or notification of birth registration issued by city, county or state health departments, according to George L. Geiger, assistant superintendent of elementary schools.

All pupils must file polio immunization forms in accordance with state laws. These forms may be picked up at the individual schools.

JEROME H. SPINGARN
To Speak in L. B.

Unitarians Book Talk on Treaty

The test ban treaty will be the topic of an address by Jerome H. Spingarn, director of the U. S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Thursday, 8 p.m., at the Unitarian Church, 5450 Atherton St.

The speech is sponsored by the Long Beach chapter of the American Association for the United Nations and by the League of Women Voters.

Spingarn, a Washington, D.C., attorney, was secretary of a task force on disarmament which prepared a report for President Kennedy. He is secretary of the Committee on Security Through Arms Control of the National Planning Association.

On a Ford Foundation grant in 1958 he visited foreign offices throughout west Europe to consult on arms control. He has written many magazine articles on the subject.

He served on the staff of Adm. William Halsey during World War II.

After the address, Spingarn will answer questions in writing from the audience. Admission is free.

Heart, Blood Diseases to Be Topic

New developments in the diagnosis and treatment of heart and blood vessel disease will be reported to the public by a Long Beach medical specialist Sept. 17 and 18.

Dr. Myrvin H. Ellestad will give identical reports at two sessions of a health information forum at Memorial Hospital of Long Beach, 2801 Atlantic Ave.

Dr. Ellestad is director of the hospital's cardiopulmonary laboratory.

The lectures, followed by a question-and-answer period, will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the hospital cafeteria.

Admission is free but by ticket only. Tickets may be obtained by telephoning the hospital's public relations department.

Hospital officials said the forum has been divided into two sessions to accommodate the expected crowd.

Naval Reserve Officers to Hear Adm. Groverman

Rear Adm. William H. Groverman, commanding officer of Destroyer Flotilla 3, will address more than 400 reserve officers at the kickoff meeting of the Naval Reserve Officer School 11-4 on Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Long Beach State College auditorium.

"Today's Navy" will be the subject of Admiral Groverman's speech, according to Capt. Harry Frishman, USNR, commanding officer of NROS 11-4.

Reserve officers from the entire San Pedro-Long Beach-Orange County area will assemble for the meeting. Subsequent meetings on Tuesday and Thursday evenings will be held at the headquarters of the school at Long Beach State College and at satellite units at the Santa Ana Naval Reserve Training Center, the Naval Air Station at Los Alamitos and the San Pedro Naval Reserve Training Center.

After the address by Adm. Groverman, reserve officers in attendance will have an opportunity to enroll in one of the 23 classes to be offered this year by NROS 11-4.

Classes range from "Nuclear Power" and "Space Technology" to "Atomic, Biological and Chemical Warfare" and "Guided Missiles" and are designed to keep reserve officers combat ready. A new course released by the Navy Bureau of Personnel entitled "National Strategy in the Cold War" will be taught for the first time at LBSC and at each of the satellite schools. Officer students who complete one of the courses receive full retirement and promotion points for their participation.

ADM. W. H. GROVERMAN
To Speak Here

Although the courses are planned primarily for Navy, Marine and Coast Guard officers, an increasingly large number of Air Force and Army officers sign up each year for the instruction.

Foreign Students Tour L.B., Lakewood

Sixteen foreign students, who shortly begin a year's stay at local schools, were guests of the MG Car Club Saturday in a tour of the Long Beach-Lakewood area.

The students also visited Rancho Los Cerritos and toured a newspaper plant. They are participants in the American Field Service International Scholarships program.

Forum Set on Capital Punishment

Capital punishment will be debated at 8 p.m. Wednesday, at a session of the Long Beach Community Forum, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

There is no admission charge to the forum which will be held in the Jefferson Junior High School Auditorium, Seventh Street and Grand Avenue.

Panel members include Assemblyman George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach; Dep. Dist. Atty. Lynn Compton and attorney Albert Ramsey. Program chairman is Charles Evelt.

More than 300 persons attended the first session of the forum in July which examined the crosstown freeway issue.

Veterans Reminded of Insurance Change

Korea veterans who have not exchanged or converted their GI insurance policies to the new W-type are reminded that they must do so on or before Thursday, according to Arthur H. Tryon, Los Angeles county service officer.

Conversion is necessary to receive the special one-time dividend.

Mangan Takes Hospital Post

James E. Mangan has been named public relations director for Long Beach Community Hospital, it was revealed Saturday.

A retired Navy chief petty officer and a 1957 graduate of Long Beach State College, Mangan came to his new post after seven years as director of information for the LBSC associated students.

He lives at 3521 Charlemagne Ave., Long Beach.

Final Vote Set on Rezoning in Navy Air Area

The second and final vote by the Los Alamitos City Council on the controversial rezoning of land bordering the Naval Air Station is scheduled at 8 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers, 3231 Katella Ave.

The council gave initial approvement, 3-2, to rezone the 26 acres of dairyland for a 284-unit "planned development district" near the Navy's runway last Aug. 27.

In opposing the measure, the Navy claims residents would be seriously disturbed by aircraft noise and "would be continually agitating to close the Naval Station," according to Capt. William P. Tanner Jr., station commander.

Hopeful Signs in Transit Situation

IT APPEARS AS if we are finally getting down to the "brass tacks" stage of mass rapid transit planning for the Los Angeles-Long Beach metropolitan area.

A number of hopeful signs were in evidence at last week's route-planning conference called here by the Metropolitan Transit Authority.

—For the first time officials of MTA showed signs of really realizing that Long Beach and the communities between here and Los Angeles are growing up.

—One major monorail firm indicated it could build a line to Los Angeles from here out of fare box revenue. Another company felt it could build the bulk of such a line out of revenues and indicated that further studies might be undertaken as to the construction of the whole line.

—Two definite routes along the Long Beach corridor are on paper. This is the first time such concrete suggestions have been laid out for the affected communities to study.

—There seemed to be no initial violent objections to either of the routes or combinations of routes. Of course, many community representatives only listened and didn't comment and obviously there will be some disagreements forthcoming. But the general attitude appeared favorable.

—The MTA, through its executive director C. M. Gillis, indicated it can very soon come up with concrete and detailed cost estimates on the various routes and types of equipment. In the past officials have been faced with so many unknowns it has been almost impossible to reach firm conclusions.

ONE OF THE MOST encouraging facets of the meeting was just the fact that it was held. For years MTA has followed the polocy of making studies, reaching conclusions and presenting them to the public for approval.

This procedure has not exactly provided the best of public relations. It appears now that MTA is going to bring the public into its advance planning. When decisions are reached through this process it's much easier to get public acceptance.

It has been popular down through the years to make the MTA a whipping boy. Undoubtedly some of the lashes have been deserved. But that's too easy a solution. MTA has done many things—good things that had to be done before a system could be built.

They have completed many of the basic economic studies. They have worked to fit their projected system into the larger development plans for the metropolitan basin. They have gradually defined the need for a rail rapid transit system and they have shown that we should develop a good quality system designed for the future as well as the present.

IN ONE OTHER AREA—and this is probably the largest—they have gone a long way toward narrowing the problem down. That area is finance.

Many financing schemes have been suggested over the years. MTA has followed all the reasonable ones to their logical conclusions and have been turned down. So the problem is narrowed down to this: can a whole system—not just a line or so—be financed out of the fare box? If the answer comes up yes we're in business. If the answer is no the only alternative is tax subsidy. And this the people must decide. If the public says no to that, we can all drop the idea of fast rail transit and resign ourselves to buses and crowded freeways.

So the MTA is finally bringing this problem to a final decision point. How well they continue their work and how much the public understands may well determine the final yes or no answer.

'I've Been Right Here Under Your Nose . . .'

Principle OK, but Method Is at Fault in Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — There's nothing wrong with the principle of foreign aid, but there is much that is wrong with the method of applying it.

This is the real basis for the difference in Congress over the size of the appropriations to be made for economic aid to other countries. Everybody in the free world presumably wants to see Communist imperialism thwarted. The granting of gifts or loans of American billions is supposed to be the way to win, if not "buy," allies. Maybe it is—but, unfortunately, some of the governments benefitted don't stay "bought," as they begin to flirt with the Communist side, and a form of blackmail emerges.

This need not be regarded as a partisan question inside the United States. The same difficulties have confronted the administration in power here under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower. That's why a comprehensive review of American policy is in order. For certainly if the right policy were developed, a majority in Congress would quickly reflect the wishes of the American people and authorize a "go-ahead" at whatever cost seemed to be necessary to achieve the agreed-upon objectives.

* * * *

THERE HAS to be, first of all, a frank appraisal of what's been going on. What good, for instance, is it to give hundreds of millions of dollars to the "Alliance for Progress" when so many of the countries in Latin America insist on doing business with Castro? Why do some countries—like Mexico, for example — refuse to ban travel to and from Cuba as the United States does? How can the Washington government justify giving money to governments that still recognize the Castro regime and even mistakenly allow it to send agents who carry on subversive activities?

The same criticism can be made of the American foreign aid program with respect to countries like Yugoslavia, where Premier Khrushchev of the Soviet Union has lately been pictured in the press as hugging Marshal Tito. Or take a case like Vietnam, where American aid—military and economic — costs about a million dollars a day, but the ruling regime in that country is recalcitrant and uncooperative and openly assails American policies.

* * * *

THE REAL weakness is the lack of a standard policy —a firm and positive position by the United States that is clearly set forth to the world. What should such a policy include?

First, there is need to return to fundamental principles in international intercourse. Hit-or-miss policies get nowhere and tend to confuse public opinion.

Second, the existence of a "cold war" must be recognized as a fact. A government which seeks any form of aid from the United States must make up its mind which side it wants to be on. The foreign-aid program should be limited to allies or to those who wish to become associates or partners of the United States. There is no place for "neutralism" or "neutrals" in a "cold war" that has been started and carried on persistently by international communism. No better example of what happens has been afforded than the buildup of missile bases and weapons in Cuba by the Soviet government within the last two years.

Third, the American people are willing to help allies and partners, but not those who play both sides against each other in a game of blackmail. How can any country accept aid from the Soviet Union without becoming a potential enemy of the United States? This is really one of the deeply rooted reasons for the growing resentment inside this country against the present foreign-aid program.

Fourth, the policies of the United States must be aimed at winning alliances with peoples. If any people is unsuccessful for the time being of getting rid of governments that lean toward the Soviet Union, the neutral course is for America to refrain from giving aid to that regime and to let the people know about it publicly through the "Voice of America" and otherwise by stating and restating the principles of the whole foreign-aid program.

* * * *

NATURALLY, a good deal of descretion has to be vested in the executive branch of the government but only within the limits of the principles set forth by Congress.

Government officials in the special agencies do try to administer the program conscientiously, but they are sometimes influenced by the lack of correct information or by bad advice. Also, the decisions are not based on well-defined principles, but vary from day to day as expediency indicates. There does not seem to be a chart or compass to steer by. It's largely an invisible operation. It has been the same under preceding administrations.

Chinese Reds Have a New Word for It

By the Washington Bureau Staff

WE ARE ALWAYS fascinated by Communist terminology.

If there's a difficult and long-winded way of saying something simple, the Communists will think of it. The Red Chinese are irritated, to put it mildly, by Russia's current foreign policy. They've finally come up with a government-approved description of it, "capitulationist coexistence."

CONGRESSIONAL LEADERS, accustomed to handing out pork (viz., public works), in exchange for power, have naturally been disturbed over recent printed uprisings here and there against pork-barrel projects, regarding the criticism as brash if not faintly unpatriotic.

It has produced roars of anger on the floors of both houses and cries of "shame." Many of our legislators have written letters to Life magazine, one of the most recent discoverers of the pork barrel, in ardent protest. Even the outlandish project, which will turn a city of 600 in Oklahoma into a deep-sea port, has been defended. There has been weeping over the good name of the late Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma who created it.

In other words, men with pork fat smeared on their chins are not about to abandon the barrel, supported so generously by the American taxpayer.

They are, however, about half right in their defenses. They claim most of these projects are inspired by pressure from the local level, and most, of course, are indeed so inspired. The 100 percent All-American member of the Chamber of Commerce, inclined to wrath over federal spending, and possibly a man who sees salvation only in Barry Goldwater, turns by reflex to the federal treasury when a home town project is involved, feeling, perhaps, that it is different.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY is having difficulty coming up with a new postmaster general. J. Edward Day left the post Aug. 9 and so far no one has been designated as his successor. Rumor is that practically no one wants the job and that several people have turned it down.

Kennedy 'Mafia' Arouses Choler

By JACK ANDERSON
(for Drew Pearson)

WASHINTGON—Resentment is boiling up inside the Kennedy cabinet against the Irish Mafia, as blasphemers call the intense young Irishmen who surround the President.

For more than a month, Postmaster General J. Edward Day couldn't even break through the inner circle to deliver his resignation.

He decided early in May to accept a lucrative law partnership and asked for an appointment to notify the President. It was the middle of June before Day got past Ken O'Donnell, the guardian of the presidential door.

Most cabinet officers are obliged to take up their pressing problems with White House aides. Day managed to discuss postal matters directly with the President only three times during his 30 months as Postmaster General.

Similar complaints have been heard in strict privacy from secretaries Luther Hodges, commerce; Stewart Udall, interior; Orville Freeman, agriculture; Willard Wirtz, labor; and Anthony Celebrezze, health, education and welfare.

* * * *

ON ONE RARE OCCASION, Hodges was admitted to the President's oval office for a few minutes only to be interrupted by 5-year-old Caroline. The Secretary of Commerce never finished making his point.

President Kennedy has gone as long as three months without bothering to hold a cabinet meeting. The few he has called have been quick, humdrum affairs.

Not infrequently, the White House has acted without notifying the cabinet member whose department was affected. Presidential breakfasts with business leaders have been arranged, for instance, without inviting or even informing Hodges.

Celebrezze has also complained that White House aides have phoned orders to his underlings without troubling to tell him what's going on in his own department.

Interestingly, the cabinet complaints are directed not at the President, but at his Irish courtiers. Even as they gripe and grump, the cabinet officers take pains to excuse the President whose preoccupation with the problems of peace and war they understand.

MARK CLUTTER

Graying Newsman Puts His Bets on the Human Race

WHY DO you newspapermen write about such horrid things—crimes, riots, disasters and people doing shameful things? Why do you have to be sensation mongers? Can't you write about happiness and people doing good?"

These questions, which are asked very frequently, deserve answers from a newspaperman.

First, it is not true that we devote ourselves to reporting evil and tragedy. Go through any newspaper and count the stories that are devoted to scandal, crime and disaster. You will find they make up only a small part of the total news. Perhaps the accusing reader tends to ignore all news except the sensational.

* * * *

SECOND, evil is part of the human condition. Tragedy can strike any man. Any man, subject to pressures he does not know how to resist, can succumb to folly and even crime. From newspapers readers can learn to avoid the fates which destroyed others. There is considerable evidence that news of traffic fatalities has made the streets safer.

Third, happiness and good deeds do not readily lend themselves to reporting. What is there to say about a happy woman who devotes herself to being a good wife and mother? It is only when good deeds take on a heroic quality, usually in the face of terrible evil, do they become "good copy." Good deeds are what all of us should do—and most people do them much of the time.

Newspapermen wear cynicism as an armor. They know, through experience, that the "best people" are sometimes capable of villainy, and that the "worst" are sometimes capable of noble actions. "A human being will do anything he can think up," a grumpy copyreader observed.

* * * *

AND YET, the armor of cynicism wears thin. The truly bitter newsmen are very young. By the time a man has gray in his hair he quits being hurt by the fact that people "will do anything." He has discovered that most people most of the time are kindly, generous, reasonably intelligent, trying to be decent, doing good by the lights they have, seeking what pleasures that are within their reach, trying to live in charity with their neighbors.

People can also be quite beastly.

The graying newspaperman places his bets on the human race. It's wild betting. But what else is there to bet on?

Gov. Wallace Disgusts Him

EDITOR:

It disgusts me to read of Alabama's "fine" governor, Georga Wallace and his desperate bids for attention. What does this man hope to accomplish by defying federal courts?

Grandstand tactics such as blocking schools with state troopers are certainly not in the best interests of the citizens. Governor Wallace already has backed down once. he must inevitably back down again, or it may be a case of "United States vs. Alabama."

He speaks of presidential primaries next year to draw a "protest vote" against the Kennedy administration. How can a person who persists in making a complete jackass of himself draw any votes from sane people? I don't think he is even capable of drawing water for his own bath.

I pity the people of Alabama who have to suffer because of this little man's desire to be in the limelight. He casts democracy aside in order to show us how firm and unwavering he can be in his little directives. To me, he shows nothing but stubbornness and utter lack of concern for civil rights.

If the deep South enjoys a lower standard of living than the rest of the nation today, it is because of backward-thinking officials like Governor Wallace.

Anti-Gun Laws Hotly Opposed

EDITOR:

The Second Amendment in the Bill of Rights insures us the right to bear arms.

Most citizens are law abiding and have a strong sense of justice. These assets coupled with common sense are pretty much standard equipment for the majority.

The large honest percentage of the population should be insured the right to protect their homes and country against criminals both foreign and domestic who will possess firearms regardless of legality.

The alternative is a large police force paid by increased taxes. Do you want that?

Legal firearms in the hands of reputable citizens is the answer; and it won't cost you the taxpayer one cent.

1. Stop the anti-gun legislation now.

2. Don't let the 2nd amendment of the Bill of Rights go down the drain.

3. Don't give the undesirable elements a better opportunity to take what they wish from you.

Write your Congressional representative and express your disapproval of legislation to deprive you of "The Right to Bear Arms."

Answer for Negroes! Show Capabilities

EDITOR:

More and more, each and every day, we read of the so called abuse of our Negro citizens. Negro Americans are not better or no worse than Slovenian Americans, Jewish Americans, Chinese Americans, or any other race of any American citizenry.

They (Negroes) scream prejudice at every opportunity. I know of many Negroes that conduct themselves as the type of wonderful people that makes each and every one of us proud to know them.

Surely, don't we realize that Negroes are no different than any other person on the face of this earth. Negroes are entitled to no more or no less than any race of people anywhere.

If the ones that represent themselves in these ridiculous demonstrations feel that they are being abused by society, then let them show their desire to become good American citizens by not demanding, but rather showing their capabilities along these lines. Nothing worth having is achieved by a force. They would not like gentiles saying "this is the way we want it, and this is the way it will be." Let ourselves as the Caucasian race say this to the Negroes, and it might prove very interesting.

IBMA Cited for Service to Navy

EDITOR:

I read with great interest your article dealing with the amicable relationship in Oxnard, California, between the city and its nearby military installations. And that chapters were being formed in various other cities for that express purpose. Also that there was none in the City of Long Beach, because of strained relations.

Please don't overlook an organization we have here, known as the Independent Business Men's Association, formed after the local Naval Shipyard reopened in 1951. These were business men who joined together to keep the Navy in Long Beach and hold on to that $275 million that is spent here each year between the Navy and shipyard workers, which isn't to be taken lightly.

We like to have Long Beach known as the best Navy port in the world, and that the Navy men are welcomed warmly whenever they arrive in this port.

We can't overlook the fact that the Navy is the largest single source of income in Long Beach, and therefore the IBMA is dedicated to protecting and increasing our share.

Therefore, in order to extend a welcoming hand of friendship to visiting Naval ships, we arrange monthly luncheons, and invite Naval officers of different groups, stationed in Long Beach, and we have a Naval representative in Washington participating jointly with the City, and the Long Beach Naval Shipyard Employees Association, to obtain at the federal level the best public relations for the City of Long Beach.

What the Editor meant to imply, I think, was that there was no chapter in Long Beach, but we certainly have an organization that operates along parallel lines with the same object in view.

Sincerely yours,
HARRY M. ELKINS
Carson and Santa Fe

P.S.: Pardon any mispelled words. I am not an officer of the above Assn., just an enthusiastic member. The organization does not know about this letter.

March Made Her Proud

EDITOR:

I never was a prouder American than I was watching the March on Washington. Listening to the inspiring speeches in front of Lincoln Memorial, how can there be a single prejudice left? I'm an agnostic but proudly state I was raised without any racial or religious prejudice.

The world is my country, to do good my religion, to judge people by merit and not by race, creed or color.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Missing Queen Gudrun Found

Gudrun Bjarnadottir, 1964 IBC queen is on her way to Reykjavik, Iceland—not lost in the wilds of New York—as was at first feared.

She was reported missing by a Paris newspaper Wednesday, but was located Saturday in New York by The Independent, Press-Telegram.

Gudrun, a Paris fashion model from Keflavik, Iceland, left Long Beach Aug. 26 for a New York visit, then a stop at home with her parents before reporting to work in Paris. She was due there Monday.

She decided, however, to remain in seclusion in New York "resting from the tiring contest."

She was scheduled to fly out of New York's Idlewild Airport late Saturday night for Iceland.

Terrorist Weeps

Lloyd Neely, who fled police for two days after a bar holdup in which two persons were shot and a rape in a private home during a three-hour reign of terror, is in jail.

Weeping, Neely, 23, gave himself up to Los Angeles police late Friday after calling them from a pay station.

He gave the officers a confession, in form of a letter to his sister.

A former inmate of Vacaville State Hospital, Neely sobbed bitterly when officers put handcuffs on his wrists, then collapsed while being returned to Long Beach.

"I just wanted to get it all over with. I did it all," detectives quoted him as saying. "I didn't mean to shoot that old lady. It was an accident. The gun just went off. I didn't think I hit the guy either."

Mrs. Lillie M. Booth, 62, was shot in the face when she attempted to talk Neely out of robbing patrons in the Strikeout Tavern, 2401 E. Anaheim St. Billy J. Henderson, 31, was wounded in the hip when he attempted to defend Mrs. Booth.

Neely, a service station attendant, said he had no specific plans to rob the 14 patrons in the tavern. "I just got mad because I lost at pool," he said.

Jealousy, Death

Billie Ray Strickland, 23, of Anaheim shot and killed a Marine private at Twentynine Palms Saturday, wounded his estranged 19-year-old wife and another Marine before committing suicide, police said.

Officers said Strickland, of 2053 Stennaker St., fired at least eight shots from a 20-gauge shotgun in "an apparent fit of jealousy."

Pvt. Melvin L. Trumbull, 22, was killed. Strickland's estranged wife, Gloria, was taken to San Bernardino County Hospital in critical condition. Marine Pfc. Larry Bennett was taken to the hospital at Twentynine Palms Marine Corps Depot where his wounds were described as serious.

Young Burglars

Two Bellflower brothers were committed to the California Youth Authority for the attempted burglary of a Chowchilla service station last month.

They are Frankie John Boatright, 20, and his 17-year-old brother, Michael David. Chowchilla police officers said they were caught in the act of the burglary.

The older brother also was charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

One of Five

Karrell Anne Smith of 1963 Hardwick St., Long Beach, representing the Cypress Police Department, will be one of five women in the 37th class of 20 police and sheriff's officers to start a 12-week course Monday in the USC Delinquency Control Institute.

Also enrolled is Gerald W. Dollarhide, 5822 Blackthorne Ave., Lakewood, representing the Lynwood Police Department.

Letter Seminar

Some 40 persons are expected to attend a letter writing seminar Thursday sponsored by Long Beach Community Hospital. Included will be administrative secretaries of all hospitals in Long Beach, the hospital said.

WILL DIG OWN WELL

Texans Need Water but Decline U.S. Aid

WHITEWRIGHT, Tex. (UPI)—It has been a hot, dry summer in Whitewright but not so much that federal aid is needed, Mayor R. R. Summers feels.

It all apparently got started a few weeks ago when the north Texas town's water supply ran a bit low.

"We asked folks to hold up a little on washing their cars and watering their lawns," Summers said.

"Well, some fellow called Washington, and they got the idea we were gone dry."

Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., called the newspapers with the news that federal aid was on the way to save Whitewright from dying of thirst. He said the government might drill new wells.

"No thanks," Summers said.

"We are drilling another well," he said. "But we'd rather do it ourselves."

'WE'LL MAKE IT NEXT TIME'

Try at Rowing 12-Footer to Catalina Short 3 Miles

By VINT MADER

Despite current, wind and waves that battered their first attempt to a halt only a few miles short of Avalon Harbor, two young men today have not lost their ardor for rowing a 12-foot boat to Catalina Island from the mainland.

"We're going to do it again and we'll make it," said Bernie Knoke, 19, in a telephone interview from Avalon Saturday.

* * * *

KNOKE and Ed Gray, 22, son of an Avalon restaurant proprietor, fought water and weather to within three miles of the island on their first try when they had to give up and signal for a tow.

"It got real rough when we were about four miles out," said Knoke. "It took us two hours to row one mile."

Until then, the determined pair had made steady progress, except for being turned around in morning fog because of a failure in the compass they had aboard, Knoke said.

* * * *

THEY began their row at the Catalina steamship dock in Los Angeles Harbor at 6 a.m. Friday, having brought the rented rowboat from Avalon via ferry the night before.

Fog closed in shortly after they cleared the outer harbor and it was only after they met two boats that they learned their compass was guiding them backwards. First a fisherman told them they were four miles out and 90 minutes later they learned from another boat that they were three miles out.

They then got set on a correct course, the fog soon lifted and they stroked ahead until they were four miles from the island.

In good physical condition from regular aquatic pastimes and their hands hound and taped like boxer's, they suffered no blisters or aches, said Knoke, a Pasadenan who is working at the Gray family restaurant for the summer.

* * * *

THEY were sighted and signaled regularly by the Catalina amphibian planes and once a Navy destroyer drew alongside to be assured they were in no trouble.

But in the afternoon they began to buck a current that threatened to carry them around the southern tip of the island. Then head-on seas and wind picked up against them.

"We just put our backs into it for one solid hour and got nowhere," said Knoke.

"We also got soaking wet. We were taking water and bailing all the time. One of us would row while the other bailed."

* * * *

THEY finally decided "it would take us another 10 hours to get in at this rate" and signaled to one of the passing amphibians with one of six flares they had.

The plane radioed the Coast Guard, which then put out a call for boats in the vicinity to help the intrepid rowers.

Soon a private motorboat took them in tow for the last long three miles of their first attempt to row the San Pedro Channel.

N.Y. River Current Claims Four, Tug

NEW YORK (UPI)—A tugboat with 10 men aboard capsized in the Hellgate currents of the East River Saturday. The captain and three crew members were feared drowned. Six other crewmen were rescued.

Witnesses and rescued crewmen said the tug "Flushing" was towing a barge which "moved up," causing the tug to capsize and sink.

One of the rescued men, Joseph Hooper, 63, of Bridgeport, Conn., said the tug was "shoved around like it was in a whirlpool" and capsized and sank "within minutes."

The missing men were identified as Capt. Charles Scouten and deckhands Johan Foldik, Francis King and James Pillsworth. Treated and released at a hospital, in addition to Hooper, were:

Lewis Johnson, 60, and Charles McCarthy, both of New York; Richard Henssen, 41, Hawthrone, N.J.; Mauritz Ostrigan, 58, Rockaway, N.J.; and Robert Robertson (hometown unavailable.)

* * * *

THE CAPTAIN and crew members were hurled into the swirling currents when the tug struck the barge, which did not sink.

Two policemen in a patrol car saw the accident and alerted rescue vessels.

The Hellgate currents are created by a confluence of waters from the Harlem River and Long Island Sound, which flow at different speeds over the shoals in the East River.

Tokyo Bomber Strikes Again

TOKYO (AP)—Tokyo Metropolitan Police have launched a nationwide hunt for a "ghost bomber" who has identified himself as Jiro Kusaka, the equivalent of John Smith. Police expressed belief Saturday that he is responsible for at least six explosions that have occurred here and frightened Tokyo since last year.

At least 10 persons have been injured in explosions of home-made devices. Nine were hurt Wednesday night when a time-bomb exploded in a Metropolitan subway train. One person was injured last year when a bomb planted in a book exploded in a public telephone booth.

8 Nabbed in Roundup of Bookies

A $250,000-a-year bookmaking ring was broken Saturday with the arrest of eight persons in Los Angeles and Orange Counties, officers said.

Vice officers from Los Angeles County sheriff's office, Downey, Garden Grove, Buena Park and Santa Ana police departments, working with Orange County District Attorney's investigators, swooped down on eight different locations to nab the alleged gamblers.

Sheriff's deputies said the kingpins of the operation, which was estimated to handle up to $250,000 a year in bets on horse racing and other sporting events, are William Paul Jones, 60, arrested at 12171 Front St., Norwalk, and his brother, Earl Broadway Jones, 66, arrested at 11970 Olive St., Norwalk.

Booked with the Joneses at Orange County jail, (listed with addresses where they were arrested) were:

Billie Barbee, 40, of 11932 Regentview St., Downey; Mary L. Barbee, 36, of 11821 Medina Drive, Garden Grove; Robert A. Mott, 48, of 2046 Martin Lane, Santa Ana; Kenneth Felkner, 43, of 9301 Royal Palm Blvd., Garden Grove; Walter Amondsen, 50, of 7671 5th St., Buena Park, and Jack Hanz, 46, of 10910 Orr and Day Road, Santa Fe Springs.

Don Carroll, investigator for the Orange County district attorney's office said the raids climaxed seven weeks of undercover work. Bundles of betting markers and other bookmaking equipment were confiscated, he added.

Job, Freedom March Set for N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil rights groups are planning a march—similar to the recent march on Washington—on New York's City Hall for Sunday, Sept. 29, it was announced Saturday night.

Marvin Rich, a spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality, said "tens of thousands" are expected to march in protest of "significant" discrimination against Negroes in the New York City construction industry.

The decision to conduct the march was approved by the leadership of six civil rights organizations last Thursday, he said.

Rich said the decision for the New York march grew out of the success Aug. 28 of the "jobs and freedom" march on Washington, when 200,000 persons traveled by plane, train and bus to the Capital.

The CORE spokesman said the demonstrators will demand five steps to end discrimination in the construction industry:

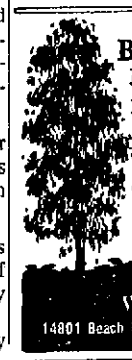

That Mayor Robert Wagner void contracts on projects where job discrimination exists.

That all qualified workers be accepted as members of the construction industry unions.

That the unions do away with waiting lists for new apprentices and immediately accept new applicants for membership.

That standards be established to determine the qualifications of applicants for union membership.

That a review appeal board be established, made up of representatives of the unions, builders and civil rights groups, to act in cases where union membership is denied.

L.B. PARENTS ADVISED

Our Children, Going to School, Need Lessons in Traffic Safety

With classes opening next Monday, the Long Beach Safety Council, police department and other civic organizations are starting their annual program promoting traffic safety for school children.

Brilliant posters, billboards and bumper stickers carrying the slogan, "Be Extra Alert," already are appearing locally.

This precautionary message is directed primarily at motorists who are asked to be extra careful since thousands of children will be thronging the school routes.

Said Police Chief William J. Mooney:

"Each year we spend millions of dollars to fight the diseases that might bring suffering and death to our children. We spend millions annually to give these children comforts and luxuries far beyond their needs. Yet we fail to protect them adequately against one of the most deadly hazards of modern living . . . the automobile.

"In the main, there are three groups of people responsible for this ironic fact. They are the drivers, of course—naturally, the parents—and the children themselves. What can a parent do about a child-traffic problem?

"First of all the parents' behavior in traffic influences the child's behavior greatly. Make your example a good one. Find out how the child is being taught traffic safety in school and coordinate your own instruction. See that your children only play in approved play areas, and not in the street. Be sure they follow the safety rules on their skates, wagons, scooters and bikes.

"Drivers must always be on the lookout for children and be driving slow enough to stop in time. The children must obey the rules they learn in school and at home. This 'Back to School' safety program requires careful consideration for the safety of all children. Their lives and your freedom from tragedy are worth the effort."

ADMITS SECOND KILLING

Paroled Strangler Being Quizzed Over Slaying of L.B. Teacher

A paroled strangler who has confessed choking another woman to death in Long Beach will be questioned about other such killings in California and adjoining states, police said Saturday.

Robert Leslie Webster, 45, was arrested at his home 771 Dawson Ave., by 22 heavily armed officers early Friday. He later broke down and confessed slaying Mrs. Jane Diane Harley, an attractive 38-year-old divorcee, Wednesday night.

Webster continues to deny any knowledge of the similar slaying of June 30 of Mrs. Pauline Bennett Anderson, 55, a schoolteacher who was killed after she left a Long Beach cocktail lounge.

However, Webster will be questioned further on the Anderson killing, homicide Sgt. Frank Welch said Saturday.

Welch said the department has asked Orange County to forward its file on the 1946 conviction of Webster for the strangulation of 19-year-old Carrie Bendel, a Belmont Shore waitress.

Welch said detectives will resume interrogation of Webster on unsolved slayings of similar type after they study the Orange County reports.

Dengue Fever Danger in Southland

Public health officials Saturday asked physicians to be on the lookout for cases of dengue fever in Southern California.

A large outbreak of the disease has occurred in the Caribbean area and tourists may have been infected there, health officials said.

The ailment is not transmitted directly from person to person but by mosquitoes. The causative agent is one of the smallest known viruses.

Dr. I. D. Litwack, Long Beach health officer, said the ailment is rarely fatal but is marked by severe muscular pain and fever and a lengthy convalescence.

Dr. B. A. Kogan, epidemiologist with the Los Angeles County Health Department, said at least six trawlers from Jamaica have come down with the disease in the United States. Because of heavy tourist travel, more cases are expected.

The ailment is known by a variety of names: dandy fever, breakbone fever, giraffe fever, ankle fever, bouquet fever, polka fever and denguero.

Johnson Finds Greeting in Finland Warmest Among 30 Lands He's Visited

By BILL BROOM
L. A. Times-Washington Bureau

HELSINKI—Vice President Lyndon Johnson is countering Soviet "charm" in Scandinavia with a Texas handshake and spectator passes to the United States Senate. Nearing the midpoint of a two-week tour, he paused here at the Russians' doorstep today to assure Finland American friends had not abandoned her, although theaty commitments with Russia require her neutrality.

The Scandanavia tour has not been an easy assignment for Johnson. He is an impulsive outgoing visitor, whereas his hosts hide their friendliness behind stolid masks of reserve. On the political canvas, Johnson prefers painting in broad violent colors, but his present assignment dictates fine-lined etching.

* * * *

AFTER slipping on the ice of Nordic reserve in Sweden, Johnson hit his stride with the friendly folk of Finland. They gave him an unprecedented welcome which included the first ticker tape thrown in Helsinki's history. He was mobbed in the streets by crowds police had difficulty controlling.

Finland lives in a straitjacket imposed by the necessity of getting along with a neighbor of overwhelming economic and military superiority. Finns by thousands burst the bonds of force-induced neutrality with a warm greeting which was the only way they could, with impunity, indicate clearly where their true sympathies lie.

* * * *

CHOKED with emotion, Johnson told newsmen later he had experienced nothing approaching its warmth in 30 countries he has visited. Helsinki reporters said the only other public display like it was the greeting given President Herbert Hoover who had rescued the nation from starvation after the first World War.

Johnson's Saturday night speech at the annual America Days ceremony here was intended to dispel this country's feeling of isolation. He said United States policy was aimed at assuring Finns their survival depends primarily on their own determination to maintain their identity with the assistance of the Western world's strength in Europe. The Scandanavian countries have been a major target of Soviet blandishments in recent years and Russian behavior here has been generally good.

* * * *

GOOD relations prevail along the Norway-Soviet border and many mayors of small towns there have accepted invitations to visit Russia. Soviet leaders have adopted an understanding attitude toward Swedish neutrality. This unusual pattern of Soviet behavior has resulted in psychological erosion of traditional pro-Western attitudes, in the opinion of U.S. diplomats.

Johnson is attempting to check the erosion by impressing them that U.S. forward-looking policies at home and abroad represent the wave of the future. Amid nations that must trade to survive he emphasizes the free-trade act passed by the last Congress.

* * * *

AWARE of this area's strong feeling for disarmament, he talks boldly of heavy emphasis on the peaceful exploration of space in U.S. research and development programs. At times Johnson finds delicacies of diplomatic tasks narrow and confining. He hits his stride whenever he can find a crowd, which is not always easy in these countries.

In Goteborg, Sweden's bustling west-coast seaport he found the going to his liking. Goteborgians are not unlike people of Texas. They are boosters, hard traders, out for new business and hearty in manner. They couldn't help being charmed when Johnson sallied into the small crowd greeting him at the heliport while Swedish fifers piped the strains of "Yellow Rose of Texas" to a military-band accompaniment.

* * * *

AFTER enough hands were wrung and enough LBJ passes given out to cram the U.S. Senate's spectator galleries, Goteborgians got into the spirit of the occasion. They adopted the fine old American custom of breaking through police lines and mobbed their visitor.

Sees Tax Cut Effective January

By ADREN COOPER AND EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress doesn't finish work on the tax bill this year, the average American can forget about bigger take-home pay until well into the spring, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon says.

But Dillon said, in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press, he is optimistic about the chances of enacting the proposed $11 billion, two-stage cut in time to allow reduced withholding from pay envelopes to begin in January.

He predicted stronger public pressure on the Senate, where delays are most likely, than on the House. The House is expected to vote on taxes this month.

Dillon said also he sees no need for President Kennedy to shelve some of his domestic programs, as some Republicans have suggested, to encourage economy-minded legislators to vote for tax reduction.

* * * *

MOREOVER, Dillon contended, there is growing realization that the American economy needs the tonic of a tax cut if it is to recover from its persistent gold and dollar drain ills.

He said the relatively good performance of business in recent months still leaves unemployment higher than it was last year and does not weaken the case for the legislation.

Highlights of the interview:

Question: are you still optimistic about the chances of the tax bill even though the Senate has scheduled it behind civil rights legislation?

Dillon: I don't think there has been any definite decision on a time schedule for civil rights legislation. The key problem is whether we can get Senate hearings on the tax bill before the Senate gets involved in a filibuster which would shut off time for such hearings. I think there is still an opportunity for that.

Q. If the bill isn't finished until next year, even though retroactive to January, would this do much damage from your point of view?

Dillon: It would slow up the economy because the first effect on the economy—as far as individual reductions are concerned—takes place when the new withholding rates go into effect. This increases the take-home pay of everybody in the United States and if a tax bill is passed by the Senate, say the first of March, retroactive to the first of the year, new withholding rates probably couldn't go into effect until the first of April, and we would have lost three months.

There would just be larger refunds taking place in the spring of '65 rather than having increased pay checks in the early months of '64.

* * * *

BUSINESS TAXES are paid on the basis of the full year's earnings, and they don't start coming in in any volume until the following September, so the effect on business incentives, to invest or anything else, will be about the same.

It will be the delay of the tax cut for the individuals which will slow the pickup in demand that is so important.

I can't see anything that can be done to take the place of the tax cut in that area. If it is late, it is just late and we will lose three months.

Q. Don't you think some of the effect of the tax cut is already being felt as businessmen invest in anticipating the tax cut?

Dillon: I think businessmen do anticipate the effect of the tax cut, therefore, it is very important that it go through. I think there would be very serious disappointment now at this late date, if there turned out to be no tax cut, or an inadequate tax cut.

Q. President Kennedy said he expects to submit a budget for 1965 in which there would be less than the $9.2 billion deficit anticipated for 1964. Are you far enough along to figure out how much less?

Dillon: No. He is in the position just to state that it will be less than the $9.2 billion, which was the latest estimate—quite a rough estimate.

Q. Mr. Secretary, some critics have said that the Treasury misjudged foreign reaction to the proposed interest equalization tax, which would apply to the purchase of foreign securities by Americans. Do you care to comment?

Dillon: It probably is a fair statement that the reaction in Canada was more extreme than we had anticipated, though we had known there would naturally be some reaction there, because they were the big borrowers down here.

We had felt they could adjust to this tax and get along all right with it without major disruption in the Canadian economy. They felt otherwise. That is the only place where I think there was any surprise to us. The reactions elsewhere were about as we expected.

Q. Do you feel Congress has imposed on your time in requesting your appearance some 60-odd times in the past seven months

Dillon: No, I don't, because the great bulk of them have been with the Ways and Means Committee of the House on the tax bill and I think this bill is one of the most important pieces of legislation that has come before the Congress in many years. It is the first step in decades to reduce the federal tax burden except for the repeal of some obviously temporary wartime tax rates.

I think it is a very fundamental and very important objective which will do more for our economy and more for curing our unfavorable balance of payments than any step I know.

Q. Would you like to see the debt ceiling handled in a different manner?

Dillon: I do think that there has grown up some confusion over the purpose of the debt ceiling. People have come to think it's meant to control expenditures.

Of course, that is not so. It was created originally after the First World War to allow us to finance without going to Congress to have every single loan approved.

It has been only in the last 15 years, that there has been this effort to hold the debt limit down tightly to estimates, under the theory that this will control expenditures.

However, this isn't the case since the expenditures are all undertaken only with the approval of Congress.

Q. Some Republicans have said the President would not have much trouble passing the tax cut bill if he agreed to put on the shelf some of his programs not involving defense and space. Would this be good tactics, since it is evident some of these will not be passed at this session?

Dillon: It is very clear that a number of these programs are not at all likely to be enacted, not necessarily for reasons of economy only but—for instance—the problem of educational bills in view of the religious controversy.

So I think a request for a statement like this is political in nature and is not economic, because those who make the request know the programs are not going to pass in any event an dthey can vote for a tax reduction in perfect safety, if that is what they fear.

17-0 Ram Win Led by 'Brat'

By JERRY WYNN

The Rams can handle the kittens. Now bring on the Lions!

The kittens, the San Francisco 49ers, became the first opponent to be blanked by the Rams in 10 years Saturday night. The 17-0 victory was achieved before a gathering of 34,405 at the Coliseum.

The Lions, the bruising Detroit Lions, appear this Saturday night to open the National Football League season.

The Rams coupled a steel-honed defense with an improving offense to hand the 49ers their fifth successive pre-season defeat. The Rams ended their preliminary skirmishing with a record of 2-3.

* * * *

IT WAS the forgotten veteran, Zeke Bratkowski, who guided the Rams to all their points in the second half after young Terry Baker failed to make headway in the first quarter.

Bratkowski passed 43 yards to Jim Phillips for the first touchdown early in the third quarter. Danny Villanueva kicked a 25-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter, and Ben Wilson plunged over from the 1 with the final touchdown after Jon Arnett uncorked an old-fashioned Arnett 64-yard scamper.

But the Ram offense was far from impressive over-all, and the laurels primarily fall to the tenacious Ram defense unit which gave John Brodie one of the roughest evenings of his career. Linebackers Marlin McKeever and Jack Pardee crashed through repeatedly to harass the 49er quarterback. Pardee was awarded the game ball by his teammates.

The shutout was the first inflicted by the Rams since the opening game of the 1954 season when the Rams blitzed Baltimore, 48-0. Saturday night, they picked on their arch enemies, the kittens from San Francisco. How the game unfolded.

FIRST QUARTER

Neither team could penetrate within the enemy 25-yard line during a loosely-played opening quarter.

The Rams twice took possession of the ball on the San Francisco 40, but could not muster a serious scoring threat.

The first bid ended with Terry Baker getting spilled for a 13-yard loss. The second died after one first down when Jon Arnett fumbled away the ball on the 49er 28.

It was the Rams' first fumble loss of the season.

SECOND QUARTER

The most exciting play of a scoreless first half came within the Ram one-yard line with John Brodie attempted a quarterback sneak but was stacked up by the Rams without gain.

San Francisco began the drive on the Ram 37 after mercurial Abe Woodson ran back a punt 32 yards.

After an incomplete pass, Lloyd Winston ran for 4 and J. D. Smith scrambled to within inches of the goal line to set up Brodie's unsuccessful sneak.

THIRD QUARTER

Rams 7, 49ers 0: The Rams ended the scoring famine on a 43-yard touchdown pass from Bratkowski to Jim Phillips with 4:40 elapsed. Phillips made a fine catch on the sideline at the 15 and sprinted into the end zone. Danny Villanueva converted.

The Rams had taken possession of the ball on the San Francisco 44 after a 23-yard punt return by Carver Shannon. The scoring strike came two plays later.

San Francisco soon moved to a first down on the Ram 27 on passes from Brodie to Don Lisbon for 23 and Jim Johnson for 12. The Rams held, and Tommy Davis missed a field goal from the 34.

FOURTH QUARTER

Rams 10, 49ers 0: Villanueva kicked a 26-yard field goal for the Rams after the Rams advanced from their own 21 to a first down on the San Francisco 21. Big gains came on passes from Bratkowski to Duane Allen for 27, Phillips for 16 and Bass for 26.

But from the S.F. 21, the Rams picked up only two yards in three downs and the call went out for Villanueva.

The Rams had an earlier drive for three first downs

Dodgers' Tommy Davis attempts steal in fourth inning against Giants but Jose Pagan has ball, awaiting tag.

Dodgers Feel Breath of Birds

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO—The Redbirds still aren't dead birds. And, while the Dodgers continue to rule the National League roost, the cackling in the clubhouse subsided slightly Saturday.

Juan Marichal, with home run support from Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda, made it six in a row over the Dodgers at Candlestick Park. The Giants prevailed 5-3 and thus kept the Dodgers' cinching cypher at 16 with 20 games remaining.

Don Drysdale (17-16) was the loser for the third time in four meetings with the high-kicking Marichal this season. The defeat did little to help Drysdale's shingles, a nervous condition which was complicated by a rash of San Francisco hits.

Filled with pills and shots, after X-ray treatments, Drysdale still was in pain as he took the mound. "It felt like I had torn some muscles in my right side," said Drysdale, who yielded to a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning.

Drysdale was sent home for further treatments and will not rejoin the team until Tuesday in Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers matched the Giants with nine hits, but eight were singles as Marichal recorded his 21st victory against eight losses.

The loss snipped the Dodgers' league lead over St. Louis to 4½ games, their slimmest edge since Aug. 16, when the Giants trailed by four games and the Cardinals by five.

Mays, who obviously has regained his strength, began the Giants' long range bombardment with home run No. 34 in the first inning. His opposite-field home run game after McCovey singled infield and provided Marichal with a 2-0 edge.

* * * *

CEPEDA HIT No. 27 to start the fourth inning and McCovey stroked No. 37 to start the sixth.

Johnny Podres, appearing in relief for the second time in two years, allowed the final run in the seventh inning on a double by Jose Pagan and a pinch-hit single by Jim Davenport. Davenport batted for the lefthander Chuck Hiller after Podres walked Harvey Kuenn intentionally.

McCovey's homer was his third of the year and 10th lifetime against Drysdale. Each of his three this season figured in San Francisco victories, which total eight with the finale coming up today.

Although Drysdale is among the most generous home run pitchers in the league (he has allowed 25), it was the first time this season that he has allowed three in one game.

John Roseboro (No. 8) homered for the Dodgers in the second inning, a three-hit round that failed to be more productive because Bill Skowron grounded into a double play.

Skowron earned a starting job against the right-handed Marichal by hitting .500 (5-for-10) in his last four games, while Fairly, who was hitless in his last 12 times up, moved to right field.

Fairly came through with three hits and drove in two runs, but also struck out while Tommy Davis was caught stealing to end a Dodger threat in the fourth.

Fairly singled to lead off the second inning, but was doubled easily when Skowron tapped to shortstop. Roseboro followed with his line-drive homer over the right

OSUNA, FROEHLING IN FINALS

McKinley Surprised

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Mexico's agile Rafael Osuna upset top-seeded Chuck McKinley 6-4, 6-4, 10-8 and beanpole Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., ended the Cinderella story of Brazil's Ronnie Barnes 6-3, 6-1, 6-4 Saturday for men's finalist spots in the National Tennis Championships.

Thus it's Froehling's divot-digging cannonball service against Osuna's catlike quickness and volleying wizardry in the title battle Sunday at the West Side Tennis Club.

Regardless of which one wins, tennis history will be made.

No Mexican has ever won the U.S. title. The United States hasn't had a home-grown champion since 1955—just before Australia began an eight-year monopoly.

The women's crown is certain to be carried to a foreign country.

* * * *

THE FINALISTS are top-seeded Margaret Smith, seeking to add the U.S. crown to her Australian and Wimbledon championships, and Maria Bueno of Brazil, once the queen of all tennis before a siege of hepatitis hindered her career.

Miss Smith, powerful, 5-foot-10 factory foreman's daughter from the little Australian town of Albury in New South Wales, needed only 39 minutes in erasing unseeded Deidre Catt of England 6-2, 6-0.

The dour-business-like Miss Bueno, winner here in 1959, staged two strong rallies to turn back the scrappy British Wightman Cup veteran, left-handed Ann Haydon Jones, 1-6, 6-3, 9-7.

Both Osuna and Froehling are surprise occupants of the finals.

The 23-year-old Mexican ace, whose victory over the Wimbledon champion McKinley was his third in four meetings, was seeded fourth. Froehling, the game's stepchild, was unseeded.

Froehling's sweep to the finals behind his scorching service—"it's like it's coming out of a tree top," Barnes said . . . brought red faces to U.S. Davis Cup and tournament officials.

Not only was he ignored in the choice of Davis Cup squads this year, although he ranked second behind McKinley in the national list, but he was unseeded in the tournament.

"They'll have to put me on the team now," Froehling said.

He is eminently correct.

Bob Kelleher, Davis Cup captain, said Froehling definitely figures in Cup plans for the inter-zone matches with England Sept. 26-28 and later tests, if successful, against India and Australia.

* * * *

FROEHLING was overlooked when the squad was named for the American Zone final against Venezuela at Denver Sept. 13-15.

The 6-foot-3 stringbean, a teammate of McKinley at Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., made mincemeat of Barnes, the dark-haired South American who upset third-seeded Dennis Ralston in the quarterfinals.

Froehling, a collection of arms and legs in a white baseball cap, never came close to losing his service, and broke Barnes almost at will with sweeping returns that zipped down the sidelines or caught the Brazilian stabbing at the ball as he approached the net.

Golf Series Scrambled

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the cherub-faced Ohio heavyweight, three-putted the final green from four feet for an even par 70 Saturday, and a tie with lefthander Bob Charles in the opening round of their 36-hole showdown in the $75,000 World Series of Golf.

Charles, the British Open champion from New Zealand, birdied the final hole for his 70.

Ailing Arnold Palmer was another stroke behind with a 71, and U.S. Open champion Julius Boros had a 72.

Nicklaus, the 23-year-old Masters and PGA king and the defender in this television spectacular that matches the top performers in the world's four major golf championships for a $50,000 first prize, led all the way until disaster struck on the final hole.

Needing a par on the last hole for a 68, he butchered away his advantage with a duffer's pair of stabs at the

Nicklaus Rages-- Remarks 'in Jest'

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus stormed off the 18th green after three-putting for a double bogey and tore into two reporters for what he termed an article which turned the gallery against him.

The disastrous 18th hole saw Nicklaus lose his undisputed lead in the $75,000 World Series of Golf.

Nicklaus, who was upset over being quoted as saying Arnie Palmer does not belong in the World Series because he failed to win one of the four major tournaments, said the gallery was pulling for his second shot on the 18th hole to go into the trap. The ball skipped out of the trap and onto the fringe.

Nicklaus chipped to four feet from the pin and then three-putted. The story was run in an Akron newspaper and circulated by a wire service.

NICKLAUS WAS QUOTED as saying Palmer is an also-ran and shouldn't be in the World Series which originally was an event for winners of the four major titles. However, since Nicklaus won two of the championships the promoters decided to hold a playoff in which Palmer won the fourth berth by defeating Jack Cupit and Phil Rodgers.

"Nobody deserves to be in this thing more than Arnold," Nicklaus screamed at the two men who wrote the story. "When you have to take a remark made in jest and turn it into dirt then I don't want to have anything to do with you."

Earlier in the day, Palmer, who was present when Nicklaus made his remarks Thursday, said "Jack and I were kidding along. If I were Nicklaus I'd bury a wedge in their heads."

No Hat-Throwing for Don Reed

If you've been following Al Larson's reports on Long Beach State's football drills, you undoubtedly have noted the strange optimism of coach Don Reed.

Ordinarily at this time of year, a football coach is as optimistic as a clergyman behind the Iron Curtain. Not Reed. He's as bubbly as a soft drink—and not because he expects to win the CCAA championship, but because he believes his 49ers can finish as high as third in the tough circuit.

DON REED
No More Hat Tricks

"I'm so impressed with our training camp," said Reed the other day, "that I don't think you will see me throwing my hat around during a game. Besides, I have an elastic band in it and it will pop right back."

I can't quite agree with that statement. For Reed to refrain from disgustedly throwing his hat in the air during a game is as impossible as Cassius Clay shutting his mouth.

Reed has three reasons for his optimistic attitude.

"First of all, for once we've got enough people to do a better job," Don explained. "When you only have 33 or so boys to work with during practice you can't afford to lose a single man or else you have everyone doubling up to fill the gaps.

"This means the kids take their turns so often they tire easily. But we have 52 boys right now and only two have quit, one because of a previous injury.

"Then, I think we've got someone to complement Dee Andrews this year. Willie Martin has really shown his stuff in early drills and gives us two tremendous speed-burners.

"Mainly, though, my optimism stems not so much from talent but from the squad's attitude. The boys like our new dorm atmosphere and, instead of little cliques here and there, all the kids are getting to know one another right off. In previous years, it's taken three or four weeks for everyone to know each other. Now it's only a matter of a few days."

Clearly, it's Reed's thought that the family which stays together, plays together.

IN ADDITION TO Andrews and Martin, the 49er coaches are elated thus far over the performances of seven other athletes. Reed capsules his opinions of each in this manner:

Guard Don Crosby—"It looks like Don finally is rid of all his germs. He always seemed to be battling colds or boils or something last season and looks like a real team leader now."

Quarterback Jerry Otterson—"Jerry lost about 12 pounds during the summer while in Sweden and is throwing the ball real well now. He's pushing our veteran, Chuck Anderson, for the starting job."

End John Price—"He's back from Whitman College in Washington, shows good speed and is a hard-nosed kid."

End Don Montgomery—"Right now, Don is head and shoulders above all our ends. He's going to be one of the finest ends in the conference, especially on defense."

End Don Skinner—"Here's another boy who's going to be great. In fact, he has all the tools to become Long Beach's FINEST offensive end ever."

End Pat Brosnan (nephew of that noted author, Jim Brosnan)—"To give you an idea of his potential, Pat set a national JC record last year at Santa Monica. He's little 6-0) for an end, but has exceptional moves. Pat brought a new drill into camp for us which we call the flail drill. He picked this up from Tom Fears at a clinic. It makes it tough for defenders to decide which way our ends are going to cut."

Tackle Marty Johnson—"Marty should be our key man. He has accepted the responsibility at tackle. He knows that how our tackle play goes, so goes our season."

OBVIOUSLY, FROM THE ABOVE, the 49ers are well stocked with good ends. Reed is not unaware of this situation.

"We have everything I could desire in the way of receivers," declared Reed, "so that means we've got to develop something we haven't had much success with before—a passing game. Anderson, Otterson and Rick Lussier are good throwers, along with a new boy from Hancock JC (Bill Pierce).

"Now, all we have to worry about is that we're strong enough up front to give them time to pass."

Seems as though I've heard that song before. Like, for instance, the proving grounds at Chapman College in little old Orange.

If he doesn't develop those animals up front, Mr. Reed will revert to being a mad hatter before the opening game is history.

Maris Leads Big Yank Explosion

The pennant-bound New York Yankees staged their biggest inning of the season Saturday when they scored eight runs in the fifth frame—four of them driven in by Roger Maris—to beat the Detroit Tigers, 11-6.

The Yankees, who notched their fourth straight victory, were trailing, 6-3, at the time of the explosion, thanks to a five-run rally by the Tigers in the fourth inning.

But after Mickey Mantle singled to open the New York fifth to knock out Tiger starter Don Mossi, Maris greeted reliever and loser Mickey Lolich with his 21st homer of the year. Later Maris stroked a two-run single to conclude the scoring in the inning, in which 12 Yankees went to bat.

Hal Reniff, who relieved in the sixth inning and shut out Detroit the rest of the way, was credited with his fourth victory of the year.

RICH ROLLINS singled home two runs in the 12th inning to give the Minnesota Twins a 4-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The win increased Minnesota's edge over Chicago to one and a half games in their battle for second place in the American League.

Home runs by Woodie Held, Max Alvis and pitcher Pete Ramos accounted for all but one of Cleveland's runs in a 9-2 victory over Washington.

Dave Morehead and Dick Radatz combined on a four-hitter while Lu Clinton supplied the batting punch in Boston's 4-1 victory over Baltimore. Clinton collected three singles.

Braves Hold On to Third

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves used a pair of walks and an error to pick up two unearned runs in the 10th inning for a 6-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday night, enabling them to hold third place in the National League.

Hank Aaron, who blasted his 38th homer in the third, and Eddie Mathews drew walks from reliefer Jack Baldschun to open the 10th.

Joe Torre, who had greeted Baldschun with a game-tying homer in the eighth, bounced to short and Aaron scored, with Mathews taking third when Bobby Wine let the ball go through his legs.

Mathews was cut down at the plate on Gene Oliver's infield bouncer, Torre taking third. Del Crandall hit a sacrifice fly for the insurance run.

Flood Insures 9th-Inning Win

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Curt Flood singled home Bob Gibson in the ninth inning Saturday with the run that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The win was the 10th in the last 11 games for the second-place Cardinals who gained a game on the league-leading Dodgers.

PITTSBURGH'S first run came in the third inning when Dick Schofield got the first of his four singles to score Bob Bailey.

Clendennon's 14th homer leading off the fourth inning and Bailey's 450-foot double scoring Bill Virdon gave the Pirates two runs in the fourth.

X-rays on Dick Groat, the injured shortstop and spark-plug of the St. Louis Cardinals and the National League's leading batsman, were inconclusive Saturday and the team announced Groat will return to St. Louis for further examinations today.

Groat was hit in the ribs by Pittsburgh pitcher Don Cardwell Friday. Pirate physician Dr. Joseph Finegold said Groat did not suffer broken ribs.

Angels Cry for No 'Moe'

By ROSS NEWHAN

The Angels were crying no "Moe" after their first drink of cocktail hour baseball.

A Moe named Drabowsky limited them to four hits and only 2,687 fans showed up for the first-ever 5 p.m. Saturday contest at Dodger Stadium.

KMPC's insistence on airing the Ram-49er game at 8 p.m. cost the Angels about 6,000 in attendance and $12,000 in the pocketbook. Drabowsky's persistence cost them a 5-2 decision.

ANGEL OF DAY

ALBIE PEARSON Tripled and scored first Angel run in 5-2 loss to Kansas City.

The defeat was the Angels' 22nd in their last 33 games and pushed them back into ninth place.

Drabowsky, a righthander by way of the Chicago Cubs, yielded only one hit after the third inning and retired 15 in a row from the fourth through the ninth frame.

Three of the Angels' hits went for extra bases, but some careless base running—an Angel trademark—helped bail Drabowsky out of trouble in the third when the Cherubs scored only once on two doubles, a walk and fielder's choice.

Drabowsky survived this scare and did not allow another hit until Lee Thomas singled with two outs in the ninth. Moe got Bobby Rodgers on a simple infield grounder to nail his sixth victory against 11 defeats.

MEANWHILE, the sad September continued for Ken McBride, who receipted for loss No. 11 against 13 wins. McBride has won only one of his last 10 starts in the biggest reversal of form since Mr. K agreed to a test ban pact.

After stranding two Kansas City runners in each of the first two innings, McBride finally got himself into a no

WYNN

Man to Man

SCULLY

By JERRY WYNN

He's never hit a home run or even a pop fly, but ask Joe Fan who is the most popular man with the Dodgers and the answer is certain to be Vincent Edward Scully.

Vin Scully's voice is heard by more people at more times from March through September (and occasionally into October) than Long Beach has little leaguers. Instead of Hootenany, the people demand their Hooten-Vinny.

Blessed with an ingratiating personality, intelligence and lilting tonsils, the 36-year-old product of the sidewalks of New York has become the symbol of the Dodgers and baseball in Southern California.

After 14 years with the Dodgers, Vin, why aren't there any gray hairs among all the red?

"The first year I broadcast Dodger games, they lost the pennant in the 10th inning of the final game. The next year, they lost in the bottom of the ninth of the third playoff game. So I have had a heavy baptism in fire. Truthfully, I never fret about a game once it's over."

Did you give any thought to remaining in New York when the Dodgers moved West in 1958?

"No. It was my job, and I had to stay with it. I wasn't happy about the move. I was raised in New York, and all my relatives and friends were there. But I have no regrets now. We've been very happy here."

Do you think an announcer should be prejudiced in favor of the home team?

"No, I really don't. There are several reasons, but basically it is because you can do a better job if you are impartial. Of course, it's only human to want to see the team you represent and the players you know so well be winners. But it should not affect your judgment or honesty in describing a game.

"The crowd looks at a game with its heart. When Frank Howard hits a fly ball, they automatically roar and plead with the ball even if it has no chance to be a home run. An announcer must look at it honestly. A fly ball is only a fly ball.

"In our six years here, Jerry (Doggett) and I never have received one letter saying we described a play wrong or accusing us of bias. I believe in honesty."

What advice would you give to a youngster with ambitions to become a sports announcer?

"It's a question I'm asked often, and it is very difficult to answer. There is no set pattern to follow to become a sports announcer as there is, say, to becoming a doctor or lawyer. The best advice I have is not to specialize in sports. Aim to be an announcer—not just a sports announcer. It's like going into an apartment house. You first have to get into the house before you get into the apartment."

Did you have any idols among sportscasters when you were a boy?

"I admired most of them, but looking back today, the one man who stands out in my mind as the finest sports announcer with the most intelligent and honest approach to broadcasting is Red Barber. I could be biased because Red helped me get my start with the Dodgers. But I say without a doubt that he is the best in baseball."

Who ranks highest among your baseball heroes?

"When I was a kid, I worshipped Mel Ott of the Giants. I was raised close to the Polo Grounds and rooted for Ott and the Giants since I saw my first game. I had pictures of him on the wall at home, and spent hours practicing to imitate his batting stance."

With the current trend of ballplayers becoming announcers, are you fearful that any present member of the Dodgers is after your job?

"No, I don't know any Dodgers with such aspirations. They have a lot else on their mind right now. But seriously, my concern is that I feel badly for some kids trying to break into the business. The competition is getting tougher and tougher."

Is there one game you consider the most memorable of all you have announced?

"It was the final game of the 1955 World Series when Johnny Podres shut out the Yankees, 2-0, to give the Dodgers their first World Series victory. I knew how frustrated and disappointed they had been about losing in past Series, and when they got that final out, I'll never forget the thrill of that moment."

Are the Dodgers going to play in the World Series this season?

"I told you after those first two years, I never guess. I'm not making plans for the first week in October, mind you. I'm keeping it wide open. There is a good omen. My son, Mike, was born in 1959, and my wife, Joan, is expecting another child in November. She insists that we only have babies in pennant years."

A winner every time out is Vin Scully.

Dupas Slips, Falls From Title Throne

Italian Wins on KO in Ninth

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Hard-hitting young Sandro Mazzinghi of Italy won the junior middleweight championship Saturday night, scoring a surprise, ninth-round knockout of veteran Ralph Dupas.

Ex-shoemaker Mazzinghi, a 2-1 underdog, gave Dupas a terrific hammering in every round and caused the 28-year-old American to resort to butting, holding and other questionable tactics in order to save himself from the challenger's attack.

The end came at 1:45 of the ninth round, when helpless Dupas was counted out on his feet by referee Neuhold of Switzerland after a short right to the chin had floored Ralph for a count of eight.

When he rose, he staggered to his corner and obviously was unable to defend himself. So the referee counted him out.

Mazzinghi, 24, and scoring his 27th victory in 28 professional fights, was cheered loudly and almost constantly during the bout by an estimated 10,000 who had braved a light rain to attend the outdoor boxing show at the Vigorelli Velodrome here.

* * * *

MAZZINGHI weighed 153 pounds as he won the world 154-pound title from Dupas, 152½.

Mazzinghi, not even ranked among the top 10 junior middleweight contenders, burst into tears of joy when the referee lifted his hand as new champion. Mazzinghi was bleeding from a cut on the left brow and a nick on his right brow. He had claimed between rounds that both cuts had been inflicted by Dupas' butting.

Dupas, who slipped and fell out of the ring in the first round and was floured by a left hook in the second, was warned by the referee in almost every session from the third round until the finish because of his questionable tactics.

Troy Solid Again

Hopes High in Westwood, Too

By JEROME HALL

Only a fortnight away is the collegiate football season, so it's high time to dissolve some widely held misconceptions about the USC and UCLA teams.

1. One says the Trojans have a couple of weaknesses at fullback and at tackle.

That's gibberish. Quite to the contrary, tackle is the strongest position in the veteran-packed line. And, barring injury, the team will open the season as well equipped or maybe even a little better equipped at fullback than when it started on the trail to 11 wins in '62.

2. The Bruins won't get off the ground this season.

Maybe that's gibberish, too. UCLA has gotten off to a fast start the past week and appears quite unlike a doormat. It's a new-look Bruin team with an offense far removed from last year's confused changeover-to-the-T team. Coach Bill Barnes has installed a "pro set" offense. Much of the time it will look much like USC's attack. And Barnes believes he has found a pro-caliber passer.

* * * *

TAKING THE No. 1 team first, USC has had a rough week of two-a-day workouts that included several scrimmages. Only injury of consequence was a broken hand to the lad who's the first-string fullback replacement for Ben Wilson.

But the injury, to Ernie Pye, hasn't kept him from going through most all the training routine and he will be ready to fill the gap by Sept. 21 at Colorado. Last year an injury kept Wilson quiet until the final two games.

The opening-day backfield, barring mishap, will be Pete Beathard at QB, Willie Brown at flanker back, Pye at full and sophomore Mike Garrett at tight halfback.

As for the so-called tackle problem, returning lettermen Gary Kirner and Mac Byrd along with Long Beach City College product Mike Giers have solved that. Giers, who was considered a third stringer a week ago, today is in firm grasp of a second-string spot and is pressing the starters.

"I don't see how we can keep him off the first team," said one of the Trojan assistant coaches at practice Saturday.

AS FOR UCLA:

Carl Jones is the man making the Westwooders smile. He's the No. 1 quarterback. His passing has been described by Barnes as "pinpoint." Jones' passing was the big question mark. He weighs 199 pounds and he's fast. When he throws on the rollout, the Bruins will look like the Trojans. They'll have flankers and spreads that will look like the Trojans, too, though they've not copied USC's shifting-T formation.

Last year Jones completed 25 of 54 passes for two touchdowns and 412 yards while serving as a second stringer. Jones had no interceptions, which must be a comforting statistic to coach Barnes, who in '62 watched his first string quarterback, Larry Zeno, throw 11 interceptions.

Right now if you ask either coach what his big problems are, he'll say he hasn't got any. Which makes this, maybe, the best part of the whole season.

Rams 17, 49ers 0: The Rams added an insurance touchdown with 1:21 remaining on a one-ward drive by Ben Wilson after Arnett had reeled off a spectacular 64-yard run to the San Francisco 10.

With a first down on the Ram 21, Arnett took off on an end sweep, received a clearing block from Charlie Cowan and was finally knocked out of bounds on the 10 by Kermit Alexander.

Wilson then plunged for 5 and 4 yards before blasting over the goal. Villanueva converted.

The Dodgers needed a miscplay by Mays to reduce Marichal's lead to 4-2 in the seventh. Mays lost T. Davis' fly ball in the sun and was charged with a two-base error. Fairly's second hit drove in Davis with an unearned run.

After Skowron grounded out and Roseboro flied out, W. Davis drew one of two Marichal walks to put the tying run on base. In this situation, manager Walter Alston called on Frank Howard to hit for Drysdale, but Howard grounded out.

The Dodgers also had two on with none out in the eighth, and again managed only one run. Fairly produced it with a two-out single after Maury Wills bunted safely and Jim Gilliam walked.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Chicago Bears handed the Baltimore Colts their first exhibition loss of the season Saturday, 14-7, before 51,218 rain-drenched fans in the first professional football doubleheader ever played in the South.

Eddie LeBaron led the Dallas Cowboys to a 27-17 victory over the Detroit Lions in the first game.

Rain began falling with 7½ minutes remaining in the opening contest and showers continued throughout the night.

The Bears struck for a touchdown in the first and second quarters to snap Baltimore's four-game winning streak.

Chicago drove 68 yards in nine plays with fullback Rick Casares ramming off right tackle for the final eight yards.

Two penalties and a 12-yard pass from Billy Wade to Johnny Morris set up the score.

BALTIMORE, playing without the services of ace quarterback Johnny Unitas, who had a bad arm, broke into the scoring column late in the final period when J. W. Lockett cracked over from yard out.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Pint-sized Eddie LeBaron passed for 231 yards and two touchdowns Saturday night to lead the Dallas Cowboys to a 27-17 victory over the Detroit Lions in the first game of a National Football League exhibition doubleheader.

LeBaron, the 5-7, 169-pound quarterback from College of the Pacific, took over for injured Don Meredith in the first quarter. He threw touchdown passes of two and nine yards to halfback Amos Marsh and set up another touchdown with a 46-yard pass. The last seven minutes of the game were played in a driving rain.

Gabelich Snaps Drag Record

Jet jockey Gary Gabelich of Long Beach broke the eight-second bracket Saturday night in Bill Martin's fuel dragster with 7.99 elapsed time. Unable to run a two per cent backup run, the $1,000 is still up for competition.

The Stellings-Schieffer Manufacturing fuel dragster's driver Jeep Hampshire of Laguna Beach broke the strip speed record, turning 194.80 mph. Winner of the $500 top fuel award was Safford-Gaide and Ratican's dragster from Hollywood.

All runs were in 190 mph bracket with a low 8.3 elapsed time.

Giant Defenders Rough Up Eagles

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Y. A. Tittle threw his first scoring pass of the exhibition season, fullback Alex Webster connected for a 74-yard touchdown on his first pass as a professional and the New York Giants routed the Philadelphia Eagles 34-10 Saturday in the final National Football League pre-season game for both teams.

A capacity crowd of 45,007 at Palmer Stadium saw Tittle run three yards for another touchdown and his substitute, Ralph Guglielmi, throw 20 yards for a fourth score as the Giants outclassed the Eagles both on offense and defense.

The rough contest was marked by personal foul penalties and the ejection of New York defensive end Andy Robustelli.

RUNNING STRESSED

'Little Guys' Sparkle in LBCC Scrimmage

By KEN PIVERNETZ

Long Beach City College's first serious contact in football practice Saturday evening proved size doesn't mean everything.

The Vikings scrimmaged for 75 minutes and two of the brightest running prospects were Chick Harris and Tony Van Coutren, both short on size, but not lacking in ability.

Harris and Van Coutren were only two of nine backs who showed flashes of promise in the scrimmage that had the coaches emphasizing running plays.

Jim Stangeland also singled out Homer Williams, Leonard Holt, Joe Pearson, Lou Tetley, Gary Lyon and Charles Williams. C. Williams, subbing for the injured Tim Russell, ran with Pearson and H. Williams in the green, or first string backfield that had Jim Dunn at quarterback.

* * * *

DUNN, Craig Vestermark and Jack Hannden ran series of plays with equal ability and there's still a wide-open scramble for the No. 1 job.

"For one week's work, it was a good workout," smiled Stangeland, who had good reason to be pleased. The Vikes take today off. A Monday morning brunch, sponsored by the LBCC Boosters Club for the team, will see the team's new co-captains named.

Packers Overcome 'Skins

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers twice clawed from behind Saturday night to notch a 28-17 triumph over the upset-minded Washington Redskins in the final National Football League exhibition game for both teams.

The world champions went ahead to stay in the opening seconds of the final period and then sacked up the game on an 80-yard pass from John Roach to Max McGee.

Bart Starr rifled a 25-yard scoring aerial to McGee in the first quarter but the Redskins surged ahead on a 33-yard field goal by Bob Khyat and a 17-yard touchdown pass from George Izo to Pat Richter.

The Packers moved in front at the half when George Pitts scooted 83 yards for a touchdown on a punt return.

The Redskins inserted regular quarterback Norman Snead in the lineup after the half and the field general, who had been ailing with the flu, put Washington back in front with a 7-yard pass to Fred Dugan.

Jacobs' 62 Takes Lead in Utah Open

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Young Tommy Jacobs, an up and down performer on the tour, rode a succession of birdies Saturday for an amazing eight-under-par 62 that vaulted him into the third round lead in the $40,000 Utah Open golf tournament.

The 28-year-old swinger from Bermuda Dunes, Calif., set a course record for the Salt Lake Country Club layout as he overtook second round leader Don January. Jacobs' sensational round included nine birdies and gave him a 54-hole total of 202.

January dropped into a second place tie with South African Gary Player, both with 205. January faltered to a two-over-par 72, while Player came in with a 70.

Once Over Lightly

Lions Should Have Stayed Lost!

The Rams draw the Detroit Lions as their opponent in Saturday night's NFL opener at the Coliseum—the club hit hardest by penalties levied by commissioner Pete Rozelle in last winter's gambling scandal that rocked pro football.

Alex Karras, one of the all-time great defensive tackles and a virtual one-man gang, was suspended indefinitely, the club fined $4,000 for coach George Wilson allowing unauthorized persons to sit on the Lion bench during games and also not acting on Detroit Police Department information that some players were associating with "known hoodlums," while five other players were fined $2,000 for betting on last year's championship playoff game between the Green Bay Packers and New York Giants.

ALEX KARRAS
Costly Wagers

The five players were team captain Joe Schmidt, Wayne Walker, Gary Lowe, Sam Williams and John Gordy.

If Karras and the other five had remained "lost" in Miami for another five minutes or so last December 30, the bets would never have been made that led to the stiff fines against all except Karras.

Karras, of course, was suspended for making other wagers—"six significant bets since 1958," according to the commissioner's office—as well as associating with "questionable characters."

The investigation showed that the bets made on the playoff game was "basically a group action" which was abnormal for each player except Karras. No other instance was found of the five players betting on any other games.

THE LIONS WERE IN MIAMI last Dec. 30—day of the playoff game—preparing for the following week-end's Runnerup Bowl game with the Pittsburgh Steelers in the Orange Bowl.

The six Lions players had been invited to the home of a friend of Karras to watch the playoff in New York on television.

However, while driving to the friend's house, they became lost. Kickoff time was approaching and finally one of the players reportedly said, "We're not going to make it in time. Why don't we stop at that bar up ahead and watch it from there."

They parked the car and went in just as the pregame show was going on. "You've got the phone number," one of the players said to Karras. "We ought to call and tell 'em we got lost and we'll see them later."

THE CALL WAS MADE. "YOU'RE just around the corner," said the host, later identified as an Archie Stone, when he learned where they were.

He gave them final directions and within five minutes they were at the house, where Stone also was hosting several other people at a TV party.

They arrived just in time to be included in the festive bet that eventually led to their fines.

KARRAS bet $100 on the Packers, and the other five each wagered $50 on the Packers, who won the game.

The investigation into the gambling probably would never have probed that deep to discover these wagers if Karras hadn't gone on television following the Pro Bowl game in Los Angeles in mid-January and admitted making "friendly bets" on games.

SCHMIDT, HIS ROOMMATE, also was invited to appear on the TV show for comment on the NFL's investigation into gambling. He not only refused, but pleaded with Alex not to appear.

Karras, of course, likely would have been "nailed" anyway. The six "significant" wagers which Karras was reported to have made since '58 were placed for him by his business associate—presumably Jimmy Butsicaris—and by a "Florida resident" to whom he was introduced by the same business associate, according to the commissioner's office.

Now that the case has dropped from the headlines, what do the players who were fined think about the situation?

In answer to cries from some sources that they were made scapegoats, they admit publicly that although the fines were rather stiff for the offense, the commissioner's office was justified in the fines.

"We were guilty of misjudgment—nothing else," Walker says.

ACTUALLY, MOST OF THEM ARE STILL more concerned about the suspension of Karras than the $2,000 fines levied against them.

"It's a mortal sin, really, that they suspended Alex," says Lowe. "He's a really great player. I've never seen him play a bad game. He's given out 100 per cent all the time. I think all of us feel more hurt for him than for ourselves.

"I think the commissioner covered everything with regard to the rest of us. We were liable for making that one bet, although we didn't realize it at the time. But we were cleared of making any other wagers, selling information for betting purposes or ever performing less than our best in a game."

Gordy added that "we were definitely stunned by the penalties, but we all think that it helped the game more than hurt it. I think it probably is a greater testimony to the integrity of the game than anything else."

And Williams explained, "It was just one of those things that happen accidentally. It all started when we were at the hotel that morning and the conversation got around to the Packers and Giants. The first thing you know, we were making a couple of friendly bets. Later when we had the opportunity, we made those $50 wagers not thinking that anything was wrong because we weren't betting on a game in which we were playing!"

TROPHY FOR WINNER

Dennis Noren, who won Long Beach City Junior Golf Championship Saturday is presented winner's trophy from Recreation Park pro and starter Gene Combs.

WINNER ON 19TH

Crown Noren New Jr. Golf Champ

Dennis Noren is the new Long Beach Junior golf champion.

Noren defeated Dick Mortensen on the 19th hole at Recreation Park Saturday in the fourth and final round for the title.

On the deciding hole Noren almost holed out his second shot for an eagle when he pitched over a trap and left the ball a scant inch from the cup. He then tapped in the clinch putt for his birdie.

Both Noren and Mortenson were three-putting a lot, obviously over-played after the long grind of steady golf.

Kathy Builds Lead in Golf

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, keeping up a pace as torrid as the 93-degree weather, widened her lead Saturday in the second round of the Spokane Women's Open Golf Tournament.

She kept things on a par Saturday—getting a 70 to go with her first round 67 Friday for a 137.

The Jal, N. M., swinger had two circuit competitors close behind however at 141.

Mickey Wright, Dallas, Tex., and Marilyn Smith were still in position to move in the 54-hole, $9,000 tourney.

Miss Wright, two-time event titlist, carded a 72 Saturday. She had a 69 on the first round.

Miss Smith was steady with a 70 and 71.

Velasquez Heads Bullfight Card

TIJUANA, Mex.—Matador Antonio Velasquez—The Iron Horse of bullfighting, makes his first appearance of the season at El Toreo de Tijuana arena today, sharing honors with Luis Procuna and Benjamin Lopez Esqueda, two other Mexican veterans.

Born in Guanajuato of pure Indian extraction, Velazquez, now 43, has been a tough battling professional matador for 20 years and he is still in great demand. In four appearances at El Toreo last year he was awarded three ears.

Stearns in Vichy Lead

VICHY, France (AP) — Jeannette Brown of Tampa, Fla., won the women's world water ski championship Saturday on combined points from the slalom, tricks figures and jump events.

Renate Hansluwka of Austria was second. Alicia Baumann of Switzerland placed third.

For the third consecutive day, the meet was interrupted because of bad weather. The men's jumping contest will be finished today.

When the judges called a halt, Chuck Stearns of Bellflower, Calif., was leading with a best jump of 39.10 meters (128 ft., 3⅜ in.).

BEARCAT SLATED FOR 6-MAN BOUT

Bearcat Wright's first appearance in Long Beach since he climbed to the top of the wrestling ladder by dethroning Freddie Blassie—that's the wrestling attraction this week at Municipal Auditorium.

Wright will be involved in a six-man tag team match that tops Tuesday night's card. Fritz Von Goering heads the other team.

No Big 3, No Loot— Just Golf

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Yes, Virginia, they are holding a national golf tournament here this coming week and Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player aren't in it.

And, horrors, there won't be a fat, jolly man with a $50,000 check so that the winner can pay off the mortgage on Santa Claus' reindeers.

Instead, the champion gets a piece of polished hardware which he can keep a year, or just about long enough to have his name engraved on it.

* * * *

LABRON HARRIS, the bespectacled mathematics student from Oklahoma State, is the defending champion here. The 1963 king will be determined on Saturday after a full week of torrid play over the 6,989 wooded yards of the baby mountain range that is the Wakonda Club course. Par is 36-36—72.

The amateur is decided entirely at match play with the field cut from 1,794 entrants to 200 qualifying tests last month. Single 18-hole rounds will be played Monday and Tuesday with double rounds at the same distance Wednesday and Thursday.

Friday's semifinals and Saturday's final will be over the 36-hole routes.

It is because of Wakonda's steep and narrow fairways that experts predict a young player will step forward when they crown the 1963 champion.

Three-Way Tie in Virginia Tourney

Jim Craig Jr., Bob Sellery, and Tom Smith all tied for low net honors Saturday in the weekly sweepstakes at Virginia Country Club.

Low net—Jim Craig Jr. 72-5—67, Bob Sellery 77-10—67, Tom Smith 80-13—67, John Connolly 76-8—68, John Halbert 83-15—68, Lloyd Hallsmore 76-8—68.

Blind Bogey—Roy Spawr, Fred Yeager, Del Walker, Howell Walker, Al Stevenson, Hal Haney, Eldred Norrhup, Buford Smith, Burt Gallaher, Tom Murphy.

Hole-in-one—Bill Cook on 158-yd. 10th hole with a 5-iron playing with Mrs. Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Sol Deeble.

Boating Safety Classes to Start

With the beginning of the school season, it's time not only for the youngsters to get back to their books, but it's also time for people of all ages to give a thought to boating safety education. The Long Beach Power Squadron is hoping for a record registration in all its free classes.

The classes will run for a period of 12 weeks. In that time the students will be taught the basic problems of navigation, rules of the road, conditions affecting handling of boats under power and under sail, anchoring and mooring and general seamanship.

Three classes in this area are beginning on Monday, Sept. 16: Wilson High School cafeteria, 10th Street and Ximeno Avenue, Long Beach; Roosevelt Elementary cafeteria, 10835 Mallison, Lynwood, and Hamilton Junior High School cafeteria, 72nd Street and Orange Avenue, North Long Beach.

The other class begins registration on Thursday, Sept. 19, at Millikan High School cafeteria, 2800 Snowden Avenue. All classes start at 7:30 p.m. and last for two hours.

Never was boating safety more needed than it is right now. There have been far too many crackups of boats in Long Beach's front yard, mostly because of lack of navigational knowledge and common sense.

If you have just bought a boat or if you are considering it, by all means enroll in the school nearest your home.

THE HUNTING PICTURE: Si Nathenson, DFG public information officer at Los Angeles, says that the thunderstorm and rain scattered doves in Los Angeles County, but that hunting for both mourning and whitewings is at a normal pace along the Colorado River and in Imperial Valley.

Barbara O'Donnell, our ace correspondent in Kernville, sends word that the dove opener was terrific in Kelso Valley and at some places around Isabella Lake. In fact, says Barbara, it was hard to tell who was having the better luck—hunters or fishermen. Some of the open country around Kernville and Isabella Lake is producing many cottontail rabbits, in addition to doves.

Isabella Lake is one of the best lakes at this writing for crappie and bluegill. Some catfish are being caught in the South Fork and bass are hitting surface lures in the late evening.

The U.S. Forest Service pulled a fast surprise last week following the unexpected rain. It opened those closed sections of Los Padres National Forest for four days, Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, to deer hunting. They had been closed because of the fire hazard.

However, the tight ban goes back on Tuesday morning and stays there until we get more rain. That isn't likely for a while.

LONG BEACH SPORTSMAN'S CLUB, 3623 Santa Fe Ave., is planning a benefit fish dinner for the Ocean Fish Protective Association on Monday, Sept. 16, with the tickets going for three dollars each.

This probably is one of the most worthy benefits of the year because the proceeds will go to the OFPA, which has done so much to protect the rights of ocean sportsfishermen. It is well to remember that Robert Vile, OFPA president, led the successful fight against Sen. Fred Farr's anchovy grab.

Tickets are available at the door, but Paul Lowder would prefer that reservations be made. Call Lowder at TE 4-7977, or Clay D. Morrow, general chairman of the dinner, at HE 7-6750.

Bud Thomas, night club entertainer from the Roarin' 20s in Los Angeles, will present a program. Also, there will be a fishing film.

Other coming events: Redondo Beach Rod and Gun Club's fifth annual fish fry, 5:30 to 8 p.m. Sept. 27, in the Redondo Beach Community Hall Recreation Center. Reservations may be made by calling FR 2-0137.

Southern California Marine Association kicks off the fall boating season with a general membership meeting in Charterhouse Restaurant in Anaheim Saturday, Sept. 14. Buddy Ebsen, one of television's busiest actors and star of the "Beverly Hillbillies," will headline the entertainment.

SHORT BUT SNAPPY: The two-day sage grouse season in Inyo and Mono counties yielded a large number of birds, all in good condition and dressing out up to five pounds.

Glen Cantin, 12, of Gardena, fishing at Bridgeport Lake, caught a 5¼-pound rainbow on a plain gold No. 12 hook that didn't even have any bait on it. Dumb trout, huh?

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ray Eakin, daughter Dianne and son Davis, of Long Beach, took 27 trout in the same lake. Largest fish weighed 3½ pounds. Jim Bonser, 13, of Downey, also got a 3½-pounder.

Bob Davidson, who operates Long Beach-Dominguez Gun Club, says there will be an Indian summer trapshoot Sept. 14 and 15. Saturday events start at 10 a.m., Sunday's at 9:30 a.m.

We hear that Gleny Overmyer, Lakewood, one of the West's outstanding trapshooters, will be trying for that automobile in the Las Vegas Thunderbird Hotel's first annual fall ATA trapshooting tournament Sept. 12-15.

The Thunderbird is planning another shoot Dec. 5-8, with an automobile and $30,000 cash up for prizes.

Albacore news: Call Pierpoint or Pacific Landings; the operators are keeping close tab on the dock counts and what the boats are doing. The picture changes almost from hour to hour—so fast that I can't keep up with it and meet a deadline hours in advance of Sunday publication.

Honors Split at Del Mar

By ERNIE MASON

DEL MAR—Honors in the eleventh running of the Escondido Handicap were split evenly here Saturday between Triad Stable's Braganza, clever winner of the first division, and Richlew Stable's Moon Mad, photogenic victor in the second half in one of the tightest finishes of the summer meeting. A crowd of 15,394 attended.

Braganza, a solid second choice in the wagering, was confidently ridden by Miguel Yanez to score by two and one-half lengths over the favored Mary Mel, with Balsarroch Boy third, another half length away.

The New Zealand-bred gelding, close up throughout, came around the pacesetters at the turn and moved dominantly to the wire in 1:51 2/5 for the mile and a furlong in capturing the first split of the Escondido. He covered the distance under 114 pounds and paid $8.40 straight.

COLUMNS RIGHT took fourth money in this heat, followed by A-Okay, Natural Flow, Needles Jet, Ballpoint and Interlocutor.

Moon Mad's division was much more exciting. Angel Valenzuela set all the pace with his colt, relinquished it momentarily at the head of the stretch to Milla's Truk, then went to the lead again to hold sway over the fast-closing Odd Fellow and Victory Beauty. The latter, high weight at 122 and the odds-on choice, ran afoul of bad racing luck just as he began his move.

CHICAGO (AP)—Mary V. Fisher's Golden Ruler, the 2-1 favorite, stood off a stirring stretch challenge by Chieftain and Dunfee to capture the world's richest race—the $352,500 Arlington-Washington Futurity—at Arlington Park Saturday.

Golden Ruler, ridden by Herberto Hinojosa, was well paced throughout the seven-furlong test of 2-year-olds and shook off Dunfee midway in the stretch and then won by three-quarters of a length over the fast-finishing Chieftain.

In scoring his fourth consecutive triumph, the unbeaten Golden Ruler took the top money of $112,500, after earning only $6,875 in his previous non-stakes starts.

Dunfee, a 21-1 choice in the crowd of 30,664, placed third, a head behind the onrushing Chieftain.

Golden Ruler was clocked at 1:24 4/5 for the seven furlongs, the first time this year two-year-olds have been asked to go that distance.

Carry Back Home Free by 6

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Katherine Price's Carry Back earned a chance to start in the $125,000 Invitational Handcap here ths week when he rambled home a six-length winner in the 1 1/16-mile race over the Atlantic City grass course Saturday.

The little 1961 Kentucky Derby winner, who was counted out at Chicago two weeks ago when he apparently bruised an ankle, got a tremendous ovation from the Atlantic City crowd of 24,049 when he finished far ahead of Montepelier Farm's Prince O'Pilsen in the co feature race of the day.

Prince O'Pilsen had won the Ventnor Turf handicap here Aug. 10. Grand Pep Stable's Fat Cat was third, three lengths behind Prince O'Pilsen, with Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage fourth in the field of seven.

Jack Price, Carry Back's trainer, said the 5-year-old colt who had retired to the stud last fall but was returned to racing this summer, was a definite starter in the U.N. Saturday on the grass course where he will meet many stars of the turf.

Carry Back, the favorite, paid $5.60, $3.80 and $3, and was ridden by Howard Grant.

The fourth-ranking money winner of all time passed Admiral's Voyage, top-weighted with 123 pounds, at the one-half mile pole and drew out with apparent ease. Carry Back had 116 pounds and was timed in 1:42⅗, just two fifths off the track record set by Li'l Feua Aug. 15, 1959.

The fans had an anxious moment in the post parade when Carry Back unseated Grant, and then went to the post without a warmup.

4 TD Passes by Otterson

The aerial combination of Jerry Otterson to Willie Martin clicked again, this time for touchdown strikes of 60 and 75 yards, as Long Beach State wound up its first week of practice with an hour-long scrimmage Saturday.

It marked the second scrimmage that Otterson moved the club with regularity.

In addition to his passes to Martin, he threw scoring passes to tight end Don Montgomery for 60 yards and to Larry Miller for 15 yards.

The former Cerritos JC all-American completed 10 of 15 passes.

Dee Andrews set up the first score with 45-yard scamper to the two. Fullback Dick Degen punched it over.

* * * *

AMID THE fine showing of the offense, the 49ers' first defensive unit drew praise from the coaches, allowing only 23 yards in 15 minutes while intercepting three passes.

"We had good team tackling and pursuit throughout," said assistant coach Stu Farber. Individual praise went to linebacker Rudy Duarte, tackle Jerry Pearlman and defensive back Chuck Anderson.

Head coach Don Reed said, "I was pleased that we were able to move the ball consistently after only five days. We are well ahead of last year."

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — The Professional Golfers' Association Saturday added a tournament at Fresno, Calif., Oct. 24-27 to its brief fall tour.

Parnelli Spins Out, Beaten by Vet Cantrell

Anaheim veteran Billy Cantrell upset a field of Indianapolis veterans Saturday night to win the 50-lap USAC midget car main event at Ascot Park in Gardena before a crowd of 6,940.

Cantrell, 49, made his fifth main event victory of the season his most impressive.

In taking the win, Cantrell beat out '500' record holder Parnelli Jones of Torrance. Cantrell started the main event on the pole and though Jones was in the 16th position, Parnelli came on strong to catch Cantrell on the 38th lap.

However, Parnelli spun out on the 44th lap and was unable to regain the lead. Cantrell went on to win by 100 feet.

Cantrell's winning time was 25 minutes, 29.61 seconds.

50-lap main event—Billy Cantrell, Parnelli Jones, Allen Heath, Don Horvath, Bob Hogle, 25:29.61.

15-lap semi-main—Jack Bruner, Lowell Sachs, Bob Unser, Gary Hill, 9:44.47.

3-lap trophy dash—Horvath, Colby Scroggins, Don Leaver, Jones, 59.38.

Sears Tires Break Cross Country Records

Coast to coast, and border to border—a record breaking 9,000 miles of grueling road travel over a 12-day period has clearly demonstrated the superior wear and performance features of Sears Allstate tires.

In the USAC sanctioned test, completed September 3rd, a set of Allstate tires, mounted on a Studebaker Avanti, was driven from Los Angeles to New York, back to San Diego, and from Tijuana to Vancouver and return with a tread wear of only 20%. Bill Carroll, automotive engineer and writer, captained the run with Paula Murphy and Barbara Nieland, top west coast sports car racing drivers, completing the endurance trio.

The growing importance of automobile tires in the field of automotive safety has prompted Sears to go more deeply into the field of product analysis and testing. The first in a new series of consumer-use tests.

SHUNS NUDE POSES

Stella Stevens, whose fast-blossoming Hollywood career is leading her into major movie roles, says she'll never again pose for nude pictures, such as the one featuring her in a girlie magazine several years ago. She's even stopped posing for cheesecake pictures like this one.

Vet Potluck Supper

The Veterans of World War I, Barracks 154, and auxiliary will hold a potluck supper at 6 p.m. Tuesday in the Veterans Memorial Building, Cedar Avenue and Broadway.

EVEN ACTORS'

There's Always Something to Deflate Egos

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Every now and then some little thing happens that keeps an actor from getting too big an ego.

Charlton Heston says: "Even if you win the Oscar for your performance, there is always someone who thought you stunk." Bob Mitchum's comment: "My pictures always do great in theaters where they give away free dishes."

And just the other night, two boys stopped at Tony Curtis' house. Obviously autograph seekers, one asked Curtis if he lived there.

Tony answered yes and the boys walked away dejectedly. One of them muttered:

"I told you none of the Three Stooges lived there."

GANGSTER STUFF

Sinatra, Crosby Look at the '20s

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gene Kelly, who ranks with Fred Astaire as the greatest of the screen's dancers, is a producer now—with singers as stars.

Kelly is producer of "Robin and the 7 hoods" starring Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby and Dean Martin.

Sinatra and Corsby, of course, are the two most popular crooners of their era. Martin learned to sing when Crosby had his tonsils removed.

The movie is a musical satire on the Robin Hood legend played against the gangster era of the '20s.

Kelly, as a producer, has problems he never faced as a dancer and actor.

THE MOVIE is a Sinatra production in partnership with Warner Bros. This means that shooting may start by noon. It may not. Frank works Sinatra hours. Some producers have fled with bleeding ulcers under such conditions. Not Kelly.

"I told Frank I don't care if he only works an hour a day. It's his money. And a guy has the right to do what he wants with his own dough," Kelly said.

But Gene knows that Sinatra's unorthodox working habits usually end up in a movie that is finished under budget and under schedule.

Sinatra doesn't care how long it takes the crew to light a set or fix the sound. When he's called on to act, he usually does the scene in one take—often without rehearsal.

"I dig spontaneity," Sinatra says.

KELLY SAYS Sinatra's working habits are the least of his problems.

"These guys actually all work too hard. Frank and Dean have night club engagements in the middle of shooting. Bing is doing a TV special and even I am going to do a Judy Garland show and a Danny Kaye TV show.

"We have to work around all these things during the picture.

"I think it will be a rather interesting few months," adds Kelly in a classic understatement.

Even Bob Hope has a comment.

"How about Sinatra giving Crosby a job? That's like Joseph P. Kennedy asking J. Paul Getty to cut the grass."

ICE FOLLIES COMICS

Pantomime veterans, Bill Wall and Dick Dova, again star with Shipstads & Johnson "Ice Follies of 1964," which will be presented Sept. 17-22 in the Long Beach Arena. The two comics will be seen in the all-new edition of "The Show of Champions" as the professor and the pupil.

Famous Poets Couldn't Write Lyrics, He Says

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Leonard Adelson, a musical comedy lyric writer, says he is no poet—and argues that even Henry Wadsworth Longfellow couldn't write lyrics if they made a modern musical version of "Hiawatha."

"Poets," says Adelson, "always have been a bunch of frustrated writers. They can only write on their own terms. And a lyricist can't.

"Edgar Allen Poe couldn't have written the lyrics for 'The Raven' and Oscar Hammerstein couldn't have written the original story."

Lou Nova Gets Fake Cauliflower Ear for Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One-time heavyweight contender Lou Nova is an actor.

In "What A Way To Go," Nova, who once fought Joe Louis for the title, plays a pug-ugly manager of a night club frequented by the fight crowd. "They called me in a day early," beams Lou, "looked me over very carefully, then sent me to makeup to get fitted for an artificial cauliflower ear."

From Freeway to Freeway, It'll Be Like This East of L.B.

THE GARDEN GROVE AND SAN DIEGO FREEWAYS will merge into one for a few miles in West Orange County, just east of Long Beach; but at Bolsa Chica Road they will separate again. The San Diego Freeway will angle off to the southeast through Westminster until it reaches the Santa Ana Freeway above Laguna Beach and continues southward as the San Diego Freeway. Above (at left) is shown how Los Alamitos Boulevard will cross the freeways. It goes northward past Rossmoor; and to the south it enters Seal Beach. In above map, there is a gap of several miles of straightaway freeway; then at right is shown intersection plans where freeways separate at Bolsa Chica Road. Eventually, interchange will connect to Valley View, a street to be extended from the north.

THREE FREEWAYS WILL COME TOGETHER at this interchange just east of Long Beach; and this map indicates how motorists will get from one place to another. Work is under way on San Diego and Garden Grove Freeway segments and funds for the San Gabriel River Freeway segment are in the 1963-64 state budget. The interchange probably will not be fully completed until in 1966. Where the San Diego and Garden Grove Freeways overlap from this interchange east to Bolsa Chica Road, the freeway will be 10 lanes wide. This will be one of the few freeway segments that wide in Southern California. From this interchange westward to Los Cerritos Channel, present four-lane route is to be improved into a six-lane freeway in about five years. Routing farther west and through Long Beach still is indefinite, with location in dispute. (Maps and information courtesy of State Division of Highways and A. J. Napier of Long Beach city engineer's office.)

L.A. County Building Sets August Record

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Volume of construction last month in areas served by Los Angeles County's Building and Safety Division totaled $48,901,058, the largest figure ever recorded in Los Angeles County for August.

It also marked the fifth month this year in which new housing exceeded 2,000 units, according to County Engineer John A. Lambie.

The August total was a sharp drop, however, from the $62,414,944 volume recorded in July, the highest month on record in county history.

* * * *

CONSTRUCTION volume for 1963 through August was $368,846,146, as compared to $283,128,668 for the comparable period in 1962.

At the present rate, Lambie said, building volume in the 29 cities and the unincorporated area served by the Building and Safety Division should exceed a half billion dollars by the end of the year.

The $5.5-million Scottsdale Town House, condominum apartments at Avalon and Sepulveda boulevards, plus a large volume of one and two-family dwellings easily pushed the Lomita District well ahead of all others in August building volume.

During the month, the Lomita office issued 332 building permits with a total value of $9,423,740. They included 696 new housing units.

* * * *

TOTAL VALUE for the unincorporated area was $35,560,599. Volume for cities in this area was as follows:

ARTESIA—25 permits for $48,500.

AVALON — 3 permits for $27,900.

BELLFLOWER — 96 permits for $830,760, including 12 single-family dwellings

Matson Line Extending Its 'Container Freight' Service to Northwest

Matson Navigation Co. will extend its California-Hawaii container freight service to the Pacific Northwest ports of Seattle and Portland, Stanley Powell Jr., Matson president, has announced.

This means the movement of containerized freight between these ports and all of Hawaii major islands.

Powell said the Northwest container service could be integrated into the company's existing $27 million California-Hawaii system by early next year.

* * * *

MATSON'S Los Angeles-San Francisco-Honolulu container service is expected to be expanded in November to the neighbor islands of Maui, Kauai and Hawaii, and the Northwest container service will tie into this integrated system.

Cost of the Northwest container service will be $2.5 million, of which $1.5 million will be spent for 525 dry and 60 refrigerated steel-framed, aluminum-sided containers, each of which is 8½ feet high, 8 feet wide, and 24 feet long. Another $1 million will be spent for specialized container handling equipment and maintenance facilities at both Northwest ports.

* * * *

EXTENSION of Matson's container service to the Pacific Northwest will mean substantially improved service in both quality and frequency of voyages between the area and Hawaii, Powell said.

At present, Matson's Hawaiian Planter and Hawaiian Craftsman, both C-3 type freighters, serve Hawaii with fortnightly sailings from the Pacific Northwest. With the integrated Pacific Coast-Hawaii container service, the Northwest will see a Matson ship sailing for Hawaii approximately every six days.

DURING REALTOR CONVENTION

Nixon Will Help Honor 'Industrialist of Year'

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will preside at a meeting of the heads of 12 leading business and professional organizations at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York on Sept. 19 to select the 1963 recipient of the Industrialist of the Year award, presented annually by the Society of Industrial Realtors.

The award board headed by Nixon will choose the 1963 winner from more than a score of outstanding industrial executives who have been nominated by members of the society, a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

* * * *

THE SOCIETY'S 904 members throughout North America specialize in industrial real estate.

The award trophy, a green bronze statuette, will be presented by Nixon at the society's award banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York on Nov. 11, during the annual conventions of SIR and NAREB.

This is the 15th consecutive year the society will present the award to the industrialist "who has made a most significant contribution to the industrial development of North America in the public interest."

* * * *

IN ADDITION to Nixon and the heads of 11 other business and professional organizations in the United States and Canada, H. R. (Bob) Hudsen, Los Angeles, president of the society, and Howell H. Watson, Dallas, chairman for arrangements for this year's award, will serve on the board.

Previous winners of the award include Alfred P. Sloan Jr., of General Motors Corp.; Benjamin F. Fairless of the United States Steel Corp.; Thomas J. Watson of International Business Machines Corp.; William Allen of Boeing Airplane Co.; Thomas B. McCabe of Scott Paper Co.; Stanley C. Allyn of the National Cash Register Co.; and William A. Patterson of United Air Lines.

Blonde Ex-Economy Run Driver Now Boss of Big Redondo Beach Project

By DON KIRKLAND

REDONDO BEACH—Mary Davis, a blonde dynamo of enterprise and energy, doesn't bat an eyelash when she reveals her age.

"I'm 35," she smiles, "but nobody believes me. They say I'm too successful."

That she is.

As vice president and general manager of the multi-million-dollar Portofino Corp., Miss Davis sits smack in the middle of a score of big business headaches.

* * * *

IN HER OFFICE, which looks splendidly across a boat-filled corner of Redondo Beach King Harbor, Miss Davis coordinates the complexities of building a $2.8 million oceanfront hotel, scheduled to become the Portofino Inn upon completion late this year.

She and onetime partner Pierce Venable spearheaded construction of the harbor itself two years ago, and since have seen the facility become one of the nation's most promising young small boat harbors.

"I guess it was just by accident," says Miss Davis of the project, "but now it's fulfilled one of my life's dreams."

SHE BECAME INTERESTED in the harbor during

$3 MILLION PROJECT
First major shopping center for the San Juan Capistrano-San Clemente-Dana Point area will be the $3 million Capistrano Valley Shopping Center at Capistrano Beach. General contractor for the project is Ernest W. Hahn, Inc.

IN SPANISH TRADITION

Capistrano Shopping Center Will Follow Mission Theme

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO—A $3 million shopping center, designed to carry out the Spanish theme of this mission community, will be built here at Doheny Park Highway and Victoria Avenue.

Named the "Capistrano Valley Shopping Center," the 82,000-square-foot commercial area will feature a Von's supermarket, Thrifty drug and Gilbert's Variety store plus miscellaneous satellite shops, a bank and a service station to be announced later.

The Capistrano area's first major shopping center will be built by Ernest W. Hahn, Inc., general contractors, of Hawthorne. It is scheduled for completion early in 1964.

* * * *

DEVELOPERS of the project include Lester R. Giegerich and Jerry Moss, both of the Los Angeles area, and John I. Gilbert & Co. of Laguna Beach. Leasing is being coordinated by Jerry Moss and Company with Gilbert as co-broker.

Design details by Ainsworth, Angel, McClellan, A.I.A., architects, of Pasadena, call for contemporary buildings with a strong Spanish influence.

An arcade running the length of the center will feature exposed weathered wood roof beams supporting a Spanish tile roof similar to the traditional Capistrano architecture.

The seven and one-half acre center will have parking facilities for more than 400 cars.

conversations with Venable, a co-driver with Miss Davis in 1958 when she was the first woman ever to win the Mobilgas Economy Run.

Venable, who since has died, proposed that he and Miss Davis bid on fuel docks at the projected harbor; but both finally decided they would try for the entire portion which now is Portofino.

* * * *

WITH A SUCCESSFUL BID, the pair mapped plans for a luxury harbor, patterned much after Italy's famed Portofino, which Miss Davis once visited.

"I fell in love with Portofino," she says, "and recreating it here became my dream."

Starting her work day at 9:30 a.m., Miss Davis handles her multi-faceted job with the ease of a veteran executive. She works six days a week, often until midnight, usually until 9.

A telephone call confirms meetings the next day with half a dozen contractors who will mold the Portofino Inn, and a pile of messages from two secretaries are mute evidence that Miss Davis won't have "banker's hours" tomorrow.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH she temporarily has abandoned auto racing (Miss Davis entered the Mobilgas run five successive times), she dabbles in boat racing on an occasional spare weekend.

She entered the annual Redondo Beach Neptune Days boating competition, but lost a spark plug midway through the contest and only placed second.

How much money does Miss Davis have?

"Everybody thinks I'm rich," she says. "I'm not. I guess I'm just trying to prove that we 'dumb blondes' can be good businesswomen, too."

American Motors Dealers Meet in Long Beach Monday

Some 1,250 Rambler dealership personnel will attend American Motors' annual dealer business conference in Long Beach Monday.

The dealers will be from the Western region embracing nine states, with the Los Angeles zone serving as host under the direction of E. F. Milbourn, zone manager.

The conference will be held at the Long Beach Auditorium and new Arena and will be followed by a luncheon there, at which Roy Abernethy, president of American Motors Corp., will discuss the company's present and future plans.

The dealers also will hear from Richard E. Cross, board chairman. Headquarters will be the Breakers International Hotel.

Thomas A. Coupe, automotive sales vice president, will conduct the conference.

'Do-It-Yourself' Home Selling Efforts Seen as Poor Policy

GARDEN GROVE—"People sometimes try to sell their own homes because they think they can make or save some money," Dick Casterline, president of the Garden Grove Board of Realtors, said recently.

"But," he added, "unfortunately, they seldom do. As a matter of fact, in many cases where they fail to list it initially with a Realtor, they not only lose money but the house remains unsold for months with all the consequent inconvenience and worry."

* * * *

CASTERLINE then cited as an example a certain home owner who tried to sell his own house. He put his price too high, failing to understand market conditions; wasted time and money; then eventually had to have a realtor make the sale.

"He ended up losing money," Casterline said, "because he tried the 'do-it-yourself' instead of the professional way to sell his house—through a realtor."

* * * *

THE GARDEN GROVE board's president summed it up this way:

"The realtor knows the market because he is a professional posted on the actual day-to-day sales in the area, the fluctuating demand, the changing supply of houses offered, the varying mortgage loan situation, the highway or shopping center plans for the region—all factors influencing the sale of houses.

"He is a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and of the hometown Board of Realtors and therefore subscribes to a code of ethics and has access to the utmost in education and the latest techniques, thus assuring superior service."

Goodrich Enlarging Long Beach Plant

A multi-million dollar expansion program is underway at B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company's Long Beach and Avon Lake, Ohio, plants, according to Harry B. Warner, president.

New buildings are being constructed and new equipment is being installed at both plants for the production of Geon polyvinyl chloride resins and compounds, and a new building is being built at the Avon Lake plant for the consolidation of Estane polyurethan production.

The work will be completed during the first quarter of 1964.

* * * *

THE PROGRAM is the seventh expansion at the Avon Lake plant since it was completed in 1951 and is the second in the three-year history of the Long Beach plant, the newest of B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company's seven production plants.

A. R. Webber is manager of the Long Beach plant at 2104 E. 223rd St. Both plants produce Geon polyvinyl chloride reigns and compounds, while Estane polyurethane materials are produced at Avon Lake only.

'Old Farm,' 'Del Cerro' Homes Featured by Holstein & Sons

OLD FARM HOME HAS ATTRACTIVE STAIRWAY

"Ruom to grow"—that's the feature at Del Cerro and Old Farm homes in two Orange County locations where developers George M. Holstein & Sons are offering the big, luxury homes with extra second-story "bonus room" for play area, recreation room, or as an extra two bedrooms and third bath.

The Del Cerro homes are situated on Red Hill Avenue in Tustin, while the Old Farm site is near Huntington Beach State Beach in the new city of Fountain Valley near Brookhurst Street and Warner Avenue.

Designed by famed architect David Freedman, the Del Cerro and Old Farm homes offer the buyer up to 2,300 square feet of living area and are priced $28,000.

Along with the big "Bonus Room," the two locations give buyers built-in kitchens, decorator fireplaces and a score of custom features such as pantry, tiled bath floor, wallpaper, rich entries, front patio, and custom light fixtures and hardware.

Both developments are being pre-sold for occupancy late this year in an effort to give buyer selection of materials, colors and decorator details, now nearing the half-sold stage, buyers still may select from Hawaiian, Contemporary, or Traditional exterior and interiors.

Terms at both the Del Cerro and Old Farm homes are flexible to suit the buyer's needs, with carpet and landscaping included.

To reach the Old Farm from Long Beach take Seventh Street to Highway 39 and go south to Warner. Then take Warner to Cannery and right to the models. Del Cerro is easy to reach via the Santa Ana Freeway (take the on-ramp off 17th Street in Santa Ana) then go off at Red Hill and drive north.

Proper Planning Key Factor at El Dorado Park Estates

TWO-STORY SPACIOUSNESS AT EL DORADO PARK ESTATES

"A planned community can only exist for the betterment of its residents when all the houseowner's needs are considered," contend officials of attractive El Dorado Park Estates, located within the City of Long Beach.

In developing El Dorado Park Estates, the builders studied the locale thoroughly and its multiple advantages before commencing construction, double-checking that the region offered everything necessary a planned community can provide.

Adjacent to many fine parks and recreational facilities, plus surrounded by a variety of shopping centers, and close to one of the finest educational systems in the state, the region they felt, was ideal for their artistically designed one-story, split-level, tri-level and two-story residences.

* * * *

RECREATION, they learned, always has been a major planning factor in Long Beach. A total of 93 parks comprise 2,305 acres, with an additional 516 acres planned.

Their planned community, El Dorado Park Estates, is next door to the planned El Dorado City Park.

Superior quality construction went into these de luxe residences. All homes feature genuine lath and plaster ceilings and walls, and the gleaming kitchen was designed for total ease of operation.

* * * *

UTILITIES in this prestige development are placed underground, an advantage usually enjoyed by homes in the very highest price brackets.

Several nearby freeways link this community to many important employment and business centers.

Priced from $24,950, excellent conventional financing is available.

A display of furnished models is open daily. Drive east on Spring Street across San Gabriel River to El Dorado Park Estates, east of Studebaker Road at Claremore.

The largest denomination bill of U. S. currency in use is the $10,000 bill, about 400 of which are circulating publicly.

Jack Krueger, Moore Realty general sales manager and former owner and teacher of the Real Estate School of Los Angeles; Robert Allen, Lakewood District manager; and Champ Crewse, Orange County District manager, will be the instructors.

Walker-Lee Department in New Site

Walker & Lee, Inc. is increasinng its service to investors with the opening of new, enlarged quarters for its income department, according to Frank R. Hart, executive vice president of the real estate firm.

Located at 853 Atlantic Ave., near downtown Long Beach, the new offices will be under the direction of Paul Rowland, manager of Walker & Lee's income department.

* * * *

THIS NEW department which was initiated in February of 1963 has already sold approximately $1½ million worth of residential income and investment properties.

Eye Enderle Gardens Models in Santa Ana

Hundreds of interested home buyers have visited Enderle Gardens, one of the first garden centers in Southern California, designed specifically for those who want high quality homes in garden and park surroundings without the maintenance problems usual with home ownership.

Enderle Gardens, a new concept brought to Orange County and Tustin by Nelson & Nelson, custom home builders, is a group of individually designed custom homes — each one completely different — set in a 20-acre park in Santa Ana, with common greens and beautifully landscaped surroundings. Each home is so located on the lots that every home has long views from the many picture windows in the homes.

* * * *

THE BUILDERS have made these homes different in that the heavy emphasis has been placed on large sized living rooms and master bedroom suites and on architecturally designed covered patios with screening, walls of stone and plantings.

"We have planned the elimination of extra bedrooms and unwanted family rooms," Ken Nelson stated in an interview, "for those adults and adults with older children — who still want the fine quality homes in the heart of Orange County — but do not want the care and maintance of a large custom home."

PICTURESQUE SETTING FOR ENDERLEE GARDENS HOMES

* * * *

THE ORIGINAL concept of Enderle Gardens is an outgrowth of the very $50,000 and up custom home that the Nelsons have built in the past for the larger families.

* * * *

ENDERLE GARDENS still is in the previewing stage on Yorba just south of 17th Street, because of the painters' strike. However, two complete models are furnished and over 16 of the eventual 62 homes are open to the public for selling and inspection.

Seven and one-half per cent of the total land area will be a community park complete with reflecting lagoon and splashing fountain with lights for the evening.

Each homeowner at Enderle Gardens will own his lot and home "in fee" and will be able to sell it as a separate home and lot.

Fences have been replaced by screening walls and plantings so that every homeowner may enjoy the beauty of common greens and the park.

To find Enderle Gardens drive through Santa Ana east on 17th Street to Yorba and turn south a few blocks to the entrance gates.

A 15-day expense-paid trip to Mexico for two is the "treasure" of a contest to be held for homeseekers in Orange County by Farrow Development Co., Jerry F. Farrow, secretary - treasurer of the firm, announced today.

The "Treasure Trip" contest, he said, will be open to all visitors to the firm's various Tiara Estates series home subdivisions.

The two winners will spend 15 days at a Mexico City hotel, and will travel to Acapulco, Taxco, Xochimilco, Cuernevaca and Vista de Hermosa. Transportation to Mexico will be by jet, Farrow said.

"ALL HOMESEEKERS have to do," Farrow explained, "is to guess the number of nuggets in the large treasure chest in our sales display room at Tiara Estates Treasure series homes at Euclid and Chapman in Garden Grove and jot the number down on a printed card supplied at the development. Then they must visit one of the other Tiara Estates communities on an adjoining map and guess the number of nuggets in another chest there; then deposit their card with their guesses of both chests at the visited Tiara Estates development. Closest guesses wins."

Farrow added that the contest will begin today.

Garden Park Estates Near Recreation Spots

DINING-KITCHEN AREA IN GARDEN PARK MODEL

Garden Park Estates, at Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Boulevard, is a lively, walled-in community located in the heart of Southern California's most exciting recreational area, the builders report.

These stunning family dwellings are minutes away from world-renowned Disneyland; the picturesque bay of Newport-Balboa; the romance and intrigue of Knott's Berry Farm and near to many spanking new marinas.

With Americans now becoming more involved in leisure-time activities and the pursuit of outdoor pleasure, the builders of Garden Park Estates stated they selected the scenic countryside of Orange County with that fact in mind—the nearby abundance of pleasurable facilities.

* * * *

NOT ONLY will the resident there find a myriad of fun-time opportunities available, but he will live in a home that reflects the earnest attention of skilled craftsmanship.

This pride in workmanship shows up in many ways in every single residence, either the one level model (with many floor plans) or the spacious two-story home.

Constructed of such superior materials as genuine lath and plaster; forced air heating with thermostat and summer cooling switch and the comfort control of rockwool insulated ceilings, the homes reflect the builder's desire to construct a residence that will not only be fun to live in, but is also highly durable. This, they felt, would save the homeowner many future costly repair bills.

* * * *

THERE IS A variety in size offered at Garden Park Estates. For the smaller family, there is the one-story residence in a choice of two bedrooms and den and three and four bedrooms with dining rooms and living rooms.

Larger families will prefer the handsome two-story elevations. These boast five big bedrooms, a large living room and dining room and an extra wood burning fireplace in the master bedroom.

On the list of the many superior features of a Garden Park residence is the fact that one of the finest educational systems in California exists in Orange County. No less than eight schools are within five minutes of the area.

Prices start at $18,800 with convenient financing available.

Furnished models are open daily.

$63.5 Million Invested in 2 Mortgages

Two mortgage investments totalling $63.5 million have been made by New York Life Insurance Company on two of New York City's newest landmarks in the largest mortgage transactions in the company's 118-year history, Richard K. Paynter, Jr., board chairman, announced last week.

The New York Hilton at Rockefeller Center, the city's newest large hotel, was the subject of a $33 million mortgage loan made by New York Life as sole mortgagee. The loan represents an increase of $3 million over the original commitment of $30 million made to the hotel in 1960. The corporate owner of the hotel is Rock-Hil-Urls, Inc.

In another transaction, the Pan Am Building, the world's largest commercial office building, is security for a mortgage bond issue on which there was advanced $30.5 million by New York Life and $30.5 million by the New York State Employes Retirement System.

GI Loans Available on Prestige Homes

A limited number of GI loans are now available for purchasing the new Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach, according to Dan Mytinger, sales director for the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc.

These loans will be the first and the last available to the homebuying public on the first unit of Prestige Homes, Mytinger continued, and with the first unit 95 per cent sold out, those couples desiring to use a GI loan should avail themselves of the opportunity now.

The three, four and five-bedroom, one and two-story Prestige Homes, by the builders of Huntington Village, have enjoyed tremendous acceptance by the public.

* * * *

THE SECOND unit is now being constructed, the sales executive continued, and they hope to be able to begin the selling of the homes in the new unit very soon.

Built with the buyer in mind, Prestige Homes offer those "plus" features that appeal to the prospective home buyer: pantries in the kitchens of the two-story models, 14 foot long wardrobe closets in many models, built-in bureau-dressers in many of the master baths, a "boat-door" for the rear-yard storage of a boat or trailer, massive individually designed floor-to-ceiling fireplaces and many more.

The all-electric kitchens are by Westinghouse with built-in range, oven and dishwasher and color-coordinated wall-to-wall carpeting in entry, hall, living room and master bedrooms.

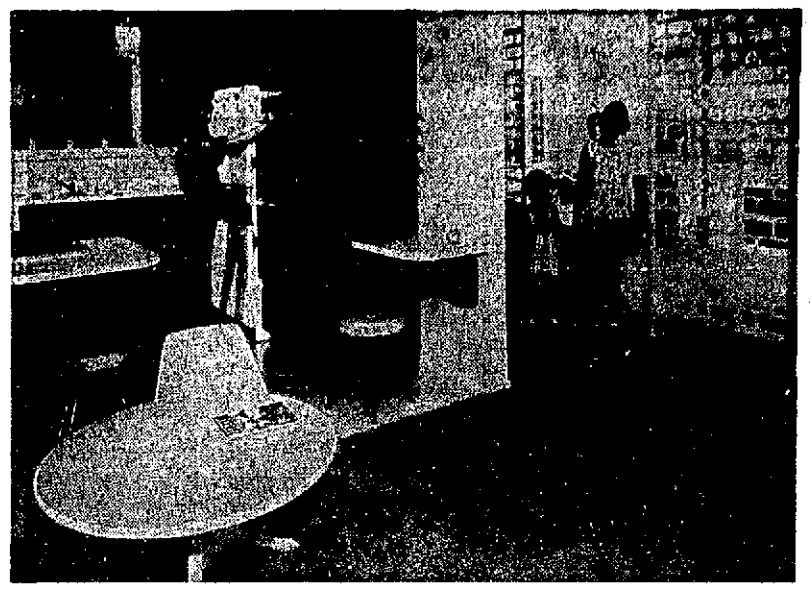

* * * *

PRESTIGE HOMES are located within a few minutes drive of the Southland's finest beaches and small boat harbors; 10 to 15 minutes away from several golf courses, both public and private; new grade schools and a sparkling new high school are closeby, as are many shopping centers.

Scheduled for completion in 1964 is the San Diego Freeway from Long Beach to the coastal area and a major new shopping center, with a Broadway Department Store as the principal, is scheduled to be constructed at the corner of Beach Bouvlard and Warner Avenue, less than a mile from Prestige Homes.

Of the 6470 apartments in the Seal Beach Senior Citizen Community, fewer than 600 remain. Almost 5,900 have been sold in a year and a half of selling, Brangham added.

This amounts to approximately $75 million in sales. At the present rate of sale, Rossmoor Leisure World will be completely sold out in the next few weeks.

* * * *

* * * *

THE THREE LARGE clubhouses, all featuring different types of activities are busy from morning until night. "In the clubhouses, we entertain an average 1,500 buyers a month for luncheon," Brangham reported.

The Leisure World golf course is almost ready for play.

Other facilities include a swimming pool, therapeutic pool, lawn bowling courts, roque courts, horseshoe pitching, billiards and numerous other activities. Leisure World also has its own 12½-acre multi-million dollar shopping center, thirteen organized churches, and its own intra-city transportation system.

* * * *

INCLUDED in the down payment of approximately $1,000 is $374 to $419 for a share of stock in Seal Beach Mutual No. 12 and 14. The purchase of this share of stock carries with it the right to occupy a one or two-bedroom apartment of the buyer's choice.

Just What Is An ARCHITECT?

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

"If you don't have a view, we'll create one!" says Richard O. Prior, American Institute of Architects member.

"Most home builders in Long Beach want contemporary architecture because it lends itself to our temperate climate and outdoor living. It offers the opportunity for the use of lots of glass and garden vistas.

WHAT is an architect?

One who designs and oversees the construction of buildings, according to Webster's.

According to the State of California, which issues the license, an architect is one who has a degree from an accredited school of architecture with a five year curriculum.

During these years, he has studied design, planning of buildings, drawing, history of art and architecture, structural, mechanical and electrical engineering; office practice, building codes and the legal aspects of contracts for the construction of buildings.

He must then spend an additional two or three years working as an apprentice in the office of a registered architect.

THEN he must pass a rigid examination set up by the State Board of Architectural Examiners.

Or, if he has not had formal college training, he must have spent an equivalent time as an apprentice and draftsman in the office of a registered architect preceding the state examination.

BUILDING A HOME is the largest single project that most families undertake in a lifetime. The selection of the right architect can make it a tremendously exciting and satisfying experience.

According to local architects, Long Beach is in a period of transition from single dwellings to high-rise apartments. Announcement this week of a multimillion dollar program for high rise apartment development on the Alamitos Bay Peninsula is typical of the trend.

The repeal of the 13 story restriction of building, which followed the 1933 earthquake, touched off possibilities of high-rise development similar to that of Miami Beach.

The City of Long Beach sets very high standards for this development with the new R-5 zoning. Local architects are very much for R-5, as it elim-

READY TO WELCOME visitors on the first annual home tour sponsored by the Long Beach District of the Southern California Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Women's Architectural League next Sunday are Mmes. Edwin Ripperdan, Richard Poper and Richard Prior.

DOORS OPEN ON BEAUTY . . .

Show Elegance in Living

Five outstanding homes in the Long Beach Harbor area will be open to visitors next Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. on the first annual home tour sponsored by the Long Beach District of the Southern California Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Women's Architectural League.

Proceeds from the tour will benefit a scholarship fund for promising students of architecture at the University of Southern California and other philanthropic purposes.

* * * *

INCLUDED IN THE residences on the tour is the Ridder home, 4601 Long Beach Blvd., designed by Hugh R. Davis, AIA, with a new wing designed by Heusel, Homolka and Associates, AIA.

The Ridder home was planned for large scale entertaining and combines a fluid floor plan and large entertaining areas with a cosmopolitan charm.

New and interesting home building materials have been used in the design of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mitchell, 5410 El Parque, designed by Jones and Poper, AIA. Every room in this house has a garden view.

The award winning home designed by Killingsworth, Brady and Smith, AIA, for Edward Frank is an example of architecture that transformed the problems of site into an asset. The Frank residence, 82 Rivo Alto Canal, achieves privacy on a very small lot, while taking advantage of the water view.

The problem of street and canal entrances has been solved in this home as an integral part of the design with interesting entries.

* * * *

ANOTHER INTERESTING HOME on the tour is the Signal Hill residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones and Miss Margaret McKinley at 2358 E. 21st St., designed by Richard O. Prior, AIA. The view from this hilltop home was the paramount consideration in the design.

The two story structure is turned on the lot and wrapped in floor to ceiling windows to give a really panoramic view. The living quarters are on the second floor.

The Rolling Hills home on the tour, the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Stein, 2 Crest Road West, designed by Williamson and Morris, AIA, has received national publicity stimulated by a unique design for an indoor swimming pool.

For further information and tickets for the tour telephone Mmes. Richard O. Prior, president of the Women's Architectural League, 6281 Marita Ave.; Donald H. Gibbs, 8652 Joyzelle St., Garden Grove; or Stanley V. Goldin, 6464 El Paseo St.

A Vacation—and a Thing to Daunt, Etc.

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

A FUNNY thing happened to us on our way to vacation. Funny, wonderful and the most remarkable timing this side of Cape Canaveral.

Two days before husband, Norman, and myself were due to leave for a tour of the Southwest an out-of-the-blue phone call came in from pleasant voiced Bob Edgecomb of Los Angeles. He asked how I was. "Fine" sez I, "but itching to get away on vacation." "Where?" sez he, so I tell him. "How would you like to drive a new Lincoln Continental on your jaunt?" he queried. Then it all clicked into focus. Once a year the Lincoln Mercury people asked about 10 women's editors of this area to use one of their gorgeous hunks of auto for a month's trial spin.

Can you imagine a vacation windfall of this magnitude? It's still the timing that flabbergasts me. It was delivered to our home just in time to pack it with travel paraphernalia and take off. New "owners" Norm and Iola are pictured with a very dear friend for a couple of thousand miles in the Great Southwest.

Here we are with a VERY dear traveling friend.

When we returned we turned over the car to Joyce Kent, assistant women's editor, to have her fling with it while we dawdled off to Catalina for 10 days bobbing at our mooring at the Isthmus.

Sunning and boat-hopping buddies during this period at various times over there were Shirley and Lee Caldwell, Ginger and "Mac" McCallum (the men did a good deal of air commuting while their wives stayed aboard), Gwen and Bill Dawkins, Rae and Stan Bean, Joan and Dr. Ed Beebe, Virginia and Norm Farquhar, Rus and Iris Hicks.

Add to dinghy dawdlers at the quiet island retreat Udell and Gareld Green, Hal and Pat Horrocks, Luke and Dolly Corzine, Wilma and Bill Moore (of San Pedro) and Hope and Bob Cunningham and the Horrocks' guests, Barbara and Marv Clark. Goodness only knows how many localites were frolicking at Avalon the while.

IF SOME things leave you undaunted, could you say others shake you up, daunt-like? Yes? In that case Nancy and Dr. Robert McAllister are deeply daunted.

Their brand new mountain retreat at Pine Cove (near Idylwild) burned to the ground after only five months ownership. Happened a couple of weeks ago and Nancy, it seems, arrived on the scene just as firemen were putting out the last embers. Totally demolished. Reason for the blaze still not known for sure.

Bound to bolster their flagging spirits, however, will be a trip Bob makes to attend an orthopedic convention in Seattle the week of Sept. 22 and Nancy will tag-along, too. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hipp will arrive from Aurora, Ill., the week before they leave to visit and stay on at the house to visit some more on their return.

Diann

Sharlene

BASED ON a long study of professional press releases from various airlines, am now convinced Long Beach must supply the major portion of the nation's new stewardii. Newest to join United's ranks are Diann Lee Stewart, daughter of the Jonathan A. Stewarts, 1965 Oregon Ave., Sharlene Sachiko Shiba, daughter of the Roy Shibas, 1942 California Ave., and Alberta Romeo, daughter of Amy Risi, Seal Beach.

Alberta

Diann, a Poly grad, attended State before flying off into a new career. Sharlene is also a Poly grad and serves from planes flying from Chicago. (Diann flies out of Seattle). Alberta, who attended U of Cal, also flies out of Chicago.

WONDERFUL (at least in part) week at Lake Gregory for Shirley and Doug Dalton with their three eldest (left the baby at home). Marvelous rest, they said. Especially in view of the fact that Doug Sr. and Jr. both spent part of the time battling a flu bug. Shirley, Julie and Jack stayed mile high healthy.

ALL LAST week was Albright-Strong week as parties flew for Sue Albright, fiancee of Steve Strong (son of Rod and Cal). They'll be married Oct. 5 in Lafayette, Calif.

Rod and Cal lead off with a tea to introduce Sue and her mother, Norma Albright of Danville, (which is right next door to Walnut Creek which is right next door to Lafayette). Fifteen gals manned the "battle stations" as assistants for the 100 or more guests. Blast off was perfect. It was followed by a buffet supper for Steve's friends, their mothers and fathers and for Sue's family.

Sunday brunch at the Long Beach Yacht Club was given by the Strongs for family units and house-guests.

Wednesday "Bun" (Mrs. Clarence) Sprague (now of Santa Ana) had a luncheon and "style show". Guests insisted she bring out her originally designed newest gowns and show them. Mainly, it honored Sue even although "Bun's" performing parakeet did his best to steal the spotlight amidst the giant paper roses used as decor.

Friday skyrocketed with a luncheon and shower given by Mickey McWhinney, Pat Van de Water and Dorothy Combs at the McWhinneys, complete with cool breezes and moss green table cloths.

Saturday climaxed the week when Jane and Frank Cornwall had a sit down dinner and shower for 80 old friends of Steve's with wives or dates plus family and friends of family. Suzanne and Clovis Cornwall came down from Redding to assist his parents and brought baby son, Chris, which almost (but not quite) undid doting grandma and 'pa. Nevertheless, they managed a beautiful party, all done in hearts and gold from table cloths on through to pool floats.

GYPSYING off to Estero Beach (below Ensenada) went Marie Fadden, sons Jim and Terry, and two buddies (where one boy goes another naturally is sure to follow) on rainy Wednesday morning. They rented a U-haul for camp gear; thought they'd have gear rattling around in it lonesomely. Not so. Filled to the brim with surf boards, tents, Mini-bikes, luggage, et al. The house is occupied because somebody had to stay home and tend the guinea pigs, of course.

THERE WAS conversational catching up to do and guests came a-purpose to do same at a "Brunch and Chat" party Wednesday at Assistance League House hostessed by travelers Bess (Mrs. Gail C.) Hudson and Mildred (Mrs. Howard) Coy.

Bess and Mildred needed as much catching up as anybody there. They returned recently from a trip which took them through the East. Then they flew from Chicago to Vancouver where they entrained for the gorgeous journey, via rail, into the Canadian Rockies, including Jasper, Lake Louise and Banff.

FROM MY PORCH, looking at the way the social weather vane is pointed, it's blowing up a storm of fall parties. Lawyers' Wives always widely anticipated fashion show luncheon (to be Oct. 15 at Balboa Bay Club) is well launched in the planning.

Kit (Mrs. Michael) Cullen, chairman, had luncheon at the Reef to get herself set straight on party theme, Valparaiso, Chile, our sister city. Not for the Reef's Polynesian atmosphere, but to meet with Consul General Miguel Bravo and his wife of Chile. They're to be special guests at affair; are helping Kit obtain Chilean exports for decor. Charming, delightful people, she reports.

IT WAS AN OLE, all the way, night Saturday if plans went as blueprinted for Rick Rackers annual summer party at Karen and Bob Dumm's in Lakewood. Hamming it up for cameraman, below, are Karen, Bob and Joan (Mrs. Mal) Lucas.

The charm and atmosphere of old Mexico permeated the house and gardens with authentic Sonora-style dinner around the pool and colorful Mexican entertainment plus all the decor to set the night's South of the Border pace.

A soupcon of the gala crowd attending included Sandy and Don Gill, Audrey and Ray Green, Neena and Dr. Dermot McHenry, Melva and Dick Miller, Joan and Dr. Jim Reitz, Bev and Les Weed, Jann and Joe Whisenant and Barbara and Tim Spangler.

Caramba! Eet was one fine night, senor.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Best Make the Whole Bed

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old girl and I have a big, fat, 14-year-old lazy slob for a sister. I try hard to keep our bedroom looking neat, but it always looks like a pig pen because of my sister. We share this bedroom which has only one large double bed in it. My mother tells me to clean up MY half, and to let my sister's half go, but, Abby, have you ever tried to make HALF a bed? It looks just awful! I hang up all my clothes but she leaves hers piled up on a chair so high you can't use the chair for sitting. Her shoes are all over the floor. How can I keep a tidy room with a slob like her for a sister? — LIKES IT NEAT.

ABBY

DEAR LIKES: You've given me a problem that should be solved by your mother. No child should be permitted to let his room look like a "pig pen." Because your sister is sharing a room with you, your mother should insist that she keep her half neat. A suggestion: Make the WHOLE bed, Honey. It's much easier than making half a bed.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the plight of Letty, the gas station attendant, I had to write. I am in somewhat the same fix. I operate a restaurant.

How about the carload of people who come in, order coffee all the way round, and then they bring out their own sandwiches and ask you for ketchup and mustard? If you have cherry pie, they want lemon. If you have lemon, they want apple. Whatever you don't have, they want. They order the coffee black, and when you don't bring the cream, they ask you where it is. So you bring it and one of the kids drinks the whole pitcher. When they leave they take along your silverware to, maybe, eat a melon in the car. They also take your salt shakers and two dozen paper napkins to clean off the windshield. After they're gone, you discover one of the kids left a wallet on the chair. It's got one dollar in it, but the identification is plainly printed on a card. So you have to wrap it up and take it to the post office and mail it back. And that's the last you ever hear from them. Thank heavens!

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Maybe you THINK you have heard everything. Well, listen to this. I just received an invitation to attend a shower for a bride. "TOYS" are requested—for "the baby." This is no joke, Abby. The two women who are giving this shower live in Worthington, Minn.—HEARD EVERYTHING.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WHY PSYCHIATRY": Because psychiatry gets to the CAUSE of the trouble. It works like this: If a person's shoe constantly rubs a blister on his heel, he can treat the blister. But unless he gets rid of the ill-fitting shoe, thereby removing the CAUSE of the blister, he will continue to get blisters.

FOURTH IN 'NEW MODEL YOU' SERIES

The Short Cut to Fashion

DEAR FASHION EDITOR:
Do you really think you could "re-do" me? Let's see . . . you said to list my beauty problems: they're numerous—forehead too small, eyes too large, also a bit overweight.
I'm not 40 yet, but pushing it hard.
I'm very proud of the fact, though, that we have been married 23 years and have two grandchildren.
Wouldn't it be a wonderful surprise for my husband—a new me? I don't mind growing older (I love being a grandmother), but I DO mind looking older.
Actually, at almost-40, I don't know how I SHOULD look. I definitely need an overhaul. Can you help?

Yours, truly,

Needy Me: ADA SHORTMAN
2044 Volk Ave.

BEFORE—Ada Shortman's hairdo is too severe; full-skirted cotton dress adds bulk to figure.

Staff Photos by Joe Risinger

"To me, it wasn't just a day," writes Ada Shortman about the exciting few hours in which she found new ways to beauty and fashion during her I. P-T sponsored "New Model You" redo.

"It has opened up a whole new way of life—and, as time goes by, I find myself, more and more, trying to follow the tailored-to-me grooming and fashion hints suggested that day."

Under the deft and knowing hands of local fashion-beauty expert Wilma Hastings, she learned that elegance is important, that an uncluttered, unharried look is a combination of the right clothes, the right makeup and the right faith in oneself.

RED-HAIRED, 5-feet-2 and, in her words, pushing 40, Ada Shortman was selected for our glamor clinic series from more than 100 letters received last spring from readers.

A homemaker (married 23 years), mother of three (two married children, one boy at home) and grandmother of two, she has, at one time or other, met up with most of the beauty and grooming problems our readers write us about.

Her natural assets: wide-awake, blue-grey eyes, lovely face, beautiful skin, good hair.

Her deficits: a too-severe hairdo pulled back from the face, a weight problem (5-feet-2, 141 pounds), lack of know-how in applying makeup and in dressing-down figure problems.

Based on simple principles of fashion and beauty, steps in her dramatic redo can be approximated by most any woman, anywhere, who wants to look younger and more attractive.

ONE OF THE most rewarding beauty improvements for Mrs. Shortman was a new, more youthful hairdo created by Rafael at his posh salon. A light gold rinse gave vitality and gloss to her shorter, up-and-easy hairstyle which Rafael calls "Riviera."

By Mary Ellis Carlton
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Casual and sportive, the coif was lifted at the top to give height, was tapered and flipped at the nape to lengthen the neck.

Then came the wake up with makeup at Wilma Hastings' modeling and refinishing studio.

Brows were arched slightly upward to emphasize her expressive eyes; a light-toned, warm shade of makeup gave needed color. Also used: tile colored lipstick, brown eyebrow pencil, a hint of blue eye shadow—all applied lightly because of Mrs. Shortman's slight bone structure. Makeup was color-toned to blend in with her red hair.

NEW HAIRSTYLE, created by Rafael, gives lift. Mrs. Shortman's red tresses are fashioned higher at the crown, swirled softly at the sides, tapered and flipped up at neckline.

Warned Mrs. Hastings: "All makeup should be blended carefully to give a total, all-in-one appearance. If one makeup feature stands out, something is wrong."

BETWEEN the time Mrs. Shortman wrote us and the day of her do-over, she followed a prescribed eat-right diet. She lost 10 pounds, is still going down.

"Since I've improved my eating habits," says she, "I no longer feel I'm dieting, it has become everyday routine."

Meanwhile, in the interim while paring down her figure, Mrs. Shortman learned that a carefully chosen dress or suit can fool the eye as to figure proportions.

Here are some of the do's and don'ts outlined by Mrs. Hastings for camouflaging heavy hips and bulky thighs:

1. Don't wear full skirts, they only call attention to the problem (just as too-long hemlines call attention to large ankles). Do wear eased skirts, but keep them smooth.

2. Don't wear tuck-in blouses, do choose overblouses. Blouse and skirt should be all-of-one color; contrasts cut height, widen figure.

3. Don't ruin the silhouette by grimly squeezing in your waistline, only to bulge out below.

4. Don't economize on underpinnings; do wear a good foundation garment, preferably a high-waisted girdle in firm Dacron with bra that fits down over girdle top to eliminate a spare tire look.

5. Don't wear thick tweeds and gaudy "fattening" prints; do wear tailored lines, neutral colors, unshiny fabrics.

Most important: DON'T give up eat-right dieting.

AFTER—Ten pounds lighter, Mrs. Shortman looks up-to-now in slim silk suit; a tall toque, up-swept hairstyle adds height to her 5-foot-2 figure. Her dazzling do-over was accomplished by local fashion-beauty expert Wilma Hastings.

Daughter Is in a Dilemma Over Her Dad

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
My father is a man of 45 years and has been a widower for five years now. I am 18, old enough to understand my elders better than I did a few years ago. BUT he has me baffled.

If he wanted to settle down to a respectable marriage, I could understand that, but, no, he just runs around first with one woman then another.

I don't know how intense these affairs are (or whether they really are affairs) but I do know he took one woman away on a fishing week end. At least he said it was fishing.

I have tried to talk to him about playing at being Don Juan but he just laughs. How can I really get to him?
—ALICE A.

DEAR ALICE A.:
Your father is far from an old man, you know, but he is plenty old enough to mind his own business—and love life. Hands off!—M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
I'll be 16 next month and my mother won't let me date until then. But a few days ago I went on a triple-date which my mother approved of.

I can't see why an occasional triple-date like this one can do any harm. All we'd be doing is bowling or miniature-golfing. All summer I've had a baby-sitting job from 7:30 a.m. till 5:30 p.m. every Monday and Friday and I'm getting awfully sick and tired of a two-month-old baby!

I do so want to date (triple date, even) here and now. Don't you think mother should say yes?—M. J.

DEAR M. J.:
Yes, I really do. It will be October so soon now, and you have put in your stint of work this summer. I really think your mom ought to let you "triple-date," anyway.—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
I was married to this man, and then we broke up and got a divorce. Now I realize I still love him, and he feels the same and we want to go back together again.

The trouble is our 17-year-old son. He absolutely hates his dad and swears that if we go back together he will shoot him.

His dad has never been mean to him but just hasn't done anything for him. I'm about to have a nervous breakdown. Help!—BLUE

DEAR BLUE:
Your ex-husband ought to try and talk this thing out with the boy. Surely, he could make the boy see that your happiness comes first. If there is anything I don't like it's a trigger-happy youth. But I honestly believe that if your son cares for you at all he can be made to see sense.—M. M.

Name a Language, She'll Warble It!

By BETTY WENTWORTH

"I could eat 24 hours the hamburgers—so good! I have just three weeks ago come from Israel and it reminds me of home here. Both places so clean and the climates very similar. The drive to Santa Barbara — so lovely with the fresh smell of the ocean. When I come here they say you can wear the slacks wherever you wish and I say 'What!', but I like this living not so formally as in Europe," thus effervesced our sparkling visitor, Hanna Ahroni of Israel, in an interview last week.

Miss Ahroni is in the Southland for several singing appearances including the Art Linkletter show Thursday and a Wilshire Ebell recital Saturday. She appears in Long Beach at the Jewish Community Center next Sunday to open their 1963-64 program and forum series.

* * * *

CONCEALED in her dainty and chic 5' 2" and 100-lb. self is a bewildering amount of talent. She's gifted with a voice of four-octave range and great power. She sings fluently in eight languages including English, Hebrew, French, Italian, Spanish, Yiddish, and Afrikans, and "I've just added a Russian song," she told us. She reads and writes five languages also.

Her repertoire of songs includes everything from flamenco and calypso, to Yemenite lullabies, biblical songs and French chansons; in short she seems to be a sort of combination of Yma Sumac, Eartha Kitt and Lily Pons in her various renditions.

Miss Ahroni has given a command performance for the queen mother of Belgium, has sung to Lionel Hampton's vibraphones in Tel Aviv, has been on Edith Piaf's and Fernandel's shows in Paris and has sung psalms while Charles Laughton read from the Bible in London.

SHE WAS BORN in Eritrea into a large family, and with them moved later to Jerusalem. In a fairy-tale episode she was heard singing by an impresario while she was herding sheep. It took him three weeks to persuade her Yemenite family (who considered stage singing an alien thing) that this lovely child's voice should be trained.

The conservatory came next, then two years of Israeli military service when she was 18. Soon after, she made her first tour abroad, learning new languages with ease as it turned out, as well as new songs.

Her family now lives in Tel Aviv, but her mother still hand-sews all her beautiful costumes and off-stage wardrobe. She was wearing a vibrant flame-colored print when we talked to her, with accents of heavy gold earrings and bracelets that jingled melodically with her swift movements. Her shining dark hair was worn in a high chignon, but perhaps her most outstanding features are her huge, liquid brown eyes and her expressive speaking voice.

* * * *

A GREAT MANY of her songs have been composed with her exceptional vocal range in mind. A favorite is one in which she and the composer fitted sentences from the "Song of Songs" to the music. "I always sing this, and it has brought me my luck all over the world, Israel, in Europe, South America, Cuba and now America. One other thing I always do is to read a little from the 31st Psalm before performances," she told us.

Her concert at the Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave., is the first of three programs of entertainment and four intellectual forums sponsored by the center through the winter, with Mrs. Norman Gottlieb as over-all chairman. According to Emanuel Gyler, president of the center, they feel it has a responsibility to the community to present outstanding artists as well as mental stimulus.

* * * *

ALSO ON THE first series will be Paul Gilbert, supper club comedian, Nov. 24; and Baruch Lumet, Broadway stage and TV star, April 26. On the forum series will be Robert Goldman, author, lecturer and co-host on TV's Cavalcade of Books who will discuss "The Image of the Jew in Literature and Drama Today," Oct. 23; Joseph Roos, executive director of Jewish Community Relations Council of Los Angeles whose subject is "Changing Relations Between Negroes, Christians and Jews," Dec. 15; Dr. Kenneth Brown of UCLA, "Jewish Life in Many Lands," Jan. 19; and Dr. Fred Krinsky of USC, "Contradictory Forces in Jewish Thought, Chasidism and Reconstructionism," Mar. 15.

Tickets may be bought for individual evenings or for one or both of the series by contacting the Center.

VIVACITY AND WARMTH of petite Israeli songstress, Hanna Ahroni, fairly reach out of the page to capture the viewer's attention, and epitomize her talents as international folk song artist. She's first attraction next Sunday on Jewish Community Center program series.

Pre-Columbian Show

While Elise Emery is on vacation, her column is being written this week by Betty Wentworth.

Probably the largest exhibition of pre-Columbian art ever to be assembled in the U.S. will go on view at Otis Art Institute, 2401 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, on Thursday and continue through Oct. 27.

It is being presented under the sponsorship of Otis Art Associates and Stendahl Art Galleries, with Wayne Long, director of exhibits and instructor of design at the institute, in charge.

Nearly 5,000 objects of art are in the show which is open free to the public, daily, except Mondays from 12:30 to 5 p.m. The art to be shown is of clay and stone, jade, jadeite, serpentine, gold, copper and semi-precious stones. It will go on a world tour following its close here.

Lenders include Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Altman, the Harry A. Franklin Gallery, Dr. and Mrs. George Kennedy, Elsa Lanchester, Oscar Meyer Gallery, Old Curiosity Shop, Bill Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Sheets, Southwest Museum, Proctor Stafford, Stendahl Art Galleries, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Stoudie, and David Stuart Gallery.

* * * *

WINNERS in the Long Beach Art Association show of paintings, drawings and sculpture of the human figure at the Villa Riviera Gallery during September have been named by judge Dr. Eugene Wallin of Long Beach State College. Rather than giving only first and second place awards he chose five which, in his opinion were outstanding.

Awards have gone to Pearl Jones, oil, "January Thaw;" Aline Thistlethwaite, watercolor, "Woman With Mandolin;" Llewan Hansen, ink drawing, "Conflict;" Marie Bucher, oil, "Tired Feet;" and Frances E. Stone, oil, "Portrait of a Young Man."

Pearl Jones, formerly president of the LBAA has also won second prize for a seascape and third prize for a landscape at the recent Paramount Art Association Art Fair. She has had 18 paintings on exhibit at the Security First Bank of Huntington Beach.

* * * *

Seascapes by Cost Done Convincingly

By VIRGINA LADDEY

James Peter Cost, Long Beach artist, has a one-man show of oil seascapes on exhibit at the Pacific Coast Club Gallery, 850 East Ocean Blvd., through Sept. 27. That Cost is enamored of the sea with its waves breaking on rocks is without a doubt, and that he can depict it convincingly is without question.

While Cost confines himself to seascape, and to realistic, illusionistic techniques, the accompanying notes with each of the dozen paintings (ten done in the last two years) show that he has examined contemporary trends in art and found them wanting for the particular thing he wishes to achieve.

* * * *

COST ALSO confines his palette, thus tacitly eschewing any expressionism in color: his foaming seas are blue-green-grey, the mighty rocks are black and brown, his cloudy skies are pearly. The one expedition in this collection into higher color, "Impending Storm" is the least successful of his works and suffered from a shiny glazing.

Cost has examined the West Coast from north to south, demonstrated in "Sand Dollar," "Los Padres" and "Corona Del Mar" which he has sketched and photographed preliminary to studio painting.

* * * *

THOSE WHO know the sea will find it in his works, the sense of transparency in the thrust of wave below its crest, the faceted surface of water after the wave has broken, the rhythmic lines of the broad water's perspective, the spray where the force of the ocean strikes irressitible rocks.

Try-Outs Slated by Choristers

Civic chorus of Long Beach Recreation Department will have its first meeting, a social and try-outs, on Sept. 16 in Millikan High School Mirror Room. Frank Arnold, director, invites all interested local singers to attend.

The chorus winter season will consist of four concerts. The "Messiah" will be presented on Dec. 8, at 3 p.m. in First Congregational Church, followed by "Carols by Candlelight" later in December in the Municipal Auditorium Concert Hall.

* * * *

THE CAROL program this year will be colorfully staged with full costumes and lighting effects. There will be opportunity for soloists and ensembles in addition to the choral numbers.

A "Ports O' Call" program is planned for early March with the annual "Festival Concert" in May. Both will be given in the Concert Hall.

More Opera Lovers Write

By RACHEL MORTON

My column of a few weeks ago entitled "Does Long Beach Want Grand Opera" brought so many letters of response, with no dissenting ones, that today's column continues with excerpts from more of these letters. The response has been very gratifying and I hope to have more replies.

* * * *

"AS PER YOUR article of August 18: Long Beach should have a grand opera season. I, for one, would buy tickets for same and even perhaps my wife would attend, too.

Carl Blatt
431 Harding St.

"I read your article with great interest and since you ask for opinions I would like to give you mine. Yes, we should have a short season similar to Laguna Beach at first to find out how the local public reacts. With such marvelous artists right at our door, a try should not be too complicated.

"The choice of operas is excellent. They are the most well known, and everybody — almost — knows the arias and tunes so they would have the greatest appeal.

"I was born and raised in Berlin. We have three opera houses as you know, where I heard every opera there is. So I would enjoy hearing them here. And I think it's high time our youth here were educated to classical opera."

Doris Fendler
1980 Chestnut

"YOUR ARTICLE on the possibility of grand opera in Long Beach was interesting. We were fortunate in attending the Greek Theatre's performance of "Madame Butterfly" and thought it a beautiful production, well sung.

"Assuming enough interest were to be generated in Long Beach for the production of a short opera season, where would it be given? The Convention Hall is a barren barn of a place and the Concert Hall has a seating capacity too small to make it profitable.

"The reaction of this family may be of interest.

Major and Minor Notes

We always attend at least three performances of the San Francisco Opera Company at the Shrine, although we don't like the drive; have attended a performance of every production this summer at the Greek Theatre, have even driven to San Diego for the Shakespeare Festival in Balboa Park."

Donald S. Grant
40 Via Di Roma

"I HAVE BEEN following and enjoying your articles in the Independent, Press-Telegram during the entire time I have lived here in Long Beach. Your column, Does Long Beach Want Grand Opera" is a real inspiration. The introduction of "grand" opera, as you wrote, into this area could be a tremendous asset to the community on an educational, entertainment, musical, theatrical and cultural level. I sincerely believe that Long Beach could have a full-time company.

"The wealth of untapped art in the area is boundless, but there must be something to bring it out. With proper promotion and planning, Long Beach could become a national institution in the field of music. I must agree that the IBC, although it may be a temporary boon to the local merchants, and the same for the proposed Fair, a continuing musical sphere would bring business, art and culture to a "desolate" area, crying to be heard.

"That Long Beach as a city is interested in opera is proven by our well-stocked and well-patronized record department of the Long Beach Library.

"My vote goes enthusiastically to your idea—Yes, Long Beach does want Grand Opera!"

James J. Feeney
249 E. Bort St.

"I HAVE JUST arrived here to live and have no idea what the history of serious music is in Long Beach. But I have been an opera fan for years, and I personally would support a season of grand opera in Long Beach IF it were done professionally. There is nothing worse than a bunch of hammy amateurs trying to sing grand opera.

"The suggestion of presenting such operas as "Carmen," "La Boheme" and "Madame Butterfly" is good because those would appeal to even doubtful opera audiences. It would be nice to think that Long Beach could support a short but top-notch opera season—as well as that atrocious International Beauty trash."

New Play Opens at Off-Broadway

Winner of the Critic's Award for best play of its year, "Member of the Wedding," will be presented at Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., opening Friday at 8:30 p.m.

This play proved one of their biggest successes for Ethel Waters as Bernice, Julie Harris as Frankie and Brandon de Wilde as John Henry. It is a study of the loneliness of an over-imaginative young girl who is a mis-fit and her association with a warm and responsive negro woman and a neighbor boy, and uncovers with exceptional insight the problem of acceptance by society.

* * * *

IN CHARGE of production of the show is Danny Rogers, head of Los Angeles Theater Arts committee in charge of drama. This organization headed by Mrs. Jack L. Warner has associated with it many important show people, including Lucille Ball, Steve Allen and Spencer Tracy.

Appearing in the Off-Broadway production will be Toni Shay as Frankie. She has appeared locally in "Thieves' Carnival" and is winner of one of the awards of a recent play-writing contest sponsored by COLT. Ruby Terry is cast as Bernice. Many will remember her outstanding performance in Magnolia Theater's production of "Raisin in the Sun". John Henry is played by David Weeks who has just finished a part in Community Theater's play, "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker".

* * * *

FRANKIE'S brother, Jarvis, is played by Gerald LeRoy who has done work with the Goodman Theater in Chicago. Stuart Cheatham is cast as Mr. Adams and has just finished a run in "West Side Story" at the Off-Broadway.

The role of T. T. William, friend of Bernice, is being taken by Leon Bramley who was last in "Sweet Bird of Youth". Others in the cast are Cecilia Todd, Betty Blue, Lynn Cooney, Gregory Cheatham and Melanie Bryan who is also on the production staff with Barry Salvin. Gerald LeRoy is also aiding in staging.

Reservations may be made by calling the Off-Broadway Theater.

Free Finesse Is Avoided

When Virgil said, "I fear the Greeks, bearing gifts," he might well have been writing a textbook on bridge play. It is a pretty good policy to assume that if your opponent gives you a chance to take a free finesse that the play will not work for you.

North's jump to four hearts was primarily intended to shut out a spade bid. The fact that South was able to make the contract was a surprise dividend.

West's king of diamonds was allowed to hold the first trick whereupon West shifted to the deuce of clubs. Dummy's nine was covered by East's jack and South's king won the trick.

South led a low trump to dummy's queen and returned the suit. East discarded a low spade and West was in with the ace.

West promptly led the eight of clubs and South's first impulse was to finesse dummy's ten.

* * * *

RECALLING Virgil's advice, he decided that West was acting like one of those ancient Greeks and offering him a Trojan horse.

Therefore South played dummy's ace and discarded a low spade. His next play was the five of clubs. Up came East's queen. South ruffed and eventually discarded another spade on his good ten of clubs.

He still had to lose one spade, but that was the third and last trick for the defense.

Dear Reader:

What have YOU been doing lately?

We've been busy winning journalism awards

YOUR 1963 CALENDAR will be hanging around for quite a while, but already this looks like another red-letter year for the men and women who write the news and take the pictures for the Independent and Press-Telegram.

At state, regional and national levels we've been winning our share of the prizes and then some.

Ladies first? All right. Let's start with the I, P-T Women's Section. In the early part of 1963 it was judged the best among metropolitan newspapers in the state of California Press-Women's annual writing contest. Edited by Iola Masterson, the section cornered fifteen (15) awards.

More recently the National Federation of Press Women chose our Women's Section best in the nation. Iola says the credit should be shared by Joyce Kent, Mary Ellis Carlton, Mildred Flanary, Mary Neth, Elise Emery and Curtyne Driscoll.

In another coast-to-coast contest, Mrs. Neth was among seven writers receiving the Catherine L. O'Brien Award.

And now for the men: Ben Zinser, Medical Science Editor of the I, P-T recently received the only Press award given by the American Podiatry Association for distinguished science writing.

PICTURE EDITOR OF THE YEAR is the I, P-T's Bryan Hodgson. This national title was awarded for the first time by the University of Missouri School of Journalism, National Press Photographers Association and World Book Encyclopedia. Bryan went back to Columbia to receive the award on the University of Missouri campus and Ol' Mizzou called him back a couple of weeks later to conduct a seminar with some of the Nation's best photographers.

In the PHOTOGRAPHER OF THE YEAR CONTEST of National Press Photographers Association, our chief photographer, Roger Coar, won second on the basis of two first places, two seconds and two thirds in judging of monthly competitions. Bob Shumway scored with a couple of prizes in the same contest. One of the awards was for his picture of equine singers, called "Voices of the OK Chorale." It won another ribbon in the California-Nevada Contest sponsored by the Associated Press, and honorable mention in the National Editorial Association Contest. Writing awards in the same two-state contest were won by William Hunter and George Flowers.

. . . I, P-T PHOTOGRAPHER KEN HENDERSON'S picture of a one-pachyderm stampede at an elephant race in Fullerton was judged one of the top news photos in the nationwide competition sponsored by the National Editorial Association.

REMEMBER THE SERIES OF ARTICLES we published to alert everyone to the dangers of the "Death Alley" section of the Long Beach Freeway? The Independent, Press-Telegram garnered one of three citations given among ALL metropolitan newspapers in California by the National Safety Council. The "Death Alley" series had a lot to do with that award. But even more important than this national honor was the satisfaction of seeing emergency action by the Highway Department to make that part of the freeway safer for everybody.

KEEP IN TOUCH WITH US—we'll probably have more prizes to report before the year's out. But even if we don't, you can be sure the men and women of the I,P-T will be busy making this a better and safer place to live.

Roger Coar

Edibles Accountable

By Mildred K. Flanary
I. P-T Food Editor

Chef of the Week

He has an aversion to shopping — but he's right there for the accounting end of the deal.

Today's Chef of the Week, public accountant Kenneth R. Davis, has, to his wifee's knowledge, never been in a grocery store. "Mens wear-wise," and fortunately for both, he thoroughly approves of her selections FOR him.

Davis first saw the light of day in London, England. At the age of six his father was transferred to New Jersey as agent for an English firm. Three years later, his Dad apparently read the book, "Go West, Young Man, Go West," was impressed, and came to Long Beach in 1924.

Our chef had mastered his studies at Jefferson Junior, Wilson High Schools and Long Beach City College, just in time to meet the depression head-on, He had, however, worked at the YMCA during his school years.

* * * *

DAVIS eventually become affiliated with the old California Bank. That was in August of '35. In 1943 it became the Bank of America and it was then that his accounting profession began for real. He joined the late Charley Kibbie, a lawyer-accountant. After Kibbie's death, Davis affiliated with Roy Smith and Bart Smith (not related), two former employes of the Bank of America, and formed a partnership which was to last 15 years.

Davis now has his own firm and a new own-your-own office building, of which he is president.

He and "Mrs. D.," the former Marjorie Couch of Long Beach, have a son Dick, 22, who made a name for himself in track while at Poly High; a daughter Leslie Davis Murray, 20, an important person in her Dad's firm, and Lynn, 16, a junior at Poly High.

Daughter, Leslie, not only has become a component part of the firm, but seems to do the "anniversary bit" as well. She was born on the day he started his own business, and was 20 years old the day they had the champagne - christening - ceremony on new building.

* * * *

AS PRESIDENT of this year's United Way Drive, Davis has his work cut out for him. He is also an active Rotarian, a member of the Navy League, and is a member of the vestry of St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

He didn't divulge, during the interview, whether or not he could cook. At any rate, he IS breaking the egg for some Yorkshire Pudding to go with his prime ribs of beef.

ROAST BEEF

4 to 5 lb. standing rib roast. Place fat side up in roasting pan, season with salt and pepper. Do not cover and do not add water. Put in slow (325°) oven. Roast to desired doneness.

18 - 20 min. per pound for rare
22 - 25 min. per pound for medium
27 - 30 min. per pound for well done

Remove from oven and let set while pudding is baking. Up oven temperature to 450 degrees for pudding.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING

1 cup flour
1 cup milk
2 eggs
¼ tsp. salt

Mix salt and flour and add milk gradually to form smooth paste; then add eggs and beat 2 minutes with egg beater. Put 4 tablespoons hot fat from roast in shallow baking pan. Place in oven until fat is sizzling hot. Pour mixture in pan and bake 25-30 minutes or until golden brown on top, decreasing heat as baking is accomplished.

inates the possibility of low cost building that could turn into a slum area.

COMPARED to other cities, Long Beach has no really bad slum areas, according to Prior.

Many local organizations are working on different facets of redevelopment, however, to improve potential slum areas.

The City of Signal Hill has stimulated home building by employing a nationally known planning consultant, Simon Eisner. New zoning ordinances and street development are having good results with more view lots to be available to future home builders.

THE ARCHITECT'S first consideration is his client's needs. As a creative person, he has an artistic duty to design a house that is esthetically pleasing to the client, but he must satisfy the needs for which the house is intended.

What every architect aims for is a happy client like Mrs. C. C. Mitchell, 5410 El Parque.

"This house is NOT for sale," said Mrs. Mitchell. "When we moved in last June, although I am a grandmother, I felt just like a June bride."

Nuptial Rite Unites Pair

Stanford University student Verryl Fosnight married Mary Roberts White at a ceremony in Holy Innocents' Catholic Church.

He is the son of the Verryl Fosnights of Long Beach and was graduated from Millikan High. His bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce S. White, also of this city, is an alumna of Poly High and attended Long Beach State College.

Following a honeymoon in Monterey and Carmel, the newlyweds will make their home in Palo Alto where the bridegroom will continue his schooling.

* * * *

FOR THE wedding ceremony, the new Mrs. Fosnight chose a floor-length, satin brocade gown with petal veil and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, and butterfly roses centered with a corsage of eucharist lilies tied with pearl decorated streamers.

She was attended by Jane White as maid of honor. Chuck Lyon served the bridegroom as best man.

Light Opera Artists at Tea

Artists from the Civic Light Opera will be featured guests at the annual membership tea of Lakewood B'Nai B'rith Women to be held Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at Long Beach Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave.

The program will feature Clayton Ivey, Cynthia Howard and Gary R. Murphy in selections from former Civic Light Opera productions.

Ivey started his professional career with the Robert Shaw Chorale in 1949. He has sung with the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, Los Angeles Opera Company, the Hi-Los and many other professional groups.

Miss Howard had an early career as a dancer before starting her singing career. She has appeared with the San Francisco Opera Company and the Lakewood Philharmonic.

* * * *

MURPHY formed a jazz group while attending college that played hotels and clubs and appeared on the Gene Norman television show. Opera star Nina Koshetz heard him sing in a local nightclub and impressed with his natural baritone, coached him for solo performances in operetta and operatic concerts.

Membership chairman of the group, Mrs. L. E. Feldman, has announced that guest speaker at the tea will be Mrs. Howard Zimmerman, past president, District 4, B'nai B'rith Women. Her theme will be "13 Years of B'nai B'rith Service Around the World."

President Mrs. Myer Burnstein has invited all members and friends to attend the event.

Pat Walker's New Stauffer System Reducing Program Opens in Pasadena!

Long Beach Women Reduce and Regain Youthful Figure Without Rigid Diet Under Pat Walker's New Program

As told by Lillian Polak, L.B.

MRS. LILLIAN POLAK was ashamed to be photographed when she was a size 24½ and weighed 209½ pounds. Now she is down to a size 16, has reduced over 50 pounds and is still going down.

My name is Lillian Polak. I'm a housewife and I live in Long Beach. I am married and have 2 children and 3 grandchildren. I am 56 years old. I wish you could have seen me before I went to Pat Walker's System. I wish I had a photo of how I looked before I went to reduce with her system. I don't have one because I looked so awful for so many years that any time anyone took a picture of me, I made a point of hiding behind my husband and anyone else who was near me because I was ashamed of how I looked.

One day I was having my usual morning cup of coffee and reading the Independent, Press-Telegram and I read about Pat Walker's Stauffer System. That was 3 months ago. I really didn't think they could help me. I had given up so long ago, but anyway I called them. But before I did I called my next door neighbor who is a close friend of mine and asked her if she woud go with me because I needed moral support. She said she'd go. Incidentally, she took the treatments too.

Well, we went in the next day and believe me, that was my lucky day. Miss Walker was there — in person — and she talked to me personally. Somehow just talking to her made me feel that I had a chance to look nice again. At that time I was a size 24½ and weighed 209½ pounds. In this picture I am wearing a size 16 and have lost over 50 pounds and still going down.

When Miss Walker was photographed with me in this picture she had just returned from the opening of her new Honolulu Salon and said, "The last time we photographed you, you were a size 18 and now you are a size 16 and the next time we photograph you, you'll be a size 14." I know she is right because everything she has said so far has come true.

My hobby is raising beautiful flowers and my favorite is bird-of-paradise. I love to garden. Now when I stoop over to cut my flowers, I don't huff and puff getting up. That alone is worth a lot. Besides my husband and children are pretty proud of me because somehow my whole personality has changed.

I told Miss Walker I was glad I had read that ad that day and she said she felt the best way of conveying a message to women who need help in reducing was to have a woman who had been helped tell her own story. So I said I would and what should I say. She looked at me and smiled and said just tell it in your own way.

So I have. I hope you'll be as anxious to see me in the Independent, Press-Telegram in another month wearing a size 14 as I will be when I see myself in the paper that morning. Well, I'll conclude my story by saying that I found my bird-of-paradise not among my flowers, but in Pat Walker.

—Lillian Polak

As told by Jackie Stevens, Seal Beach

I am smiling in this picture and really feel like smiling for a change. About 3 months ago I saw an ad with Pat Walker's picture telling about Miss Walker and the Stauffer System. It was a full page ad and it really impressed me. I went to work the next morning and took the ad with me.

My name is Jackie Stevens and I live in Seal Beach. I am married and have 2 boys, ages 12 and 8. I am 34 years old. I have a good job with Dean Van Lines in Long Beach.

For many years, it seems like forever, I was hiding my figure under a boxy suit or coat, huge handbags and full skirts. My problems were all from the waist down. I had given up slacks and told everyone I didn't like the beach when the real truth was I was ashamed to wear a bathing suit.

I'm proud to say I'm finished with my treatments. I had fun while getting my figure back. They are awfully nice people in the salon and I enjoyed every moment of it. Now I wear a size 10 dress. Before I wore a 16. I had to because my hips and thighs were so bulgy. I lost 7 inches in my hips and 5 inches on each thigh and my legs look decent again. —Jackie Stevens

Miss Pat Walker Talks About Reducing

I am often asked if I enjoy my work as the National Figure authority for the Stauffer System Salons. The answer is very simple, it is yes.

I like my work because it is so interesting and challenging. It's challenging because every woman has a different figure problem and each woman thinks that her problems are the ones no one can help.

This is because the average woman has tried so many methods of reducing and gone on to many different types of diets only to find she still had her figure problems.

Many women reach the point of thinking that there's nothing else that can be done for her. She thinks this because she has not been exposed to a system such as the Pat Walker Stauffer System.

Can you imagine how gratifying it is to see that same woman in a salon a few short weeks after she starts her treatments and to have her say thank you —thank you for showing me the way to a new figure and in many cases a new way of life.

Over the years we have been responsible for re-making over 5 million women's figures.

Actually there's no guess work to reducing today. Any woman can buy her figure just as she would buy clothes, carpets, furniture or anything else. The only difference is that it is a service and unfortunately it cannot be mailed to her. All she has to do is to pick up the phone and make an appointment for a courtesy treatment and a figure analysis. We offer it to her without obligation.

We pride ourselves in making reducing perfectly painless. We do this by giving wonderful service in pleasant surroundings

The response of the women here has been so great that even though we had a large salon in Long Beach it has been necessary to open a salon in Lakewood also.

From the analysis we determine where she needs to lose, how long it will take and the exact cost of her correction. From there it is up to her to make her decision of whether she wants to continue to struggle the lonely and frustrating battle of reducing or turn over her problems to us, and let it be our responsibility. The response of the women here has been so great that even tho' we had an extremely large salon it has been necessary to enlarge it even more.

Many people have asked me if the figure problems in Southern California are different from anywhere else? The answer is no. Women are women, no matter where they are from. But each individual case is different and has to be treated as such but with our program the end product is the same perfect figure.

So many women think that they have to starve to death or experience painful or strenuous exercise to regain a good figure. Imagine how happy they are when they find that this is not true because relaxation is a part of our program. We have women of all ages who are reducing with us. Also, children. It's a smart mother who recognizes figure problems with her child at an early age and who comes to us to take care of it.

For the convenience of women who work or have baby sitting problems, we remain open in the evenings until 9 o'clock. I want to thank all of the women who write to me letters of gratitude for what we are doing for them, and also, to all of the women who write asking what can be done for their particular problems.

What Others Say:

Here is a quotation from the hundreds of grateful letters received from women who have taken the Pat Walker Stauffer System treatments:

My husband was all for my going — after all he's like every man who admires a pretty figure. My husband says I'm looking younger and prettier by the day. But what's really great is that I'm losing it where I need to lose it. — Mrs. Catherine Bevert, Long Beach.

Pat Walker Answers Your Personal Letters

DESIRES NEW FIGURE BY NOVEMBER

DEAR MISS WALKER:

When my husband and I married in 1947, I was 25 and he was 31. I wore size 13 and could always see the love mirrored in his eyes.

Now I'm 46 and wear size 18½ and since I had an operation there has never been even a little spark of love showing.

My husband's family plans a trip out here in November and it would be wonderful to be able to look nice when they are here.

I'm enclosing a photo, but as you can see I hide if I can. At least I try to hide my figure as much as I can as I am ashamed. Can you help me?

Hopefully,
MRS. D.R., Downey

DEAR MRS. D.R.:

Thanks for your letter. There is no question that you have your share of problems, but let me assure you that you are not alone. Figure problems are our business and we are used to them and know how to handle them. What you want to regain is only natural, but let me give you the best advice I know how—you have already taken one step and that is you have recognized you hav a figure problem. The next step is to do something about it! Come in to see us and we'll analyze your figure problems, tell you what we'll do for you, how much it will cost you and how long it will take. It's that simple. If your decision is to let us help you, you will probably find much happiness will be in store for you. Newly gained confidence in yourself brings about much in the way of personal attention, new found happiness and who knows, with the holiday season, just around the corner, your husband will again be an attentive, proud, and happy man who will shower much affection and flowers in your direction.

Sincerely yours,
PAT WALKER
National Figure Authority

HUSBAND SHOWS NO AFFECTION

DEAR MISS WALKER:

Perhaps you may understand this letter when I say that socially I am a coward.

For one thing I've had a whopping big weight problem all my life but held my own until 5 years ago, except I always had large upper arms which meant watch the sleeves so I took up sewing.

Then the big joke came, I broke my ankle and the weight came on from lack of daily activity.

Hopeless despair set in. I couldn't lose weight and no one seemed to care and here I am at 200 pounds.

My skin is clear but that's not my problem. It's large arms and hips and a limpy ankle which would be better if there was not so much weight on it.

I am 53 years old, 5 ft. 4 in. tall, and have to wear oxfords. I hate the fact I don't fit anything that comes in the stores. I have tried drastic reducing programs, even sane ones, but no one cares. Not even my husband.

I have become the sounding board of everyone else's troubles as if I didn't have enough of my own.

Once I got flowers from my husband and was gay; today I hurt inside and hate myself.

To me it's important to look right as I belong to a service club. I don't go to meetings anymore because I look like you know what.

Also to wake a little romance in a so-called dead husband. I just can't be that old yet.

I think I got a book full of reasons why I need a remodeling job.

Maybe I try attacking the wrong end of this but whatever it is I continue to go backwards.

Oh, yes, I am nice and people like me but they don't invite me anywhere either.

What can I do?

MRS. W. M., Bellflower

DEAR MRS. W. M.:

Maybe the lack of interest your husband has shown is the indirect result of your own negligence. After all he once was the devoted husband you wanted and he can be again. If you have a complex about your appearance, it reflects in everything you do. There really is no reason for a woman to feel the way you do because today you can seek professional help with your figure problems. We have revamped over 5 million figures throughout the years and many of them with the same problems you have and women in your own community. It is just as simple as picking up the phone and asking for a personal figure consultation and free trial treatment.

Sincerely yours,
PAT WALKER

SPECIAL

DISCOVERY '63—Frank Buxton and Virginia Gibson move with their award-winning children's program to a new weekly time, at 2 p.m., ch. 7. Opener examines how life begins in one-celled animals, birds, fish, butterflies, poodles, cats and man himself. Highlights show birth of puppies and of a seahorse, latter from the pouch of a male where eggs were laid by female.

HUNTLEY-BRINKLEY—An advance report on NBC's new expanded news show takes a behind-the-scenes look at TV news techniques at 6:30 p.m., ch. 4. Use of communications satellites, transatlantic cable films and jet flights are shown.

DAVY CROCKETT—The show which sold a million records and four million coonskin caps returns for its first color telecast at 7:30 p.m., ch. 4. (Star Fess Parker, incidentally, has recorded a new version of the ballad.) Buddy Ebsen co-stars with Parker in opener, as Crockett uses his frontier wiles to quell an Indian uprising. ("Davy Crockett Goes to Congress" and "Davy Crocket at the Alamo" will be other reprises.)

OPEN END—The mind-changing drugs—LSD, psilocybin and mescaline, and their effect on the conscious mind, are discussed at length by host David Susskind and psychiatrists, psychosomatic specialists, medical hynotists and psychologists at 11 p.m., ch. 5. Both beneficial and hindering aspects are probed.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

The president and general manager of KCOP (channel 13) believes Southern California is a "high-brow television market."

And John Hopkins, the aforementioned executive, is putting his money where his mouth is.

Starting 9 p.m. Thursday, channel 13 premieres the "Festival of Performing Arts," a one-hour series opening with violinist Isaac Stern.

JOHN HOPKINS

"We bought and scheduled this series because we think Southern California is the type of market that will support this type of venture—a high-brow market," said Hopkins.

"Arts in Southern California get a higher reception than anywhere else in the United States."

Hopkins' reasoning was bolstered by the success of "The Play of the Week" when it was aired here a few seasons past.

"It laid an egg most everywhere else," he said.

The "Performing Arts" 10-program series purchase was "pretty expensive," according to Hopkins.

He candidly admitted that it would have to get good ratings if the station were to commit itself for the purchase of another 10 programs.

Hopkins is pretty confident the initial series will get good ratings.

"IT'S QUALITY TELEVISION that will satisfy the desires of the people in this area who have been demanding something like it."

The "quality television" series includes such offerings as Paul Scofield and Joy Parker in "A Duet of Poetry and Drama," Rudolf Serkin and the Budapest String Quartet, and Cyril Ritchard and Hermione Baddeley in a "Festival Revue" satire.

The series has been produced by David Susskind and James Fleming.

Hopkins isn't scheduling all his fall programming for the "high-brow market."

He's also convinced that Southern California is the most sportsminded and color-television conscious community in the United States.

"Take junior colleges, for example," he said. "Alumni of junior colleges in Southern California seem to display as much interest in their alma mater as do graduates of four-year universities elsewhere."

SO HOPKINS HAS SCEDULED 10 junior college football games to be aired starting Sept. 20. Among the competing teams will be Santa Ana, El Camino, Compton and Chaffey, but not Long Beach.

In the color department, KCOP will nearly double its offerings in the fall.

It's upping its color programs from 14 to 27 half hours. The total, claims Hopkins, will be more than any other Southland independent television station.

The station has discovered a colorful secret.

"Take a program like 'Ripcord,' which we will be starting in the fall," said Hopkins.

"It has already been re-run by another network affiliate.

"But we'll do it in color, not black-and-white, and pick up a new audience."

HOW CAN he be so sure?

"Nothing is ever sure," replied Hopkins. "But we did exactly the same thing last season with 'Northwest Passage' and we got a new audience for that old series."

Among the newer series—first-run off the networks—that KCOP will offer this fall are "The Dick Powell Theater" and "Stoney Burke."

In addition, the station is "beefing up" its children's programs and already claims to lead Southern California rating-wise in what it currently is offering.

Former Football Player in 'Lieutenant' Role

A 26-year-old ex-football player named Yurosek will try to score this new TV season in a series debuting 7:30 p.m. Saturday on channel 4.

But he won't be called Yurosek.

Using his stage-screen name of Gary Lockwood, the 6-foot, 1-inch-tall bachelor will play the title role of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Lieutenant."

M-G-M and NBC-TV are wagering the magnettism of the star will boom the show into the Top 10.

* * * *

HIS MAGNETISM as a football player at UCLA did

not prevent the university from expelling him for brawling.

His magnetism did help when the late Red Sanders, who coached the UCLA football team, helped get him a job as a Hollywood stuntman.

His brawling days over, Lockwood graduated from stuntman to actor and appeared in that performing capacity in several movies.

On television, he had a featured role in the defunct "Follow the Sun" series, a television program which he considered a professional disgrace.

* * * *

HE'S EXCITED, however, about "The Lieutenant," a series about a Marine Corps officer during peacetime.

"I'm playing a young, sensitive guy with brains."

WHY GO BALD?

California's Leading Scalp Specialist Answers Your Questions About Hair

S. I. Turoff, California's leading hair and scalp expert, who has just announced a Save-Your-Hair-Week. As long as you have some hair, you have an excellent chance to grow thicker hair with remarkable new methods, Specialist Turoff says. Turoff recently opened the 9th permanent Turoff Clinic in Long Beach.

"There are many causes of baldness," says S. I. Turoff, California's foremost hair expert, "but the most important cause is ignorance!"

This startling announcement was made by Mr. Turoff in a recent interview in his Long Beach office. And there's no doubt that Mr. Turoff speaks with authority, for he has spent over 26 years studying and correcting the hair ills of thousands and directs scalp treatments in his many offices.

He has treated show people, businessmen, athletes, workers men and women from every professional background. With this long and varied experience, he is generally regarded as one of the nations top trichologists.

"The hardest part of helping men and women with hair troubles is to show them that they can be helped," says Mr. Turoff. "After all these years, it still continues to amaze me how little people have learned about the advances that have been made in hair science field."

Leading Questions

According to Mr. Turoff, most men—and women, too—have the same general misconceptions about their hair.

"I have heard the same questions for so many years that I have made a list. Four men out of five who come in to see me for their free scalp examinations ask me one of three questions first. Usually," he added with a smile, "I can tell when a man walks through my office door which one he'll ask first."

Mr. Turoff agreed to publish his "little list" for the help of those who haven't got around to getting help for their hair problems. Here they are:

Q. "I have been worried about heavy hair-fall for the last year. How can I get rid of this disorder?"

A. Heavy hair-fall is a symptom of scalp trouble, not a disorder in itself. The problem is to find what's causing the loss and to treat the cause, not the symptom.

By far the most common cause of hair loss, as revealed by the thousands of case histories at Turoff Hair Experts, is infectious dandruff.

This dandruff may not be the kind you see. In its most dangerous form, it becomes imbedded in the hair tubes and blocks the emergence of new hairs.

You cannot get rid of such dandruff with ordinary methods of shampooing and scalp hygiene. You must have expert help if you are to avoid baldness!

Q. "I've lost so much hair lately that it's quite thin on top. Is it possible to regrow this hair?"

A. Some re-growth is almost always accomplished by Turoff treatment and after care. In many cases, we re-grow most all of the lost hair.

The amount of recovery depends on the amount of damage done before you start treatment. Where hair loss has been going on for years, some hair follicles will be completely closed and the hair bulbs withered away. Nothing can be done to reactivate growth there.

But where follicles still produce even "fuzz," they can usually be stimulated to produce hair of full length and strength.

You see, your scalp naturally has a tremendous urge to keep on growing hair. Once a follicle is cleared of dandruff and infectious bacteria by Turoff treatment . . . and the "manufacturing" mechanism stimulated, nature takes over. From then on, following a proper schedule of hair care will keep your scalp healthy and hair growing.

Q. "I have a pronounced 'bald spot,' and my hair is very thin elsewhere on top. Would I benefit from Turoff scalp treatment?"

A. Almost any man with any hair left will benefit from our modern treatment . . . and quickly, too!

From your very first treatment your scalp looks and feels better. Soon dandruff disappears and excess hair loss slows down to normal. Too oily or too dry scalp is cleared up.

Wherever you have new hair growing—even thin "fuzz"—you can have thicker, healthier, handsome hair. But it's all a matter of timing.

You must remember that the one sure thing about a "bald spot" is that it will spread unless attended to. The spreading does not stop naturally—until you're slick bald. You must stop it with expert care. And that's the least benefit you can expect from Turoff treatment. It will enable your hair "to hold its own."

"Do-It-Yourself" Treatment

Mr. Turoff says that there is a fourth question that is quite popular although it does not apply to residents of California who can get to the Turoff office easily.

Q. "I live sixty-five miles from your office and cannot get in to the offices frequently enough for regular treatments. Is there any hope for my hair?"

A. Most assuredly. For those who live out of town or who travel frequently, Mr. Turoff has developed a combination home-and-office treatment that is highly successful. After your initial office examination, you are given a self-help plan of hair care that is remarkably effective.

Hundreds of men from cities and towns around Long Beach have a healthy head of hair today because of the Turoff "Do-It-Yourself" system.

Free Examination

No matter how far advanced your hair-loss is, the most important consideration is that you do something about it NOW.

If hair loss is severe, you had better tend to it immediately before you lose everything . . . and hope, too.

If thinning is just beginning, you're lucky—if you get expert help NOW. For with the assistance of the Turoff Hair Experts, you can regain your hair, get it in a healthier condition probably than ever before, and be assured of a full head of hair the rest of your life.

Trial Treatment

During "Save-Your-Hair Week" only, the Turoff Hair and Scalp Specialists offer a complete scalp treatment for $2 to any eligible man or woman.

Here's the way to get it:

Visit the Turoff Hair and Scalp Specialists office this week at any time between 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. daily (10 to 3 Saturday; Thursday, 4 to 8 p.m.). Have the Turoff specialist examine your scalp and give you his findings.

If your condition is "hopeless," he'll tell you so frankly. About 5 per cent of those he examines are hopeless.

If you are acceptable, your first trial visit (with coupon) will cost just $2.

Same Special Offer Good in Other Turoff Branches: Oakland, Berkeley, San Mateo, San Jose, Sacramento, Westlake, San Francisco.

Since your scalp, like your fingerprint, is not the same as anybody else's, the examination must come first.

These are the questions most people want information about:

1. How often should you wash hair?
2. Which kind of shampoo is best?
3. Is brushing necessary? Desirable?
4. What can be done about oily scalp?
5. What about dry scalp?
6. Are "tonics" and dressing helpful?
7. Does it help to cut hair short?
8. When is dandruff dangerous?
9. Can your hair be thickened?
10. What is a scalp treatment like?

Take this list along with you tomorrow to see Turoff Hair and Scalp Specialists.

Hoofing It to 'Hootenanny Hoot'

THE TWIST and the Bosa Nova, America's most recent dance crazes, may be on the way out. The Watusi and Mashed Potatoes are marked for extinction, too. But don't look for a return to the waltz, the foxtrot and other steps that might not be as colorful but are a lot easier on the sacroiliac.

The youth of the land will soon be gyrating to a foot-thumping, hip-swinging, hand-clapping rhythm called the "Hootennany Hoot." It is a dance dreamed up by choreographer Hal Belfer for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new folk musical of the same name.

THE DANCE is the first specifically designed to go with the folk music trend that has swept over high school and college campuses from Nashville to New England to everywhere. And the guy or gal who can't dance it looks to be—nowhere.

"The 'Hootenanny Hoot' dance is for today," says Belfer, "yet it has its roots in music that has been alive for centuries."

The "Hootenanny Hoot," according to Belfer, has elements of hoedown, legomania (wild use of the legs), quick "rooster" movements, some eccentric steps (moving the feet in unison to travel without lifting them) and working the body so it appears a wave is going from the feet to the head.

"IF THIS SOUNDS as though the 'Hootenanny Hoot' is designed for athletes, don't give up," declares Belfer. "Anyone from 6 to 60 can perform it. Get the basic steps down and then go with it. It's easy to pick up just from seeing the film and it's made for improvisations. Whenever the spirit of the music moves you, the 'Hootenanny Hoot' will take you."

First movie to be built around folk music, "Hootenanny Hoot" will bring many stars to the screen, among them Ruta Lee, who has an important role. Beautiful Cathie Taylor, 18-year-old sensation, will sing "Ballad of the Frozen Logger," in one scene. Cute Pamela Austin also will be seen—and heard—along with such western music artists as the Brothers Four, Sheb Wooley, Johnny Cash, the Gateway Trio and Chris Crosby.

Ruta Lee has an important role in new film built around the folk music fad.

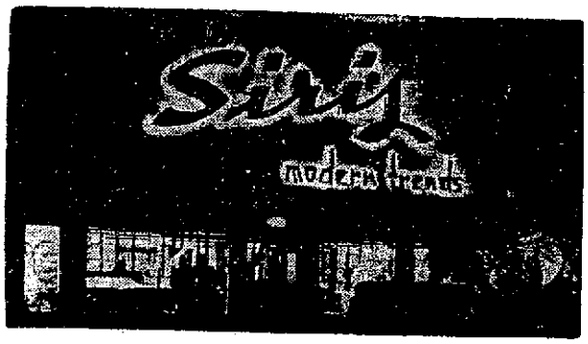

Pamela Austin will be seen and heard, as well as several western music stars.

Cathie Taylor gives out with a ballad in one of scenes in "Hootenanny Hoot."

Laboratory That Plays Detective

Carl Bjorkman, chief engineer for the Long Beach testing laboratory, runs a soil test as one of assignments.

By John P. Webster

FEW WILL deny that some of the happiest hours in any kids' life are spent making mud pies. But for men to do this in all seriousness and to get paid for it by the City of Long Beach—well, this calls for some answers.

Carl A. Bjorkman, chief engineer for the testing laboratory of the department of engineering, actually makes mud pies, but with clinical precision. It is an important phase of testing soils, known as the Atterberg Series, used to determine how any given soil will react to moisture.

One phase of this test, called the "Liquid Limit," shows exactly when a soil ceases to be a solid and becomes a liquid. From an engineering viewpoint, this is important in constructing an airport runway, a road, or figuring out what type of foundation a new home requires.

OF COURSE, soil has other uses. Sometimes it even grows grass and, unfortunately, crabgrass. Gramps used to feel the soil and hold up a wet finger, then sprinkle lime on the garden. Not so the city. Having a palm tree, or some grass, to plant, the tester finds out what chemicals are needed to make that particular plant flourish. Digging some soil from where the planting is to be done, he sends it to the laboratory. They determine what should be added to produce best results. Fertilizers are tested to be sure they are chemically correct.

Sometimes Bjorkman's lab is called upon to play detective. Often this has to do with water, in one way or another. On one occasion last winter, a property owner complained that a storm drain was leaking water into his basement. The engineers soon determined that the drain was below the basement level. Since water is not noted for running uphill, the dampness could hardly come from this source. Lab men ascertained that the water was quite pure. Further detective work disclosed that the roof had sprung a leak, and rain water was running down into the basement. The roof was patched and the mystery was solved.

BJORKMAN also cited the case of a parking lot at the foot of Signal Hill. The lot was well paved, but before long a small part sank several inches. This the contractor repaved, only to have it sink again and again. Once more the lab came to the rescue. This time strong traces of iodine showed in the water in the hole. Since iodine is usually found in oil-bearing water, the source was soon located. A drain pipe from an old storage tank on Signal Hill terminated beneath the parking lot. This was changed, and everyone was happy.

Actually, the lab not only plays a vital part in protecting everyday health and safety, it also saves taxpayers a lot of money annually. Paints used on streets and signs are checked for durability. Rotary brushes on street sweepers are tested for longevity. You name it—you'll find that the lab sees that taxpayers get the best for their money.

It is interesting to note that the lab tests the atmosphere constantly, thus keeping a sensitive finger on the smog pulse. When industry changed from fuel oil to gas last March, the level of impurities in the air dropped from 299 to 58 micrograms per cubic centimeter in a day or two.

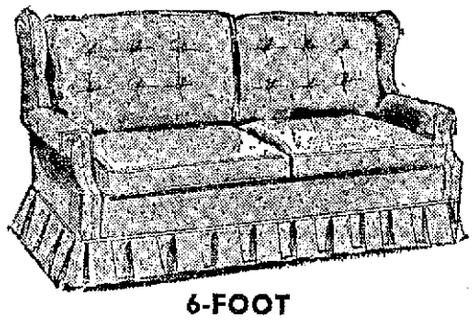

THE LAB can test almost anything to protect the tax dollar and the city's health and safety. The stuff that makes children's ice-cones look pretty has been tested. So has the additive that makes cream whip easily. Should tile start falling off a bathroom wall, the inspector can have the lab test to determine if the right stickum was used to hold it in place.

But back to mud pies: don't worry if you've forgotten how to make them. Page 1291 in the Manual of the American Society for Testing Materials will give you the recipe right down to the size of each grain of dust used and how long to bake it. However, you may run into trouble with the water. The book calls for absolutely pure water, just like the laboratory uses.

So, who's for a game of pattycake today, instead of mud pies?

California's major attraction for Fall

Granddaddy of the Fairs

Happy days of the Los Angeles County Fair are near again, starting Friday and running through Sept. 29. This is a view of monorail and one of main thoroughfares.

Harness, quarter horse and thoroughbred racing, with pari-mutuel wagering, is a Fair feature, daily except Sunday, providing thrilling action at big grandstand.

By Bob Maxwell

HAILED AS California's major fall attraction, the Los Angeles County Fair—biggest of them all—is bubbling over with exciting exhibits and special features for its 1963 season opening next Friday in Pomona for a gala 17-day run through Sunday, Sept. 29.

This 36th annual edition of the Southland's greatest exposition will be its crowning achievement—bigger, more spectacular and more enjoyable than ever. Along with its magnitude and diversity it still retains the charm of the time-honored county fair and the hospitable atmosphere so typical of California from its earliest days.

The exposition's more than 40,000 exhibits and dramatic displays, the continuous round of thrilling entertainment and hundreds of other attractions are highlighted by the mile-long scenic monorail with air-conditioned cars that give fairgoers a thrilling bird's-eye look at the beautiful 450-acre exposition park with its 200 permanent buildings.

A HUNDRED California counties, communities and organizations display prize products of harvest and wealth of natural resources in the huge Palace of Agriculture.

A premier livestock show has the cream of western flocks and herds with the big Junior Livestock Show occupying the stage during the first seven days of the exposition and the open division livestock moving in for the final 10 days.

More than 6,000 examples of women's handiwork are enshrined in the spacious Domestic Arts Building and on the adjoining lawn, the "Lady Nimble Fingers" speed crochet contest, set for 11 a. m., Tuesday, Sept. 17, is certain to draw an enthusiastic crowd.

Last word in California living is on parade at the fair's Home Show. And an intriguing model home called "Garden Penthouse," supplements the home builders' new products exhibit hall.

A dazzling riot of floral color spotlights the Flower and Garden Show with one wing of its huge building devoted to landscaping ideas, another to latest in garden gadgets and supplies and a shaded hillside in the rear devoted to patios, swimming pools and other examples of California outdoor living.

County exposition doors open Friday in Pomona

THE IMPRESSIVE Fine Arts Building houses the exciting International Photographic Exhibition and Art-in-Action demonstrations feature leading Southland artists at work and an exciting new attraction carries the "Creating With Light" theme.

The International Building exhibits reveal glamour of foreign lands as approximately 25 nations will display examples of their arts, crafts, cultural and recreational advantages.

The Sportsman's Show fills the big Sport Plaza with its ski pool where daily demonstrations of championship water skiing, skin diving, motor boating and sailing along with other aquatic sports and entertainment thrill spectators. On display here are all kinds of sporting equipment, boats, outboard motors, the West's biggest exhibition of travel trailers, camp coaches, house cars and many other products for the world of sports and recreation.

Delightful attraction for the children as well as the grownups is the Story Book Farm where fabled animals of nursery rhymes come to life. Here also is a full size reproduction of an 1880 farm house with a real-life "farmer's wife" performing household chores of yesteryear in an authentic setting. Newest feature this year, along with several other attractions, is the "Cuddle Corral" where visiting children can actually pet tame farm animals.

POULTRY AND caged birds, rabbits, pigeons, tropical fish, hobbies, gems and minerals, dairy products and Cali-

"Art in Action" exhibits add interest to the fair and top artists of the Southland are participants in this phase. There's something to interest everyone at the big show.

Civil War Weapons
Their Target Guns

Sharpshooters in Blue and Gray

One of world's largest six guns is displayed by Roger (Smoky) Hunter who made gun and who is co-captain of a team in Blue and Gray organization.

By Larry Neth

VISITORS at the Long Beach Police Pistol Range on Carson Street the third Sunday morning of each month are likely to rub their eyes and wonder if the Civil War has broken out again.

Men in Union and Confederate uniforms blaze away with muzzle-loading pistols—but at targets.

They're the Blue and Gray Skirmish Teams, founded in 1961 at the Long Beach Hobby Show, starting with four members interested in muzzle-loading guns and the Civil War, the group has grown to three teams of six men each, mostly made up of members from Long Beach and Orange County.

Their purpose, basically the same as the North - South Society in the Eastern United States:

1. Promote muzzle - loading pistol and rifle shooting through the use of Civil War weapons fired in the original manner and encourage the preservation and display of Civil War material.

2. Uphold our constitutional right to keep and bear arms by independent action and in cooperation with other organizations having the same objectives.

3. Commemorate the heroism of the men of both sides who fought in the Civil War, 1861-65, as a reminder of our American heritage.

Member of a Blue and Gray unit fires a muzzle-loading percussion weapon that is 100 years old, using 200-yard range. Civil War uniforms are worn.

THE BLUE AND GRAY marksmen come from Long Beach, Bellflower, Fullerton, Whittier, Anaheim and Santa Ana.

Each team selects an actual unit of the Civil War to copy and uniforms must be replicas of the uniforms worn by that outfit.

The three present teams: 3rd Mississippi Volunteers, a Confederate cavalry unit; Company A of the California 1st Cavalry, a Union cavalry unit; Company A of the California Volunteers for the Confederacy, a group started in El Monte and San Bernardino areas.

A fourth team, which will be a Union outfit, now is being formed.

While the usual range for the monthly shoot is 25 yards with standard National Riflemen's Association targets, twice a year the teams hold a skirmish shoot—an attempt to recreate the type of shooting done in the Civil War at actual battle range.

TWO TEAMS FIRE in competition at water - filled cans swinging on strings at 25 yards, clay pigeons at 25 and 50 yards and silhouette targets at 100 yards, balloons marking head, shoulders and body.

While most of the members joined for the experience of shooting muzzle-loading weapons, many find the study of the Civil War interesting and rewarding. Finding out just where and when a certain unit fought, tracing the origin of a piece of equipment or old weapon leads to many hours of study and discussion.

Relics that belonged to grandfathers and great-grandfathers are being dug out of trunks in attics and garages, where they have been stored for years. Members haunt second-hand stores and swap meets at drive-in theaters.

ONE GROUP is shopping for its own cannon of Civil War vintage to start an artillery team.

Because original equipment and weapons can be expensive, the majority of the members use replicas. Surprisingly enough in this age of missiles and rockets, a number of companies specialize in the reproduction of Civil War uniforms and weapons. An original Colt Navy model pistol may cost from $150 to $300 or up; a Navy Arms Co. model sells for $75 to $90. Since these guns are made of modern steel, with better workmanship, they are much safer to fire.

The author, Larry Neth, is area officer of Blue and Gray Skirmish Assn.; wears shirt and cap of team.

So there will not be an excess of "Kentucky colonels" the rank for each team is set down in the rules and by-laws. No member of any team, including the team captain, may hold rank over a sergeant-major. The only officers are the staff, or board members, who act as range officer, safety officer, secretary and treasurer.

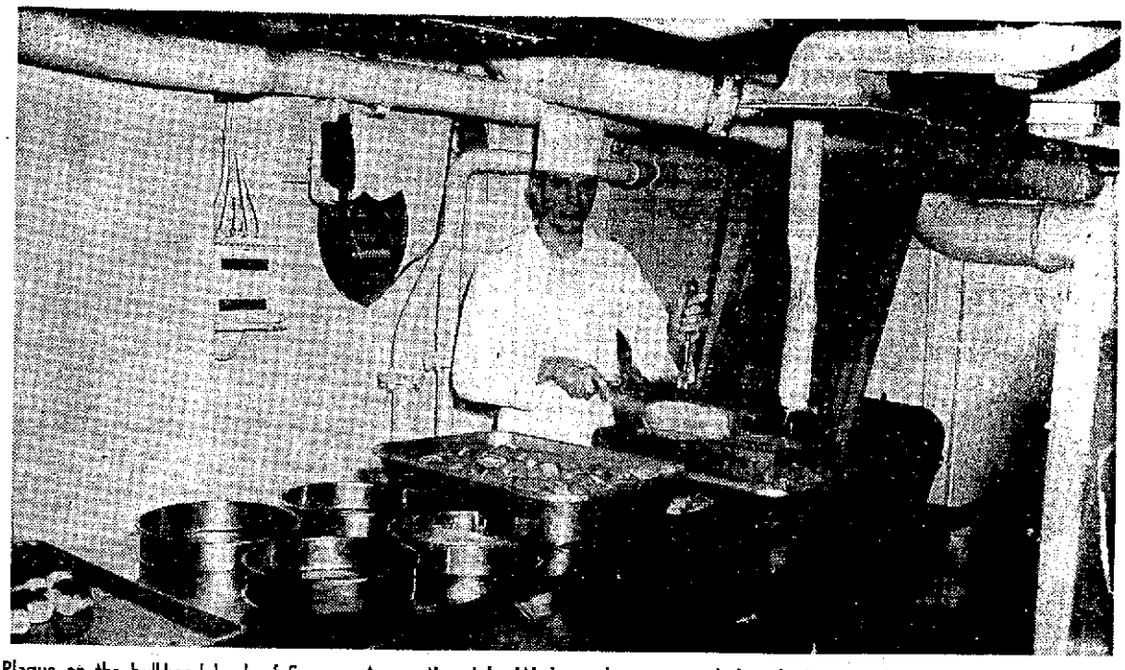

EACH NEW TEAM wishing to join must meet strict requirements. Each member must have a correct uniform, he must be able to handle his weapon safely and he must know the rules of range safety. Each team must pass an inspection by the staff to insure correct uniforms and equipment.

Only units that meet the high standards of the Blue and Gray Skirmish Teams are allowed to join. However, the members always are willing to help anyone who is interested in forming a team or joining a team.

Anyone wishing more information may attend a Sunday morning shoot (usually from 9:30 a. m. to noon the third Sunday of each month) or may contact an officer of the organization.

Also anyone who has a piece of Civil War equipment is invited to contact officers or members: The officers are Harvey Zaricor, commander, 11970 Pomering Road, Downey; Bill Pearson, adjutant, 20813 Verne St., Artesia; Burnie Conley, staff aide, 10515 Parise Drive, Whittier; Larry Neth, area officer, 9123 Hall Road, Downey.

Best Chow in the U.S. Navy

Plaque on the bulkhead back of Seaman Apprentice John W. Lavender was awarded to the USS Frank E. Evans for outstanding food service in 1962. Phone provides contact between steam line, where Lavender is slicing meat, and galley on deck above.

By Lt. (j.g.) Daniel O'Neill

HAVE YOU ever tried frying shrimp in deep fat with the floor pitching and rolling underfoot? What do you serve to keep them all happy? Hamburgers?

The USS Frank E. Evans (DD 754), a Long Beach-based destroyer, has these problems all the time. As a matter of fact, the commissarymen of the Evans have faced them so well over the past two years that the ship's general mess was picked as the best of 1,016 afloat messes this year.

Without serving hamburgers, hot dogs or even chocolate cake 365 days a year, the Evans managed to win the 1963 Edward Francis Ney Memorial Award. Winning the prize was no mean feat for the World War II destroyer. Since the award's inception in 1958, only one other destroyer type vessel—a new destroyer escort—has won. Usually one of the Navy's larger ships such as an aircraft carrier or a cruiser takes home the bronze trophy-plaque awarded by the Food Service Executives Association.

WORKING WITH an allotted $1.11 per man per day, the Evans offers a choice of two meats, several vegetables and five salads at its main meal. Its menus include a wide variety of dishes, ranging from onion soup to barbecued chicken, southern style green beans to apple pie. Special ration-dense foods are served at every meal. This food is stripped of waste and bulk for compact storage over long periods. In addition to allowing more storage space, ration-dense foods give the cooks and the crew an inkling of what to expect should wartime feeding become necessary. This gives the Navy an edge should it ever have to mobilize quickly.

Food is important on the Evans, as it is throughout the Navy, not only because of nutritional value but also because it is, or at least should be, a morale factor. At sea for long periods the men of a destroyer come to depend on good chow, attractively served, for a boost to their day-to-day existence. Baked goods are particularly helpful in this regard because, in a paraphrase, a delicious pie can cover a multitude of sins.

TO INSURE that the food served throughout the Navy is uniformly nutritious and appetizing, the Navy Subsistence Office provides a Navy recipe service. This service consists of approximately 700 recipes which cover everything from salad dressing to roast beef to breakfast rolls. Both ships and shore stations are encouraged to use these recipes but any command having its own favorite dish may submit it to the subsistence office for evaluation and inclusion in the service. Each recipe gives the necessary ingredients for 100 servings.

In addition to the recipes, the subsistence office offers sample menus with ideas for meal combinations and new foods. These menus are designed to offer a wide variety of food combinations while insuring a well balanced diet.

The Evans' Chief Commissaryman, Delfin R. Marquez, follows the Navy recipes closely but he prefers to make out his own menus. He spends about two days a week preparing a 21-meal menu.

As chief commissaryman he must also insure that the range, salad bar, dishwashing machine and all the items which pertain to a floating restaurant are working efficiently. He also inspects food handlers for cleanliness, issues the foods to be served and supervises its proper preparation.

HIS KITCHEN appliances include a grill capable of cooking 50 hamburgers at a time, an ice cream machine and four ovens. Besides hamburgers, the Evans' cooks, when the menu calls for them, fry steaks or eggs to order. During one night's baking the four ovens turn out 64 loaves of bread—enough for two meals—and a full supply of breakfast biscuits. Most of the gear was installed when the ship was built in 1944.

To support her galley while under way the Evans can carry 85 days' worth of provisions. This is stored in her 1,387 cubic feet of refrigerated storage space.

The old adage about armies certainly applies to all branches of the service. On the Evans the commissary department works hard to keep its part of the Navy running particularly well on its stomach. This year they did it better than any other ship in the Navy.

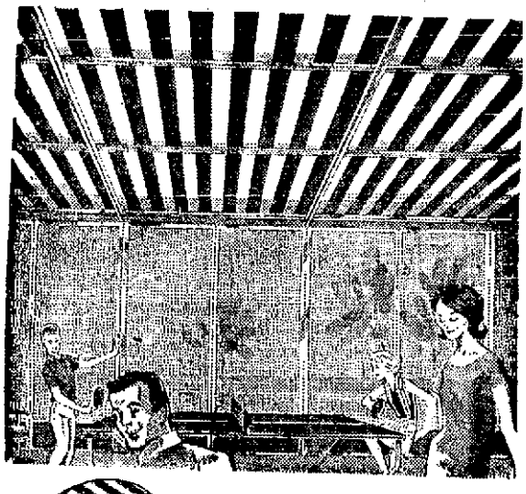

USS Frank E. Evans' mess decks, viewed across the ship's salad bar. Seating for 52 men is provided. Variety of food and appetizing service are back of destroyer's "best chow" award, an unusual honor for this type ship.

Sound With a Special Listing

By George Eres

THERE are more than 11,000 phonograph records in the Long Beach Public Library record division and the labels of many of them carry the names of Long Beach composers or performers.

Helen Kennedy, who keeps track of the discs, has culled out locals for a special listing and hopes to build this collection—not an easy task since some of the choices are out of print and the only way she can get them is for owners to come forward.

For example, records featuring Herbert L. Clarke, who is regarded by many as one of the greatest cornet artists and a one-time director of the Long Beach Municipal Band. Miss Kennedy would like to add his records to the collection.

There's "Percussion Music for Three Players," by Dr. Gerald Strang, former head of the Long Beach City College music department, a work that was recorded on a Period Label. The library had the record, but a borrower broke it. He paid for the disc, of course, but meanwhile, another recording of the work isn't easy to come by.

Helen Kennedy of the Long Beach Public Library, displays a few of recordings featuring L. B. area artists.

BUT, THERE'S a fairly good representation of area composers and artists in the collection.

Nelson Keys, former member of the City College music department, is among the most recent to be added to the section. His work, "Suite: Music for Monday Evenings," is performed by the Louisville Orchestra.

Morris H. Ruger, formerly with the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music and now a Long Beach resident, is represented by "Sonata for Piano" and "Suite No. 2 for Piano," performed by Amiram Rigai, pianist.

Marilyn Horne, Long Beach singer who went on to national fame, has "Lullabies from 'Round the World;" compositions of Gesualdo, "Prince of Madrigalists;" and "The Music of Heinrich Schutz."

ANOTHER Long Beach singer, Mallory Walker, is tenor soloist with the Robert Shaw Chorale recording of the Bach "Mass in B Minor" and his voice can also be heard on a record of "Music of Victor Herbert."

A Century Record label presents Lester Martin, tenor, singing English, Irish and Scottish ballads. Foster Rucker, known professionally as Galen Drake, former church soloist and Community Playhouse actor, now with CBS in New York, is represented with his Golden Crest album "Ten Most Requested Hymns" and Kenny Baker, a former Poly High School boy, has several records in the collection including "Babes in Toyland" (Decca) and Christian Science hymns. William Reeve is soloist with the Norman Luboff Choir on "Songs of the Sea" (Columbia).

CAMILLA WICKS, who went to school in Long Beach, is soloist with the Symphony Orchestra of Radio Stockholm on the Capitol Recording of Sibelius' "Concerto in D Minor for Violin and Orchestra."

Others on record in the "artists in residence—or former residence" section include: The New Hope Baptist Church Choir, the United Nations Choir of Long Beach; First Baptist Church organist Peter Slack; Marion Darlington Pratt (bird calls and songs on RCA-Victor's "Snow White"); Joe Stafford who appears as Darlene Edwards on a Columbia disc, "Piano Artistry of Jonathan Edwards;" Bernard Wilets' opera "Bontche Schweig;" and a group of recordings of various Long Beach State College musical groups.

NOT IN THE LIBRARY collection, recordings of works of two Long Beach State College music department staffers: Dr. Leon Dallin and Frank Pooler. Dr. Dallin's "Songs of Praise" for chorus and orchestra, were recorded on a Recorded Publications label by the Brigham Young University Chorus and orchestra and his "Sierra" (Century Records) by the Brigham Young University Band. Pooler's Columbia recording is "A Child Is Born" performed by the Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir. Two of his works are out of print—the cantata "America Was Promises" (WGN Label) and "Gird Yourself With Lamentations" (Opal).

In addition to the above there are numerous Long Beach musicians who have appeared on jazz and pop records, but the library as such has no pop or jazz records—"just some of the old classics," said Miss Kennedy.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

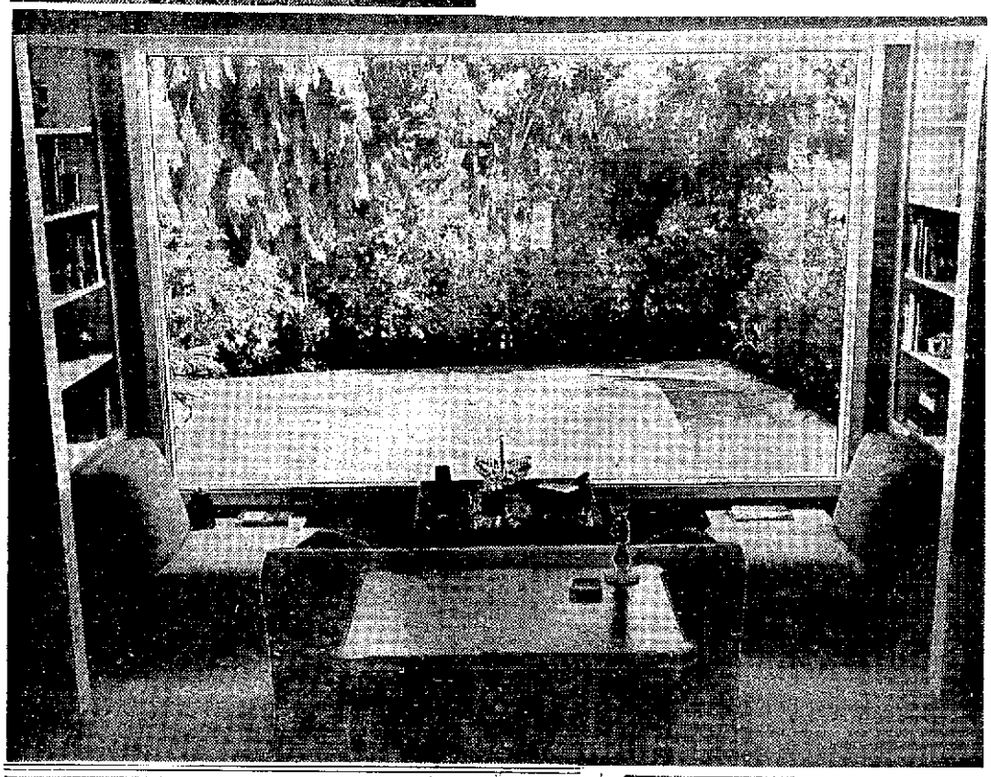

Abundant in Features for a Family's Happy Living

By Stella George

EVERY DETAIL that might add to family enjoyment and fun was incorporated into the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hebenstreit, 3425 Via Palomino, Palos Verdes Estates. Located on a tree-lined street, the home combines a multitude of outstanding features for the close-knit, happy family.

The wide driveway (or park area) in front of the home doubles as a badminton court. Typical of the Palos Verdes area, shrubs, plants, and trees are in abundance.

The wide, inviting entry views a living picture at the far end of the living room where, in an alcove, an outsize window looks out to the garden, patio, and pool. Gold and white, accented with tones of orange and brown, are used in the decor. Furnishings grouped in the alcove include a sofa which faces the garden, flanked by chairs on either side and a center coffee table. Two additional groupings in the living room center around or towards the fireplace.

Home has many delightful features for the W. B. Hebenstreit family. Above, alcove overlooking shaded patio and pool. Top left, car parking, badminton court.

Trees shade a dance floor placed near the large pool and serviced by facilities to make every hour pleasurable.

THE DINING room has an air of formality which invites leisurely candle-lit dinner parties or family dinners. There is a built-in buffet and furnishings are designed to maintain space.

The kitchen is exceptionally well planned with a curved counter, serviceable and handy for quick breakfasts. Appliances are arranged so that few steps are needed to perform almost any kitchen chore. The kitchen is sparkling white, cheerful and sunny with the window above the sink viewing the trees and greenery beyond.

Adjacent to the kitchen is a long service hall with an enclosed bar, ready for adult entertaining, but out of view for the teen-age crowd. It is ideally located next to the much-used family room with its comfortable couches, TV, and fireplace.

ALMOST every room in the home, including the master bedroom, opens to the patio. The master bedroom has a private patio where adults can sit in peace and quiet while teen-agers dance on a specially designed dance floor near the pool at the far end of the garden.

Hebenstreit's private workroom is probably the envy of many of his friends. Tools are arranged in meticulous order in built-in cupboards. There is an immaculate work-bench which can double as a desk, a power saw, and all necessities and luxuries which combine to make the room an ideal retreat. The room is so large that a complete train set is permanently set up with ample space for guests to mill around.

There is no grass to mow around the home; just concrete or bricks. The landscaping includes many plants, shrubs, and trees—large and small—and an automatic watering system eliminates a tedious chore.

HINTS ON CARPET "FLUFFING" & "SPROUTING"

Fluffing, or shedding, occurs when fuzzy tuft ends that have been sheared from a new carpet work their way to the surface. These ends are sheared off during manufacturing to give uniformly even pile height. In the final processes most of these shearings are removed. However, some of them become lodged between the carpet tufts and later appear as fluffing.

Fluffing can begin at any time. With frequent vacuuming it should gradually disappear over a period of several months. This fuzz or fluff is not really part of the carpet. As it leaves, the rug will gain a new evenness of texture.

As your rug is used, a tuft may rise above the surface of the pile. During weaving, these tuft ends curl into the pile and are difficult to shear uniformly, especially in twist or frieze carpets. With use, the ends are drawn up by the vacuum cleaner and may appear to be coming loose. They are simply long ends and should be carefully clipped off at the length of their neighbors. Do not pull them out.

Write or stop by for Lynn Colton's free booklet: "Tips for Rug & Carpet Care." Lynn Colton's Spotting Kits available at $1.25 ea.

The Priceless Extra of Experience

Think for a moment of the many choices we make in life which are determined by our confidence in somebody's experience. Choices in important things, like selecting a doctor, a lawyer, or an investment counselor. In less important things, like having something repaired. In even minor, everyday, personal problems, where we want wise guidance. So deeply ingrained is this basis for choice in all our actions, it comes as no surprise that the Southland's wise buyers have continually sought the counsel of the area's most experienced keyboard merchant, Mr. Piano (Bob Pierce), who also had the world's first Hammond Organ, deems it a proud compliment to advise an ever increasing number of shoppers.

Split level advantages and colonial charm are united in a rare combination in this good-looking, four-bedroom home. Multi-purpose foyer room provides for expansion.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Two-Story Look That's Stylish

By Jules Loh

WITH A long porch, or loggia, extending across the front, this four-bedroom home obtains a colonial appearance uncommon among split level designs, and a garage wing on the foyer level adds to the effect.

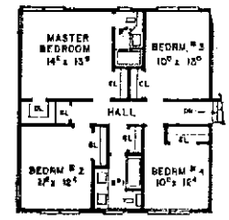

"For lasting style, it's hard to beat the two-story look," says architect Fenick A. Vogel who designed House of the Week B-96. "This home preserves the popular look and at the same time provides the advantages of split level design."

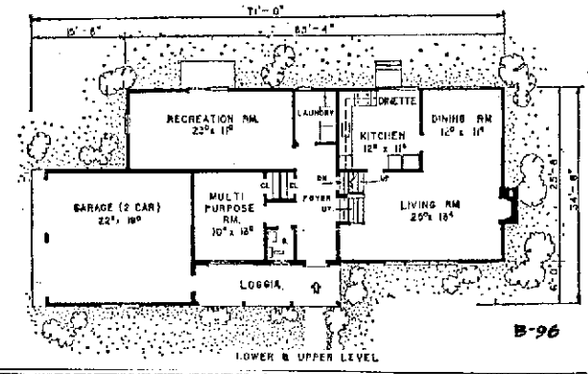

One of those advantages is clearly defined zoning, and the larger the family the more important this feature becomes because of the varied activities of all the members.

THIS HOUSE has all the formal living facilities—living room, dining room and kitchen—on one level, the informal area on the foyer level, and the sleeping area on a third level. Because of their uncluttered design, the living and bedroom levels pack an awful lot of living area into 1,540 square feet. The equally well ordered foyer level adds 802 square feet, excluding the garage, for a total area of 2,342 square feet. The basement, not included in the square footage, is located under the living level.

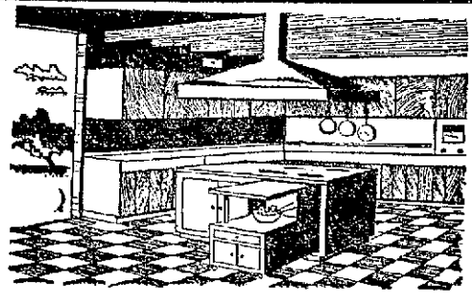

Including the garage the house is 71 feet across the front by 31 feet 8 inches in depth. Because of the location of the garage door on the side, and because the garage has the same roof line as the foyer level, the house appears even larger than it actually is.

The kitchen, 12 feet 8 inches by 11 feet 4 inches, is roomy enough for a dinette near the floor-to-ceiling slid-

DRAPERIES, CARPETING SIGNAL HILL

Bright and efficient, this kitchen has plenty of room for a dinette, out of the way of the work area. Counter space is ample and there are 28 linear feet of cupboards.

ing glass doors—out of the way of the L-Shaped work area. There is plenty of counter space, and 28 linear feet of cabinets.

THIS HOUSE is for a large family, and the 253 square feet recreation room is an excellent asset. It has sliding glass doors out to a rear terrace or play area plus exposure on one other side. If the multi-purpose room isn't used as a bedroom, the entire 802 square foot foyer level could be regarded as an informal area.

Storage facilities in this house likewise are generous enough for a large family. Two linen closets upstairs are in addition to the bedroom closets; there is a four-foot closet in the foyer, a closet in the multi-purpose room, plus extra storage space in the oversized double garage and in the basement.

THE HOUSE has two full bathrooms plus a handy lavatory on the foyer level which is convenient both to the formal entertaining area and the family recreation room. The main bath, just a couple of steps away from all four bedroom doors, has a double sink, alcove toilet, alcove tub with overhead shower, and a linen closet just outside the door. The master bedroom has its own bath, with tub and shower and built-in vanitory.

A multi-purpose room, 10 feet 4 inches by 13 feet, gives this house a good deal of versatility. Located on the informal level, the room would serve nicely as a den, hobby room, study or what have you; and its relative isolation and convenient bath make it an excellent guest room. It also provides the house with obvious expansion possibilities if a fifth bedroom ever is needed.

The four upstairs bedrooms all are of good size, amply supplied with closet space, and all with good ventilation. Notice also that excellent sound buffers—hallway, bathroom, back-to-back closets—insulate each room from noise.

THE FRONT loggia not only provides a sheltered entrance from the garage, but also a gracious entry to the handsome foyer. Up a half flight of stairs is the living-dining room ell, 25 feet in both directions, with a grand fireplace directly opposite the stair entry.

To obtain plans, address Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., inclose 50 cents and request House of the Week Study Plan, Design B-96.

Pardon Me! My Mistake!

By Adelaide K. Roeslein

NO ONE is perfect. That's why everyone makes mistakes. But—oh—the boners that some people pull!

Take, for instance, the two Long Beach police officers who directed a visitor from out of state to the City Animal Shelter when he reported that his car, an English Zephyr, was stolen. The poor man was confused! He went back to the two officers and explained again—slowly—that his English Ford-Zephyr had been stolen.

"Zephyr!" exclaimed the officers. "Pardon us, please. We thought you said, 'English setter'!"

And then there was the school crossing guard in Weathersfield, Conn., who was so conscientious about her job that she stopped a fire truck on its way to a fire so some children could get across the street.

AND THE Arizona taxpayer who got his letters mixed and sent a love missive written to his girl to the State Income Tax Division and his Income tax returns to his girl. The tax division returned his girl's letter with a note that said an agent would be around soon to discuss any other recent mistakes he might have made. He quickly scanned the letter again—and there it was—oh, that revealing sentence! It said, "I just sent in my state taxes. Boy did I rook them! Ha, Ha."

Then there was the Southern California man who had his house rewired using fuses that did not need replacing. He thought everything was just fine. When his two little girls announced that the lights in their bedrooms were out, he very confidently went down into the basement, but found all fuses in the "on" position. Something was wrong. He called the electrician. After a quick check, the electrician announced, "I located your trouble. The bulbs were burned out."

Well, who'd expect two bulbs to burn out at the same time!

A few days later, a bulb went out at his bar. Now, he wasn't going to make the same mistake twice. No sireee! He put in a new bulb. Still no light! On his hands and knees, he checked all wires and outlets in the room. Still no light! So he called the electrician again. That very efficient gentleman went to the basement and was up in half a minute. "A fuse blew," he said, "It was in the 'off' position. I put it back on."

A woman in Edgewood, Tex., was preparing a bath for her husband, and she decided to put in "some sweet smelling stuff." He got into the tub and relaxed for only a moment and then began to yell. He was burning and turning red. His wife took another look at the bottle. It was meat tenderizer.

THE WRONG house mistake has plunged a lot of people into trouble. A man in Columbia, Mo., returned home one day to find his front porch almost demolished and a bulldozer about to finish the job on the rest of the house. He stopped them and a quick check showed they should have been tearing down a house about three blocks away.

In another case, a man in Detroit returned from a hunting trip to find a new roof on his house. It should have gone on the house across the street, but the material had been delivered to the wrong address and the job was all done. There was no charge.

In Nutley, N.J., an oil man delivered 285 gallons of oil to a house that didn't even have an oil burner, having been converted to gas heat. All that was left of the oil burner was the intake pipe, and when the delivery man spotted this, he delivered the oil which ran through and covered the basement floor. The owners were away — so police, firemen and employes of the oil company wiped up the floor.

And, speaking of embarrassing moments, in Seattle a woman was awakened by a burglar and chased him into the street. She stood outside yelling for help as he fled, until her daughter rushed out of the house shouting, Mother, mother! You don't have any clothes on!"

And a wrecker in Minneapolis bought the iron salvage rights in a fire-damaged two story building for $25. But after knocking down a lot of pipes and hauling away several loads, he discovered he was on the wrong corner of the intersection. It cost him $25,000 to restore the missing pipe and controls.

SOME MISTAKES can cause a mighty lot of trouble. Like the racing bookie in London! When Perkin Warbeck and Rodolphus were joint favorites, each paying odds of 5 to 2 in the Stuntney Maiden Stakes at Newmarket, they finished so close in the race that it was difficult to decide which was the winner. Before judges could decide, someone called out "Perkin Warbeck," and then the same news was flashed by a news agency. And so for eight minutes the bookies paid out on Perkin Warbeck. Then suddenly a correction came over the loudspeakers, "Rodolphus won. Perkin Warbeck was second." A bookie at Doncaster chased a man into the street, but he escaped with his winnings. And in hundreds of shops people who had thrown away tickets on Rodolphus got down on all fours and scrambled frantically to retrieve their now valuable tickets.

In St. Joseph, Mo., a mother took her two sons, five and ten, on a shopping tour. The five-year-old became rather obstreperous and she whispered a promise to him. He was so delighted he shouted to his brother, "Jimmy, mama says if I behave, we can go to the jail and see grandma." The mother felt herself growing hot as all eyes within hearing distance turned in her direction. But she decided there was no use explaining. They probably wouldn't even believe it if she told them that grandma worked as deputy sheriff and cook at the county jail.

After a ceremony at the White House in Washington, D.C., a woman forgot her brief case and went back for it. She opened the wrong door and found herself in the President's washroom—with the President. He politely took her by the arm and escorted her out.

Good Things Come in Pears

Ham-Beef Loaf with Peers Piquante, Pear and Tuna Salad Exotica and Pears with Cherries Jubilee demonstrate the versatility of the most elegant of summer fruits, Bartlett Pears. See recipes below.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

GOOD THINGS COME IN PEARS, especially fresh Bartlett pears—things certain to make for enthusiastic table talk every time you serve this versatile fruit.

Whether munched out-of-hand or cut into halves or wedges for breakfast fruit, salads, main dishes or desserts, the just-plain-good eating that juicy pears provide makes them one of the most sought-after delicacies of the summer and early fall.

Pears run the gamut from main dishes, to salads, to desserts, and here are some recipes as examples:

Ham-Beef Loaf With Pears Piquante

- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup crushed cereal crumbs
- 1 tblsp. instant minced onion
- 1 tsp. celery salt
- 1½ tsp. dry mustard
- 1½ tsp. summer savory or thyme
- 2 eggs
- 1 lb. smoked ham
- 1½ lbs. ground lean beef
- 3 or 4 fresh Bartlett pears
- ¼ cup catsup
- 1 tblsp. brown sugar
- 1 tsp. prepared horseradish

Heat milk; pour over crumbs. Add 1 onion, celery salt, mustard and savory. Beat in eggs. Grind ham and add to crumb mixture along with beef. Mix thoroughly. Shape into loaf; place in shallow baking pan. Bake uncovered in 350-degree (moderate) oven 1½ hours or until done. About 30 minutes before loaf is done, halve pears, remove cores and, if desired, pare. Mix together remaining ingredients. Spoon into pear halves; arrange around meat and continue baking. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Pear and Tuna Salad Exotica

- 2 cans (7 oz. each) solid pack tuna
- 1 cup thinly sliced celery
- 2 tblsps. pimiento strips
- 2 tblsp. slivered crystalized ginger
- 2 tblsp. thinly sliced onion
- ¼ cup toasted slivered almonds
- ¼ cup dairy sour cream
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ½ tsp. seasoned salt
- 4 or 5 fresh Bartlett pears
- Salad greens

Separate tuna into chunks. Combine with celery, pimiento, ginger, onion and almonds. Combine cream, mayonnaise and seasoned salt. Pour over tuna mixture; mix carefully. Core pears and cut into wedges with pear slicer or knife. Arrange wedges spoke-fashion on greens-lined plates; spoon tuna mixture into center of each. Serve at once. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Pears With Cherries Jubilee

- 4 to 6 fresh Bartlett pears
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup water
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 jar (1 lb., 1 oz.) dark sweet cherries
- 1 tsp. cornstarch
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ tsp. nutmeg
- 2 thin slices lemon
- 2 or 3 tblsp. Kirsch

Pare, halve and core pears. Arrange in shallow pan. Add 1 cup sugar, water vanilla. Simmer 5 to 10 minutes or until pears are barely tender. Chill. At serving time, drain and pit cherries, saving syrup. Blend cornstarch, ¼ cup sugar and nutmeg into syrup. Add lemon and cherries. Cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until sauce comes to a boil and is clear and slightly thickened. (Or cook in chafing dish at table.) Spoon 2 pear halves into each dessert bowl. Warm Kirsch, flame and pour over cherries, spoon cherries over pears. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

September Care Means Christmas Roses

Roses at Christmas—the old dream—depend largely on the care you give them in September. If you maintain the same schedule of spraying, watering and feeding which you've followed through summer (provided you have been diligent in this respect) the California Association of Nurserymen says your chances for late fall bloom are good.

Flowers should be picked as they start to fade and not allowed to form seed pods. Once a plant forms seed, it feels its work is over for the year and will taper off.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Starting at Six OK

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: "My little girl, 6, seems so young and immature to be going to first grade. Isn't 6 too soon?"

ANSWER: There has to be a starting point. And 6 is the usual age in most schools because it is an age when most children seem ready to begin settling down to classroom routine.

True, some children aren't as ready as others; some are ready much earlier than 6. To meet the problem presented by different rates of development among children, many schools "group" children in the classroom according to readiness and ability.

Parents often are unnecessarily worried about sending a child too soon. More often than not the child is ready for simple instruction. The school program takes into account that the experience is a new one. If a child is healthy and of normal intelligence, and if he has had normal cultural and economic advantages, he is probably ready for school at 6.

NOTE: It may be hard for readers of this column to believe, but there are many, many homes where children never have stories read to them and lack even such simple things as scissors and paste.

A child who has not had normal advantages in his pre-school life may profit from entering school earlier than usual in order to get the skills and experiences needed for satisfactory progress in later school years.

This possibility is being explored in a pilot study in a Pennsylvania school district. In this program children as young as 3½ years will be enrolled for school this year!

QUESTION: "My 5-year-old son is so eager to read that he asks me about the letters and words on cereal boxes at the breakfast table. What shall I do?"

ANSWER: Say a prayer of thanks, tell him what those words are, buy him some simple books, and read him some stories.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Heart Cases Activity Favored

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

HEART ATTACK victims, barring complications, should return to work within three months and reach full working capacity within six, recommends the World Health Organization.

In extreme cases the heart patient should seek part-time employment rather than falling into a sedentary life at home.

Stay-at-home activity —housework, gardening, taking walks —requires as much energy as that needed in clerical work and many industrial jobs, the WHO says.

TOXICOLOGISTS recently had a tough case: Three elderly Canadian couples suffered a violent digestive upset after eating a turkey dinner—but no evidence of poisonous micro-organisms could be found.

The investigation eventually turned to the onions in the turkey dressing. One of the "onions" proved to be a daffodil bulb, an item that can cause food poisoning.

FINAL PROOF of whether a drug causes birth defects in man must be sought in man, says a renowned birth-defects specialist.

Dr. F. Clarke Fraser of McGill University, Canada, insists that animal experiments are no safeguard whatsoever.

The reaction of one species of animal to a drug may vary from that of another species. Example: Cortisone causes cleft palate in mice and rabbits —but not in rats.

A BRITISH doctor says there are no psychiatric grounds for committing an abortion.

Dr. Myre Sim of United Birmingham Hospitals says abortion can't prevent a possible mental disturbance from occurring in the expectant mother. Instead, abortion may trigger a severe disturbance.

"Pressure may be brought to bear on the psychiatrist to recommend termination (of pregnancy)," Dr. Sim states. "He may be told the patient is threatening suicide."

Nonsense, says Dr. Sim. Suicide is less a risk in pregnant women than in non-pregnant women.

ANYONE who suffers a kidney injury, even though it appears to be minor, should be checked periodically by a physician for at least five years.

The advice is that of Dr. John F. Patton, Washington, D. C., a consultant to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Complications may occur months or even years later, Dr. Patton explains. He recommends, among other measures, a check of the blood pressure annually for five years.

A TEST of the once-and-for-all type for the drug procaine to see if it possesses rejuvenating powers will be conducted in Canada.

About 800 residents of homes for the aged—persons from 65 to 90—will be given the drug, it has been announced by the Ontario Geriatrics Research Society.

Intramuscular injections of procaine will be given three times weekly for a month.

Earlier studies have not supported the claims of Dr. Anna Aslan of Bucharest. She has reported striking improvement in elderly patients given procaine (she calls it H3) for conditions such as degenerative joint disease, Parkinson's Disease, peptic ulcer, cardiovascular disease, baldness and skin disorders.

Procaine is also known as Novocain. It is customarily used as an anesthetic.

RECURRENT kidney stones can't be prevented by moving to another section of the country, says a consultant to the Journal of the American Medical Association. There is no such thing as a stone-free belt in the United States.

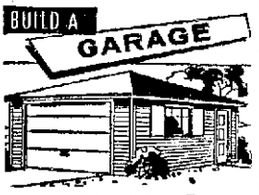

Science has learned, however, that kidney stones are more common in the southeastern part of the U. S. than elsewhere in the nation.

Plunge Geraniums

Clay-potted geraniums plunged in a redwood planter will add a colorful touch to patio or porch areas. Since geraniums are sun-lovers, be sure and select a bright spot for the planter, though some protection from the noon and late-day sun will result in more blooms.

Pack the area between the clay pots and the planter with peat moss and keep the moss wet. The geraniums will soak up sufficient moisture through the porous walls of their clay pots.

Play locomotive and/or caboose can be constructed from an easy to follow plan and will give kids loads of fun.

By Bill Meyerriecks

CHILDREN love to play "grown up." Much of their fun is based on pretending. Boys imagine a discarded cardboard box to be a space capsule while girls become mothers to rag dolls. And it follows that the more realistic the toy, the more fun is involved.

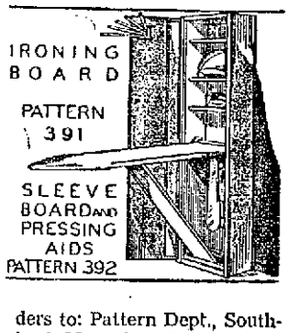

Sketchbook's popular design idea, the Play Train, provides youngsters with a very realistic setting to allow their imagination to run full throttle. What child hasn't thrilled to being a locomotive engineer?

EACH OF the play train's three project, the locomotive, caboose or flat car sand box are pleasant projects to construct. All are made from exterior-plywood. Dad's enthusiasm in building the locomotive or caboose will rival his child's enthusiasm to play trainman. Take the locomotive for instance. It is 2 feet wide, 8 feet long with cab headroom of 4 feet. Outside of the circular wheels, it's nearly all straight cuts and simple nailing. Both locomotive and caboose (which is 2x7 feet) are scaled for preschoolers, but older sisters and brothers will have no trouble imagining themselves as engineers and conductors. Both projects, too, are excellent, safe, exercise climbers.

Typical comment about the Sketchbook Play Train plan was received recently from parents in Columbus, Ohio. They had built the caboose and it is the continual delight of their children's backyard recreation. They're ready now to tackle the locomotive.

Six Miles Over Europe in a Thunderstreak

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

WHAT IS IT like up there, 2,000-pounds of man and machine slashing across the skies at the speed of sound, riding the icy edges of heaven on rolling thunder and a swirling contrail?

How feels the man with power at his fingertips to destroy a city, chop a concrete roadway to gravel, flip an 80-ton tank and bring a napalm Armageddon, a storm of fire, to a scurrying company of foot soldiers?

These are questions for the jet fighter-bomber pilot, men such as Richard Bach of Long Beach, author of a remarkable evocation of the airman's special world, "STRANGER TO THE GROUND" (Harper & Row, $3.50.)

This book, a moment-by-moment re-creation of a solo night mission over Europe, takes the reader into the tiny, crowded, seemingly complex cockpit of an F84F Thunderstreak.

There, six miles above the earth with most of a continent spread at your feet, sealed in with your bank of instruments and thoughts and tethered to the rest of mankind by only a radio beam, you view with immense clarity the strange, beautiful, fearful and remarkably precise world of the fighter pilot.

Bach, an Air National Guardsman, tells of the adventure of flying, from gunnery practices to mass formation drills at air shows to long alert drills, in a tone, cadence and lucidity that marks this small (178-pages) book for a place among the classics of aviation writing.

He is a poet-pilot who, you say, cannot possibly fly as well as he writes, or long ago he would have escaped the earth forever.

"Divorced from my airplane I am an ordinary man, and a useless one—a trainer without a horse, a sculptor without marble, a priest without a god. Without an airplane I am a lonely consumer of hamburgers, the fellow in line at the cash register . . . a brown-haired fellow who is struggling against pitiless odds to master the guitar . . ."

"Europe is a pitifully small place. From 37,000 feet above the Pyrenees I can see the cold Atlantic at Bordeaux and the shores of the French Riviera on the Mediterranean. I can see Barcelona, and in the haze, Madrid. In 30 minutes I can fly over England, Holland, Luxembourg, Belgium, France and Germany. . . . So this was a school for mankind. A small school yard. . . ."

The airplane and man are one to Bach. Both are demanding, unforgiving and oddly charitable of the other. We, Bach uses again and again, to describe the man-machine, the ultimate weapons system.

This great pluralistic monologue—the enchanted, spellbound peruser of these pages will agree—is extended to a third person, the reader.

ONLY WOMAN White House correspondent whose sole full-time assignment is to cover the activities of President Kennedy is Marianne Means, author of "THE WOMAN IN THE WHITE HOUSE" (Random House, $5.95). She presents profiles and personal histories of 12 women who have occupied the White House: Martha Washington, Abigail Adams, Dolly Madison, Sarah Polk, Mary Lincoln, Helen Taft, Edith Wilson, Florence Harding, Eleanor Roosevelt, Bess Truman, Mamie Eisenhower and Jacqueline Kennedy.

JULES FEIFFER

"For some time I've been interested in exploring notions concerning 'love' that we've been reading about: how our ability to love depends on our ability to give, to make contact, to relate meaningfully. So I invented Harry, a man who never considered loving, giving, or making contact and who was perfectly happy—until he began to listen to people around him." Thus Jules Feiffer describes his first novel, "HARRY, THE RAT WITH WOMEN" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50).

Spanish colors of red, white and gold enliven this living-dining room designed by Edna O'Brien, Long Beach, seen in Los Angeles Decorator-Home Furnishings Show.

A Reflection of Spanish Decor

By Caroline Coleman

REFLECTING the new overtones of Spanish influence in home decor, a handsome living-dining room designed by Edna O'Brien of Long Beach highlights the 14th annual Decorators and Home Furnishings Show now under way in Pan Pacific Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Edna O'Brien, a native Californian, is responsible for many beautiful home interiors in the Long Beach area.

Her room at the decorators show is resplendent in red, white and gold. Spanish colors. The floor is of hexagon flagstone. A crystal bead curtain individualizes the dining area. The smart setting can be seen in the Grand Promenade center section of the show, where "avenues" lead to new interiors for every room in the house.

THE SHOW, in the 100,000 square foot Pan Pacific Auditorium, 7600 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, continues its run from 1 to 11 p.m. daily through Sept. 15. The Southern California Chapter of the National Society of Interior Designers sponsors the show, with Robert L. Boyle, president of Pacific Shows, Inc., the producers.

The theme "Avenues to International Design" stresses important design trends from countries around the world which influence 1963 home interiors. In more than 200 room settings interior designers create complete exhibits for every room in the home, including living and dining rooms, bedrooms, outdoor living areas, kitchens, baths. All emphasize new home furnishings, carpets and floor coverings, wall treatments accessories, fabrics and colors.

If you have to remove a dead tree or shrub from your garden, be sure to get every particle of decayed root out of the soil because wherever a tree has died, sour sap or root rot is apt to follow as a result of decomposition, regardless of whether a disease caused the death of the tree or not. Destroy all these root particles definitely and do not under any circumstances leave them lying around.

For further safety, in replacing the soil taken out with the tree, I suggest intermingling about 2½ pounds of agricultural sulphur in the soil you use for replacement. Water it down well and disinfect it with a copper-ether solution. Permit the area to dry out 10 days or so and give it a thorough soaking. Thus you will cleanse your soil to a greater depth and create a fine soil for the growing of new plants.

Give roses their last feeding this week or next. Mid-September is about the latest they should have food.

Plant native shrubs and trees now and water them in well. Set out annual bedding plants for winter bloom.

"Remove Not...

—Drawing by Dick Wallmeyer

Long Beach shares in California's romantic heritage and historical landmarks here make note of this fact.

the Landmark..."

By Maymie R. Krythe

CALIFORNIA'S Admission Day, in its 113th anniversary tomorrow, will recall two events of interest to Long Beach: the posting of historical landmarks in 1947 and 1961. And this year Long Beach also is marking an anniversary of its own — Diamond Jubilee year of the founding of the city.

Biblical importance of preserving landmarks is noted in several injunctions among them PROVERBS 22:28: "Remove not the ancient landmark which thy fathers have set."

Despite the speed of modern progress, Long Beach is taking time to observe the Bible's instruction and to take note of the events of the past that future ages may want to understand. The two such events mentioned above were the placing of historical landmarkers at Rancho Los Cerritos and the Bixby home at Rancho Los Alamitos.

WHEN THE Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West met in Long Beach for a three-day observance of Admission Day in 1947, the climax of the meeting was joined with the Historical Society of Southern California at Rancho Los Cerritos to mark the hacienda as a historical landmark.

Men and women prominent in historical and civic activities were present, and a tour of the grounds was provided.

Fourteen years later, the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West again held a 3-day convention in Long Beach over Admission Day and activities included the placing of the historical marker at the Bixby home. Again civic and historical organizations were well represented and the grounds were open for inspection.

Canines Can Communicate

Speaking of expression, the bassets have it. Champion dog above, owned by Mrs. Clarice Gill, is an example.

By Eleanor Avery Price

JOHN GALSWORTHY wrote, "It is by muteness that a dog becomes for one so utterly beyond value—his adoring soul comes through his eyes."

A dog's eyes do "speak." They can become eloquent with love. And they can shine and dance with happiness until, like Jack London toward Buck in "The Call of the Wild," his owner wants to exclaim reverently, "God! You can all but speak!"

Some say their dog's eyes actually fill with tears at times. Most of us have never witnessed a dog weeping, but we have seen a dog's eyes plead to be understood or to understand, especially when we are scolding him. A dog also can carry a hooded expression of cool defiance when his disobedience was intentional or he feels he does not deserve scolding. And his eyes may gaze with mysterious but simple thoughts of his own.

A DOG'S MOUTH also plays a big part in his "speech." His throat may vibrate when he is pleased or happy. He barks to warn of impending danger, real or imaginary, and he barks in play or to gain attention. He frequently mimics the wailing sound of a siren, and he makes conversational throat noises. He appears to smile or laugh, and he may take his owner's hand in his mouth to feign a bite for a loving caress. (When he is a puppy, he often bears down too hard!)

The dog communicates a great deal with his body. When he is fearful that he is to be punished for something he has forgotten all about or when he has unintentionally made a misdeameanor, his head and tail will lower noticeably. He may even tremble, press himself against a wall, fence, or the floor, roll over on his back or squat in abject surrender.

IF HE HAS deliberately disobeyed, his stance may be dejected, but you will see a more rigid appearance as though he were bracing himself in defiance. Or he may be coolly disdainful.

Disgust is often shown by a tail dropped between the dog's legs and a back turned. Usually a tail between the legs means insecurity, although some breeds normally carry tuck-up tails.

When your dog dashes against you, presses his wet nose into your clothing, leaps up against you, or wiggles from stem to stern, he is showing his pleasure in your company.

A dog may squirm and get into ridiculous positions when he is self-conscious. He may snap at imaginary flies, flick non-existent "things" out of his ears, and in other ways show his embarrassment.

A puppy on a leash may "speak" by leaping about, winding around his trainer's legs, or crying. He needs reassuring.

BEVERLY RIVIERA Kennel Club has its show next Saturday and Sunday at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. Entries close Monday for Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club fall show and obedience trial Sept. 22 at Orange County Fairgrounds; also for California Associated Specialities, Sept. 21, Hollywood Turf Club grounds.

Good Shrub

One of the finest shrubs in the nursery trade is the Pink India Hawthorn—Raphiolepis indica rosea. It thrives in the toughest going, with poor soil and lack of water, always maintaining its clean good looks.

In spring the Pink India Hawthorn is a mass of delicate pink blossoms and these give way to clusters of berries which ripen to a blue-black color by late summer. Try it by the seashore or near the desert. You can't find the place that it won't do its best to please and please it usually does.

Ornamental cycad group creates an exotic setting.

Theirs Was Mesozoic Age

By Bertha Blanchard

ONE OF THE oldest survivors of the original land plants, according to fossil evidence, cycads flourished 300,000,000 years ago, in the early Mesozoic Age, at the same time as the dinosaurs.

Whether the cycad is a palm tree trying to become a fern or a fern aspiring to be a palm is of no concern to us, but they do represent an evolutionary link between ferns and needle-leaved conifers. Cycads are often called "sago palms," although, botanically, they are not a palm.

Today, cycads are among the most ornamental plants of tropical and subtropical gardens. In the Huntington Library gardens in San Marino, there are about 50 specimens from different countries growing in the palm garden. Nurserymen grow the plants in greenhouses from seeds imported from Mexico, Australia, India and Africa or from offshoots of the plants themselves. The hardiest, most popular cycad is the Cycas revoluta and the Ceratozamia mexicana, both may be grown in the garden or in containers. The beautiful, fern-like Dionedule, long a favorite, also can be grown in the Southland.

Fall Arrives in Palm Springs

Two additions to Palm Springs' constantly-changing facade: Aerial Tramway (top) and Palm Springs Spa Hotel.

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

FALL will come to Palm Springs a little earlier this year—this week, in fact.

And the season will close later than ever before in 1964.

That's the opinion of Eddie Davidson, a resident hotel man in the famed California desert resort since 1950.

Davidson cites the opening of the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway as one of several big reasons for his prediction of the resort's lengthening season.

The tramway officially opens Thursday with an inaugural trip on which state and business executives will ride. These well-knowns will include Gov. Edmund Brown, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Art Linkletter, and such industrial leaders as O. N. Miller, president of Standard Oil of California, and Irwin Schuman, president of Palm Springs Riviera Hotel. Each will pay $1,000 for the privilege of the "first ride."

THEN, ON SATURDAY, the $7.7 million "Golden Ride" over chasms and cliffs—to a height of 8,516 feet in the San Jacinto Mountains—will be open to the public. Rates will be $3.50 weekdays and $4 on weekends for adults, $2.25 and $2.75 for children.

Davidson points to the Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce estimate that 3 million vacationers from all over the world will visit the resort during the upcoming 12 months.

He concurs that the tramway will excite the imagination of adults and youngsters everywhere.

But contributing heavily to the expected increased influx are a number of other attractions which include the Palm Springs Spa Hotel and Mineral Springs, one of the most lavish of its kind in the entire country; the opening this month of Palm Springs' department stores; and the scheduling of the Frank Sinatra Golf Invitational for early November.

THE SPA HOTEL, of which Davidson is executive director, is built on the site of the original mineral springs from which Palm Springs derives its name. Its opening in April was an unheard-of event.

"No one opens a hotel in the desert in April," says Davidson, "but we felt then, and our occupancy rate confirms the fact, that a great number of people will come to enjoy the desert during the so-called off season if the right facilities are available."

The scheduling of the Frank Sinatra Invitational for the benefit of the Boys Club of America Nov. 7-12, is certain to attract visitors to the California vacationland. Invitations have been sent to such personalities as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Dean Martin, Bill Casper Jr., Bing Crosby, Bob Goalby, Bob Hope, Doug Sanders, Perry Como and Sammy Davis Jr.

"Time was," Davidson said, "when Palm Springs began its season the week before Christmas and ended it the day after Easter. But now, with the tramway on a year-around schedule, so many golf courses available, hundreds of swimming pools and many fine hotels open, vacationers will find plenty to do and see in Palm Springs—no matter what month they plan their visit."

It's Apple Time in Oak Glen

It's apple time again in Oak Glen, the mile-high orchard paradise north of Beaumont.

All of which calls for a day's outing by thousands of Southlanders who like to picnic amid the bright coloring of fall leaves and at the same time get a supply of tree-ripened apples, fresh from the orchards. And cider!

You can reach the Oak Glen apple ranches—there are 18 of them—by driving north out of Beaumont on Beaumont Ave.; or by taking Oak Glen Road east from Yucaipi.

The apple harvest, just starting, continues into December.

Travel Talk

TRANS WORLD Airlines last week started showing first-run movies in first class cabins on flights operating between Los Angeles and Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washingtotn.

The airline has been showing such film on transatlantic flights to first class passengers for two years, and to economy passengers since May.

Expansion of movies to domestic service will bring to nearly 300 the number of such flights operated each week by TWA over its domestic and international routes.

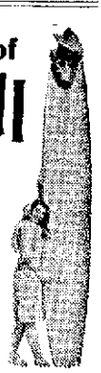

Current planning calls for changing features every Wednesday. Midweek change will help preclude frequent travelers from seeing the same film twice.

"GOLFOPHILES" often say that a vacation without golf simply does not come up to par.

To combine golfing at some of the world's famous fairways with an European holiday, Lufthansa German Airlines has created an interesting three-week tour with Howard E. Smith, well-known California pro, conducting a group from Sept. 14 to Oct. 5.

Two days after arrival in London, golfing starts at St. Andrews Old Course. Then follows a day at St. Andrews New Course, another at Gleneagles' famous inland course, followed by golfing at Sunningdale Golf Club, Berkshire; Prince's Golf Club, Sandwich; and Royal Cinque Port Club, Deal.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

ST. THOMAS, VIRGIN ISLANDS

"We both prefer not to fly. Is there a way to get into Mexico by train? How are they?"

I HAVEN'T been on a Mexican train for a long, long time. U.S. trains make Mexican connections at Nogales, El Paso and Laredo. Word I get is the Aguila Azteca, Laredo to Mexico City daily, is best. Swiss coaches, de luxe compartments, lounge and bar cars and dining service.

Mexico is unpredictable so I'd get ticketed through a travel agency in the U.S. They say the ticket office opens a half hour before the train leaves and at that time everybody's in line.

". . . or could we go around around the country by bus?"

OK IF you take the first-class (sometimes called Pullman) buses. You can find out about these through Greyhound Lines in the U.S.—Greyhound has a very good and inexpensive 18-day tour too.

The big bus lines are very good and have fine buses. But I'd be thoughtful about those second-class commute jobs in the back country. They're always going off roads. And when you go off a Mexican road, it's often 2,000 feet down. The country drivers are all courage and no brakes.

"Where do you get information on those sunny, hideaway islands---anywhere?"

THERE ARE a few islands off the warm, north coast of Australia. Information on them comes from the Australian tourist offices in the U.S., Pan American Airways and Fiji Visitors' Bureau, Suva, Fijis for those islands.

Robin Kinkead went there for Pan American and tells me they are building resorts on some of the atolls around the big island of Viti Levu. Wakaya, 70 miles from Suva, rents native huts sleeping four for $22.70 a week. Daily delivery of kerosene for refrigerator and stove. There's a general store with a radio telephone and supplies.

Tahiti info comes from the French Tourist Bureaus in the U.S. But it's mainly about hotels. The French want traffic through these islands—not settled residents. They figure after two weeks you gear your spending down to the local economy. You're no longer an asset. Fairly expensive for the visitor.

Can't find out much about the coconut islands of Western Samoa since the natives took over from New Zealand. There's been some question whether they wanted any tourists. Used to be expensive.

The Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico are cheap on luxury goods (because of free ports and taxes) but higher than the U.S. on imported staples. Beautiful, tropical country with lots of little islands. You write for information and I'll send along to somebody who will answer.

Jamaica and the Bahamas are a little stiff with imported British starch. Expensive. I don't know whether their tourist bureaus give you much help. They didn't for me.

The Canary Islands. Supposed to be the greatest with good Atlantic beaches, warm climate off Africa and $5 a day keeps you living like a grandee. Probably true since this is Spanish economy. Spanish tourist offices in the U.S.

"You gave a Mexican recipe for sangria with hot sauce but in Portugal that is not what we got . . ."

SANGRITA, not sangria, is the Mexican hot sauce chaser for tequila. Sangria is the refreshing wine punch of Portugal and Spain: Slice one orange, one lemon and put them in a pitcher full of ice. Add a bottle of dry red wine and a third that much of soda. Let it stand for about 15 minutes to let the fruit flavor get in it.

"I would like to arrange and pay for a very good dinner at a very good restaurant for a honeymoon couple going to Europe . . ."

"BE MY GUEST," 20 W. 43rd St., New York City, specializes in this service. They'll send you a catalogue—dinner in Spain at Casa Botlin, $6.75; boat ride on the Seine with dinner in the Eiffel Tower Restaurant, $16.75 etc.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Avenue, Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy for reply only in this colum.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you inform us on the name PRATT. — Mrs. C.P., Garden Grove; Mrs. C.W., Long Beach.

C.P., C.W.: PRATT ancestry began with an Englishman baptized Praett meaning "clever one." The Hundred Rolls record of 1273 lists 30 descendants with this surname in various parts of Britain. The family shield, granted to Edmund Pratt, Lord of the Manor of Carles in Norfolk in the 1500s, is silver. Emblazoned on it are three gold diamonds with black centers, placed between three black balls on a black chevron. The will of John Pratt, an American forefather who died in Massachusetts in 1647, states in part, "Wife sole executrix. When my debts are discharged she shall have ye rest, soe to improve to bringe up the children, and when as they come to age and able to manage it, to give to each one a portion alike."

DEAR MISS RULE: What do you have on STERRENBURG?—B. S., Palmdale.

B. S.: STERRENBURG is Dutch. This word originated as a town name and prior to that was a locality term. Sterren-burg had two divergent meanings. It meant "town among the stars," describing a settlement located at the top of a mountain where it appeared to be "among the stars" at night. Sterren-burg also meant "town where rams are raised," a place in a sheep-raising region. The Sterrenburg coat-of-arms from Holland has a silver horizontal stripe placed between six gold stars on a black shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on BALDWIN, — D.G., Norwalk.

D.G.: BALDWIN, meaning "bold friend and protector," is traced back to Baldwin the Sheriff, a companion of William the Conqueror during the Norman-French subjugation of England in 1066. A probematical ancestry is alternately traced to Baldwin of Flanders, a famous Crusader who became King of Jerusalem in A.D. 1096. Family records list Thomas Baldwin of Oxford, 1273, and and Roger Baldwin, 1390. The Baldwin shield is silver, emblazoned with a black "X"-shaped cross. Timothy, Joseph and Nathaniel, sons of Richard Baldwin of Buckingham, England, settled in Connecticut in 1639. One of their descendants fought with American patriots at Lexington, Mass., in 1775. The Baldwin apple was named for him.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain RHODES.—P.T., Long Beach.

P.T.: RHODES, from the early English word "rodes," had three divergent meanings. "Rhodes" designated "property at a crossroads," while other Rhodes lineages descended from an ancestor who resided at a "rodes," or group of roadside crosses that formed a religious shrine. Rodes also refers to "clearings in a forest." The shield granted to descendants of Gerard de Rodes, 12th century owner of Horn Castle, Lincolnshire, is silver, deco-two blue acorns.

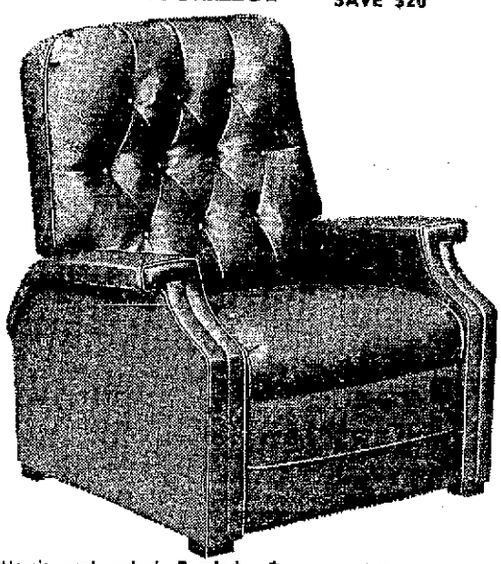

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give information on BURNEY.—C.B., Long Beach.

C.B.: BURNEY is primarily from an English locality called "Burne-ig," meaning "river island." Another source is the Gaelic Scotch clan name MacBiorna, meaning "Sons of the Bear." MacBiorna was modernized as MacBurney and Burney.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze CRANER.—V.A., Orange.

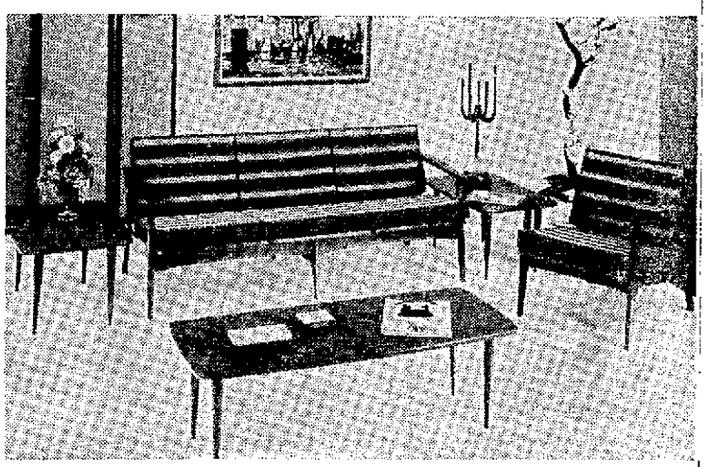

V.A.: CRANER is Americanized from the dialectial German surname of Kraner. The original usage of Kraner was locational, for it meant "owner of a pool."

Schedule Your Garden Chores

By Joe Littlefield

WORKING and living at the modern pace increases the need for relaxation and recreation, whether it be sports, some type of hobby or just getting outdoors in the garden.

Some men don't like gardening, even though they feel mowing the lawn saves money for the garden budget.

Other men take to gardening, like baby ducks take to water. They love it, the hard digging part of gardening as well as pleasant action of cutting beautiful flowers to bring proudly into the house for the "missus" to use in flower arrangements.

SOMETIMES, men who hate gardening when they first start in, eventually develop a liking for it. Something about gardening grows on them. Perhaps its the consciousness of the mystery of life in unfoldment of beautiful flowers, growth of plants, lawns, and trees.

As they continue to garden, whether on weekends or odd moments of time, every day or so, unconsciously they work into a groove of doing seasonally what comes naturally. They seem to work into the knack of doing first things first.

For instance, when we finally were able to spare a few odd moments nearly each day for a week, we first decided cannas in the long narrow flower bed were too huge. Out they came. That's all the time we had that day.

Next spot of garden time was spent in cutting off old brown amarcrinum foliage.

As we cleaned the old amarcrinum foliage, we discovered a few mealy bugs. We pondered a moment . . . should we drop our work right here, get out the spray gun and spray or should we finish the cleanup job, pulling off old iris foliage, cutting the back rest of bloomed-out stalks of Little Gem asters, and pulling out rest of weeds in immediate garden area. Common sense dictated we finish grooming the garden which we did.

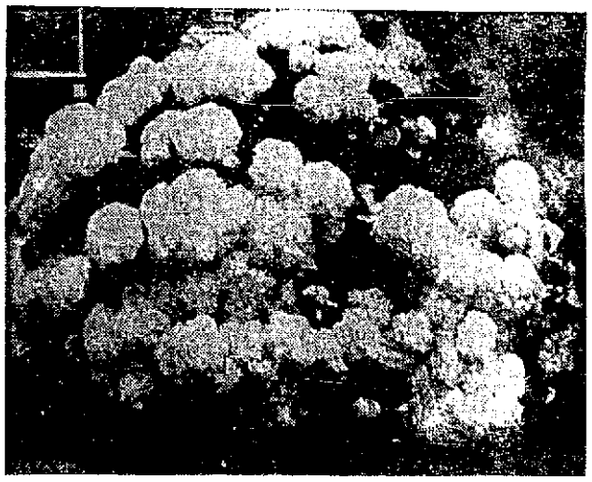

A day later we did the spraying job. We sprayed not only the amarcrinums, but the rest of the plants in that garden area, even though they didn't need it. Part of good gardening is preventive pest control.

WE DID a thorough job of not only spraying the plants, but the premoistened soil between plants; because pests sometimes exist on fallen foliage, and maybe pest or two is nesting in the soil. Spraying was all we could do this time.

A couple of days later, the preciously hoarded gardening time enabled us to clean off old day lily foliage, loosen soil for better water absorption, thin out short twiggy rose growth, cut off old flower heads, then soak the soil heavily and feed the roses.

As you can see, these gardening jobs weren't done in one day. But what a difference those little jobs made in the improvement of the plants and small garden areas.

Had we tried to do it all on a weekend it would have been a truly formidable assignment.

Among garden chores for those who have hydrangeas is pruning to within two-three buds of last season's growth.

Are Wood Yachts Due for 'Deep 6'?

Hull of the all-aluminum yacht, Kialoa II, is shown under construction in a factory building in Torrance.

By Lou Jobst

A REVOLUTION of yacht racing may be shaping up in a Southland factory.

A 73-foot sloop, Kialoa II, is being constructed for builder-sportsman John B. Kilroy at the Harbor City yards of Yacht Dynamics.

The Kialoa II is all aluminum from stem to stern and will be the largest all-aluminum racing sloop in the United States when completed. Will it signal the end — in nautical terms, the "Deep Six"—for wooden yacht building? Time and experience will decide.

Slated to fly the colors of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, Kilroy hopes to have the sleek, metal offshore racer ready for the Newport Harbor to Ensenada International Yacht Race next spring.

THE BOAT will weigh 96,000 pounds and will carry 2,700 square feet of sail and a crew of 16.

Although sailing purists say a metal boat is out of place in a sport which has been dominated by wooden boats throughout history, the Kialoa's builder, Kenneth Watts, president of Yachts Dynamics, cares to differ.

"Costwise," said Watts, "we believe aluminum boats can be built cheaper than boats of wood.

"THE VALUE of a boat like the Kialoa II 20 years from now will be worth a lot more than the money paid for it.

"An aluminum boat will not get what we call tired. After 30 years of use, it will be just as rigid and strong as it is today.

"A wooden boat has a tendency to get sort of lax or hogback, just like a chair. It requires greater upkeep and takes on a musty odor in a few years.

"An aluminum boat won't leak, requires little maintenance especially below the waterline which is important for racing and weighs one-third less than a wooden boat about the same size."

ALUMINUM, he continued, is more reliable than wood.

"One spruce mast may be fine and maybe a second one, too. But the third could be flexible and rubbery."

Heresy?

Only the racing season will tell.

Planting Hobby

We're becoming a nation of pot plant hobbyists. Nearly seven out of ten U. S. households now has one or more living plants growing either indoors or on fully or semi-enclosed porches, patios and terraces, according to a recent study by the National Clay Pot Manufacturers, whose member companies produce the millions of porous clay flower pots in which most quality plants are grown.

Recipe of the Week

DISH THAT'S A WINNER with the appetite at suppertime scores in the weekly Best Recipe contest, too, winning $5 for Mrs. Virginia Jay Rolley, 2411-B E. Ocean Blvd., Long Beach 3. The recipe:

"Sweet and Sour Summer Supper Delight"

2 lbs. ground beef
1 large red onion or medium yellow onion
1 regular size can tomato soup
1 can whole kernel corn No. 2 size
Salt and pepper to taste
Sour dough French bread slices

Chop and saute onion. Add meat and saute, chop, stir and mix until all meat is finely cooked. Lower heat and add can of tomato soup. Stir well and allow to cook over low heat for 20 minutes as minimum time allowed. Drain corn and add whole kernels to meat mixture. Remove from heat and serve over sour dough French bread spread with Miracle Whip or cream cheese.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

THELMA MACK

REMEMBER your last trip to Hawaii? Remember the islands' dazzling colors, the pretty barefoot girls, men in gay shirts and all the gorgeous flowers?

It may be some time before you get back there. Meanwhile you can recapture all the tropical glories of the islands simply by visiting the spacious, glamorous Hawaiian restaurant at 4645 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. With its lush green plants, bamboo, fish netting, and lighted aquariums, this fine dining establishment offers unmatchable relaxation and outstanding dining pleasures. The hostesses are pretty girls with flowers in their hair who often go barefooted, and the waiters are elegant gentlemen in white trousers and colorful Hawaiian shirts.

Owner-hostess Thelma Mack, a tiny bundle of supercharged energy, provides her guests with entertainment nightly, including the brilliant voice of George Kainapau, The Islanders orchestra and Hawaiian and Tahitian dancing by lovely maids in tropical costumes.

Thelma also directs the bustling activities of the restaurant's banquet rooms which accommodate small groups as well as throngs of hundreds. Banquets and special parties may enjoy American or Cantonese specialties from the Hawaiian's extremely versatile menu.

Dinner guests continually compliment Thelma on the high quality of her cuisine. The American dinners, extremely large and complete from soup and salad to dessert, are priced from $2.60. The Cantonese dinners, mingling elaborate, exotic flavors, are from $3.25. Charcoal-broiled steaks, sea food and chicken are also featured.

Q. The following Englishmen, traitors to Great Britain, have given information to the Russians: Burgess, MacLean, Nunn May, Philby, Linney, Marshall, Clarence, Wraight, Lonsdale, Vassall, Blake, Patckett and two scientists who worked for the British, Klaus Fuchs, born in Germany, and Bruno Pontecorvo, born in Italy. I would like to find out how many of these men are of the Jewish faith and which ones gave the Russians the most valuable information.—R.L.H., Dallas, Tex.

A. Only one, Bruno Pontecorvo, is Jewish. The most valuable espionage information passed to the Russians was the principle for the manufacture of the atom bomb. This information was passed by Klaus Fuchs, a German born, naturalized Britisher, son of a Quaker pastor, and since his youth a dedicated Communist.

Q. Is it true that Jim Hagerty, Ike's former press secretary, has been kicked upstairs at the ABC-TV network because he goofed on the Hiss telecast? — B. Stevens, Miami, Fla.

A. Hagerty recently was transferred from the ABC news department and appointed vice-president in charge of corporate relations, a newly created job.

Q. I've been told that Elizabeth Taylor uses foul language. Is this true?—D.K., Louisville, Ky.

A. True.

Q. For years now fat exking of Egypt, Farouk, has been fooling around with an Italian cutie, Irma Capace Minutolo. Why doesn't he marry the babe? —O. C. Camden, Woodbridge, N.J.

A. Says Farouk, "Because I am a Moslem and she a Roman Catholic... and if Irma became my queen she would have to give up her art." Irma's art is singing.

Q. I know Richard Nixon has said over and over again that he has renounced all future political ambitions, but isn't there a good chance that he will again run for elective office? — Jay Gorley, Los Angeles, Calif.

A. An excellent chance, because he is essentially a political personality.

Q. Is Sonny Liston illiterate?—George Tyrus, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. Just about.

Q. For years I've been hearing about the "Angel of Amsterdam." Who or what? Please identify.—E. V. Stuart, College Park, Md.

A. She is a 50-year-old spinster, Alida Bosshardt, a Major in the Salvation Army who has been administering to the needy in Amsterdam's red light district for the past 15 years.

Q. When Prince Philip was naturalized in England, changing his nationality from Greek to British, why was the news of his naturalization not carried by the press? — G.T.R., Falmouth, Mass.

A. As a special favor to the royal family, British newspapers suppressed the news.

Q. Is there a feud in Washington between CIA Chief John McCone and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara?—G.T., Augusta, Ga.

A. No feud, just a professional rivalry between the CIA and the Defense Intelligence Agency set up by McNamara in 1961.

Q. Is it true that no man can join the U.S. Secret Service unless he is ambidextrous and can fire a gun with both hands?—Al Demarest, Oakland, Calif.

Q. I read where millionairess Mamie Spears Reynolds, granddaughter of Hope Diamond-owner Evalyn Walsh McLean, married the salesman who sold her one of her racing cars. No mention was made of the girl's mother. What became of her?—J.L., Alexandria, Va.

A. Evalyn McLean Reynolds died at the age of 24 in 1946 of an overdose of sleeping pills.

Q. Sean Connery, who plays Ian Fleming's hero, James Bond—is he married?—A.C., Pendleton, Ore.

A. Yes—to British actress Diane Cilento.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you?

Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy?

And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing, appliances and furnishings that appeal to her?

Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience?

Nowhere.

So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. And then watch someone's pocket or purse carry it to the conclusion you hoped for.

Print makes sense because print makes sales.

TV'S BEN CASEY: HE TREATS MILLIONS OF WOMEN

by LLOYD SHEARER

What is there about success and failure that arouses respectively the hostility and kindness in man, especially in this town?

Five years ago, when Vince Edwards was a 28-year-old job-seeker, bumming around Hollywood, trying to keep body and soul together playing heavy bits in Grade D pictures, dates like Marilyn Monroe and Shelley Winters described him as "a nice guy . . . an actor with training . . . a fellow who knows his business . . . a fine singer . . . all he needs is one good break." Colleagues spoke well of him; casting directors agreed that he had much potential as an actor; agents understood his frustration and were tolerant.

Fantastically successful as TV's Ben Casey, young Edwards today finds himself criticized as "an actor who runs the gamut from A to B . . . the original Mr. Lucky . . . a nothing whose temperament is larger than his talent . . . a surly sorehead . . . the living proof that anyone can become a star on TV so long as he has two eyes."

Seemingly from nowhere, but in reality from the basic depths of man's contradictious human nature, Vince's fame as the churlish, ill-tempered neurosurgeon, Ben Casey, has won an army of detractors, largely male.

The actor's agent, a super-shrewd cookie named Abbe Greshler, explains the antagonism in terms of economics. "Vince," he points out, "will probably earn a million dollars in 1964 or close to it. For a guy from Brooklyn who used to dig ditches not so long ago, this is pretty good pickings, and lots of people resent it.

"Let me show you just how great this guy is doing," Greshler pridefully continues. "To begin with, on the TV show he gets from $350,000 to $400,000 a year. In addition, he owns 12.5 per cent of the program outright. He also owns half of the merchandising. Very few shows lend themselves to merchandising, but we have Ben Casey doctor's kits, charms, blouses, pajamas, magazines, comic books.

"Then there's the very important element of nonexclusivity which I obtained for him. Bing Crosby Productions owns the Ben Casey show, but they had to agree to close down for six weeks so Vince could go over to Europe last year and star in a motion picture, The Victors, with Rosanna Schiaffino (see cover). He filmed for a little less than five weeks, for which I got him $100,000.

"Now he's up for three more films, all class productions: The Chase for Sam Spiegel, Catch-22 for Columbia, and Ship of Fools for Stanley Kramer. We turned down Youngblood Hawke for $200,000, so that'll give you some idea of his present movie salary.

A HIT AT LAS VEGAS

"In addition," Greshler goes on, "Vince is now a full-fledged night-club attraction. He opened in Las Vegas this year, getting $38,500 for the package, and he wowed 'em. Not everyone can afford Las Vegas prices, so we're booking him for five or six weeks at different spots at $25,000 per week.

"I guess you've heard of the Sony Corporation in Japan—electronics. They've offered Vince $100,000 anytime he wants to come to Japan. From Australia we've got a $50,000 offer. And I don't know if I've mentioned Vince's record album income. But his first album brought in close to $100,000 royalty money. He's also been paid $10,000 for by-lining a few articles.

"Now what I contend," says Greshler, "is that many people out here are jealous, particularly those who haven't done as well as Vince, and how many have? Not only that, but the boy has a fine head on his shoulders. He doesn't make many mistakes. When it comes to money he's careful and conservative.

"He employed a very fine firm of accountants, Arthur Young & Co., and they've arranged payments from the TV show so that Vince has absolute financial security for the next 14 years. He's assured, come hell or high water, of receiving a certain number of dollars every week.

"Edwards is the kind of guy who —although he's made it—wants to make sure he's made it. This guy doesn't have very many weaknesses, and that doesn't sit so good with the people out here who are constantly looking to tear him down. They are simply jealous because his earning power has zoomed so tremendously in the past two years."

A fundamental law in the psychology of man is that we always tend to do what makes us feel superior. If Vince Edwards is successful, many of his contemporaries, failures by comparison, downgrade his acting ability in order to feel superior. Those most envious of Edwards are those who feel most deprived of accomplishment or feminine admiration. In order for a man to like himself, he must achieve.

Vince Edwards is widely admired by women, because women are psychologically attracted to goodness, and on the TV screen, Ben Casey is the good surgeon, the life-saving doctor in sterile armor. Women do not need achievement to feel fulfilled. What they need is to identify with someone or something good, which in a way is why they like jewelry. They bask in its radiance. To women, Vince Edwards represents strength, goodness, accomplishment, virility and reliance—the good doctor—which is why they regard him not with jealousy, but with love.

What is Vince Edwards really like, and what has success done to him?

He is a kind, personable and friendly bachelor—not at all like the surly, sullen, forthright surgeon you see on TV. A big man (6-feet-2) with the gym-trained musculature of a veteran athlete, he is surprisingly more intellectual than he looks. Well educated (Ohio State, and the University of Hawaii, where he majored in swimming), he speaks fluently and grammatically on a wide variety of subjects ranging from esoteric philosophy to the fragile poetry of Emily Dickinson.

Basically a searching, introspective person, he goes to a psychoanalyst from time to time "in order to get to know myself."

Ask him a simple question: "Do you handle success better than you did failure?" And he thinks a moment, his green eyes growing meditative, then replies in a throaty voice tainted ever so lightly by a Brooklyn accent:

"It's much more difficult to handle success. With failure I had no responsibility except to myself, so I just drifted along. But with success, especially on television, a performer finds suddenly that he has many responsibilities. You have a public responsibility, a social responsibility; you have responsibilities to your work, to the people you are involved with—the company, the network, your colleagues. If you're delinquent in your responsibility, costs mount up.

THE COST OF SUCCESS

"The result," Vince continues, "is that success changes your behavior pattern. In the old days I could date any girl I wanted, providing she wanted me, and we could go to a movie or a night club, do whatever we liked, and no one cared. Now, believe it or not, I can't go for a walk on Hollywood Boulevard. I can't go to a movie on Saturday nights. I can't take a girl into an ice-cream parlor. I can't go to Disneyland without getting mobbed. I can't go to a race track without being bothered. I have to select out-of-the-way restaurants, or I become a spectacle.

"Wherever I go I have the feeling that people are watching me, so my behavior in public has to be like Caesar's wife, beyond reproach. The truth about me is that I'm a guy who likes to live and have a good time. I'm gregarious as hell, not tight-lipped. I enjoy my work, and I like playing night clubs and establishing a rapport with a live audience. Maybe I'm introspective and moody once in a while—who isn't? But I'm not the surly character reporters have written about. I'm not a hostile, screwed-up guy. Occasionally I visit an analyst, not because I need the therapy, but merely to explore different facets of my mind. In this business you can lose your true identity overnight, and I'm not about to do that. I know who I really am."

Vince Edwards is really Vincento Zoino, the youngest of seven children—he's a twin—of Vincento and Julia Zoino, Italian immigrants. His father, now dead, was a construction laborer on the New York subways who tried as best he could to raise his family in a cold-water flat, in the Murder, Inc., district of Brooklyn. It was from this area that many of today's Mafia killers sprung, and it was with them that Vince was raised.

Even on stage Vince Edwards, 33, and still a bachelor, is shown exercising his magic powers over the fair sex.

Were environment the major conditioning factor of his life, he should be behind bars today. But in his case, his mother, an iron-willed woman fiercely determined to have her sons rise above their heritage, pulled Vince off the neighborhood streets at night, made him study and account strictly to her for his time.

Vince was sent to East New York High School, where he took a vocational course in aviation mechanics. But what got him into college was his swimming ability. He worked summers as a lifeguard and in 1946 won the Metropolitan A.A.U. 100-meter backstroke title. On the strength of that, Ohio State gave him a scholarship. "Otherwise," he says, "I couldn't have afforded college."

After two years at Ohio, Edwards transferred to the University of Hawaii so he could practice swimming all year around and qualify for the Olympic team. He was no great shakes as a student, wandering from one course to another, not really knowing what he wanted to specialize in. One summer he worked as a lifeguard at the Olympic Hotel in New York's Borscht Circuit. He filled in as an emcee and part-time entertainer. The following fall, when he returned to Hawaii, he decided to join the University of Hawaii Players and the Honolulu Community Theater.

He then decided to become an actor. He quit school and enrolled in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts along with Grace Kelly, John Cassavetes and Anne Bancroft.

For the next 11 years he lived the haphazard life of the struggling actor—chorus boy in* High Button Shoes, the road company of Come Back, Little Sheba, *television, a six-month contract with Hal Wallis, tours in theatrical stock companies, singing in night clubs—an actor on the prowl for "just one good break," disgruntled, frustrated, depressed, angry, unfulfilled, haunted by the feeling that "time was running out and I was going nowhere in a hurry," a hungry, hard-up actor finding escape in women, autos, airplanes.

Out of left field in 1961 came the long-sought "break." As Abbe Greshler tells it, "Ben Casey was originally called The Doctors. The idea for the TV series came from Jim Moser, who had previously written the Medic series. One day Howard Koch, who works for the Sinatra company and had been borrowed by Bing Crosby Productions to put Casey together, phoned me. 'We gotta have a guy,' he said. 'Got any suggestions?'

"I said, 'How can I suggest when you guys are hoarding the script and won't let anyone see it?' So they sent the script, and I read it, and I knew right away that Ben Casey was Vince Edwards, because they didn't want a pretty boy, they wanted a rugged guy. And Koch said, 'I think you're right. Bring him in tomorrow.'

"We tried to find Vince," Greshler explains, "and that was never an easy job. The guy knows six hundred thousand dames; he's also a motorcycle and sports enthusiast. We found him on a motorcycle track in Artesia. I sat him down in my den and said, 'Now read this. This is you.' So he read the script and agreed I was right, and the next morning I took him down to Desilu Studios and Howard Koch was there and Bob Coryell and Fielder Cook, the director, and they all agreed Vince was Ben Casey, but they wanted to make a test. I'm against screen tests, so I said, 'I'll tell you what. I'll send over some film from The Deputy,' a TV thing he had done. They liked it, and that's how Vince got the part. We signed originally for $1,750 plus 100 per cent residuals, but soon Vince was earning $3,000 a week because of overtime. Then when I saw how hot he was, six weeks after the show went on the air, I started getting calls from all over the country. They wanted Vince to make personal appearances. I renegotiated the deal."

STILL UNSPOILED

That was two years ago. Despite the fabulous financial and popular success these years have brought, Vince Edwards remains remarkably unspoiled. He still lives in a one-bedroom hillside Hollywood house. He pays the gardener $10 a month, which will give you a small idea of how large the place is. He works hard five days a week, employs two secretaries to handle his mail, doles out money and jobs to "fellows who knew me when," is partial to the company of women, "because I had a happy rapport with my mother as a child. I identify with her, and to me women seem like good and noble creatures."

"If you think women are such good and noble creatures," I asked him, "how come you're 33 and you've never married?"

"Well," Edwards confessed, "I'm apprehensive about marriage, because right now I don't have the time for it. After all, things are going pretty good for me, and in this business a fellow's got to make it while he can."

The truth about TV's Ben Casey and marriage, however, is that he's got more women pursuing him than he knows what to do with. Says Benny Goldberg, a former boxing champion who works for Vince, "This guy would have to be nuts to get married. He already owns the world's largest harem. There are 20 million dames in this country completely gone on him. Many of 'em actually believe he's a doctor. Only the other day we got a special delivery air mail letter from some dame in Dallas. She said she'd been wanting to have a baby for the past 15 years and no one could help her. Wouldn't Vince be a good physician and take her case? She'd love to have a little Ben Casey."

FRUITFUL YEARS. At what age does the typically successful American earn most money? Statistics taken from a large group of successful men show that total income received up to age 40 barely equals the income received during the next 6 years. The major accumulation period is almost invariably after age 55. In short, money comes with age when there isn't much time left to enjoy it.

POWER SHIFT. The design of the postwar world is changing. Its domination by the two great powers, the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R., is being challenged. Communist China feels strongly that it should usurp the leadership of the Red nations. Between the U.S. and France lies profound disagreement as to role and purpose. As a fledgling nuclear power, France proposes to lead a European coalition headed by itself and Russia. When China achieves a nuclear posture, its protective dependence on Russia will cease. What bothers us and the Russians, now that we have signed a nuclear test ban, is how to curb the spread of nuclear weapon experimentation by other nations. Can we and the Russians say to China or Israel or Egypt, "Nuclear weapons in your hands are too dangerous. We forbid them."? The days of the Cold War may be ending. To prevent a world holocaust brought on by other nations, we and the Russians may well find ourselves in the same bed. Certainly we are heading in that direction.

PHONEY WINE. Until a few weeks ago Italian wine bottlers were under no obligation to prove that their bottles contained the type of wine claimed on their labels. In recent years, for example, it's been estimated that one-third of Italy's wines came not from grapes, but from dates, figs, dried apples, synthetic alcohol and beans used for feeding horses. Hundreds of bottles labeled "Chianti," an exclusive product of Tuscany, contain a liquid which is anything but and comes from everywhere but Tuscany. The fraud has now become so outrageous that the Italian Ministry of Agriculture has proposed the first nation-wide census of wine growers and the types of wine they produce.

PRISON RULED OUT.

Conscientious objectors to French military service will no longer be imprisoned. Instead they will be assigned noncombatant or civilian jobs for twice the normal military enlistment period of 18 months.

EFFECT OF HORROR FILMS.

What is the effect of horror films on children? Dr. Frederick Wertham, psychiatrist and author, believes that violence on TV and in motion pictures has made the average U.S. child indifferent to human suffering, has contributed to the rise of crime by the young. "Thirty years ago," Dr. Wertham says, "a person who committed murder was at least 17 or 18. Today it is not uncommon to see murderers of 12 and 13, while children 8 and 9 are found torturing each other and committing acts of sadism." In refutation, Herman Cohen, Hollywood producer of horror films, says, "I'm performing a public service because my horror films provide a healthy way of releasing fear and tension." Cohen, who produces such films as I Was a Teen-Age Frankenstein, How To Make a Monster, Werewolf and others of that type, explains that by participating vicariously in on-screen violence, children rid themselves of their own violent and hostile impulses.

VINCENT PRICE IN HAUNTED PALACE SCENE.

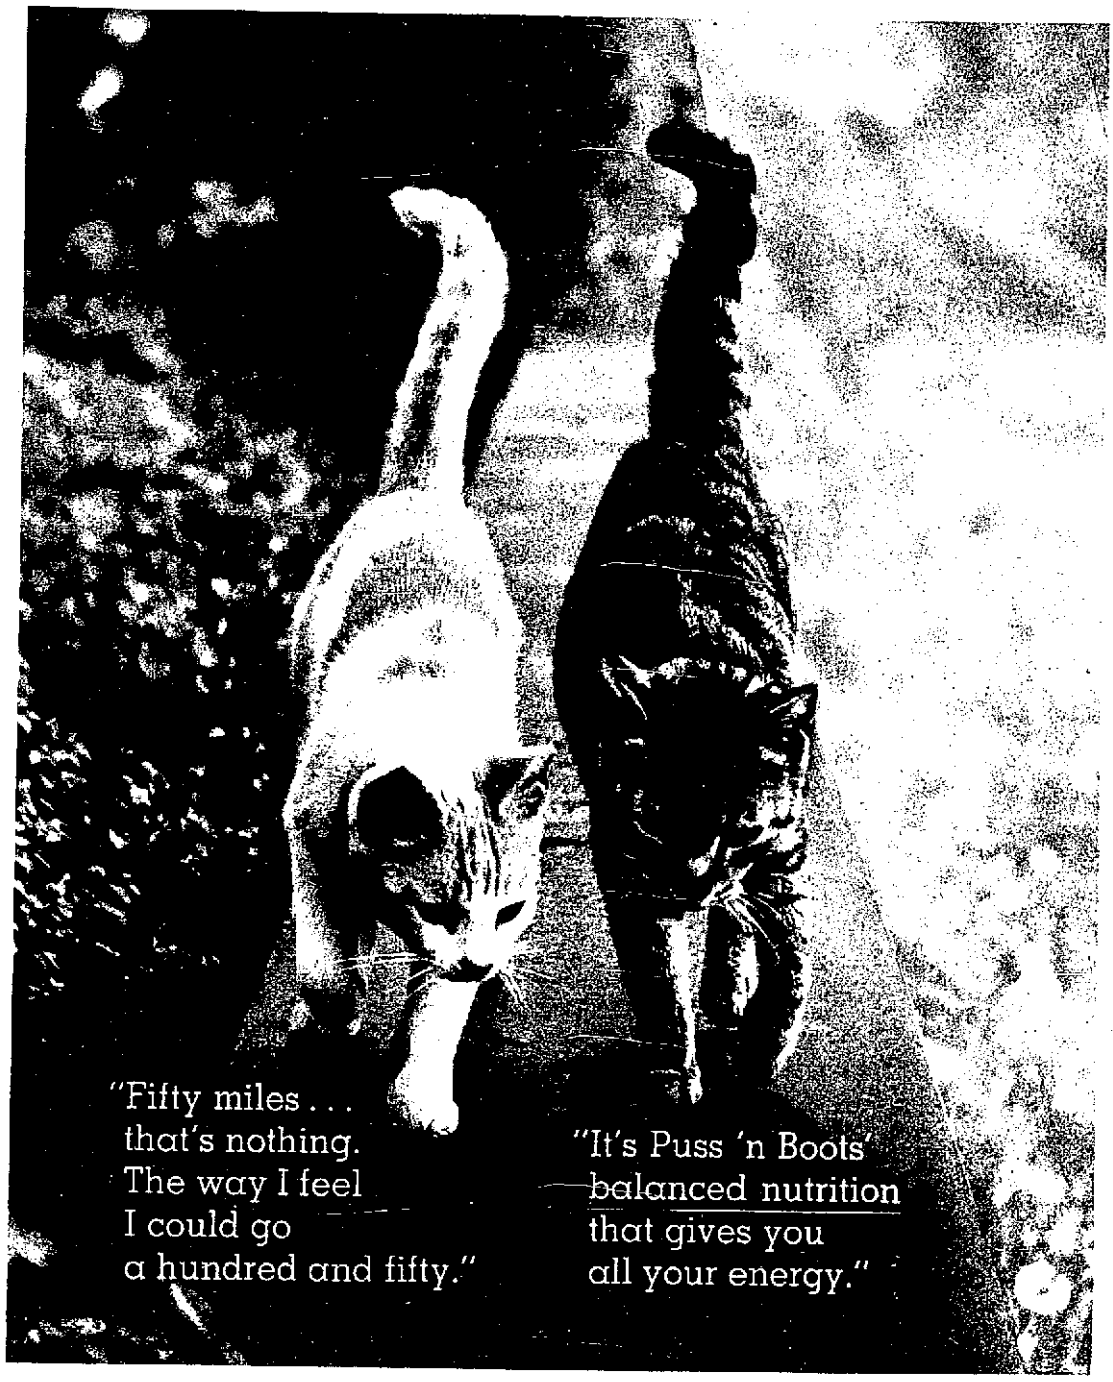

SCOTCH-DRINKERS.

Americans are the world's biggest Scotch-drinkers. They buy about 120 million bottles per year. We consume more than half of Scotland's whiskey output, making Scotch Britain's second-largest export to America. The first is machinery.

WEATHERVANE.

If times are good for the auto industry, it follows that the nation's economic health will also be good. Reason: autos consume 1/5 of this nation's steel, 45% of its lead, 60% of its rubber, large percentages of its glass, zinc, nickel and aluminum.

NOBEL PEACE PRIZE WINNERS ANSWER THE QUESTION:

IS PEACE IMPOSSIBLE?

What is the path to peace? And can the world ever walk down that path?

In this thermonuclear age, this is the foremost question before all governments and all mankind. Agreement on an international test-ban treaty has offered the world a glimmer of hope, but all humanity knows that complete peace and tranquillity are still far away.

In the world one group of men have made this question a matter of special concern. They are holders of the Nobel Peace Prize, awarded yearly under a trust from late Swedish munitions-maker Alfred Nobel.

From the wisdom of these men might come the fresh start the world needs toward international peace. With this in mind, PARADE asked each for their ideas "of preserving peace and saving the world from nuclear war."

The answers of four of these men follow. And in their words may be the impetus the world needs to carry it to a final end to nuclear peril and tension.

LORD BOYD ORR, British agricultural and health expert, received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1949 for work as head of the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization.

"The two biggest problems facing our civilization today are the armaments race and the increasing poverty of the poor continents. I suggest that these evils should be made to cancel each other out:

"America and Russia, who are both anxious to avoid suicide in a nuclear war but cannot agree on terms of disarmament, should agree to reduce their military budgets by, say, 10 per cent and devote half of the savings to an international fund, to be managed by businessmen on business lines. This fund would give long-term credit to the poor countries to enable them to import food and the industrial products needed to improve agriculture and set up allied industries.

"This would change the conflict between East and West, with the threat of mutual destruction, to co-operation for mutual benefit."

FATHER DOMINIQUE PIRE, a Dominican priest, won a Nobel Prize for aid to war refugees and for his organization, "World of the Heart," sponsoring international goodwill.

"I believe that peace is not merely the absence of war, the 'silence of cannons,' the mere presence of two hostile disarmed people. Indeed, a disarmed man has not become a better man. Therefore peace is, above all, something positive.

"There are three paths to peace. The first, based on mutual distrust, is to arm.

"The second path, based on trust, is nonviolence. Its weakness lies in the fact that nonviolence presumes that one's opponent is trustworthy.

"The third and best path is based on the fight against a priori distrust.

"Such a short message, unfortunately, does not give us time to state all the essential facts about fraternal dialogues. But I can give my readers three concise sentences. The first comes from my friend Dr. Albert Schweitzer, who said to me, 'The best work for peace is to fight against preconceived mistrust.' The second, from an Orthodox friend, sums up how to practice Fraternal Dialogue: 'Men know and esteem each other by working together at something useful.' The last shows the importance of Fraternal Dialogue. 'If the atomic bomb falls on the world tomorrow, it is because you quarreled with your neighbor today.'"

PHILIP NOEL-BAKER, member of Parliament, political philosopher, is the British Labor Party's expert on disarmament and the United Nations. He received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1959.

"'Wars begin in the minds of men,' says the preamble to the Statute of UNESCO. And it continues: 'It is in the minds of men, that the defenses of peace must be constructed.' In the minds of men, not presidents and senators and ambassadors alone, but every reader of PARADE.

"In 1963, with nuclear armaments piling up throughout the world in fabulously greater quantities every year, men on both sides of the Iron Curtain need to examine very carefully what is in their minds.

"What are the illusions that threaten to become the unseen assassins of the human race? In the East, the Russians and the Chinese believe the Eastern capitalists are preparing to wipe out their Communist regimes. They can quote all too much history to support this view, but it is an illusion all the same.

"It is an illusion to believe, as many Communists profess to believe, that the Western people will ever abandon democratic rights and institutions. It is, furthermore, an illusion to believe that the German nation can be permanently divided.

"But we in the West have our illusions too. We speak of 'the horrors of Communism.' But we forget that the Russian people knew no democracy or freedom under the Czars nor did the Chinese people under their emperors.

"It is an illusion to believe that more bombs will make the Western nations safer. It is an illusion to believe that a viable society would survive a large-scale nuclear war or that democracy would survive.

"It is an illusion to believe that ideologies and economic systems can be contained, still less defeated, by military force. And it is an illusion to think that the ordinary citizen can do nothing about the arms race. It will end at once if enough people show they want it to.

"The only hope lies in the general and complete disarmament, under international control, which all the Western governments have declared to be their aim. Our hope of safety lies in the popular support which that policy receives."

ALBERT SCHWEITZER, philosopher, physician, musician, writer, operates a hospital for Africans in Lambarene, Republic of Gabon. His prize came for humanitarian works.

"It has been reckoned that with the powerful and numerous atomic weapons which East and West today have at their disposal, the death toll on the first day of a war would be more than 200 million people. Therefore, a political problem between them can no longer be important enough to be the cause of an atomic war. Any policy which does not take into account this horrible power of extermination is a policy of adventure.

"If we are to once again lead a civilized existence, nothing remains for us but to resolve to abolish atomic weapons.

"The big problem in negotiations about abolition of atomic weapons is that neither of the parties feels the other to be trustworthy. To set up controls is no way to replace mutual confidence. Mutual confidence can only be achieved through strong public opinion.

"There has been an effort to pursue political ends without the backing of public opinion. This is impossible with such a grave issue. If governments would let a public opinion grow up on this issue then agreement over the abolition of atomic weapons would come about naturally."

Does The Bible CONTRADICT Itself?

You might think so, from the variety of meanings people take from it today.

Divorce and remarriage, for example, is widely prevalent among Christians. And some try to justify it by Holy Scripture. Yet Jesus said: "What God has joined together let no man put asunder" (Mark 10:2-12). And St. Paul tells us: "For the married woman is bound by law while her husband is alive . . . that a wife is not to depart from her husband; and if she departs she is to remain unmarried . . ." (Rom. 7: 2-3).

Confession to a priest is scoffed at by many Christians. "We confess our sins to God," they say. But if Jesus wanted us to confess directly and privately to God, why did He say to the Apostles: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost; whose sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose sins ye retain they are retained" (John 20:21-23)?

The Bible says that Christ did establish a Church. For He told His Apostle Simon: ". . . thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." But what church is it? Did Christ mean that just any church was His Church? Or did He give His Church marks by which men might recognize it?

All Christians agree that faith in Christ is absolutely essential to salvation. But some believe that faith is the only essential. Catholics believe the words of St. Paul that God ". . . will render to every man according to his deeds" (Rom. 2:6) . . . and the words of Jesus: "Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of My Father" (Matt. 7:21).

Christians also take from the same words in the Bible varied and often conflicting opinions on many things—for example: on the need for and effects of Baptism, and the real or symbolic Presence of Christ in the Eucharist. Is it any wonder that sincere people, trying to understand what Christ meant to tell us, are confused?

Catholics are often accused of opposing the Bible. This, of course, is ridiculous, for the Catholic Church is the mother of the Bible.

And Catholic teachings are sometimes called "unscriptural," which will be found equally untrue by anyone who takes the trouble to investigate.

We believe that a correct understanding of Catholic teaching will bring new joy and understanding to all who truly seek Christ's way. Our free pamphlet on several Bible questions commonly misunderstood by many will come to you immediately, and nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet PS-42.

the cult of Barbra Streisand

Barbra Streisand sings at the Basin Street East.

In today's show business world, thousands of girl singers are offered at eight cents a dozen.

In the face of such tremendous imbalance, what is the magic ingredient that jets one girl to the top while the others fall by the wayside?

Take Barbra Streisand, a former Brooklyn switchboard operator, currently regarded as "the hottest canary in the country." At 21, Barbra has one best-selling record album with a second on the way, a contract to star on Broadway in Funny Girl, the story of Fanny Brice, commitments to appear on the Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Ed Sullivan TV shows. She gets $5,000 a week at Basin Street East in New York, $7,500 a week at the Riviera in Las Vegas, $10,000 a week at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe. She is booked into the Hollywood Bowl with Sammy Davis, Jr., in October, and come next year, according to her agents, "will be earning somewhere between four and six hundred thousand."

More important yet, there is springing up throughout the country a Barbra Streisand cult. It consists of a growing army of followers who insist that Barbra is in the great tradition of Helen Morgan, Judy Garland, Lena Horne. What she has is talent, a singing talent born of nature and practically no training. Discovering Barbra Streisand is like discovering a geyser, the terrain is peaceful, serene, quiet, then all of a sudden—boom. The result is shock, delightful, memorable.

Barbra doesn't look particularly like a night-club singer or Broadway star. She doesn't offer the slick, polished appearance which usually characterizes such performers, although her classic face does have a kind of beauty all its own. She has a nose variously described as "aquiline," "absurd" and "the beak of an eagle." One admirer called her brown eyes "great, big and soulful," and another viewer sees them as "slightly out of focus." Her hair, once worn stringy-beatnik style, is now done by famed hair stylist Kenneth (her only concession to all the attempts to re-do her), and her gowns, while actually in the high-fashion empire style, seem not to inspire admiration in her critics, who describe them as "tentlike."

SOMEONE SPECIAL

In short, Barbra Streisand is no Marilyn Monroe. But when she comes on stage, she generates a fascinating intrigue and electricity which attract and compel your attention even before she sings a note. And when the notes do come, you realize instantly that this girl is someone special.

She offers none of the stagey mannerisms —finger-snapping, intricate dance steps and flashy turn-arounds—so common among young singers. Instead, she stands there, one small girl in a long, simple, unsexy dress, and she sings and sings and sings. The voice is true and clear, vibrant, strong, well controlled and overflowing with emotion. And you don't just hear a song—you experience the sadness and laughter, the comedy and pathos, the love and anger which must have inspired the songwriter.

Barbra's style is unforgettably hers alone. When she sings Happy Days Are Here Again, which is usually interpreted as a sprightly ditty, it comes out approaching the national anthem. And somehow you're thrilled and swept along by her surge and throbbing beat. And when she sings Coloring Book, which ends with her sitting on a tall stool bathed in a single spotlight and intoning the words, "color him gone,"—you, too, are suddenly all alone and still and silent and sad. And when she gives out with her up-beat version of Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?, you can't help but laugh with her at the zany, comic flights of song, the silly patter and most of all at her mobile, expressively funny face.

Barbra Streisand was born in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn where her father, a high school teacher, died when she was 15 months old. Her mother went to work as a bookkeeper, and there was no time, thought or money for preparing Barbra's career; the object was to stay alive. Barbra's theater training consisted of part-time study in acting schools and a few weeks of summer stock.

When she was 18, recently separated from her job as a switchboard operator and having run through her last unemployment check, Barbra entered a talent contest in a Greenwich Village bar—as a singer, though she had never sung before—and came out the winner. The prize was a week's engagement (which stretched into three) at a small Village night club. This led to an audition at the Bon Soir, a basement club where she was hired at $125 a week and kept on for 11 weeks. "But I didn't regard that as really serious," Barbra recalls. "I didn't get managers and agents and all that jazz."

After a few months of haphazard employment—singing engagements in Detroit, St. Louis and back to New York at the Bon Soir and The Blue Angel, and TV appearances on the Jack Paar and Mike Wallace shows—Barbra got her second break. She was asked to audition for the ingenue part in the Broadway musical, I Can Get It For You Wholesale. But her comic expression and kooky "I can take it or leave it" attitude won her, instead, the comedy part of Miss Marmelstein, a frenzied secretary in the garment industry. The play opened in March 1962, and ran for nine months, thanks mostly to the brilliant talents of this offbeat wack from Brooklyn.

THE TASTE OF HONEY

Once the show closed, Barbra was swamped with offers from night clubs, recording companies, stage and TV producers. For her the taste of honey came quickly and easily, without the usual trauma of endless auditions and rejections and without the adjustment of her style and personality to suit the so-called demands of today's listening and watching audience.

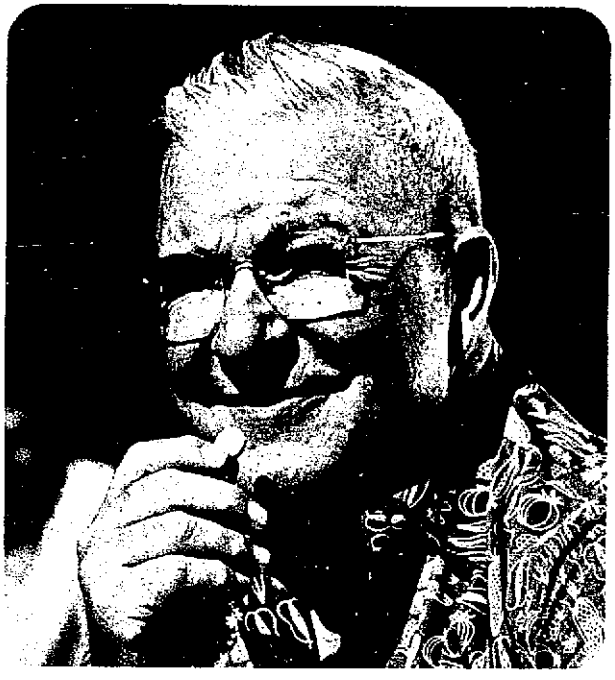

"I didn't have to struggle in a dirty saloon," says Barbra. "I would never do that. I couldn't give away my pride, you know, like standing around in offices and auditioning and all that. I just am not built that way. I'd rather give it up and become a beachcomber. I somehow missed the area of $500-a-week singing and made the jump from a very small salary to a very large one."

When asked why she thinks major success has met her so quickly, she says: "I don't really know. When I first started singing, I just sang naturally. I can't stand phony theatricality, and I never had to do anything that I didn't want to do. I would never bastardize anything that I believe in. I just do what I feel is right, and don't care about anybody else. I was never biased by someone else's performance, because I was never in a night club before I sang in the Village. So when I sing, it's what I feel about the song—a spontaneous kind of thing—that comes out, and that, I guess, it what people are ready for. I'm not sure."

Along with her new-found fame, Barbra has a further reason for contentment these days. In March she married Elliot Gould, the handsome leading man of Wholesale. His love has erased some of the insecurity of her former years and, along with her increasing maturity, has calmed down some of her earlier "kookiness," a front for her basic shyness.

She has moved from her former $67.20-a-month railroad flat with a bathtub in the kitchen to a luxurious duplex penthouse in Manhattan, but protestingly insists: "I was happy when I was poor, too. It's the same thing, you know. It's just a matter of different problems. Instead of, could I afford to take a cab, it's can I afford the new seal coat I want. I could live without the taxi then, and I can get along without the seal coat now. If success changes me at all, I think maybe it will make me a little nicer—because I've been accepted."

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by RICKI DUNN

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ricki Dunn, billed as "America's funniest pickpocket," is a magician with a flair for comedy. He opens his night-club act with clever, topical comedy patter, then inveigles half a dozen men customers to join him on stage. While he cracks jokes, he deftly steals from these men their watches, wallets, belts, suspenders—even their shirts. Dunn got his start in show business at the age of 14 working in a carnival side show as a fire-eater. Later he learned the fundamentals of pocket-picking. He combined this with humor and worked out his comedy-pickpocket act. Dunn has played the Americana in Miami Beach, the Town Casino in Buffalo, all the leading night spots throughout the nation. He says the following gags draw the maximum audience laughter:

I see James Hoffa is going to court again. Wouldn't it be funny if this were his way of trying to organize lawyers! . . . Actually, you don't realize how many lousy lawyers there are until you visit a place like Sing Sing.

My brother got the electric chair, and I went to see him on his last day. It was a little uncomfortable. Like what can you say? You can't say, "Good-by," or "So long, I'll see you around!" So I said, "Well, more power to you!"

I saw one policewoman there who was so cute that I wanted to take the law into my own hands.

I just returned from Las Vegas. That's where the dice are honest, but the people are loaded.

I know a fellow who went to Leavenworth because he was making big money—about a third of an inch too big.

"You say," said one gold digger to her girl friend, "that the check your boy friend gave you bounced?"

"Yeah," came the reply, "The check came back marked 'insufficient fun.'"

Do you know who was the greatest positive thinker in history? It was General Custer. When all the Indians were attacking, General Custer turned to his little band of men and said: "Men, don't take any prisoners!"

A girl who went bowling for the first time came to the office the following day and was elated. Her boss asked her why she was feeling so well. "I went bowling last night," she explained, "and I found out that my bowling is much better than my golf."

"How come?" asked the boss.

"Well," said the girl, "I bowled all night and didn't lose a single ball."

With women you just can't win! If you stop praising a woman, she thinks you don't love her anymore. But keep it up and she'll eventually think she's too good for you.

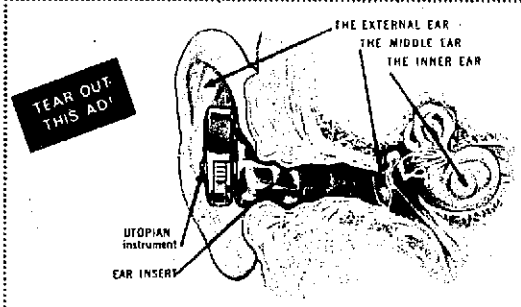

anecdote of the week

■ Asked by a PARADE reporter what primary lesson he had learned from life, comedian Red Skelton searched his memory for several minutes, finally declared: "I've learned that any kid will run any errand for you, if you ask at bedtime." ■

WHEN A TRAIN goes fast, railmen call it "highballing." But the gang which went to Catalina aboard a rail car Saturday was also concerned with highballs that came in glasses. Car was packed on barge for wet trip.

Highballing !

By CHARLES SUTTON

The nation's newest railroad, the Long Beach & Avalon, Ephemeral & Western, completed its maiden (and matron) run Saturday when the 72-passenger Senator A. J. Volstead Palace Lounge car "steamed" into Avalon Harbor on Catalina Island.

"I feel like Lucius Beebe doing good for mankind," said Commodore Richard Shaw, tears pattering down his windburned cheeks.

Shaw heads the Balboa Island Sculling & Punting Club, a 33-man organization of wits recruited from the ranks of America's most famous cartoonists, motion picture animation writers, and creative literati.

The LB&A, E&W trip Saturday, a 22-mile run with a rented Santa Fe railroad parlor car aboard a barge, was planned as the topper to a stunt pulled by the same organization three years ago when they "sailed" a fully rigged yacht to Las Vegas aboard a truck-drawn trailer.

Leaving from Berth 32-D in Long Beach Harbor at 8:02 a.m. Saturday, ("Trains never leave on the hour!") the parlor car faced what veteran channel seamen called "the roughest day of the season" with choppy seas whipped by a 20-knot wind.

The weather and rough seas made the inaugural run an hour and a half late arriving in Avalon.

"It wasn't the roadbed," Vice Commodore Richard Lehman protested. "There was just too much featherbedding by the engineer."

The only emergency arose when the refreshments ran out about two-thirds of the way

Dirksen Clarifies Ike on A-Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen said Saturday night that former President Eisenhower did not intend to infer he wanted a formal revision to the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

The Illinois senator said "The word 'reservation' is not quite what President Eisenhower had in mind. What he wanted was a statement of assurance in respect to use of atomic weapons in time of war or some other emergency."

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—The White House announced Saturday that President Kennedy will hold an important round of foreign policy meetings Monday, including a discussion of the nuclear test-ban treaty with Senate Democratic and Republican leaders.

The President will meet at 11 a.m. EDT Monday with Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, of Montana, and GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, of Illinois. The Senate begins debate on the test-ban pact next week.

* * * *

DIRKSEN added that he had received authority to interpret the former President's statement, which was contained in a letter to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee two weeks ago.

In the letter Eisenhower said he favored Senate ratification of the treaty "with one specific reservation."

"The reservation that I suggest would provide that in the event of any armed aggression endangering a vital interest of the United States this nation would be . . . sole judge of the kind and type of weaponry and equipment it would employ as well as the timing of their use," Eisenhower wrote.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., has said he will offer a reservation to the treaty giving the United States the right to use nuclear weapons when and how it chooses.

The Foreign Relations Committee stipulated this in its report on the agreement and contends a formal reservation is unnecessary.

Supporters of the test ban treaty were concerned Saturday with another reservation, one which Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he will offer.

* * * *

WITH THE Senate opening formal debate on the pact Monday, administration strategists conceded that if Goldwater goes through with his plan to offer a reservation he might attract as many as 30 votes. They hope to cut into this total of nearly a third of the Senate.

Even if they can't, they said they remain confident no more than 20 members finally will oppose ratification, which would require the affirmative votes of 67 if all 100 senators participated.

U.S. Takes New Look at Asians

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has started what one official termed a "massive resurvey" of its relations with South Viet Nam. The aim is to find ways of achieving the reforms which President Kennedy considers necessary to victory in the southeast Asian anti-Communist war.

The problem is especially critical not only because of the situation in Viet Nam itself but also because the United States seems to be suffering a decline in influence all over Asia.

* * * *

EFFECTIVE influence—the ability to get other countries to take action without having to threaten or pressure them—is what is meant by U.S. prestige abroad. This prestige, the capacity for strong leadership, has been damaged by several recent events.

These include failure to unseat strongman Ngo Dinh Nhu from his position of power in the government of his brother, Ngo Dinh Diem. They also include the almost contemptuous disdain shown for U.S. advice and criticism by the military junta ruling South Korea. Relations between the United States and Pakistan are on a more dignified plane but in terms of hard poltical realities cannot get much worse short of an actual break.

Undersecretary of State George Ball is evidently returning empty-handed from his talks this week

Five Hurt as Mine Caves In

MURPHY, N.C. (AP)—Five miners were injured and another was trapped but believed to be alive in a talc mine cave-in a mile west of this mountain community late Saturday.

The trapped man was identified as Carl Dockery, 44. Mine officials said he was believed to be alive in an air space somewhere between 230 and 240 feet below the surface.

Two of the miners who escaped, Ray Stewart and Jack Pope, were hospitalized with critical head and chest injuries suffered when they were struck by falling timbers. Two others, Willard and Wilford Beavers, received only minor injuries. A fifth, Buford Bryant, had serious head and chest injuries but was listed in satisfactory condition.

Three of the miners walked out of the Hitchcock Corp. mine within 15 minutes of the cave-in which occurred shortly after a shift change at 4 p.m. Two others were brought out by cradle lifts.

DONNA AXUM
Miss America of 1964

Arkansas Beauty Is Crowned

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Donna Axum, a 21-year-old brown-haired brown-eyed beauty from Arkansas, was named Miss America of 1964 Saturday night.

Donna, who eats to keep her figure, won a preliminary swim suit contest after stoking up on fudge brownies. She stands 5-foot-6½, weighs 124 pounds, and measures 35-23-35.

A senior at the University of Arkansas, Donna says her weight problem is the opposite of most girls. "I can walk around town and lose two pounds," she said.

* * * *

DONNA is a native of El Dorado, Ark., where she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hurley B. Axum. She likes to paint and swim and has had special training in modern dance, voice, piano and dramatics.

She stood there smiling and embraced the former Miss America. The crown was put on her head and the Miss America sash over her shoulder.

When the announcement was made she put her hands over her face. Then she exclaimed "Oh, oh."

* * * *

RUNNERSUP in the contest, in order, were:

Miss District of Columbia, Rosanne Tueller, 20, McLean, Va.

Miss Hawaii, Susan Dee Pickering, 18, Honolulu.

Miss Tennessee, Martha Ellen Truett, 19, Tiptonville.

Miss Arizona, Susan Jean Bergstrom, 21, Phoenix.

YUGOSLAV DUE AT U.N.

Tito-JFK Meeting Seen in October

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (UPI)—President Tito of Yugoslavia, who mended fences with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev last month, Saturday mapped a far-reaching travel itinerary that will take him to Poland, the United States and Latin America in October.

Informed Washington sources said Tito will meet with President Kennedy in either Washington or New York sometime next month during the United Nations General Assembly.

"I hope to be in the United States between Oct. 15 and Oct. 20," Tito told reporters who followed him when he conducted U.S. Secretary Luther Hodges on a tour of the Yugoslavian Trade Fair in Zagreb Saturday.

* * * *

BUT TITO said his U.S. visit will be limited to a stay in New York "for a few days" to attend the U.N. General Assembly. "I have no intention to visit any other places in the United States," he said.

Washington sources said the date for the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting had not been determined, but they indicated it would coincide with the U.N. trip.

Before coming to New York, Tito will tour several Latin American nations, including Mexico. A Catholic newspaper in Guadalajara, Mexico, said Saturday the church "does not look with favor" on Tito's visit. "He is a cruel enemy of the Catholic Church," La Epoca a weekly, declared.

In Warsaw, Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki and his Yugoslav counterpart, Koca Popovic, announced in a joint communique that Tito would visit the Polish capital "soon."

The communique said the exact date for the visit would be fixed later. Tito was asked to come to Poland in 1957 by Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, but the trip was put off "to a more convenient time" because of the frayed relations between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union.

Those relations were shored up last month when Khrushchev took a 15-day "working vacation" with Tito in Yugoslavia and succeeded in welding the maverick Communist country into the economy of east bloc Socialist nations.

Four Men Hurt in Plane Crash

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Four Southern Californians suffered minor cuts and bruises Saturday when their light plane developed engine trouble on take-off and crashed near the runway of McCarran Field here.

Sheriff's Deputy Chuck Smith said the men were headed for Southern California in a single-engine Stinson piloted by owner Haywood Shelton, 35, 4914 Via El Sereno Torrance, when the crash occurred.

Taken to Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital with Shelton were Allen Firstenberg, 21, Sepulveda; Steven Hirsh, 22, Van Nuys, and Sidney Robinson, 20, Los Angeles.

Egan Urges Caution

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Fourteen Russian fishing boats were reported harassing American fishermen Saturday in and near the Shelikoff Strait which Alaska claims as part of its inland waters.

Gov. William A. Egan of Alaska immediately told the American skippers to keep their tempers and cause no violence.

* * * *

TWO OF THE U.S. fishing boat skippers told United Press International by radio-telephone that Russian crab fishing drags had fouled and ruined American gear, and that at least one Russian vessel had violated the American three-mile limit.

Shelikoff Strait runs between Kodiak Island and the Alaskan mainland. It varies in width from 18 to 33 miles, but all of it has been claimed by the state of Alaska as inland waters separating two large parts of the state.

The area where the Russians were reported is about 300 air miles southeast of here, the state's largest city.

The Alaska Fish and Game Department was waiting for a break in the weather to make a reconnaissance flight to check on the reports. But it appeared the planes might not be able to take off Saturday since the ceiling was less than 200 feet and visibility less than a mile.

* * * *

EGAN, attending a conference at Mt. McKinley National Park north of here, talked to the skippers by radiotelephone.

"The skippers asked me what I would do if they took a 30.06 rifle and blasted the windows of the Russian vessels when they foul American gear," the governor told UPI. "I told them that, of course, I want to avoid all violence and

Sole Survivor of 11 in Crash

BOY, 10, LEARNS FAMILY DEAD

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Troy Odom, a 10-year-old with a black eye and a broken jaw, asked for his mother from his hospital bed.

The adults beside the bed skirted the answer. They talked of how well he looked and said he would soon be on his feet again.

He asked when he was brought to the hospital. He asked the next day. And the next.

Each time they talked of other things.

Then the doctor told them: "Tell him. He has to be told."

That afternoon Troy asked:

"Grandpappy, where is mother?"

"SHE IS gone, son," Bill Josserand replied.

"For good?"

"Yes."

Troy slipped his hand into his grandfather's.

"And daddy?"

"He's gone too."

"And Peggy and Keith?" (His 12-year-old sister and 6-year-old brother).

"Yes."

And yes to Uncle Matt and Aunt June.

Troy couldn't cry. His face was a hemstitched suture, his jaw locked with wire.

"Where am I going to live?" He had borne up manfully. Now he was being a little boy.

"You can come live with me and granny," Josserand said, "or you can live with Paw-Paw and Granny Odom. It is your choice."

TROY made his choice. He picked Mr. and Mrs. Matt Odom, his paternal grandparents.

Troy loves his other grandparents, the Josserands, and he will never forget how they stood beside his bed day and night after the tragedy. But they live in Brazoria. The Odoms live in Mont Belview, his home.

It will be easier for Troy to get back into the sunny routine of his life in familiar surroundings. He can rejoin his fourth-grade classmates at Mont Belview elementary school, pick up his spot on the Little League baseball team.

LAST MONDAY, Troy was riding in a car near Dayton. Also in the car were his uncle, Matt Odom Jr., 38, of Baytown, Odom's wife, June, 35, Troy's father, Carl Odom, 33, his mother, Rowena, 33, his sister and brother. They were on their way to a Labor Day visit with Troy's aunt in Saratoga.

The car collided with one driven by Marshall Tynes, 21, of Pasadena. He had three passengers.

Ten persons—all except Troy—died in the wreck.

L.A.C. Says:

Top Pension Group

When he accepted the chairmanship of the Constitutional Convention George Washington asked: "If to please the people we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we afterwards defend our work?" He was pointing out that the members of the convention must place safeguards around the people's own demands for benefits which they should provide for themselves. He apparently did not foresee the danger of the elected officials providing benefits for themselves which were to be so great they could not justify denying them to the people.

These words of Washington might well have been quoted by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce president when he charged that congressional "pork barrel" actions were as great a scandal as the sex and spy scandal in Britain. He was referring to the way Congress gave in to pressure groups in awarding them contracts, subsidies and other benefits which the congressmen did not approve of—but which they voted because it meant votes for themselves back home.

In our own state legislature we find the elected officials providing for themselves pensions and other fringe benefits which can be in excess of the annual salary they receive. Some excuse these actions on the basis that the people have refused to vote them increases over the $6,000 a year they now receive. So they have voted the use of expensive automobiles with all expenses paid and other benefits estimated to equal a total of over $10,000 a year. Then comes the pension which builds up after the first four years at the rate of 5 per cent a year to 75 per cent at the end of 15 years when a state senator or assemblyman can retire on $4,500 a year. If he remains in office longer than 15 years, further pension increases bring him—or her—up to more pension than the $6,000 a year salary.

As one analyst explains it, the legislator pays 4 per cent of his $6,000 salary into the pension fund—or $240 a year. Thus, in 15 years, he will have paid into the fund a total of $3,600. For this he will receive $4,500 for his first year pension. If he is 60 years old this pension is the equivalent of handing him a paid-up annuity valued at around $75,000. The difference between the $3,600 paid by the legislator and the value of the annuity is paid by the taxpayers.

At any future time if the legislative pay is increased, the pension is increased proportionately. The federal congressional pensions are on much the same basis with their salaries being more than three times as great as our state legislative pensions—the federal pensions are proportionately higher. A move is now on in Congress to increase its salary basis from the present $22,500 a year to $35,000 with many additional fringe benefits.

This granting to themselves of many securities is a factor that must affect the legislators when they are faced with demands for higher social security pensions for all the people—or medical insurance paid for from taxes. It is hard for the legislator to return home and justify not voting for such benefits when he has just voted for so much greater benefits for himself.

I do not feel that increased salaries for legislators is wrong. But, when you add up all the fringe benefits they receive it is understandable that the great majority of taxpayers feel they are not justified. The spiraling pension programs for public workers places them far ahead of the people who must pay the costs. It is evidence that our public pension program for workers in all levels of government is one of the greatest factors in our ever increasing tax load. If the same trend was used in all private and social security pensions, it would be disastrous to our monetary system. But there seems to be no end to the trend the legislators set for themselves.—L.A.C.

Man, 35, Seized in Stabbing

An Anaheim man who was attacked with a knife by the estranged husband of his female companion Saturday was reported recovering from his wounds, attendants at Martin Luther Hospital in Anaheim reported.

The wounded man, Richard Kobly, 26, of 1246 Minot St., had been stabbed in the arms and abdomen.

Officers booked Billy Gene Turner, 35, of 10032 Bernice Circle, Buena Park, on suspicion of attempted murder.

Police said Turner stabbed Kobly in Mrs. Turner's apartment shortly before dawn Saturday.

Kobly managed to stagger out of the apartment at 1777 Sumac Lane.

GOP Win Forecast by Rocky

OREGON, Ill. (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York flew into the heart of "Goldwater country" Saturday and predicted the GOP would sweep President Kennedy out of office next year—no matter who the Republicans nominate for President.

Rockefeller, who appeared with his wife, Happy, for a day of speech-making and picnicking in northern Illinois said the Republicans would "reconcile our differences" by campaign time.

* * * *

ASKED BY a newsman if he could agree with Sen. Barry Goldwater's platform, Rockefeller replied "there are bound to be differences within our party. We, as Republicans, will reconcile our differences."

He said, "I'm confident that whoever is nominated will be elected."

Asked if this meant he would support Goldwater should he get the nomination, he said "I think I've already answered that."

Rockefeller said the Republican Party would pick up votes in the South because "the Democratic Party is to blame for civil-rights problems."

In the last session of Congress, Rockefeller said, "President Kennedy renounced civil-rights legislation introduced by congressional leaders based on the Democratic platform."

* * * *

HE SAID the President called for the civil-rights legislation now before Congress "after demonstrations pushed him."

When Rockefeller alighted from his plane at Rockford, Ill., he was met by about 1,000 welcomers. But most top elected state officers were missing from the greeters.

He said he was not offended by the absence of many top Illinois Republicans.

SPEAKER VISITS L.B.

Unruh Laughs Off Ouster Campaign

State Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh Saturday in Long Beach laughed off attempts by a citizens' committee to unseat him from his ranking legislative post.

JESSE M. UNRUH
Addresses Convention

Here to speak at the annual convention of the California Municipal Court Clerks Association, Unruh told newsmen:

"The fact that only five of the 16 guests invited to the first meeting of the committee Thursday in Los Angeles showed up speaks for itself."

With a wide grin, he added, "One of my colleagues told me it was a good thing this meeting was held in Los Angeles where there are so many people or else it would have been a total flop."

Eleven guests invited to the meeting of the much publicized "Citizens Committee for Honest Government" did not apepar. Even Miss Juanita Sayer, public relations coordinator for the anti-Unruh drive, was late 45 minutes to the closed-door strategy meeting in the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

MISS SAYER, who started the drive to unseat Unruh, said "grass-roots support" would develop later.

One of those attending the Thursday meeting was Assemblyman Gordon H. Winton Jr., D-Merced, who ran unsuccessfully against Unruh for the Assembly speakership in 1961. Unruh Saturday had no comment to make about Winton.

More than 300 delegates to the court clerks' convention heard Unruh at a noon banquet in the Lafayette Hotel. The Assembly speaker did not touch on the ouster movement in his talk.

THE TWO-DAY convention ends today in the hotel when Mayor Edwin Wade swears in new officers. To be installed are John Petersen of San Diego, president, and George Barbour of Los Angeles and Elma Walpole of Sacramento, vice presidents.

Altogether, more than 500 court clerks and their guests are attending the convention.

Turncoat Awaited by Mom

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The 52-year-old mother of Korean turncoat Scott Rush says she will provide a home for her son and his Chinese wife if they want it.

"I'm so glad," Mrs. H. L. Rush said Saturday upon hearing the news that her son was out of Red China. "All my prayers are answered. After all these years."

However, her happiness was dampened somewhat when she saw news photographs of her son who stayed 10 years in China after three years as a prisoner of war.

* * * *

"OH MY GOD," she cried, "He looks so bad. Bad. He told me in his letters he had been sick."

Looking at pictures of the Chinese daughter-in-law she has yet to meet, Mrs. Rush exclaimed, "She looks so beautiful."

"The only reason he stayed was to get his wife and child out," Mrs. Rush added. She said her son had wanted to come home all along.

Every year, she said, she would expect him home by Christmas, but "Christmas would come and go without Scott."

Now she hopes he'll be home in time for her birthday Oct. 19.

Trailblazing Pioneers Reach Avalon by Train

across the channel.

"From then on, it was rough," Shaw told Catalina Islanders who swam out to meet the arriving train holding aloft symbols of welcome—empty glasses.

Maiden-run tickets, priced at $1 each, were sold to almost 1,000 railroad lovers, according to Shaw. Only about 70 could be accommodated on the actual voyage, however.

"We wanted to run like a typical railroad," Lehman explained. "Besides, we donated the proceeds to the Boy Scouts of America."

• • • •

AFTER leaving the Long Beach Harbor breakwater, an airplane—piloted by some wag—buzzed the train and bombed it with bathroom tissue.

"That thoughtful gesture was entirely unnecessary," Lehman said.

"The Senator A. J. Volstead Palace Lounge was, of course, fully equipped."

"This is no Toonerville Trolley we're running," mustachioed Shaw added.

• • • •

THE VINTAGE 1914 parlor car claimed a number of "firsts" on its maiden voyage, according to club members. Among them:

The first new railroad started in America in 50 years without a government mail subsidy;

The first radical departure in railroad power in history;

The first "problemless" right-of-way acquisition in history;

The first railroad to offer fishing tackle as standard equipment.

The club members—whose emblem is a yacht flag sporting a bent elbow symbol—trolled for marlin on the 22-mile voyage.

—Staff Photo

NOW HEAR THIS, you guys," Commodore Dick Shaw, left, seems to be saying as the first train ride in history to Catalina Island is about to begin on barge in Long Beach Harbor. Also casting sober, serious look at motley crew is Vice Commodore Dick Lehman who imitates skipper with unbuttoned uniform jacket.

"The results were disappointing," Lehman admitted. "The clickety-clack of the wheels must have scared the fish."

After mooring the train to a 200-pound concrete-weighted buoy in the harbor, the B&A, E&W promptly drifted 100 yards out in the Pacific, dragging the mooring base.

• • • •

A HASTY rescue by the Avalon harbormaster and anchoring with steel chains, brought the parlor car to rest on the northwest side of the harbor, near the Avalon Casino.

Saturday evening, the club members held a spike-driving ceremony at Casino, driving a gold spike into the ground and "spiking everything in sight."

Decked out in white duck trousers, blue blazers and straw sailor hats, the club members sang "We've Been Railing on the Workroad," to the delight of onlookers.

A "night" in the roundhouse" is planned and the return (and final) trip back to Long Beach is scheduled for today.

"We expect a lot of folks will share with us," Shaw moaned, "the catch in the throat, the tug at the heart, at a grand railroad making its last run."

L.B. Truck Firm to Haul New Telescope to Arizona Site

A Long Beach trucking firm, starting Monday, will transport one of the world's most valuable telescopes in five giant loads from Huntington Park to Flagstaff, Ariz.

The $2-million telescope will be carted from the L & F Machine Co., 2110 Belgrave Ave., Huntington Park, by the Lacey Trucking Co. here, 2700 Lime Ave.

• • • •

SCIENTISTS say that the telescope, which weighs 70 tons will be able to make more precise measurements of astronomical bodies than were ever possible. Astronomers from throughout the world, including the Soviet Union, are expected to attend the dedication at the Naval Observatory near Flagstaff next year.

Electronically aimed and actuated, the giant telescope was built in a special hangar by the machine company in Huntington Park in more than two years. It has a 61-inch mirror. Photographic plates, rather than the human eye, will take views of outer space.

Experts who have inspected the telescope label it "the most accurate ever constructed."

• • • •

MILITARY authorities aided the local trucking firm in gaining special permission to use Highway 66 for transporting the telescope. Pilot cars will be used in front and back in two of the five cargo trips because of the width of equipment.

John A. Lacey, vice president of the trucking company, said the U.S. Weather Bureau is supplying weather information because excessive moisture or dust would create major problems. The start of the trip has been postponed once because of weather.

He said the load will include tooling and miscellaneous materials, with other loads leaving at two-day intervals for Arizona.

Russ Buy Scot Cattle

ABERDEEN, Scotland (UPI)—The Aberdeen Angus Cattle Society announced that a group of Russian livestock experts has purchased 104 head of Aberdeen Angus cattle.

The 43 bulls and 61 heifers will be shipped to the Soviet Union. The price was not disclosed.

Space Program Bill Signed by Kennedy

HYANNIS PORT (AP)—President Kennedy signed Saturday a bill authorizing a $5,350,820,400 civilian space program for the current fiscal year.

The measure passed by Congress 10 days ago totals about $362 million less than the President requested, $160 million less than the Senate had approved and $147 million more than the House originally voted.

The space package includes $1,147,400,000 for the Apollo Project designed to send a man to the moon and bring him back alive by 1970.

It also provides $3.9 million to start building a controversial electronics research center originally planned for the Boston area, but none of the money can be committed until space committees of the Senate and House have reviewed detailed plans.

Bellflower Boy on Bike Gravely Injured by Auto

A seven-year-old Bellflower boy was in critical condition Saturday night in St. Helen's Hospital, Bellflower, after he was struck by a car in front of his home.

Lakewood sheriff's deputies said that Michael Eugene Klement, son of Robert and Shirley Klement, of 8812 Cedar St., rode his bicycle out of his driveway and into the path of the auto. He suffered two broken ribs and internal injuries.

Driver of the auto, Jan Visser, 72, of 8740 Cedar St., told deputies he could not stop his car in time to avoid hitting the youngster. Witnesses informed deputies that Visser's car was moving at a slow rate of speed.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Test Ban Blasted by Chief of SAC

By BILL SUMNER
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The United States is steadily phasing out its present fleets of manned bombers and is filling the void with missiles which have yet to be tested through to denotation, according to Gen. Thomas B. Power, commander of the Strategic Air Command.

POWER

His detailed by censored testimony in opposition to the nuclear test-ban treaty was made public Friday by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the preparedness investigating subcommittee. At the same time, Stennis announced to the Senate he would vote against ratification.

Power appeared before the subcommittee Aug. 19 and stated flatly that the treaty was not in the best interests of the United States. "I feel that we have military superiority now," he said, "and I feel very strongly that this has resulted in a world that has been free from nuclear warfare. I have a lower confidence factor that we can and will maintain that military superiority under the test-ban treaty."

He said there were voids in our knowledge about the vulnerability of our ballistic missile systems, and that the United States was depending on missiles more and more in its defensive posture.

Power contended that the only way a system could be proved was "to take it out of the stockpile in a random pattern and let the tactical unit take it out and detonate it. We have not tested any of the operational warheads in our inventory. That includes the missiles and the bombs."

Tour Cancelled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Cyrus Vance Saturday canceled plans to visit South Viet Nam on a Far Eastern tour beginning Wednesday, and it was learned that several other Defense Department officials are putting aside plans for trips there.

VANCE

The moves follow a State Department announcement Wednesday restricting official travel to Viet Nam because of the current "unsettled conditions" there.

As it now stands, Vance will see troop units and confer with officials in Hawaii, Formosa, Okinawa and South Korea—and then head back to Washington on Sept. 21.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. Vance.

Argentine Floods

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — New rains swelled already flooding rivers and threatened to convert the federal capital into a major disaster area today.

Murky river waters covered huge areas of Buenos Aires Province causing thousands of dollars in damage, but no injuries or fatalities were reported. Thousands of families fled their homes.

Krebiozen Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government announced Saturday that the controversial drug Krebiozen, hailed by its promoters as a lifesaver for hopeless cancer victims, is really a cheap, common laboratory chemical called creatine which has proved ineffective against cancers in animals.

A ranking federal scientist said he found it "impossible to conceive" how creatine could have any value in treating cancer in humans.

Credited with the key identification of creatine in the Krebiozen sample was Miss Ruth Kessler, a 20-year-old senior in biochemistry at the University of Pennsylvania.

Struck Ship Bombed

CHICAGO (AP)—A dynamite blast knocked a hole in a Canadian ship early Saturday and touched off action and demands for action on both sides of the international border.

The explosion punctured the hull of the Howard L. Shaw, a freighter that has been empty and idle for 4½ months because of a dispute between two unions.

Detective Frank Kasky said the police bomb squad had determined that six sticks of dynamite had opened the hole at the water line on the port side of the 450 foot ferighter. Nobody was hurt, and the ship was in no danger of sinking.

Teacher Strike Near

NEW YORK (UPI)—A three-member mediation panel began meetings with union officials and the board of education Saturday afternoon, less than 48 hours before the city's 43,000 public school teachers were to begin an illegal strike.

Salary increases at all levels head the list of demands of the United Federation of Teachers (UFT), bargaining agent for the teachers.

More than a million youngsters in 845 schools would be kept from classes if the teachers walk out as scheduled when the fall term begins Monday.

Phone Labor Pact

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Union and company negotiators reached full accord Saturday night on a back-to-work agreement that has stalemated settlement of the bitter and often violent General Telephone strike.

INTRACTABLE DISEASE CURBED

Australian Girl, 3, Happy Guest Here After Surgery

By CHARLES SUTTON

DOROTHY ATKINSON . . . Rides and Runs

Some day, perhaps, when she's back in her native Australia and a bit older than she is now, pretty little Dorothy Atkinson will look back on the few days she spent in Long Beach in 1963 and smile in grateful remembrance.

By then, she'll have come to realize that it was here that she spent some of her first days playing and running like a normal child.

Right now, though, Dorothy, being only 3, is too young to appreciate that happy fact. Besides, she's much too busy skipping around the Long Beach home of Mrs. Suzanne Greenfield to think about anything but having a good time.

• • • •

THE YOUNGSTER and her mother, Dulcie, 28, are spending the better part of a week here as house guests of Mrs. Greenfield, who lives at 367 Temple Ave. The two women became acquainted through a pen-pal correspondence.

Until very recently, Dorothy was afflicted with a rare condition known as giantism, a disease characterized by extraordinary growth of one or more limbs. In Dorothy's case, her right leg grew to almost twice the size of the left.

Sitting in the living room of the Greenfield residence Thursday, Mrs. Atkinson, recalled her daughter's story.

"Dorothy was born with the condition," she said. "But Australian doctors had never come across a case like hers. They tried for a long time to help. Poor thing, she spent more time in hospitals than she did out.

"Finally, through one of the Australian papers, I learned of a specialist in Chicago—a Dr. Kelikian—who had helped other victims of the disease. The newspaper, Truth, started a campaign to raise money for Dorothy, and in time the people of Queensland raised over $3,500." (Queensland is Mrs. Atkinson's native state in Australia.)

With the money, Mrs. Atkinson was able to pay not only for a series of operations on Dorothy at Chicago's Wesley Memorial Hospital, but also for their plane fares.

"After three months, Dr. Kelikian finished with Dorothy, and now, except for some swelling in her leg, it's as good as the other one," she said.

Mrs. Atkinson reflected a moment, then added quietly: "I can't tell you how grateful I am to Dr. Kelikian. He was so wonderful. Everybody at the hospital was so nice. I'll never forget it."

Just then, Dorothy, her blond hair flying, ran past her mother pushing a roller toy.

Mrs. Atkinson glanced at her in mock irritation. 'Ever since she had the operation, she's been more spoiled than ever. But I expect that's not too heavy a price to pay for the wonderful thing that's happened, is it " she said.

Farmers Going to Europe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown announced Saturday that 45 California farm leaders will leave Los Angeles Monday for a 22-day agricultural goodwill mission to Europe.

Brown, who himself returned Thursday from a six-week European trip, said the group would "tell the story of democracy in America in face-to-face visitations."

The group, headed by Lionel Steinberg, Palm Springs, vice president of the California State Board of Agriculture, will visit growers and agricultural leaders in England, Belgium, the Soviet Union, Bulgaria and Italy, Brown said.

• • • •

BROWN said the group would discuss the Freedom From Hunger foundation program, headed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and determine "what part California farmers can play in alleviating hunger from which nearly one half of the people of the world suffer."

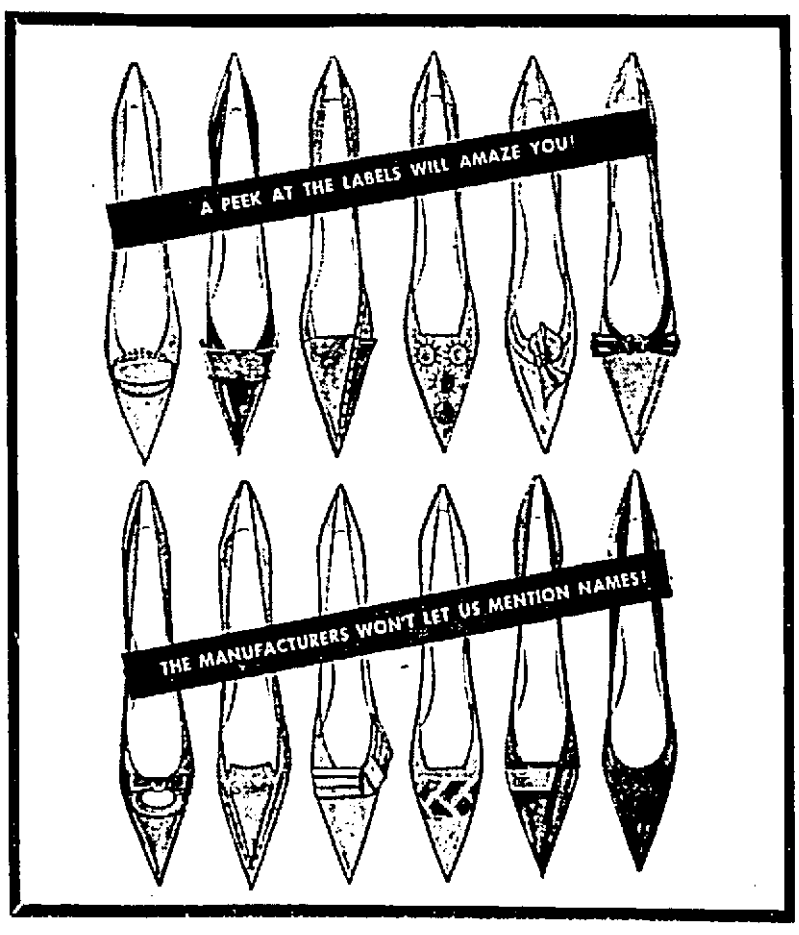

Steinberg said members of the group grew "forty of the most important crops in California" and could speak the language of every country to be visited. He said "the group should receive a more than ordinarily comprehensive report on conditions."

$1.25 Million El Toro Zoning Suit Set

By JACK BALDWIN

SANTA ANA—Initial testimony in a 1¼-million dollar damage suit against Orange County Board of Supervisors is expected to be presented Monday during the first-day proceedings in an anticipated week-long trial in Superior Court.

Instigating the action is Louis Laramore, 41-year-old wealthy Orange County new-home builder whose court testimony in 1961 sent five officials of the City of Westminister to jail on bribery charges.

Laramore, through his attorney, Roger Howell of the Santa Ana law firm of Rutan and Associates, claims the county has prevented him from developing a proposed tract of 696 new homes adjacent to El Toro Marine Corps Air Station by rezoning the land for light manufacturing (M-1) usage only.

* * * *

LARAMORE'S plan to build low-income homes in a 165-acre tract located 9,000 feet south of the air station property and directly beneath the jet plane approach to the main instrument controlled runway has met with vigorous resistance from the Marine Corps, interested citizens, and by legislative action by the Board of Supervisors.

In addition to the damage suit for $1,252,500 which is scheduled to be heard by Judge Ronald Crookshank in Department7 of the Superior Court Monday morning at 9 a.m., the court will simultaneously consider a writ of mandate also filed by Howell. The writ, an injunctive action, asks the court to enjoin the Board of Supervisors from permanently rezoning of the land to prevent residential development in the area.

"We feel," said Howell, "that the ordinance is not lawful, but that if the court finds that it is legal, then it constitutes a 'taking of land' and requires compensation."

* * * *

HOWELL termed two ordinances passed by the supervisors as "inverse condemnation" and that the action was costing his client $300 per day interest on money he borrowed to develop the proposed tract.

Jack Bennett, a vice-president of Moral Investments—a corporation of investors formed to finance the development, told the Orange County Planning Commission at a hearing on August 28 that the supervisors' action had already cost him and his associates $100,000.

When court convenes on Monday (a holiday for some objecting witnesses for the county) appearing as an ally of the county will be the City of Costa Mesa. City Council of the coastal city recently instructed City Attorney C. A. Dungan of the law firm of Dungan, Tobias, Tornay, and June to enter the case as Amicus Curiae—Friend of the Court.

Costa Mesa became interested when the Marine Corps indicated it might have to change its main instrument-approach runways at the air station—creating an air traffic pattern that would bring approximately 205 jet planes daily directly over the city.

* * * *

WHILE the Marine Corps is not a party to the legal action, it will send Major H. H. Zagrodsky, officer-in-charge radar traffic control center, as an expert according to testify as to the nature of jet approaches to the air station, according to Col. Evans Carlson, assistant chief of staff at El Toro.

Col. Carlson told the Planning Commission at a hearing in late August that on the very day of the hearing the Marine Corps would log its 250,000th radar - controlled landing on runway 34-R—the main instrument approach runway at the busy military air base.

He said that in the immediate 24 hours preceeding the hearing the control tower had logged 205 ground control approach (GCA) landings at the air station. He said this number did not include many other landings made under visible flight rules (VFR) nor the many over-flights by helicopters from near - by Santa Ana Marine Corps Air Facility.

Meanwhile on Thursday, September 12 while Judge Crookshank is hearing the lawsuit against the Board of Supervisors — if the trial should last the expected seven days, the supervisors are scheduled to hold a hearing a block away in the old County Court House to consider the permanent rezoning of 1875 acres (including Laramore's holdings) to light manufacturing.

* * * *

WHILE Laramore through Moral Investment Corp., of which he is president, owns 158 acres in the area to be considered for nonresidential use, the largest land owner affected is the Irvine Co., owner of 1545 acres which would be affected by the rezoning from Agricultural to M-1.

Raymond Watson, manager of planning for the Irvine Co., told the I, P-T, "I don't think we will raise any objection to the rezoning by the Board of Supervisors." The company's reaction to a Planning Commission recommendation to the supervisors that they approve "Exhibit E" caused considerable anxiety among interested partics.

Watson had stated earlier at a Planning Commisssion hearing that the company had no objection to the rezoning of "Exhibit C" to light manufacturing, but "Exhibit C" contained only 493 acres of company property while "Exhibit E" affected 1,545 acres of the holdings within the large Orange County ranch property.

An extension for 60 days of an interim emergency ordinance affecting 790 acres (a strip of land 4,000 feet wide and approximately 11,000 feet long) lying directly beneath the approach to El Toro's runway will expire on September 15—three days after the scheduled hearing at 2 p.m. on Thursday.

While there was evidence of anxiety expressed by those favoring the rezoning, such was not the reaction of attorney Howell in anticipation of the board's action.

* * * *

COMMENTING on the Planning Commission hearing on the rezoning matter August 28, Howell said, "The hearing was mere formality. It was certainly not a desirable hearing. The commission was acting on direction received from the supervisors. There is no doubt in my mind the board will approve by a 5-0 vote, if all supervisors are present, 'Exhibit E'"

Governmental agencies, business leaders, and individuals opposing Laramore's plan to build approximately 700 homes beneath the GCA corridor contend the development will create for the occupants of the homes "an untenable situation" and that they, "will be demanding relief, by county action, from the existing noise and crash hazards."

Accident records of the Marine Corps show there have been nine plane crashes within a one mile perimeter of the proposed Laramore development. There have been 22 crashes within the approach area to runway 34-R within the past 10 years, the records show.

An acoustical engineering firm—Bolt, Baranek and Newman — conducted a sound study of the area on which Laramore intends to build his new home tract. They reported that noise created by jet aircraft passing overhead would be "very unsatisfactory" in speech interference levels.

The Marine Corps has stated that loss of the GCA approach to the air station resulting from complaints of homeowners beneath the approach pattern "presages loss of this major Pacific Fleet support base. Its replacement would cost the taxpayers $125-175 million."

* * * *

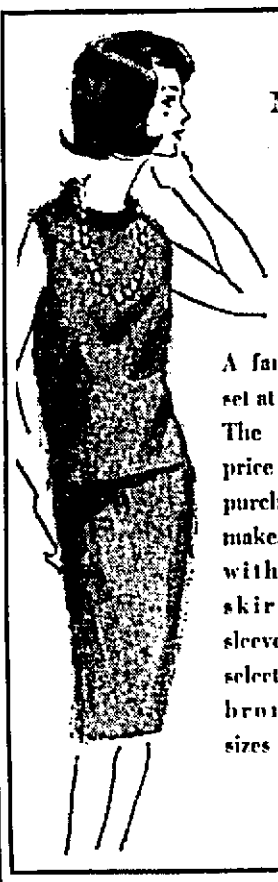

CHAMBERS of Commerces of nearby communities claim that loss of the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station would rob the county of its second largest employer.

Major Gen. John F. Dobbin, commanding general of the air station commented that, "A guarantee of a way in and way out of the air station was vital to the continued operation of El Toro."

Laramore's legal action against the Board of Supervisors marks the second occasion on which he has tangled with governmental agencies in court. In November of 1961 he turned state's witness after being granted immunity by District Attorney Ken Williams and by Attorney General Stanley Mosk. He testified that he had paid $24,000 to four city councilmen and the city administrator as a bribe in exchange for the council dropping a plan to annex his Eastgate new-home development into the City of Westminister. All five defendants served jail sentences. Laramore was not jailed.

DISTINGUISHED FOURSOME
Evangelist Billy Graham (second from right), who winds up his Los Angeles crusade today, poses with his golfing partners just before they teed off Saturday at Bel Air Country Club. Others are (from left) actor Randolph Scott, former Vice President Richard Nixon and Freeman Gosden of Amos 'n Andy fame. Graham's crowd at the coliseum tonight is expected to approximate 100,000.

Wallace Reticent on School Opening

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George Wallace refused to say Saturday night whether he will permit the opening of Alabama schools faced with desegregation Monday.

"You can refer back to our executive orders," the governor told newsmen after arriving here for a speech at a meeting of the United Americans for Conservative Government, a segregationist group.

His executive orders prevented opening of schools at Tuskegee and Huntsville where Negroes were to attend classes with white pupils last week. But both orders will have expired by Monday.

• • • •

ASKED IF, on the assumption that he would permit schools to open, would he bar Negro pupils at white schools, Wallace again replied:

"I refer you to the executive orders."

This left up in the air the whole segregation crisis as four Alabama cities prepared uncertainly for school opening Monday.

Unless Wallace does intervene again—as he has four times in the hectic week gone by—white and Negro students are scheduled to attend class together in Birmingham, Huntsville, Mobile and Tuskegee.

The crisis, if it continues, could bring U.S. marshals, or troops, to Alabama again to carry out federal court orders to admit a total of 24 Negroes to previously all-white schools for the newly started fall term.

Wallace, reticent now in marked contrast to his earlier willingness to talk about his plans, has given no indication of the course he will take. But he scheduled a speech on statewide television tonight.

• • • •

MEANWHILE, the fiery segregationist governor — whose inauguration eight months ago brought a defiant promise of "segregation today, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever" — found himself confronted with a swelling chorus of public protest and legal action because of his use of armed state troopers in the past five days to keep schools closed.

At one Tuskegee school Monday and at four in Huntsville Friday, Wallace invoked his police power to prohibit the schools from opening. He said there was grave danger of violence.

Helmeted troopers kept students away, even though school boards in both communities rejected the closing orders and, technically, kept the schools open.

Name Woman Postal Chief, JFK Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., wants President Kennedy to appoint a woman to the vacant post of Postmaster General.

Federation President Virginia R. Allan wrote Kennedy that the "partnership of women in our economy and society will be recognized by the appointment of a woman to the cabinet in your administration." Kennedy has not yet named a successor to J. Edward Day, who resigned recently as Postmaster General.

could not condone such action. It has long been a fear of mine that something of this sort might happen."

The skippers charged that the fouling of their gear appeared to have been deliberate.

Egan said the state was investigating the activities of the Russian fishing fleet, and he promised he would apply all possible pressure on the federal government to protect Alaska's historic fishing grounds.

"It would appear that they (the Russians) are fishing far beyond the intention of international law," Egan said. "When international law specifying the three-mile limit was formulated, it was assumed that nations would respect each other's traditional fishing grounds."

• • • •

THE GOVERNOR said the time has come for the federal government "to declare the continental shelf and the crabs and bottom fish that live on it under U.S. ownership and protection."

He also said there is a definite need for an international conference on fisheries with the Russians included.

"Decency and common sense has to be evolved," Egan said.

In addition to historic fishing grounds, the governor said an international conference also should go into the kind of gear that should be permitted in fishing. U.S. crab fishermen use the pot method of gathering crabs and complain that the Russians' drag lines and gear destroy the U.S. gear and harm the crab fishery.

U.S. Garbage Tosser Ousted From Saigon

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — An American officer is being sent home for throwing garbage from a Saigon roof which landed on Vietnamese security forces, highly reliable sources reported Saturday.

The officer's identity was not disclosed but he was described as being of field grade —major, lieutenant colonel or colonel.

At the same time, U.S. authorities issued stern instructions to servicemen throughout Saigon to stop throwing garbage from roofs of their billets on Vietnamese police. Some cases have been reported of urinating over the sides of buildings.

• • • •

AMERICAN servicemen in downtown billets often have ringside views of the stormy demonstrations rocking this capital. Feeling sometimes runs high among the spectators.

During one demonstration of Buddhist monks in the downtown area several months ago, U.S. officers on the roof of one building loudly cheered the demonstrators. But on the question of throwing garbage, an American general said Saturday:

"We are the windowcase of the free world. We just can't allow this kind of a conduct."

• • • •

FEELINGS among the American servicemen in Saigon began running high after numbers of them witnessed some of the beatings administered to Buddhist demonstrators by combat police. At one demonstration, two American soldiers, tears streaming down their faces, screamed to newsmen:

"Washington must know about this! Somebody tell them!"

But other American servicemen, most often officers, say they are sympathetic to government handling of the Buddhist problem, and express belief the United States should stay out of the whole thing.

U.S. Takes New Look at Asians

with Pakistan President Mohammad Ayub Khan.

• • • •

U. S. differences with its key Asian ally are centered on Pakistan's bitter opposition to U. S. military help to India and its consequent flirtation with Communist China against which the Indian defenses are being raised.

Even in relations with India, which has long received kid-glove treatment from Washington, the United States has found itself unable to make assistance a two-way street. The Indians have resisted U. S. efforts to set up a broadcasting station in their country lest this somehow infringe their asserted neutrality in the cold war.

• • • •

FRANCE is the outstanding example in Europe. Under President De Gaulle's leadership she long since decided to go her own way. But France is not dependent on U. S. support. Nor is another NATO ally, Portugal; the situation there is rather reversed since this country hardly needs continued use of air bases in the Azores despite the break between Lisbon and Washington over Portuguese colonial policies in Africa.

Viet Police Nip Protest by Students

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Students demonstrated against President Ngo Dinh Diem's government at several Saigon schools Saturday, reviving open opposition, and combat police arrested about 300 jeering, stone-throwing youngsters.

"Help us! Help us!" several youths screamed to foreign newsmen as they were hauled away in army trucks. "President Kennedy supports Ngo Dinh Diem beating and arresting students."

Direct intervention of the United States in South Viet Nam's political-religious crisis is a major aim of Buddhist and student elements that the government accuses of seeking—like the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas afield—to overthrow Diem, a Roman Catholic.

Backstage at the Sideshow

By BILL JONES

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Kids and adults alike have marveled for generations at the feats of the sideshow performers. Here is a backstage glimpse of some of these people, their past, their thoughts, their dreams.)

"You may think I'm partly nuts," said Curtis Collins thoughfully as he placed the lighted cigarette into his mouth. "But, then, you're only half right."

He swallowed the burning cigarette.

"That's one way not to litter the ground."

(Outside, the Great Chante, sideshow operator, mixing humor psychology and mystery to get a crowd into the sideshow of the Nu-Pike. Bits of words came into the painted cardboard-plywood-cloth world of make-believe inside. ". . . A show never before dared . . . never before shown . . .")

* * * *

COLLINS popped a razor-blade into his mouth.

"Hugo the Human Ostrich, they call me," he said. "I'm 35 and I've been eating blades, glass, tacks and phonograph records since I was 14.

"I saw this fellow at the circus and he was eating a soda bottle. I told him I wanted to learn. 'Got any ulcers?' he asked. 'Nope,' I said.

"Well, I tried, but I just couldn't eat the bottle. I finally had to settle for a small glass. I got better after that.

Collins, a mild, ordinary-looking fellow, started biting away on a phonograph record like a cracker. "The only thing with taste," he said. "The glass and blades have no flavor. But you get a carbon taste with the records."

(Outside, the Great Chante was breathing into the microphone: ". . . 13 living nightmares inside . . . if you're easily shocked, stay away . . .")

* * * *

"NO TROUBLE at all with my stomach," said Collins. "The greatest acid is the juice in your stomach. It disintegrates the stuf.

"But, you can eat it all day and still feel hungry. It gives you no nourishment. Me, I like fried chicken best. I like bacon and eggs. I like good foods. But, I can't always afford them. Not much money in this business."

* * * *

THE FIRE-EATER joined us. His fellow performers call him "Fire John." He calls himself "Ali Khai" and he is 26.

"One of my dad's friends was one of the greatest fire manipulators. Bruno. He was the original Human Volcano. He taught me and, later, he met death while doing his act."

Fire John, a handsome, curly-headed young man, takes off his dark, bubble sunglasses and Ivy League jacket and puts on a black cape.

He pours a shot-glass of gasoline into his mouth.

Then he lights his mouth with a small torch. Twice he tries to light a candle from his fiery mouth. The heat brings out drops of sweat from his face. He makes it the third time.

"I've only been burned three times severely. At the World's Fair in Seattle, this gal, my assistant, put too much gasoline in the glass. I shot out flames from my mouth when there was a gust of wind. The blowback set my face and costume on fire. A person in the audience threw my cape over me, I performed the next night."

(Outside, the Great Chante is getting angry because some of the other sideshows have copied his "Headless" Woman. ". . . They are imitators . . . ours is the original . . . we use no mirrors . . .")

* * * *

"I KEEP going because of people," Fire John says, lighting a cigarette. He smokes 4½ packs a day. "When a kid comes up to you with big eyes and says, 'Gosh,' it just gives me a great, big, good feeling.

"I don't cheat them. I'm not a phony," he says.

And he sticks out his tongue. On it are horrible blisters.

(Outside, Chante is getting generous. . . . "We're putting away the 50-cent tickets today . . . it's 25-cents for adults and a dime for kids . . . worse than the Depression . . .")

* * * *

WATCHING CHANTE at work is John Turk, 26, the show's second-string "talker."

"Chante is great," he says. "When I was a kid in Long Beach, I used to come here and stare at him and tug at his coat and ask him questions. He taught me the business."

He breaks off the conversation to greet a girl dressed in clinging tights. "I like you better now that you're half-nude," he tells her. She laughs.

"Sometimes the 'talker' gets a smart alec out in the crowd," John continues. "When that happens, I ask the crowd to turn around and pay attention to him because he has the floor. That generally shuts them up."

The crowd, mostly youngsters, is now coming in, clearing throats, moving close to the stage and looking up in wordless expectation.

Curtis Collins appears on the stage. He puts a lighted cigarette in his mouth.

"You may think I'm partly nuts . . ." he begins.

FIRE JOHN . . . Blisters on His Tongue

L.A. Port Board Head Active Exponent of Foreign Trade

By LOU JOBST
I.-P-T Marine Editor

World War II taught Air Force officer Albert Perrish a couple of significant things: the world suddenly was a lot smaller and there was certain to be a crying need everywhere in a battle-torn globe for American products.

"It seemed to me world trade was the place to go," says Perrish, who went, and 18 years later, is president of the Los Angeles Harbor Commission and possibly the Southland's busiest and best-known businessman abroad.

ALBERT PERRISH
Saw World Shrink

The Canadian-born Perrish, who grew up in Long Beach and graduated from UCLA, is the personification of the modern world trader, a knowledgeable man who wears many hats and is constantly on the go.

* * * *

AS A relentless exponent of expanded international trade, the 48-year-old Perrish, in addition to being chief official of the Pacific Coast's largest port, is president of Winter, Wolff & Co., Inc., one of the region's leading steel-importing concerns; chairman of the West Coast Metal Importers Association, an influential and powerful industry combine which has created a prosperous and growing domestic market for foreign-made steel; a director of the elite Southern California Trade Association and a member of the World Trade Committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

* * * *

ALSO in recent months he has found time to serve as general chairman of World Trade Week in California, to receive three high foreign decorations (Italy's Star of Solidarity, Belgium's Order of Leopold, Frances Order of Merit and Commerce) and to travel more than 60,000 miles in Asia, Europe and Africa.

Two technological developments — instant worldwide communications and the jet airplane—have altered vastly the ways of world trade, says Perrish.

Where once U.S. businesses had to rely almost exclusively upon the importer-exporter to buy foreign products or sell goods overseas, they no longer need these middlemen.

* * * *

"IF THRIFTY Drug Co. or any other American firm, for instance, today wants to buy novelties from Japan they can put their own people on a jet and fly them there in a matter of hours," asserts Perrish.

Perrish also believes that the average American no longer is hostile to foreign products per se and now realizes that stepped-up trade with the rest of the world is a key ingredient, both politically and economically, in our national survival.

"To buy from us they must sell to us," he explains. "The man in agriculture now understands that the man overseas can buy his grain only if he has money he has gotten from selling us something we need."

* * * *

PERRISH also says that America need have no fear it will lose the world leadership in manufacturing and production.

"Nobody can produce a cheaper automobile than the U.S. and no place in the world can you get a cheaper TV or refrigerator," he continues. This, he says, is due to American know-how, a constant improvement of products and the means of manufacturing.

Robertson's Position on A-Ban Bared

By VIRGINIA KELLY
I.P-T Washington Correspondent

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., will vote for the Long and Goldwater reservations on the nuclear-test-ban treaty. These reservations can be defeated by a majority vote in the Senate.

If the reservations are defeated, as Sen. Robertson expects, he told this reporter, he will vote against the nuclear-test-ban treaty.

In Congress 31 years, Sen. Robertson is one of the ranking of members of the Senate; a senior member of the Appropriations Committee, and for two years the acting chairman of the defense appropriations subcommittee. He is chairman also of the powerful Banking and Currency Committee.

* * * *

THE LONG reservation, authored by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., provides that the United States can use nuclear weapons in defense of the United States or its allies. The Goldwater reservation provides that the nuclear-test-ban treaty would not become effective until the USSR removes from Cuba all nuclear weapons and nuclear warheads, all military and technical personnel, and until international inspection within Cuba could confirm these facts.

In this exclusive interview for The Independent, Press-Telegram, Sen. Robertson said that the overwhelming testimony of military experts proved the military disadvantages to the U.S. from the nuclear-test-ban treaty.

* * * *

THE KENNEDY administration, Sen. Robertson said, declares that the political advantages outweigh the military disadvantages.

Sen. Robertson said he has spent his entire adult life in politics and that he considers all of the political advantages of the treaty are in favor of the USSR.

The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and the second-ranking member of the Armed Services Committee, Sen. John C. Stennis already have stated that they will vote against the treaty. Sen. Russell and Sen. Stennis also hold powerful places on the Appropriations Committee. Sen. Harry Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Finance Committee also has said he probably will vote against the treaty. Stennis is chairman also of the Senate Preparedness Committee. His opposition is based on the testimony heard in executive session which has convinced him there is great cause for alarm about the security implications.

Young Demo Convention in San Diego

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—About 225 delegates attending the California Federation of Young Democrats convention discussed Saturday various proposals in an effort to formulate a platform.

Proposed planks included recognition of Red China, abolition of the House un-American Activities Committee and the Senate Internal Security Committee, removal of bans against college-campus speakers and support of the proposed nuclear-test-ban treaty.

Pronouncements on water fluoridation, euthanasia, unionization of farm labor and presidential nominating procedures were being considered by the resolutions committee. The committee is expected to report today to the State Central Committee which will take final action on resolutions.

Paul Schrade, Western states director of the United Auto Workers, addressed delegates Saturday afternoon.

The convention, which failed to complete its business last May during a meeting at San Francisco, also will consider proposed amendments to the constitution and by-laws.

JOHN BEZUSKO and family take dip in pool. Entire family, including son, Mike, 16, and daughter, Katie, 6, participate in Long Beach swim program of the American Red Cross.

RED CROSS SPONSORS WATER FITNESS TEST

Swimmers Going 50 and 100 Miles

Long Beach is discarding hiking shoes for swimming fins in President Kennedy's 50-mile physical fitness test.

The Long Beach Chapter of the American Red Cross is sponsoring the 50 and 100-mile swimming assaults with mileage clocked off in segments of a quarter-mile.

Recently, 82-year-old Henry T. Reidell was awarded the chapter's 125th certificate for completing his 50-mile swim. The durable octogenarian made 36 miles in 1962 and completed his goal last week.

Aside from swimming, the retired accountant's chief passion is music. He spends hours a day at the organ and grand piano in his home at 4322 E. Fourth St., and composes church music. He has a surgeon son in Whittier and four grandchildren. "all swimmers," he said.

Probably the "swimmingest" family is Mr. and Mrs. John Bezusko and their two children of 6722 Driscoll Ave.

Mrs. Bezusko is nearing her 100-mile goal.

Her husband, a test engineer on North American's Apollo missile program at Downey, made his 50-mile swim in six weeks.

Bezusko, a fighter pilot previously with the Polish, British and U. S. Air Forces, averaged a water mile daily after work and from two to five miles on the weekends.

Their son, Mike, 16, and daughter, Katie, 7, have won all possible Red Cross swim badges for their age groups.

Mike swims for the Wilson High School team and plays water polo. Katie swims in weekly competition at the Colorado Street Lagoon.

Exposition Park Backed for Center

L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Regardless of Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and "downtown interests," boosters of a $6 million exposition and trade center at Exposition Park say they will continue their plans.

Yorty advocates construction of a trade center and convention hall near Pico Boulevard and Figueroa Street in downtown Los Angeles.

George Kinsey, vice president of the State Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park, and Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, chairman of the Coliseum commission's special committee to plan the trade center, said Yorty's site could cost taxpayers as much as $25 million.

• • • •

THE EXPOSITION Park site, underground and either directly north or southwest of the Sports Arena, would not cost taxpayers a penny, Hahn said. It would be financed by revenue bonds, which would be repaid from receipts from the Coliseum, Sports Arena and trade center itself.

This method was used to finance the arena and repayments already are more than $1 million over the required amount at this time, he said.

Told that Mayor Yorty has charged that a major hotel chain was behind the Exposition Park site because it intended to build near there, Hahn said he knew of no such plans and commented:

"The mayor makes a lot of public statements that are not sound."

Hard to Hit a Gal, John Wayne Finds

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Wayne, who has smacked bad men and Indians all over the screen, says the hardest thing to do is hit a woman in a movie.

"It's the toughest thing for an actor to do. The usual heavy—no matter how big he is—will ask you to pull the punch a little.

"But women — when the script calls for you to hit them — demand that you really smack them. In 'The Quiet Man' and again in "'McLintock', I had to spank Maureen O'Hara.

"And all she did was bawl me out for not smacking her hard enough."

Service Exams Set

Federal service entrance examinations for 1964 are being accepted in Long Beach, Paul Hare of the local Civil Service Commission announced Saturday.

The examination is open to college seniors and graduates regardless of major, as well as to those of equivalent experience. Starting salaries go to $5,795 yearly.

Opportunities are offered in 60 occupational fields. The positions are in Washington, D.C., and throughout the U.S.

Applicants who file with Hare by Sept. 19 will take their test on Oct. 12. Six additional tests are slated through April 14.

Hare will supply further details at the Post Office Building, Room 405.

Oil Output Nears 1957 High Mark

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Crude oil is being produced in the United States at a record rate.

A daily average in excess of 7,500,000 barrels the first eight weeks of 1963 was well above last year's record level.

A late August daily average of 7,660,000 barrels also was within striking distance of the all-time high for a single week. A healthy demand for petroleum products in the early winter could push crude output to its highest level in history before the end of the year.

• • • •

LOUISIANA is pacing the upward trend, having broken its own production record 11 times this year.

Domestic production averages a record 7,332,000 barrels a day as demand for products increased 4.3 per cent. The January-August climb to 7,500,000 barrels daily has kept pace with another 2 per cent increase in demand.

Crude output in the United States has exceeded the last August average of 7,660,000 barrels daily only once.

Production ranged from 7,786,300 to a record 7,818,400 barrels a day in March 1957, the final month of a sharp upward swing prompted by efforts of the U. S. industry to supply Western Europe with oil during the Suez Canal emergency.

• • • •

DOMESTIC PRODUCTION has its annual seasonal fluctuations but output sagged sharply after the reopening of the canal. Gradual recovery has been aggravated by a world surplus of crude, but U. S. operators now are in a position for the first time to challenge the all-time mark set in 1957.

A new record would require that about 160,000 barrels a day be added to the late August average at some point between now and the end of the year.

Averages for the last six years are favorable.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Autos, Steels, Stocks Signal Economy Pickup

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The economy passed the Labor Day milestone this week with motor purring.

Businessmen consider Labor Day a second New Year's Day because it signals the end of the summer vacation period and the beginning of the usually more active fall season.

When business is good on Labor Day it usually continues favorable until the end of the year. That is the outlook this year.

With sales booming, the automobile industry was getting up steam in turning out 1964 models. Steel production was leveling out with indications of an increase close ahead. The stock market, thriving on such developments, climbed to an all-time peak.

• • • •

A PREDICTION that 7.5 million passenger cars will be sold this year and 7 million next year was made by Lee A. Iacocca, a vice president of Ford Motor Co. This was in line with earlier forecasts by General Motors and Chrysler officials.

Iaccoca said output of Ford vehicles in the final quarter of this year is scheduled to be the highest for any quarter.

Rushing to supply dealers with 1964 models, auto makers will increase their production this month sharply over August, when the changeover from 1963s was being made. It was estimated that 500,000 cars will be turned out this month.

Production this week was estimated at 66,600 cars as General Motors resumed production after a closedown for model changeover. This would be 73.3 per cent above last week and 2.8 per cent ahead of a year ago.

• • • •

OUTPUT probably will exceed 100,000 next week and 150,000 a week by the end of the month.

Forecasts from industry sources indicated that steel production this year will exceed 100 million tons for the first time since 1957.

Output last week held steady with the 1,765,000 tons topping the previous week by 1 per cent.

Prospects for an earlier and stronger pickup by the economy this fall were bolstered by the outlook for the steel industry. Clear signs were seen that orders were picking up.

The stock market, as measured by the popular barometer, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues, jumped to an all-time high. It topped the previous high established Dec. 13, 1961.

• • • •

WALL STREET credited good business developments—particularly favorable corporate earnings—for having lifted the market from the depths of the 1962 plunge.

In its monthly economic review, the First National City Bank of New York found that business sentiment remained generally good.

It concluded that the three major reasons were better than expected sales and profits, renewed buoyancy in the stock market, and tangible progress of the tax reduction bill in Congress.

"Recent business reports betray no faltering of the pace of activity," the bank said.

• • • •

THIS WAS supported by a report by the National Association of Purchasing Agents that the rate of production and new orders continued at a high level in August. A survey of its members by the association showed 29 per cent of purchasing agents' companies noting higher production levels, 52, per cent finding them unchanged from July and 19 per cent reporting they were lower.

Factory orders increased in July after declining the two previous months, the Commerce Department reported. Manufacturers' new orders rose 1 per cent from June to a total of about $35.5 billion.

Furniture orders and shipments advanced 9 per cent in July over July 1962, according to the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers.

CONSUMER installment credit continued to expand rapidly in July, moving up to a record $5,106,000,000. The net increase was $501 million.

The federal minimum wage rose to $1.25 an hour from $1.15 and at least 2.6 million workers benefitted. The pay increase will cost employers an estimated $365 million a year, the Labor Department said.

Briefly around the business scene: Ninety-five companies boosted their regular dividend rates in August against 76 in August 1962 . . . Mercedes-Benz introduced a $20,000 limousine; it's equipped with a bar but air conditioning is extra . . . In the first seven months of this year 60,990 mobile homes were shipped from factories to dealers, compared with 67,670 a year earlier . . . Canada enjoyed a surplus of exports over imports of $138.1 million in the January-July period.

Mormons' Head Is 90 Today

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—White-haired David O. McKay, spiritual leader of two million members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, observes his 90th birthday today by "just relaxing" at his boyhood home.

"I never felt better in my life and I mean it," he chortled with a twinkle in his blue eyes. "The only thing that worries me is that I get tired after working 8 or 10 hours a day."

Talking about his birthplace in Huntsville in northern Utah made him recall the past.

"I certainly gave my mother a lot of trouble as a little rascal," he said. "I'm extremely happy I was able to attend the dedication of a new chapel in Wales. It makes amends for my childhood capers."

The chapel dedication took place last month in Cardiff about 12 miles from the birthplace of his mother. The overseas roundtrip flight boosted his lifetime travel log estimate to at least 1 million miles by all types of transportation.

• • • •

PRESIDENT OF THE Mormon Church since 1951, McKay became acquainted with missionary activity at the age of seven, when his father was called to serve in the British Isles for a two-year period. The family remained at the Huntsville farm to maintain the father in his missionary labors.

McKay followed in his father's footsteps shortly before the turn of the century after graduation from the University of Utah in Salt Lake City. He was class valedictorian. Later, he became and educator and in 1906 was called to serve as a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles of the Church.

This was the start of fulfillment of a remark made years earlier to McKay by a Scottish leader in the church, who said:

"If you are faithful, you will yet stand in the leading councils of the church."

In the ensuing years of his apostleship, he served in a wide variety of church posts, traveling far and wide in the world to spread the word of God. He also devoted time and energy to civic responsibilities on a local, state and national level, acquired business acumen and maintained avid interests in youth work, horses, automobiles and airplanes.

• • • •

THE PROPHECY issued in Scotland reached full blossom on pril 9, 1951.

McKay was "sustained" by church members assembled in the famed Salt Lake City Tabernacle on Temple Square as president. As "prophet, seer and revelator" of the church, McKay became the ninth successor to founder and first prophet Joseph Smith.

He brought the presidency a strong sense of individual freedom which he has retained through the years.

"I believe in freedom of choice for the individual," he said. "An individual can choose to be a saint or sinner.

"The individual is the center of all our activity. Our church stands for the salvation of the individual, not the group or state. That is what Jesus Christ has shown us."

McKay's avid belief in the freedom of the individual makes him a strong foe of what he describes as the "Communist conspiracy."

"My feelings would not be authoritative," he declared, "but since you asked, I must say I do think the Communist conspiracy is one of the greatest menaces in history. The individual inherently objects to being controlled by any one man or group. The Communist principle strikes at the freedom of man."

U.S. Aide Finishes Talks in Portugal

SIP OF WATER CAN DROWN WEIGHTLESS MAN

Astronauts' Food Far Better Than K Rations of War II

By LEE CRAIG
I. P-T Aerospace Editor

When America's astronauts take off for the moon near the end of this decade, they can leave their knives and forks behind.

At the same time, the three Apollo spacecraft riders will have to watch their table manners. No chewing with their mouths open. Crumbs floating in the weightlessness of space could get into essential equipment and jam it.

Each man aboard the spacecraft, now under construction at North American Aviation's Space and Information Division, Downey, will be allotted 1.4 pounds of food per day.

• • • •

THANKS to a new method of processing, freeze-drying, they will have a fantastic variety of foods available.

A suggested menu for a three-man, 14-day mission includes such items as crab Newburg, ham in mustard sauce, beef with spaghetti and tomatoes, Swedish meatballs, various soups and snacks.

Each day's rations are repeated every fourth day except dinner, which is not scheduled again until the eighth day.

• • • •

I SAMPLED one of the dishes — chicken with potatoes and gravy—and decided immediately that much progress has been made since the K rations of World War II.

In freeze-drying, the moisture is removed from foods without altering the taste or structure. They may emerge weighing as little as one-fifth of their original weight.

For the moon, trip, the food will be enclosed in flat, plastic bags, with a narrow neck at one end and a one-way valve, according to the latest design.

• • • •

AT MEALTIME, an astronaut will take a syringe filled with hot water, which he will insert in the bag through the valve. After kneading the contents to assure complete mixing, he will tear off the end of the neck, place the resulting spout in his mouth and squeeze in the food.

If he wants to put the bag down, he won't worry about the food spilling out. A crimp has been placed in the bag's neck and it snaps shut when pressure is released.

Contrary to science fiction, there is little possibility that future astronaut food will be in pill form, according to Larry Osborne of 25 St. Joseph Ave., research engineer for NAA's Apollo Life System's bio-medical group.

• • • •

A PILL doesn't give an astronaut's stomach enough of a workout, Osborne says. Roughage provided by real food is needed.

The Mercury astronauts ate pureed food from squeeze tubes and didn't like it. "Baby food," they called it, and demanded something more palatable. Now they have it, thanks to freeze-drying.

There are some foods, of course, which do not respond well to this process. The astronauts will have to get along without salads, for instance, and fresh vegetables. The cell structure breaks down when the food is reconstituted.

• • • •

MEATS must be comparatively fat-free. The fat tends to come out rancid after a freeze-dehydration treatment.

Liquids, which are readily reduced to crystals, are no problem except the hazard in drinking them after they are reconstituted.

Man is used to the one-gravity conditions on earth. If he turns a bottle upside down, he expects the liquid to come out. In the weightlessness of space, he would have to pull the bottle away from the contents.

If liquids were spilled in a spaceship, they would float around the cabin in little globules, coating every surface they brushed against.

• • • •

ONE experimenter found this out the hard way, while under brief weightless conditions in a parabolic flight in a test plane.

He attempted to pour water from a container and the water just hung in a mass in the air. He didn't know what else to do, so he bit it.

He very nearly drowned. The water went down his throat and into his lungs, coating them and preventing them from performing their life-giving function.

Fortunately, help was nearby and gravity took over a few seconds later. Still, he had to spend several days in a hospital before he recovered.

Unnecessary Lawn Mowing for VA Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government auditors say unnecessary lawn-mowing at an average of $5 a job has boosted the cost of maintaining and managing properties acquired by the Veterans Administration through default of loans.

The auditors said lawns of property in the Detroit area were mowed an average of three times a month at a cost of $5 a mowing. In the Los Angeles area, they said, lawn and shrubbery maintenance costs amounted to $255,000 in fiscal year 1962 for 1,100 properties.

Mount San Jacinto's Tramway Open Soon

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — The towering peak of 10,831-foot Mt. San Jacinto has been looking down on this desert spa since before it had its first palm.

Its slopes are cool and green, ofttimes snow covered, while the temperatures on the valley floor below soars well past the 100-degree mark.

Starting Thursday, however, Mt. San Jacinto will lose some of its cool aloofness.

The people are coming—by tramway.

• • • •

THURSDAY WILL be the official opening day for the Mt. San Jacinto tramway. A tramload of civic leaders and public officials will be the first passengers to ride a $7.7 million tramway claimed as the world's longest single-lift tram in the world.

It will cost the assembled dignitaries $1,000 each for the honor. Then, Saturday, the tramway will open to the public at a more reasonable rate: $4 for adults, $2.75 for children.

It will be cheaper on weekdays—$3.50 and $2.25.

The 80-passenger cars rise from Valley Station, elevation 2,643 feet, to Mountain Station, at 8,516 feet. The distance, by cable, is 2½ miles.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Carl H. Aulick of Sacramento, has been sworn in as director of civil defense for Region 7, comprising five states.

The oath was administered by Stuart Pittman, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Civil Defense, in a ceremony at the Pentagon.

Gen. Aulick retired in July from the California National Guard after 40 years service.

His civil defense headquarters are at Santa Rosa, Calif. The region covers California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Hawaii, American Samoa and Guam.

Hi, Neighbor Party Slated in Seal Beach

Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce will hold a "Hi, Neighbor" party Sept. 17 at McGaugh Intermediate School, Bolsa Avenue and Bay Boulevard, Chamber president Bill Jones announced. The party will last from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

The party's purpose will be to establish better relations between residents and churches, clubs, social and civic organizations, and cultural projects.

Free refreshments will be served. An exhibition of square dancing and a musical revue will be presented.

• • • •

THEME OF THE party will be "Saluate to Leisure World," Seal Beach's new retirement community. Chairman Jerry Brockman said the party was expected to attract several thousand residents.

Brockman called the party "a quick way to get everybody interested in what we are doing, instead of just coming to town and remaining an outsider for a great length of time."

At the previous "Hi, Neighbor," party, held in 1959, about 75 per cent of Seal Beach's residents were present.

Seaborg Chosen for Atom Parley

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy Saturday named Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, U.S. representative to the seventh session of the general conference of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The meeting is scheduled to be held at Vienna, Austria, beginning Sept. 24, 1963.

The nomination of Dr. Seaborg and four alternates will go to the Senate Monday for confirmation.

Cal. Business Warned Defense Spending Will Stop Increasing

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Chairman Robert W. Crown of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee warned California's business and government leaders Saturday to prepare for the day defense spending stops increasing in the state.

"It now appears that the Department of Defense is approaching a plateau of spending," Crown said in a statement.

He said Congress seems to be ready to turn down a big hike in such expenditures next year.

• • • •

"FEDERAL spending has been a major spur to California's growth," Crown said. "It now amounts to approximately $10 billion annually, with 23 per cent of the prime defense contracts awarded to California firms."

He said the state must plan a "strategy of growth" for the economy, so California will be prepared.

The state can adjust, he said, "if we plan now for changes which can be accomplished with a minimum of job dislocation and plant shutdown."

Crown's committee, studying the impact of federal expenditures in California, has been told that spending is up 157 per cent from 1951.

IT SEEMS POPULAR VERSIFIER ALSO DONE HER WRONG

Sift Frankie, Johnnie Legend

By JERRY CURRY

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The last note in the ragtime legend of "Frankie and Johnnie" faded when a broken old woman died in a mental hospital 11 years ago.

Frankie Baker, the bosomy Negro who claimed she began the tale in a spangled dress with a smoking pistol in her hand, said she was "done wrong" by folklore and not by her man. She died at an institution in Pendleton, Ore.—far from the syncopating sounds and rinky-tink music of St. Louis' Targee Street.

She shot and killed Allen (Johnny) Britt at her home on that bar-lined street Oct. 15, 1899.

Targee Street had long since disappeared when Frankie died Jan. 10, 1952, at the age of 75. The street had been reduced to a narrow alley behind Kiel Auditorium, where the sounds of basketball and conventions replaced the old music and drinking chatter in that area of downtown St. Louis.

* * * *

THE OLD SONG still says:

"Frankie threw back her kimona,
"Took out that old forty-four.
"Roota-toot-toot, three times she did shoot,
"Right through that hardwood door.
"She shot her man, who was doing her wrong."

"That song got it all wrong," Frankie insisted in later years. "It was just a little old Harrington and Richardson .38, and I just shot once."

There was some doubt that Frankie Baker was the heroine in the lilting lyrics of that ribald ballad depicting life in St. Louis at the end of the 19th century. But no one could doubt, after the wild trial that ended in 1942, that she was the swinging "Queen Sport" who strutted her spangles and vibrant dusky body at 212 Targee.

* * * *

FRANKIE FIRST served notice on the world that she was the "Frankie" of song, legend and silver screen when she filed a $200,000 damage suit against Republic Pictures Corp. on April 22, 1938. She charged that the movie version of the shooting invaded her privacy and held her up to ridicule.

She came back to St. Louis from a shoeshine emporium she operated in Portland, Ore., for the trial after sending attorney Joseph L. McLemore to blaze the trail for her in the courts.

When he filed the suit, McLemore said that until the killing Frankie was the girl who decked herself with bangles, bought Johnny expensive suits and swayed her way to the top of the gay '90s nightlife era.

Targee Street bordered the wealthy nightlife zone in those days.

Here Frankie was a reigning force and here she gunned down Johnny. After the shooting she was exonerated by a coroners' jury. Two people testified at the hearing, Frankie and a girl friend.

Q. What is your name?

A. Pansy Marvin.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. I work out on Missouri Avenue.

Q. What do you know about how Allen Britt received the injuries which caused his death?

A. She (Frankie) says, "Don't you cut me, Al!" and he says, 'Yes, I will,' and made a swipe (with a knife) and she hauled away and shot him.

* * * *

THEN FRANKIE took the stand to make her statement:

"I was standing there, pillow lays this way, just run my hand under the pillow and shot him. And he says, 'Oh, you have me.' And I says, 'No, you are not,' I says. 'You are just wanting to up on to me to cut me.' Didn't shoot but one time. Standing by the bed."

About two weeks later, Frankie said at the 1939 trial on her suit, she began hearing the ballad which St. Louis composer Jim Dooley is credited with writing. Dooley died in 1932. The song said:

"Frankie and Johnny were lovers.
"Oh lawdy, how they could love!
"Swore to be true to each other,
"As true as the stars above.
"He was her beau, but he done her wrong."

Frankie packed her grip and headed for Omaha. But the ballad, with a few fleshy phrases added, followed her. Then she went to Oregon, only to find she was famous there, too.

* * * *

SHE LIVED IN PORTLAND until she was 67 years old and saw the movie version of her old way of life. Then Frankie decided to file her damage suit.

The trial ended in 1942 after three years of interruptions. The jury ruled against Frankie, and she paid the court costs and returned to Oregon. She entered a mental hospital in 1950 and died two years later.

She never waivered in the belief that she was the famous strutting "Frankie."

Some folklore historians said Frankie Baker was all wrong. They said the song was heard before 1899 and was based on a killing in St. Louis around 1850. But other critics said the incident couldn't have happened then because of the Negro slave status prior to the Civil War.

No matter how the rollicking sad ballad started, Frankie Baker kept her claim:

"This story has no moral.
"This story has no end.
"This story only goes to show,
"That there ain't no good in men."

New Prince of Wales to Ride Horses

LONDON (AP)—Prince Charles—the Prince of Wales—is about to follow in his father's footsteps and take up polo.

Prince Philip, Charles' father is looking for a suitable docile pony for his son, who will be 15 Nov. 14.

This has led veteran courtiers to privately express hopes that Charles will have better luck staying on his horse than did the last Prince of Wales.

When the Duke of Windsor was Prince of Wales he made world headlines with the frequency with which he fell off his horses.

A Buckingham Palace informant said that Prince Charles, who started riding when he was a small child, has been practicing polo shots from the back of a specially made wooden horse at Windsor Castle.

Earth Pear-Shaped, Geographers Told

DENVER (AP)—The earth, of course, isn't flat, but neither is it exactly round.

It's kind of pear-shaped, a speaker said at a meeting of the Association of American Geographers.

Toshio Hoshide of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers map service ,said "the North Pole is about 15 yards farther from the center of the earth than the South Pole."

Eight Hurt in Freeway Crash

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—Eight persons were reported in serious condition Saturday night at Central Receiving Hospital following a three-car collision on the inbound Harbor Freeway near Vernon Avenue.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Mrs. Tommie Williams, 30, Los Angeles, plowed into the rear of another car and pushed it into the rear of the car ahead of it.

With Mrs. Williams were her daughter, Carol, 7, and a friend, Mrs. Louisa Green, 28, and her daughter, Denise, 7.

In the second car, driven by Thomas A. Dunham, 43, of Los Angeles, were his wife, Katherine, 41, and Robert Woods, 74, of 2552 Elm Ave., Long Beach, and his wife, Betty, 72.

In the third car were Robert Bloomingdale and his brother, whose name was not given. Both men live at 5745 Oakbrook St., Long Beach. Although they complained of injuries, the pair left the scene of the accident and did not seek treatment.

All four passengers in the Williams car were scheduled to be transferred to General Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Woods were scheduled to go to a private hospital, as were the Dunhams.

According to traffic officer John de Coup-Crank, Mrs. Williams, who suffered a broken right leg and a severe scalp laceration, was travelling at "an excessive rate of speed." He added that charges would be filed against her for felony drunk driving.

GOLF BALLS HIT

Home, Home Is Too Close to the Range!

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—An angry woman called the Montgomery county sheriff's department to complain about golf balls from a nearby golf driving range hitting her trailer home.

Later, she showed deputies the dents in her trailer, and then produced more evidence: 940 golf balls she had picked up around the trailer since the range opened last spring.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Gunfire Marred Peaceful Integration

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

Many previously all-white Southern schools were integrated peacefully last week, either under court orders or voluntarily. But there was a somber backdrop of gunfire, rioting and death in Birmingham, Ala., where last spring President Kennedy had to call out troops to prevent bloodshed.

Mixing of the races in Alabama had been scheduled in some public schools in Birmingham, Tuskegee, Huntsville and Mobile.

* * * *

ALL EXCEPT Mobile's were shut down when white supremacy Gov. George C. Wallace encircled them with state police who barred protesting parents and their children. Two Negro boys enrolled in a Mobile school failed to show up.

The smouldering racial situation in Birmingham exploded in wild and sanguinary rioting and the death by gunshot of Negro James Coley, 20, after the home of integrationist Negro lawyer Arthur Shores was bombed for the second time in less than three weeks.

Citizens' protests at Birmingham, Tuskegee and Huntsville, the latter the site of the federal government's Redstone rocket arsenal, marked the first time Wallace's own people had openly turned against him. A Huntsville committee charged him with interfering with local self-government—a charge Wallace has lodged repeatedly against Washington for enforcing Supreme Court desegregation orders. The governor finally agreed the Huntsville schools could reopen Monday.

Huntsville mothers angrily shouted "Go back where you belong," when Wallace's police surrounded the schools.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who had called Wallace "a punk" and in turn was branded "a pink," read the governor's World War II record in the Senate. He said Wallace was still collecting $20 a month for a war time psychiatric disability and suggested he should "volunteer for a new checkup."

* * * *

WALLACE retorted that he received a disability pension "for a nervous condition caused by being shot at in combat missions." To what, he asked, "does Sen. Morse attribute his condition?"

In other news spheres, Roy M. Cohn, 36, boy wonder of the Army-McCarthy Communist investigation in Congress a decade ago, was indicted in New York on charges of perjury and conspiracy in a $5 million United Dye & Chemical Co. stock fraud case. Also indicted was Murray E. Cottesman, a corporation lawyer.

Cohn, one-time chief counsel for the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's Communist hunters and lately promoters of heavyweight championship fights, was accused specifically of trying to shield four men from being indicted in a grand jury inquiry into the United Dye case. The men subsequently pleaded guilty.

* * * *

COHN claimed that U. S. Attorney Robert V. Morgenthau was "out to get me." He pleaded innocent to the charges and then cited 11 instances which he said established that the allegations were prompted by "personal animus and a desire for political revenge" dating back to the McCarthy investigations.

Asked whether he was referring to Atty. Gen. Kennedy, who is Morgenthau's superior, he said: "You can draw your own conclusions."

Adm. George Anderson whom President Kennedy dropped as chief of naval operations and named ambassador to Portugal, made an angry speech sharply criticizing Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's attitude toward high military advisers. He charged that "the abrupt reversal of military recommendations without interim consultation is fraught with unpleasant developments and potentially with grave dangers."

* * * *

SEN. BARRY Goldwater, Ariz., potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, hinted he would vote against ratification of the nuclear test-ban treaty with Russia unless the Senate adopts his reservation demanding that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev remove all his bases and personnel from Communist-dominated Cuba.

The State Department curtailed non-essential travel of American officials and their dependents in strife-torn South Viet Nam where the pro-Catholic Diem government has waged a religious war against Buddhists. The order was precautionary. The U.S. is supporting the government in its fight against Communist guerrillas, but has split with it over suppression of the Buddhists. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge informed the President that as of now Washington has no choice but to live with the present regime. Lodge, on State Department orders, refused to surrender three Buddhist priests who took refuge in the embassy.

On the Communist front, Pope Paul VI said in Vatican City that the Catholic church had not changed its opinion about the "contagious and lethal malady" of communism and will fight it "not only theoretically but practically."

* * * *

COMMUNIST China, split ideologically with Russia over which should control world communism, accused Moscow of trying to overthrow a local Chinese government and said relations were on "the brink of a split."

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, also a prospective GOP presidential nominee, charged the Kennedy administration's policies lack direction and are determined solely by events. He called for measures to "avoid misuse of federal power."

The Senate passed and sent to the House two parts of the President's manpower and development training act. One earmarks $100 million a year to provide job training for youths 16 to 19 and the three Rs and basic skills for adults. The other relieves the states from making matching grants for such programs. The Labor Department reported meantime that unemployment fell by 465,000 in August to 3,857,000.

FOREIGN PRESS VIEWS

JFK's Handling of Affairs Draws Praise, Criticism

By United Press International

President Kennedy drew both praise and criticism from the world press last week for his handling of home and foreign affairs.

The strongest all-round attack came from the Belgian journal, EUROPE, which said, "It is impossible to imagine an uglier bankruptcy report than the balance sheet of John Fitzgerald Kennedy and his brains trust."

It said, "because the intelligent young man of the White House yielded to the siren songs from the left his country is three times menaced; firstly it is dangerously weakened in front of the Russians because of the limited test-ban agreement, secondly it is risking violent interior subversion because of the White House policy toward American Negroes, and finally it is well conceivable that the dollar will have to be devalued."

The East German Communist party newspaper NEUES DEUTSCHLAND said "the white mob rages on" and the "law of the jungle" prevails in the Southern United States. It asked, "What changes can there be as long as the President takes no really decisive steps to ensure civil rights to 20 million oppressed American Negroes?"

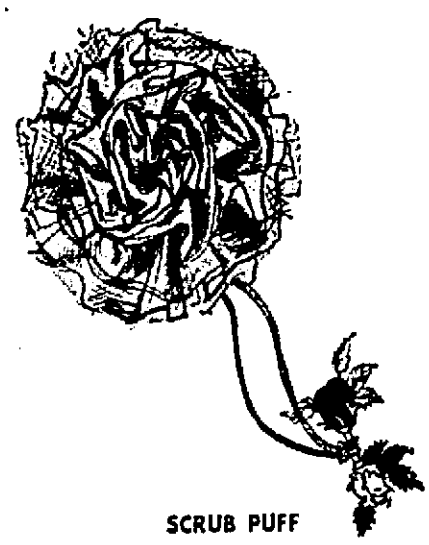

However, the Austrian ARBEITER-ZEITUNG said, "Upon first glance, it is certainly surprising that the Negroes in the United States are demonstrating just at this time. They are better off now under President Kennedy than ever before. But the problem still is far from solved."

Beachcombing with Malcolm Epley

WHAT'S a celebrity — or, more in point today — who's a celebrity?

That's the $75-question now bugging members of the Diamond Jubilee celebrity committee, charged with the difficult task of selecting 75 personalities to receive special recognition at Long Beach's upcoming Diamond Jubilee ball.

Ev Hosking, our Sunday editor, is chairman and last Sunday he asked readers to write in nominations. He has been getting replies, but unfortunately, it appears that the criteria for selection on this list are not too well understood.

This is an effort to help him.

HARDLY any of the names submitted so far ring the bell.

They've included pillars in somebody's church, early-day residents, leading civic workers, a teacher loved by two or three generations, a real estate developer, a local youth leader, a Sunday painter, a nurse's aid who saved somebody's life.

Now these are all fine people, real community assets. We need them and more like them.

But they don't fit the celebrity category as set out by the Jubilee people.

AGAIN the question: "What's a celebrity?"

Let's look at the criteria as set out in the Jubilee's official program plan:

"Persons should be selected solely upon the basis of nationwide fame which they have achieved through good works, with the consideration of their having a direct connection, either past or present, with Long Beach (had their training or start here, have their family here, have a special interest in the city.)

It must be someone known nationally. That's the key.

Hosking explains that the entire U. S. populace doesn't have to know the nominee, but at least, he must have national recognition by others in his field.

Long Beach has and has had many such people.

FOR EXAMPLE, there's Arjay Miller, the "whiz kid" who is now president of the Ford Motor Co., a product of L.B.'s old junior college. There's Dr. Richter of Cal Tech, the earthquake expert, and others in science and education.

In sports, there are many luminaries. Like Morley Drury, who brought fame to the city in the 'twenties as a great USC gridiron hero, and Greta Anderson, a top woman swimmer busy in her field right now. And Vicki Van Hook, international women's water ski champ; Marlene and Alice Bauer, the golfing sisters; Bob Lemon of baseball fame. And many others in sports.

In the entertainment field, the list should include Loraine Day, Robert Mitchum, Spike Jones, Barbara Britton, Van Heflin, the Academy Award-winning George Chakiris.

And don't forget the military, like Arleigh Burke, the former chief of naval operations, who had a tour of duty here.

This short list suggests the type of celebrity the committee wants to honor. The selection jury is made up of news chiefs of the regional wire news bureaus, and these men of course will be alert for names that mean something nationally.

OBVIOUSLY, the committee has a sort of ticklish job. Local people have their heroes and heroines and they could get sore if a nominee isn't chosen. This is an effort to make it easier by defining just what is wanted.

But suggestions are wanted. Send them to Box 7831, Independent-Press-Telegram. Deadline: Sept. 15.

L.B. COUNCIL UNIT TO REVIEW HAYES PROPOSAL

Broader Use of Tidal Oil Funds Urged

By GEORGE WEEKS

Proposals for broadening the uses of Long Beach tideland oil funds for the direct benefit of communities throughout California —but within the terms of the trust—will be reviewed soon by the City Council's Harbor, Industries and Oil Committee.

Advanced by Vice Mayor James A. Hayes, the new concept calls for the establishment here of research centers and related projects to aid science and industries pertinent to commerce, navigation and fisheries, the three main uses specified by the tideland grant.

Hayes suggested that Long Beach invite ideas along these lines from other cities, counties and areas of the state.

But he offered some suggestions of his own, such as:

A seamen's hospital and research center, possibly as an adjunct to Long Beach State College or the University of California.

A raisin research center for expanded marketing and uses.

A center to study and eliminate the diseases of fresh-water and salt-water fish and also to increase the market for these California products.

A fresh produce center, also for greater marketing as well as control of insect damage.

Similar centers for research and promotion of fruit trees and their products, grain, feed, cattle and dairy industries as well as forestry and lumber.

Where could such facilities be placed? Hayes recommended Pier J, under construction with financing from tideland funds. Large areas will be availliable there after the World's Fair, he noted, and in addition new piers can be constructed if necessary.

* * * *

THE VICE MAYOR emphasized that his concept is not "just a means of finding other ways to spend tideland revenue," nor is it intended to supplant or eliminate any of the city's beach, shoreline and harbor plans.

"We must take the initiative," he said, "if we expect to retain the use of our portion of the tideland revenues, which deserve to be a monument on our shoreline and in our harbor to our ingenuity as a city in developing our tideland oil."

Under his plan, all stewardship as to construction and development of the new projects would remain in the City of Long Beach, although consent of the State Lands Commission would be required.

Aside from strengthening the city's position in the face of efforts by some state legislators to cut Long Beach's share of the trust funds, Hayes pointed out that the program would provide direct local benefits.

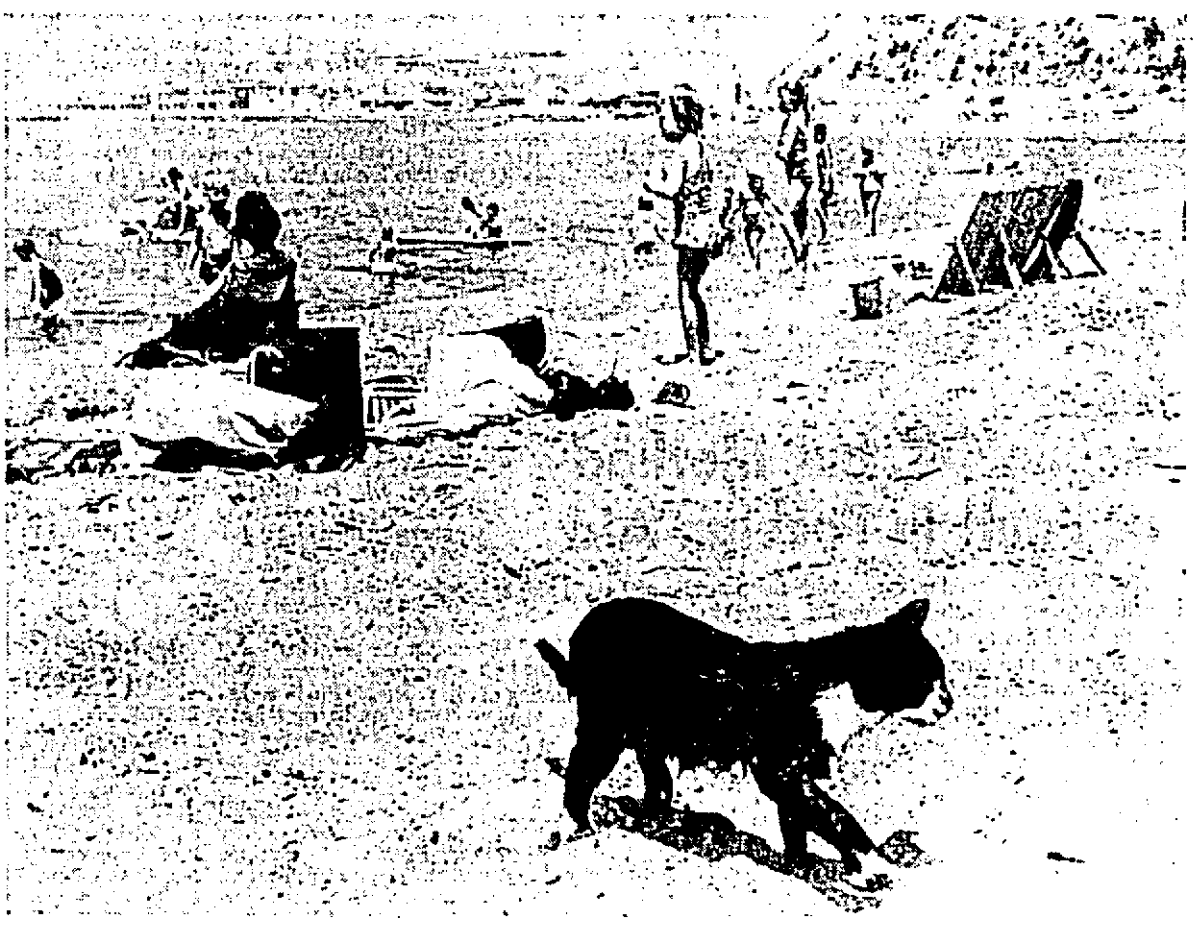

* * * *

HE NOTED that the projects would produce jobs for construction and operation of new facilities, expand use of the harbor, bring in new businesses and aid those already established.

First reaction in the City Council, where Hayes revealed his proposals in a five-page letter, was favorable.

"The idea has tremendous potential with proper handling," commented Chairman Raymond C. Kealer of the Harbor, Industries and Oil Committee.

Kealer said he will submit it to the committee for study after urgent questions of tideland oil development, also pending before the committee, have been decided.

Dog, the Cat: He's a Real Beach Hound

THEY WANTED a dog for a mascot, but now the lifeguards at Dunes aquatic park in Newport Beach are purrfectly satisfied with Dog, who isn't. They found the stray kitten wandering on the beach recently, and promptly gave him a new leash on life by indogtrinating him into the pleasures of swimming and sunbathing. Now he earns his keep by catching mice and entertaining lost youngsters, and even comes when he's whistled for. "I don't want to be dogmatic," said lifeguard Stu Pinkerton (right), "but as a dog, our cat is fine as whine. The only thing we're worried about is that he may get confused during mating season and go barking up the wrong pedigree."

School Registry Slated This Week

Boys and girls who have not completed their enrollment in public elementary and high schools should do so during this week, according to W. Odie Wright, superintendent of schools.

"Late registration keeps a youngster from getting off to a good start," Wright said. "It is important that every pupil report to class on the first day of school. The advance registration dates give each boy and girl an opportunity to complete enrollment before the start of classes."

Advance registration will be taken Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 10, 11 and 12 at junior and senior high schools, and on Thursday, Sept. 12, at each elementary school.

The hours for the advance enrollment at each of the schools will be from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

* * * *

AT LONG BEACH City College, students already preregistered for day classes must verify their programs this week according to an alphabetical schedule. Verification will be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday at the Business and Technology Division and Wednesday at the Liberal Arts Division.

Advance enrollment of new day students will continue through Thursday at both divisions, by appointment only. Pre-registration for evening classes is scheduled Tuesday through Thursday, 6 to 9 p.m., in the LAD cafeteria, 4901 E. Carson St., and the BTD gymnasium, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. Prospective students must first present proof of high school graduation and secure a permit to register.

Boys and girls enrolling in kindergarten and first grade must meet minimum age requirements established by the state. A child must be 4 years and 9 months of age on or before Sept. 1 to be admitted to kindergarten and 5 years and 9 months of age on or before Sept. 1 to be admitted to the first grade.

Parents enrolling pupils in kindergarten and first grade are required to furnish the school with an approved verification of date of birth, such as birth certificate, baptismal certificate, passport, or verification or notification of birth registration issued by city, county or state health departments, according to George L. Geiger, assistant superintendent of elementary schools.

All pupils must file polio immunization forms in accordance with state laws. These forms may be picked up at the individual schools.

JEROME H. SPINGARN
To Speak in L. B.

Unitarians Book Talk on Treaty

The test ban treaty will be the topic of an address by Jerome H. Spingarn, director of the U. S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Thursday, 8 p.m., at the Unitarian Church, 5450 Atherton St.

The speech is sponsored by the Long Beach chapter of the American Association for the United Nations and by the League of Women Voters.

Spingarn, a Washington, D.C., attorney, was secretary of a task force on disarmament which prepared a report for President Kennedy. He is secretary of the Committee on Security Through Arms Control of the National Planning Association.

On a Ford Foundation grant in 1958 he visited foreign offices throughout west Europe to consult on arms control. He has written many magazine articles on the subject.

He served on the staff of Adm. William Halsey during World War II.

After the address, Spingarn will answer questions in writing from the audience. Admission is free.

Heart, Blood Diseases to Be Topic

New developments in the diagnosis and treatment of heart and blood vessel disease will be reported to the public by a Long Beach medical specialist Sept. 17 and 18.

Dr. Myrvin H. Ellestad will give identical reports at two sessions of a health information forum at Memorial Hospital of Long Beach, 2801 Atlantic Ave.

Dr. Ellestad is director of the hospital's cardiopulmonary laboratory.

The lectures, followed by a question-and-answer period, will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the hospital cafeteria.

Admission is free but by ticket only. Tickets may be obtained by telephoning the hospital's public relations department.

Hospital officials said the forum has been divided into two sessions to accommodate the expected crowd.

Naval Reserve Officers to Hear Adm. Groverman

Rear Adm. William H. Groverman, commanding officer of Destroyer Flotilla 3, will address more than 400 reserve officers at the kickoff meeting of the Naval Reserve Officer School 11-4 on Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Long Beach State College auditorium.

"Today's Navy" will be the subject of Admiral Groverman's speech, according to Capt. Harry Frishman, USNR, commanding officer of NROS 11-4.

Reserve officers from the entire San Pedro-Long Beach-Orange County area will assemble for the meeting. Subsequent meetings on Tuesday and Thursday evenings will be held at the headquarters of the school at Long Beach State College and at satellite units at the Santa Ana Naval Reserve Training Center, the Naval Air Station at Los Alamitos and the San Pedro Naval Reserve Training Center.

After the address by Adm. Groverman, reserve officers in attendance will have an opportunity to enroll in one of the 23 classes to be offered this year by NROS 11-4.

Classes range from "Nuclear Power" and "Space Technology" to "Atomic, Biological and Chemical Warfare" and "Guided Missiles" and are designed to keep reserve officers combat ready. A new course released by the Navy Bureau of Personnel entitled "National Strategy in the Cold War" will be taught for the first time at LBSC and at each of the satellite schools. Officer students who complete one of the courses receive full retirement and promotion points for their participation.

ADM. W. H. GROVERMAN
To Speak Here

Although the courses are planned primarily for Navy, Marine and Coast Guard officers, an increasingly large number of Air Force and Army officers sign up each year for the instruction.

Foreign Students Tour L.B., Lakewood

Sixteen foreign students, who shortly begin a year's stay at local schools, were guests of the MG Car Club Saturday in a tour of the Long Beach-Lakewood area.

The students also visited Rancho Los Cerritos and toured a newspaper plant. They are participants in the American Field Service International Scholarships program.

Forum Set on Capital Punishment

Capital punishment will be debated at 8 p.m. Wednesday, at a session of the Long Beach Community Forum, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

There is no admission charge to the forum which will be held in the Jefferson Junior High School Auditorium, Seventh Street and Grand Avenue.

Panel members include Assemblyman George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach; Dep. Dist. Atty. Lynn Compton and attorney Albert Ramsey. Program chairman is Charles Evett.

More than 300 persons attended the first session of the forum in July which examined the crosstown freeway issue.

Veterans Reminded of Insurance Change

Korea veterans who have not exchanged or converted their GI insurance policies to the new W-type are reminded that they must do so on or before Thursday, according to Arthur H. Tryon, Los Angeles county service officer.

Conversion is necessary to receive the special one-time dividend.

Mangan Takes Hospital Post

James E. Mangan has been named public relations director for Long Beach Community Hospital, it was revealed Saturday.

A retired Navy chief petty officer and a 1957 graduate of Long Beach State College, Mangan came to his new post after seven years as director of information for the LBSC associated students.

He lives at 3521 Charlemagne Ave., Long Beach.

Final Vote Set on Rezoning in Navy Air Area

The second and final vote by the Los Alamitos City Council on the controversial rezoning of land bordering the Naval Air Station is scheduled at 8 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers, 3231 Katella Ave.

The council gave initial approvement, 3-2, to rezone the 26 acres of dairyland for a 284-unit "planned development district" near the Navy's runway last Aug. 27.

In opposing the measure, the Navy claims residents would be seriously disturbed by aircraft noise and "would be continually agitating to close the Naval Station," according to Capt. William P. Tanner Jr., station commander.

Hopeful Signs in Transit Situation

IT APPEARS AS if we are finally getting down to the "brass tacks" stage of mass rapid transit planning for the Los Angeles-Long Beach metropolitan area.

A number of hopeful signs were in evidence at last week's route-planning conference called here by the Metropolitan Transit Authority.

—For the first time officials of MTA showed signs of really realizing that Long Beach and the communities between here and Los Angeles are growing up.

—One major monorail firm indicated it could build a line to Los Angeles from here out of fare box revenue. Another company felt it could build the bulk of such a line out of revenues and indicated that further studies might be undertaken as to the construction of the whole line.

—Two definite routes along the Long Beach corridor are on paper. This is the first time such concrete suggestions have been laid out for the affected communities to study.

—There seemed to be no initial violent objections to either of the routes or combinations of routes. Of course, many community representatives only listened and didn't comment and obviously there will be some disagreements forthcoming. But the general attitude appeared favorable.

—The MTA, through its executive director C. M. Gillis, indicated it can very soon come up with concrete and detailed cost estimates on the various routes and types of equipment. In the past officials have been faced with so many unknowns it has been almost impossible to reach firm conclusions.

ONE OF THE MOST encouraging facets of the meeting was just the fact that it was held. For years MTA has followed the polocy of making studies, reaching conclusions and presenting them to the public for approval.

This procedure has not exactly provided the best of public relations. It appears now that MTA is going to bring the public into its advance planning. When decisions are reached through this process it's much easier to get public acceptance.

It has been popular down through the years to make the MTA a whipping boy. Undoubtedly some of the lashes have been deserved. But that's too easy a solution. MTA has done many things—good things that had to be done before a system could be built.

They have completed many of the basic economic studies. They have worked to fit their projected system into the larger development plans for the metropolitan basin. They have gradually defined the need for a rail rapid transit system and they have shown that we should develop a good quality system designed for the future as well as the present.

IN ONE OTHER AREA—and this is probably the largest—they have gone a long way toward narrowing the problem down. That area is finance.

Many financing schemes have been suggested over the years. MTA has followed all the reasonable ones to their logical conclusions and have been turned down. So the problem is narrowed down to this: can a whole system—not just a line or so—be financed out of the fare box? If the answer comes up yes we're in business. If the answer is no the only alternative is tax subsidy. And this the people must decide. If the public says no to that, we can all drop the idea of fast rail transit and resign ourselves to buses and crowded freeways.

So the MTA is finally bringing this problem to a final decision point. How well they continue their work and how much the public understands may well determine the final yes or no answer.

Principle OK, but Method Is at Fault in Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — There's nothing wrong with the principle of foreign aid, but there is much that is wrong with the method of applying it.

This is the real basis for the difference in Congress over the size of the appropriations to be made for economic aid to other countries. Everybody in the free world presumably wants to see Communist imperialism thwarted. The granting of gifts or loans of American billions is supposed to be the way to win, if not "buy," allies. Maybe it is—but, unfortunately, some of the governments benefitted don't stay "bought," as they begin to flirt with the Communist side, and a form of blackmail emerges.

This need not be regarded as a partisan question inside the United States. The same difficulties have confronted the administration in power here under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower. That's why a comprehensive review of American policy is in order. For certainly if the right policy were developed, a majority in Congress would quickly reflect the wishes of the American people and authorize a "go-ahead" at whatever cost seemed to be necessary to achieve the agreed-upon objectives.

• • • •

THERE HAS to be, first of all, a frank appraisal of what's been going on. What good, for instance, is it to give hundreds of millions of dollars to the "Alliance for Progress" when so many of the countries in Latin America insist on doing business with Castro? Why do some countries—like Mexico, for example — refuse to ban travel to and from Cuba as the United States does? How can the Washington government justify giving money to governments that still recognize the Castro regime and even mistakenly allow it to send agents who carry on subversive activities?

The same criticism can be made of the American foreign aid program with respect to countries like Yugoslavia, where Premier Khrushchev of the Soviet Union has lately been pictured in the press as hugging Marshal Tito. Or take a case like Vietnam, where American aid—military and economic — costs about a million dollars a day, but the ruling regime in that country is recalcitrant and uncooperative and openly assails American policies.

• • • •

THE REAL weakness is the lack of a standard policy —a firm and positive position by the United States that is clearly set forth to the world. What should such a policy include?

First, there is need to return to fundamental principles in international intercourse. Hit-or-miss policies get nowhere and tend to confuse public opinion.

Second, the existence of a "cold war" must be recognized as a fact. A government which seeks any form of aid from the United States must make up its mind which side it wants to be on. The foreign-aid program should be limited to allies or to those who wish to become associates or partners of the United States. There is no place for "neutralism" or "neutrals" in a "cold war" that has been started and carried on persistently by international communism. No better example of what happens has been afforded than the buildup of missile bases and weapons in Cuba by the Soviet government within the last two years.

Third, the American people are willing to help allies and partners, but not those who play both sides against each other in a game of blackmail. How can any country accept aid from the Soviet Union without becoming a potential enemy of the United States? This is really one of the deeply rooted reasons for the growing resentment inside this country against the present foreign-aid program.

Fourth, the policies of the United States must be aimed at winning alliances with peoples. If any people is unsuccessful for the time being of getting rid of governments that lean toward the Soviet Union, the neutral course is for America to refrain from giving aid to that regime and to let the people know about it publicly through the "Voice of America" and otherwise by stating and restating the principles of the whole foreign-aid program.

• • • •

NATURALLY, a good deal of descretion has to be vested in the executive branch of the government but only within the limits of the principles set forth by Congress.

Government officials in the special agencies do try to administer the program conscientiously, but they are sometimes influenced by the lack of correct information or by bad advice. Also, the decisions are not based on well-defined principles, but vary from day to day as expediency indicates. There does not seem to be a chart or compass to steer by. It's largely an invisible operation. It has been the same under preceding administrations.

Chinese Reds Have a New Word for It

By the Washington Bureau Staff

WE ARE ALWAYS fascinated by Communist terminology.

If there's a difficult and long-winded way of saying something simple, the Communists will think of it. The Red Chinese are irritated, to put it mildly, by Russia's current foreign policy. They've finally come up with a government-approved description of it, "capitulationist coexistence."

CONGRESSIONAL LEADERS, accustomed to handing out pork (viz., public works), in exchange for power, have naturally been disturbed over recent printed uprisings here and there against pork-barrel projects, regarding the criticism as brash if not faintly unpatriotic.

It has produced roars of anger on the floors of both houses and cries of "shame." Many of our legislators have written letters to Life magazine, one of the most recent discoverers of the pork barrel, in ardent protest. Even the outlandish project, which will turn a city of 600 in Oklahoma into a deep-sea port, has been defended. There has been weeping over the good name of the late Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma who created it.

In other words, men with pork fat smeared on their chins are not about to abandon the barrel, supported so generously by the American taxpayer.

They are, however, about half right in their defenses. They claim most of these projects are inspired by pressure from the local level, and most, of course, are indeed so inspired. The 100 percent All-American member of the Chamber of Commerce, inclined to wrath over federal spending, and possibly a man who sees salvation only in Barry Goldwater, turns by reflex to the federal treasury when a home town project is involved, feeling, perhaps, that it is different.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY is having difficulty coming up with a new postmaster general. J. Edward Day left the post Aug. 9 and so far no one has been designated as his successor. Rumor is that practically no one wants the job and that several people have turned it down.

Kennedy 'Mafia' Arouses Choler

By JACK ANDERSON
(for Drew Pearson)

WASHINTGON—Resentment is boiling up inside the Kennedy cabinet against the Irish Mafia, as blasphemers call the intense young Irishmen who surround the President.

For more than a month, Postmaster General J. Edward Day couldn't even break through the inner circle to deliver his resignation.

He decided early in May to accept a lucrative law partnership and asked for an appointment to notify the President. It was the middle of June before Day got past Ken O'Donnell, the guardian of the presidential door.

Most cabinet officers are obliged to take up their pressing problems with White House aides. Day managed to discuss postal matters directly with the President only three times during his 30 months as Postmaster General.

Similar complaints have been heard in strict privacy from secretaries Luther Hodges, commerce; Stewart Udall, interior; Orville Freeman, agriculture; Willard Wirtz, labor; and Anthony Celebrezze, health, education and welfare.

• • • •

ON ONE RARE OCCASION, Hodges was admitted to the President's oval office for a few minutes only to be interrupted by 5-year-old Caroline. The Secretary of Commerce never finished making his point.

President Kennedy has gone as long as three months without bothering to hold a cabinet meeting. The few he has called have been quick, humdrum affairs.

Not infrequently, the White House has acted without notifying the cabinet member whose department was affected. Presidential breakfasts with business leaders have been arranged, for instance, without inviting or even informing Hodges.

Celebrezze has also complained that White House aides have phoned orders to his underlings without troubling to tell him what's going on in his own department.

Interestingly, the cabinet complaints are directed not at the President, but at his Irish courtiers. Even as they gripe and grump, the cabinet officers take pains to excuse the President whose preoccupation with the problems of peace and war they understand.

MARK CLUTTER

Graying Newsman Puts His Bets on the Human Race

WHY DO you newspapermen write about such horrid things—crimes, riots, disasters and people doing shameful things? Why do you have to be sensation mongers? Can't you write about happiness and people doing good?"

These questions, which are asked very frequently, deserve answers from a newspaperman.

First, it is not true that we devote ourselves to reporting evil and tragedy. Go through any newspaper and count the stories that are devoted to scandal, crime and disaster. You will find they make up only a small part of the total news. Perhaps the accusing reader tends to ignore all news except the sensational.

• • • •

SECOND, evil is part of the human condition. Tragedy can strike any man. Any man, subject to pressures he does not know how to resist, can succumb to folly and even crime. From newspapers readers can learn to avoid the fates which destroyed others. There is considerable evidence that news of traffic fatalities has made the streets safer.

Third, happiness and good deeds do not readily lend themselves to reporting. What is there to say about a happy woman who devotes herself to being a good wife and mother? It is only when good deeds take on a heroic quality, usually in the face of terrible evil, do they become "good copy." Good deeds are what all of us should do—and most people do them much of the time.

Newspapermen wear cynicism as an armor. They know, through experience, that the "best people" are sometimes capable of villainy, and that the "worst" are sometimes capable of noble actions. "A human being will do anything he can think up," a grumpy copyreader observed.

• • • •

AND YET, the armor of cynicism wears thin. The truly bitter newsmen are very young. By the time a man has gray in his hair he quits being hurt by the fact that people "will do anything." He has discovered that most people most of the time are kindly, generous, reasonably intelligent, trying to be decent, doing good by the lights they have, seeking what pleasures that are within their reach, trying to live in charity with their neighbors.

People can also be quite beastly.

The graying newspaperman places his bets on the human race. It's wild betting. But what else is there to bet on?

Gov. Wallace Disgusts Him

EDITOR:

It disgusts me to read of Alabama's "fine" governor, George Wallace and his desperate bids for attention. What does this man hope to accomplish by defying federal courts?

Grandstand tactics such as blocking schools with state troopers are certainly not in the best interests of the citizens. Governor Wallace already has backed down once. he must inevitably back down again, or it may be a case of "United States vs. Alabama."

He speaks of presidential primaries next year to draw a "protest vote" against the Kennedy administration. How can a person who persists in making a complete jackass of himself draw any votes from sane people? I don't think he is even capable of drawing water for his own bath.

I pity the people of Alabama who have to suffer because of this little man's desire to be in the limelight. He casts democracy aside in order to show us how firm and unwavering he can be in his little directives. To me, he shows nothing but stubbornness and utter lack of concern for civil rights.

If the deep South enjoys a lower standard of living than the rest of the nation today, it is because of backward-thinking officials like Governor Wallace.

Anti-Gun Laws Hotly Opposed

EDITOR:

The Second Amendment in the Bill of Rights insures us the right to bear arms.

Most citizens are law abiding and have a strong sense of justice. These assets coupled with common sense are pretty much standard equipment for the majority.

The large honest percentage of the population should be insured the right to protect their homes and country against criminals both foreign and domestic who will possess firearms regardless of legality.

The alternative is a large police force paid by increased taxes. Do you want that?

Legal firearms in the hands of reputable citizens is the answer; and it won't cost you the taxpayer one cent.

1. Stop the anti-gun legislation now.

2. Don't let the 2nd amendment of the Bill of Rights go down the drain.

3. Don't give the undesirable elements a better opportunity to take what they wish from you.

Write your Congressional representative and express your disapproval of legislation to deprive you of "The Right to Bear Arms."

Answer for Negroes! Show Capabilities

EDITOR:

More and more, each and every day, we read of the so called abuse of our Negro citizens. Negro Americans are not better or no worse than Slovenian Americans, Jewish Americans, Chinese Americans, or any other race of any American citizenry.

They (Negroes) scream prejudice at every opportunity. I know of many Negroes that conduct themselves as the type of wonderful people that makes each and every one of us proud to know them.

Surely, don't we realize that Negroes are no different than any other person on the face of this earth. Negroes are entitled to no more or no less than any race of people anywhere.

If the ones that represent themselves in these ridiculous demonstrations feel that they are being abused by society, then let them show their desire to become good American citizens by not demanding, but rather showing their capabilities along these lines. Nothing worth having is achieved by a force. They would not like gentiles saying "this is the way we want it, and this is the way it will be." Let ourselves as the Caucasian race say this to the Negroes, and it might prove very interesting.

IBMA Cited for Service to Navy

EDITOR:

I read with great interest your article dealing with the amicable relationship in Oxnard, California, between the city and its nearby military installations. And that chapters were being formed in various other cities for that express purpose. Also that there was none in the City of Long Beach, because of strained relations.

Please don't overlook an organization we have here, known as the Independent Business Men's Association, formed after the local Naval Shipyard reopened in 1951. These were business men who joined together to keep the Navy in Long Beach and hold on to that $275 million that is spent here each year between the Navy and shipyard workers, which isn't to be taken lightly.

We like to have Long Beach known as the best Navy port in the world, and that the Navy men are welcomed warmly whenever they arrive in this port.

We can't overlook the fact that the Navy is the largest single source of income in Long Beach, and therefore the IBMA is dedicated to protecting and increasing our share.

Therefore, in order to extend a welcoming hand of friendship to visiting Naval ships, we arrange monthly luncheons, and invite Naval officers of different groups, stationed in Long Beach, and we have a Naval representative in Washington participating jointly with the City, and the Long Beach Naval Shipyard Employees Association, to obtain at the federal level the best public relations for the City of Long Beach.

What the Editor meant to imply, I think, was that there was no chapter in Long Beach, but we certainly have an organization that operates along parallel lines with the same object in view.

Sincerely yours,
HARRY M. ELKINS
Carson and Santa Fe

P.S.: Pardon any mispelled words. I am not an officer of the above Assn., just an enthusiastic member. The organization does not know about this letter.

March Made Her Proud

EDITOR:

I never was a prouder American than I was watching the March on Washington. Listening to the inspiring speeches in front of Lincoln Memorial, how can there be a single prejudice left? I'm an agnostic but proudly state I was raised without any racial or religious prejudice.

The world is my country, to do good my religion, to judge people by merit and not by race, creed or color.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Missing Queen Gudrun Found

Gudrun Bjarnadottir, 1964 IBC queen is on her way to Reykjavik, Iceland—not lost in the wilds of New York—as was at first feared.

She was reported missing by a Paris newspaper Wednesday, but was located Saturday in New York by The Independent, Press-Telegram.

Gudrun, a Paris fashion model from Keflavik, Iceland, left Long Beach Aug. 26 for a New York visit, then a stop at home with her parents before reporting to work in Paris. She was due there Monday.

She decided, however, to remain in seclusion in New York "resting from the tiring contest."

She was scheduled to fly out of New York's Idlewild Airport late Saturday night for Iceland.

Terrorist Weeps

Lloyd Neely, who fled police for two days after a bar holdup in which two persons were shot and a rape in a private home during a three-hour reign of terror, is in jail.

Weeping, Neely, 23, gave himself up to Los Angeles police late Friday after calling them from a pay station.

He gave the officers a confession, in form of a letter to his sister.

A former inmate of Vacaville State Hospital, Neely sobbed bitterly when officers put handcuffs on his wrists, then collapsed while being returned to Long Beach.

"I just wanted to get it all over with. I did it all," detectives quoted him as saying. "I didn't mean to shoot that old lady. It was an accident. The gun just went off. I didn't think I hit the guy either."

Mrs. Lillie M. Booth, 62, was shot in the face when she attempted to talk Neely out of robbing patrons in the Strikeout Tavern, 2401 E. Anaheim St. Billy J. Henderson, 31, was wounded in the hip when he attempted to defend Mrs. Booth.

Neely, a service station attendant, said he had no specific plans to rob the 14 patrons in the tavern. "I just got mad because I lost at pool," he said.

Jealousy, Death

Billie Ray Strickland, 23, of Anaheim shot and killed a Marine private at Twentynine Palms Saturday, wounded his estranged 19-year-old wife and another Marine before committing suicide, police said.

Officers said Strickland, of 2053 Stennaker St., fired at least eight shots from a 20-gauge shotgun in "an apparent fit of jealousy."

Pvt. Melvin L. Trumbull, 22, was killed. Strickland's estranged wife, Gloria, was taken to San Bernardino County Hospital in critical condition. Marine Pfc. Larry Bennett was taken to the hospital at Twentynine Palms Marine Corps Depot where his wounds were described as serious.

Young Burglars

Two Bellflower brothers were committed to the California Youth Authority for the attempted burglary of a Chowchilla service station last month.

They are Frankie John Boatright, 20, and his 17-year-old brother, Michael David. Chowchilla police officers said they were caught in the act of the burglary.

The older brother also was charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

One of Five

Karrell Anne Smith of 1063 Hardwick St., Long Beach, representing the Cypress Police Department, will be one of five women in the 37th class of 20 police and sheriff's officers to start a 12-week course Monday in the USC Delinquency Control Institute.

Also enrolled is Gerald W. Dollarhide, 5822 Blackthorne Ave., Lakewood, representing the Lynwood Police Department.

Letter Seminar

Some 40 persons are expected to attend a letter writing seminar Thursday sponsored by Long Beach Community Hospital. Included will be administrative secretaries of all hospitals in Long Beach, the hospital said.

Texans Need Water but Decline U.S. Aid

WHITEWRIGHT, Tex. (UPI)—It has been a hot, dry summer in Whitewright but not so much that federal aid is needed, Mayor R. R. Summers feels.

It all apparently got started a few weeks ago when the north Texas town's water supply ran a bit low.

"We asked folks to hold up a little on washing their cars and watering their lawns," Summers said.

"Well, some fellow called Washington, and they got the idea we were gone dry."

Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., called the newspapers with the news that federal aid was on the way to save Whitewright from dying of thirst. He said the government might drill new wells.

"No thanks," Summers said.

"We are drilling another well," he said. "But we'd rather do it ourselves."

'WE'LL MAKE IT NEXT TIME'

Try at Rowing 12-Footer to Catalina Short 3 Miles

By VINT MADER

Despite current, wind and waves that battered their first attempt to a halt only a few miles short of Avalon Harbor, two young men today have not lost their ardor for rowing a 12-foot boat to Catalina Island from the mainland.

"We're going to do it again and we'll make it," said Bernie Knoke, 19, in a telephone interview from Avalon Saturday.

* * * *

KNOKE and Ed Gray, 22, son of an Avalon restaurant proprietor, fought water and weather to within three miles of the island on their first try when they had to give up and signal for a tow.

"It got real rough when we were about four miles out," said Knoke. "It took us two hours to row one mile."

Until then, the determined pair had made steady progress, except for being turned around in morning fog because of a failure in the compass they had aboard, Knoke said.

* * * *

THEY began their row at the Catalina steamship dock in Los Angeles Harbor at 6 a.m. Friday, having brought the rented rowboat from Avalon via ferry the night before.

Fog closed in shortly after they cleared the outer harbor and it was only after they met two boats that they learned their compass was guiding them backwards. First a fisherman told them they were four miles out and 90 minutes later they learned from another boat that they were three miles out.

They then got set on a correct course, the fog soon lifted and they stroked ahead until they were four miles from the island.

In good physical condition from regular aquatic pastimes and their hands bound and taped like boxer's, they suffered no blisters or aches, said Knoke, a Pasadenan who is working at the Gray family restaurant for the summer.

* * * *

THEY were sighted and signaled regularly by the Catalina amphibian planes and once a Navy destroyer drew alongside to be assured they were in no trouble.

But in the afternoon they began to buck a current that threatened to carry them around the southern tip of the island. Then head-on seas and wind picked up against them.

"We just put our backs into it for one solid hour and got nowhere," said Knoke.

"We also got soaking wet. We were taking water and bailing all the time. One of us would row while the other bailed."

* * * *

THEY finally decided "it would take us another 10 hours to get in at this rate" and signaled to one of the passing amphiblans with one of six flares they had.

The plane radioed the Coast Guard, which then put out a call for boats in the vicinity to help the intrepid rowers.

Soon a private motorboat took them in tow for the last long three miles of their first attempt to row the San Pedro Channel.

N.Y. River Current Claims Four, Tug

NEW YORK (UPI)—A tugboat with 10 men aboard capsized in the Hellgate currents of the East River Saturday. The captain and three crew members were feared drowned. Six other crewmen were rescued.

Witnesses and rescued crewmen said the tug "Flushing" was towing a barge which "moved up," causing the tug to capsize and sink.

One of the rescued men, Joseph Hooper, 63, of Bridgeport, Conn., said the tug was "shoved around like it was in a whirlpool" and capsized and sank "within minutes."

The missing men were identified as Capt. Charles Scouten and deckhands Johan Foldik, Francis King and James Pillsworth. Treated and released at a hospital, in addition to Hooper, were:

Lewis Johnson, 60, and Charles McCarthy, both of New York; Richard Henssen, 41, Hawthrone, N.J.; Mauritz Ostrigan, 58, Rockaway, N.J.; and Robert Robertson (hometown unavailable.)

* * * *

THE CAPTAIN and crew members were hurled into the swirling currents when the tug struck the barge, which did not sink.

Two policemen in a patrol car saw the accident and alerted rescue vessels.

The Hellgate currents are created by a confluence of waters from the Harlem River and Long Island Sound, which flow at different speeds over the shoals in the East River.

Tokyo Bomber Strikes Again

TOKYO (AP)—Tokyo Metropolitan Police have launched a nationwide hunt for a "ghost bomber" who has identified himself as Jiro Kusaka, the equivalent of John Smith. Police expressed belief Saturday that he is responsible for at least six explosions that have occurred here and frightened Tokyo since last year.

At least 10 persons have been injured in explosions of home-made devices. Nine were hurt Wednesday night when a time-bomb exploded in a Metropolitan subway train. One person was injured last year when a bomb planted in a book exploded in a public telephone booth.

8 Nabbed in Roundup of Bookies

A $250,000-a-year bookmaking ring was broken Saturday with the arrest of eight persons in Los Angeles and Orange Counties, officers said.

Vice officers from Los Angeles County sheriff's office, Downey, Garden Grove, Buena Park and Santa Ana police departments, working with Orange County District Attorney's investigators, swooped down on eight different locations to nab the alleged gamblers.

Sheriff's deputies said the kingpins of the operation, which was estimated to handle up to $250,000 a year in bets on horse racing and other sporting events, are William Paul Jones, 60, arrested at 12171 Front St., Norwalk, and his brother, Earl Broadway Jones, 66, arrested at 11970 Olive St., Norwalk.

Booked with the Joneses at Orange County jail, (listed with addresses where they were arrested) were:

Billie Barbee, 40, of 11932 Regentview St., Downey; Mary L. Barbee, 36, of 11821 Medina Drive, Garden Grove; Robert A. Mott, 48, of 2046 Martin Lane, Santa Ana; Kenneth Felkner, 43, of 9301 Royal Palm Blvd., Garden Grove; Walter Amondsen, 50, of 7671 5th St., Buena Park, and Jack Hanz, 46, of 10910 Orr and Day Road, Santa Fe Springs.

Don Carroll, investigator for the Orange County district attorney's office said the raids climaxed seven weeks of undercover work. Bundles of betting markers and other bookmaking equipment were confiscated, he added.

Job, Freedom March Set for N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil rights groups are planning a march—similar to the recent march on Washington—on New York's City Hall for Sunday, Sept. 29, it was announced Saturday night.

Marvin Rich, a spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality, said "tens of thousands" are expected to march in protest of "significant" discrimination against Negroes in the New York City construction industry.

The decision to conduct the march was approved by the leadership of six civil rights organizations last Thursday, he said.

Rich said the decision for the New York march grew out of the success Aug. 28 of the "jobs and freedom" march on Washington, when 200,000 persons traveled by plane, train and bus to the Capital.

The CORE spokesman said the demonstrators will demand five steps to end discrimination in the construction industry:

That Mayor Robert Wagner void contracts on projects where job discrimination exists.

That all qualified workers be accepted as members of the construction industry unions.

That the unions do away with waiting lists for new apprentices and immediately accept new applicants for membership.

That standards be established to determine the qualifications of applicants for union membership.

That a review appeal board be established, made up of representatives of the unions, builders and civil rights groups, to act in cases where union membership is denied.

L.B. PARENTS ADVISED

Our Children, Going to School, Need Lessons in Traffic Safety

With classes opening next Monday, the Long Beach Safety Council, police department and other civic organizations are starting their annual program promoting traffic safety for school children.

Brilliant posters, billboards and bumper stickers carrying the slogan, "Be Extra Alert," already are appearing locally.

This precautionary message is directed primarily at motorists who are asked to be extra careful since thousands of children will be thronging the school routes.

Said Police Chief William J. Mooney:

"Each year we spend millions of dollars to fight the diseases that might bring suffering and death to our children. We spend millions annually to give these children comforts and luxuries far beyond their needs. Yet we fail to protect them adequately against one of the most deadly hazards of modern living . . . the automobile.

"In the main, there are three groups of people responsible for this ironic fact. They are the drivers, of course—naturally, the parents—and the children themselves. What can a parent do about a child-traffic problem?

"First of all the parents' behavior in traffic influences the child's behavior greatly. Make your example a good one. Find out how the child is being taught traffic safety in school and coordinate your own instruction. See that your children only play in approved play areas, and not in the street. Be sure they follow the safety rules on their skates, wagons, scooters and bikes.

"Drivers must always be on the lookout for children and be driving slow enough to stop in time. The children must obey the rules they learn in school and at home. This 'Back to School' safety program requires careful consideration for the safety of all chilren. Their lives and your freedom from tragedy are worth the effort."

SIGNING A PROCLAMATION declaring September to be "Crusade Child Safety Month" is Mayor Edwin Wade. Present with him are James Campbell of Foremost Dairies (left) and Police Sgt. George Marshall, Long Beach. Dairy industry is a sponsor of the safety month.

He will conduct the research in Berkeley during a leave of absence from Long Beach State.

ADMITS SECOND KILLING

Paroled Strangler Being Quizzed Over Slaying of L.B. Teacher

A paroled strangler who has confessed choking another woman to death in Long Beach will be questioned about other such killings in California and adjoining states, police said Saturday.

Robert Leslie Webster, 45, was arrested at his home 771 Dawson Ave., by 22 heavily armed officers early Friday. He later broke down and confessed slaying Mrs. Jane Diane Harley, an attractive 38-year-old divorcee, Wednesday night.

Webster continues to deny any knowledge of the similar slaying of June 30 of Mrs. Pauline Bennett Anderson, 55, a schoolteacher who was killed after she left a Long Beach cocktail lounge.

However, Webster will be questioned further on the Anderson killing, homicide Sgt. Frank Welch said Saturday.

Welch said the department has asked Orange County to forward its file on the 1946 conviction of Webster for the strangulation of 19-year-old Carrie Bendel, a Belmont Shore waitress.

Welch said detectives will resume interrogation of Webster on unsolved slayings of similar type after they study the Orange County reports.

It set the 1963 figure at 74,924,875 gallons, compared with 70,538,022 last year. All three types of wine—table, sparkling and dessert — rose, with the table wines leading the way at 13 per cent.

Dengue Fever Danger in Southland

Public health officials Saturday asked physicians to be on the lookout for cases of dengue fever in Southern California.

A large outbreak of the disease has occurred in the Caribbean area and tourists may have been infected there, health officials said.

The ailment is not transmitted directly from person to person but by mosquitoes. The causative agent is one of the smallest known viruses.

Dr. I. D. Litwack, Long Beach health officer, said the ailment is rarely fatal but is marked by severe muscular pain and fever and a lengthy convalescence.

Dr. B. A. Kogan, epidemiologist with the Los Angeles County Health Department, said at least six trawlers from Jamaica have come down with the disease in the United States. Because of heavy tourist travel, more cases are expected.

The ailment is known by a variety of names: dandy fever, breakbone fever, giraffe fever, ankle fever, bouquet fever, polka fever and denguero.

Johnson Finds Greeting in Finland Warmest Among 30 Lands He's Visited

By BILL BROOM
I. P-T Washington Bureau

HELSINKI—Vice President Lyndon Johnson is countering Soviet "charm" in Scandinavia with a Texas handshake and spectator passes to the United States Senate. Nearing the midpoint of a two-week tour, he paused here at the Russians' doorstep today to assure Finland American friends had not abandoned her, although theaty commitments with Russia require her neutrality.

The Scandanavia tour has not been an easy assignment for Johnson. He is an impulsive outgoing visitor, whereas his hosts hide their friendliness behind stolid masks of reserve. On the political canvas, Johnson prefers painting in broad violent colors, but his present assignment dictates fine-lined etching.

* * * *

AFTER slipping on the ice of Nordic reserve in Sweden, Johnson hit his stride with the friendly folk of Finland. They gave him an unprecedented welcome which included the first ticker tape thrown in Helsinki's history. He was mobbed in the streets by crowds police had difficulty controlling.

Finland lives in a straitjacket imposed by the necessity of getting along with a neighbor of overwhelming economic and military superiority. Finns by thousands burst the bonds of force-induced neutrality with a warm greeting which was the only way they could, with impunity, indicate clearly where their true sympathies lie.

* * * *

CHOKED with emotion, Johnson told newsmen later he had experienced nothing approaching its warmth in 30 countries he has visited. Helsinki reporters said the only other public display like it was the greeting given President Herbert Hoover who had rescued the nation from starvation after the first World War.

Johnson's Saturday night speech at the annual America Days ceremony here was intended to dispel this country's feeling of isolation. He said United States policy was aimed at assuring Finns their survival depends primarily on their own determination to maintain their identity with the assistance of the Western world's strength in Europe. The Scandanavian countries have been a major target of Soviet blandishments in recent years and Russian behavior here has been generally good.

* * * *

GOOD relations prevail along the Norway-Soviet border and many mayors of small towns there have accepted invitations to visit Russia. Soviet leaders have adopted an understanding attitude toward Swedish neutrality. This unusual pattern of Soviet behavior has resulted in psychological erosion of traditional pro-Western attitudes, in the opinion of U.S. diplomats.

Johnson is attempting to check the erosion by impressing them that U.S. forward-looking policies at home and abroad represent the wave of the future. Amid nations that must trade to survive he emphasizes the free-trade act passed by the last Congress.

* * * *

AWARE of this area's strong feeling for disarmament, he talks boldly of heavy emphasis on the peaceful exploration of space in U.S. research and development programs. At times Johnson finds delicacies of diplomatic tasks narrow and confining. He hits his stride whenever he can find a crowd, which is not always easy in these countries.

In Goteborg, Sweden's bustling west-coast seaport he found the going to his liking. Goteborgians are not unlike people of Texas. They are boosters, hard traders, out for new business and hearty in manner. They couldn't help being charmed when Johnson sallied into the small crowd greeting him at the heliport while Swedish fifers piped the strains of "Yellow Rose of Texas" to a military-band accompaniment.

* * * *

AFTER enough hands were wrung and enough LBJ passes given out to cram the U.S. Senate's spectator galleries, Goteborgians got into the spirit of the occasion. They adopted the fine old American custom of breaking through police lines and mobbed their visitor.

Sees Tax Cut Effective January

By ADREN COOPER AND EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress doesn't finish work on the tax bill this year, the average American can forget about bigger take-home pay until well into the spring, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon says.

But Dillon said, in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press, he is optimistic about the chances of enacting the proposed $11 billion, two-stage cut in time to allow reduced withholding from pay envelopes to begin in January.

He predicted stronger public pressure on the Senate, where delays are most likely, than on the House. The House is expected to vote on taxes this month.

Dillon said also he sees no need for President Kennedy to shelve some of his domestic programs, as some Republicans have suggested, to encourage economy-minded legislators to vote for tax reduction.

• • • •

MOREOVER, Dillon contended, there is growing realization that the American economy needs the tonic of a tax cut if it is to recover from its persistent gold and dollar drain ills.

He said the relatively good performance of business in recent months still leaves unemployment higher than it was last year and does not weaken the case for the legislation.

Highlights of the interview:

Question: are you still optimistic about the chances of the tax bill even though the Senate has scheduled it behind civil rights legislation?

Dillon: I don't think there has been any definite decision on a time schedule for civil rights legislation. The key problem is whether we can get Senate hearings on the tax bill before the Senate gets involved in a filibuster which would shut off time for such hearings. I think there is still an opportunity for that.

Q. If the bill isn't finished until next year, even though retroactive to January, would this do much damage from your point of view?

Dillon: It would slow up the economy because the first effect on the economy—as far as individual reductions are concerned—takes place when the new withholding rates go into effect. This increases the take-home pay of everybody in the United States and if a tax bill is passed by the Senate, say the first of March, retroactive to the first of the year, new withholding rates probably couldn't go into effect until the first of April, and we would have lost three months.

There would just be larger refunds taking place in the spring of '65 rather than having increased pay checks in the early months of '64.

• • • •

BUSINESS TAXES are paid on the basis of the full year's earnings, and they don't start coming in in any volume until the following September, so the effect on business incentives, to invest or anything else, will be about the same.

It will be the delay of the tax cut for the individuals which will slow the pickup in demand that is so important.

I can't see anything that can be done to take the place of the tax cut in that area. If it is late, it is just late and we will lose three months.

Q. Don't you think some of the effect of the tax cut is already being felt as businessmen invest in anticipating the tax cut?

Dillon: I think businessmen do anticipate the effect of the tax cut, therefore, it is very important that it go through. I think there would be very serious disappointment now at this late date, if there turned out to be no tax cut, or an inadequate tax cut.

Q. President Kennedy said he expects to submit a budget for 1965 in which there would be less than the $9.2 billion deficit anticipated for 1964. Are you far enough along to figure out how much less?

Dillon: No. He is in the position just to state that it will be less than the $9.2 billion, which was the latest estimate—quite a rough estimate.

Q. Mr. Secretary, some critics have said that the Treasury misjudged foreign reaction to the proposed interest equalization tax, which would apply to the purchase of foreign securities by Americans. Do you care to comment?

Dillon: It probably is a fair statement that the reaction in Canada was more extreme than we had anticipated, though we had known there would naturally be some reaction there, because they were the big borrowers down here.

We had felt they could adjust to this tax and get along all right with it without major disruption in the Canadian economy. They felt otherwise. That is the only place where I think there was any surprise to us. The reactions elsewhere were about as we expected.

Q. Do you feel Congress has imposed on your time in requesting your appearance some 60-odd times in the past seven months

Dillon: No, I don't, because the great bulk of them have been with the Ways and Means Committee of the House on the tax bill and I think this bill is one of the most important pieces of legislation that has come before the Congress in many years. It is the first step in decades to reduce the federal tax burden except for the repeal of some obviously temporary wartime tax rates.

I think it is a very fundamental and very important objective which will do more for our economy and more for curing our unfavorable balance of payments than any step I know.

Q. Would you like to see the debt ceiling handled in a different manner?

Dillon: I do think that there has grown up some confusion over the purpose of the debt ceiling. People have come to think it's meant to control expenditures.

Of course, that is not so. It was created originally after the First World War to allow us to finance without going to Congress to have every single loan approved.

It has been only in the last 15 years, that there has been this effort to hold the debt limit down tightly to estimates, under the theory that this will control expenditures.

However, this isn't the case since the expenditures are all undertaken only with the approval of Congress.

Q. Some Republicans have said the President would not have much trouble passing the tax cut bill if he agreed to put on the shelf some of his programs not involving defense and space. Would this be good tactics, since it is evident some of these will not be passed at this session?

Dillon: It is very clear that a number of these programs are not at all likely to be enacted, not necessarily for reasons of economy only but—for instance—the problem of educational bills in view of the religious controversy.

So I think a request for a statement like this is political in nature and is not economic, because those who make the request know the programs are not going to pass in any event an dthey can vote for a tax reduction in perfect safety, if that is what they fear.

17-0 Ram Win Led by 'Brat'

By JERRY WYNN

The Rams can handle the kittens. Now bring on the Lions!

The kittens, the San Francisco 49ers, became the first opponent to be blanked by the Rams in 10 years Saturday night. The 17-0 victory was achieved before a gathering of 34,405 at the Coliseum.

The Lions, the bruising Detroit Lions, appear this Saturday night to open the National Football League season.

The Rams coupled a steel-honed defense with an improving offense to hand the 49ers their fifth successive pre-season defeat. The Rams ended their preliminary skirmishing with a record of 2-3.

• • • •

IT WAS the forgotten veteran, Zeke Bratkowski, who guided the Rams to all their points in the second half after young Terry Baker failed to make headway in the first quarter.

Bratkowski passed 43 yards to Jim Phillips for the first touchdown early in the third quarter. Danny Villanueva kicked a 25-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter, and Ben Wilson plunged over from the 1 with the final touchdown after Jon Arnett uncorked an old-fashioned Arnett 64-yard scamper.

But the Ram offense was far from impressive over-all, and the laurels primarily fall to the tenacious Ram defense unit which gave John Brodie one of the roughest evenings of his career. Linebackers Marlin McKeever and Jack Pardee crashed through repeatedly to harass the 49er quarterback. Pardee was awarded the game ball by his teammates.

The shutout was the first inflicted by the Rams since the opening game of the 1954 season when the Rams blitzed Baltimore, 48-0. Saturday night, they picked on their arch enemies, the kittens from San Francisco. How the game unfolded.

FIRST QUARTER

Neither team could penetrate within the enemy 25-yard line during a loosely-played opening quarter.

The Rams twice took possession of the ball on the San Francisco 40, but could not muster a serious scoring threat.

The first bid ended with Terry Baker getting spilled for a 13-yard loss. The second died after one first down when Jon Arnett fumbled away the ball on the 49er 28.

It was the Rams' first fumble loss of the season.

SECOND QUARTER

The most exciting play of a scoreless first half came within the Ram one-yard line with John Brodie attempted a quarterback sneak but was stacked up by the Rams without gain.

San Francisco began the drive on the Ram 37 after mercurial Abe Woodson ran back a punt 32 yards.

After an incomplete pass, Lloyd Winston ran for 4 and J. D. Smith scrambled to within inches of the goal line to set up Brodie's unsuccessful sneak.

THIRD QUARTER

Rams 7, 49ers 0: The Rams ended the scoring famine on a 43-yard touchdown pass from Bratkowski to Jim Phillips with 4:40 elapsed. Phillips made a fine catch on the sideline at the 15 and sprinted into the end zone. Danny Villanueva converted.

The Rams had taken possession of the ball on the San Francisco 44 after a 23-yard punt return by Carver Shannon. The scoring strike came two plays later.

San Francisco soon moved to a first down on the Ram 27 on passes from Brodie to Don Lisbon for 23 and Jim Johnson for 12. The Rams held, and Tommy Davis missed a field goal from the 34.

FOURTH QUARTER

Rams 10, 49ers 0: Villanueva kicked a 26-yard field goal for the Rams after the Rams advanced from their own 21 to a first down on the San Francisco 21. Big gains came on passes from Bratkowski to Duane Allen for 27, Phillips for 16 and Bass for 26.

But from the S.F. 21, the Rams picked up only two yards in three downs and the call went out for Villanueva.

The Rams had an earlier drive for three first downs.

Dodgers' Tommy Davis attempts steal in fourth inning against Giants but Jose Pagan has ball, awaiting tag.

Dodgers Feel Breath of Birds

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO—The Redbirds still aren't dead birds. And, while the Dodgers continue to rule the National League roost, the cackling in the clubhouse subsided slightly Saturday.

Juan Marichal, with home run support from Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda, made it six in a row over the Dodgers at Candlestick Park. The Giants prevailed 5-3 and thus kept the Dodgers' cinching cypher at 16 with 20 games remaining.

Don Drysdale (17-16) was the loser for the third time in four meetings with the high-kicking Marichal this season. The defeat did little to help Drysdale's shingles, a nervous condition which was complicated by a rash of San Francisco hits.

Filled with pills and shots, after X-ray treatments, Drysdale still was in pain as he took the mound. "It felt like I had torn some muscles in my right side," said Drysdale, who yielded to a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning.

Drysdale was sent home for further treatments and will not rejoin the team until Tuesday in Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers matched the Giants with nine hits, but eight were singles as Marichal recorded his 21st victory against eight losses.

The loss snipped the Dodgers' league lead over St. Louis to 4½ games, their slimmest edge since Aug. 16, when the Giants trailed by four games and the Cardinals by five.

Mays, who obviously has regained his strength, began the Giants' long range bombardment with home run No. 34 in the first inning. His opposite-field home run game after McCovey singled infield and provided Marichal with a 2-0 edge.

• • • •

CEPEDA HIT No. 27 to start the fourth inning and McCovey stroked No. 37 to start the sixth.

Johnny Podres, appearing in relief for the second time in two years, allowed the final run in the seventh inning on a double by Jose Pagan and a pinch-hit single by Jim Davenport. Davenport batted for the lefthanded Chuck Hiller after Podres walked Harvey Kuenn intentionally.

McCovey's homer was his third of the year and 10th lifetime against Drysdale. Each of his three this season figured in San Francisco victories, which total eight with the finale coming up today.

Although Drysdale is among the most generous home run pitchers in the league (he has allowed 25), it was the first time this season that he has allowed three in one game.

John Roseboro (No. 8) homered for the Dodgers in the second inning, a three-hit round that failed to be more productive because Bill Skowron grounded into a double play.

Skowron earned a starting job against the right-handed Marichal by hitting .500 (5-for-10) in his last four games, while Fairly, who was hitless in his last 12 times up, moved to right field.

Fairly came through with three hits and drove in two runs, but also struck out while Tommy Davis was caught stealing to end a Dodger threat in the fourth.

Fairly singled to lead off the second inning, but was doubled easily when Skowron tapped to shortstop. Roseboro followed with his line-drive homer over the right

OSUNA, FROEHLING IN FINALS

McKinley Surprised

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Mexico's agile Rafael Osuna upset top-seeded Chuck McKinley 6-4, 6-4, 10-8 and beanpole Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., ended the Cinderella story of Brazil's Ronnie Barnes 6-3, 6-1, 6-4 Saturday for men's finalist spots in the National Tennis Championships.

Thus it's Froehling's divot-digging cannonball service against Osuna's catlike quickness and volleying wizardry in the title battle Sunday at the West Side Tennis Club.

Regardless of which one wins, tennis history will be made.

No Mexican has ever won the U.S. title. The United States hasn't had a home-grown champion since 1955—just before Australia began an eight-year monopoly.

The women's crown is certain to be carried to a foreign country.

• • • •

THE FINALISTS are top-seeded Margaret Smith, seeking to add the U.S. crown to her Australian and Wimbledon championships, and Maria Bueno of Brazil, once the queen of all tennis before a siege of hepatitis hindered her career.

Miss Smith, powerful, 5-foot-10 factory foreman's daughter from the little Australian town of Albury in New South Wales, needed only 39 minutes in erasing unseeded Deidre Catt of England 6-2, 6-0.

The dour-business-like Miss Bueno, winner here in 1959, staged two strong rallies to turn back the scrappy British Wightman Cup veteran, left-handed Ann Haydon Jones, 1-6, 6-3, 9-7.

Both Osuna and Froehling are surprise occupants of the finals.

The 23-year-old Mexican ace, whose victory over the Wimbledon champion McKinley was his third in four meetings, was seeded fourth. Froehling, the game's stepchild, was unseeded.

Froehling's sweep to the finals behind his scorching service—"it's like it's coming out of a tree top," Barnes said . . . brought red faces to U.S. Davis Cup and tournament officials.

Not only was he ignored in the choice of Davis Cup squads this year, although he ranked second behind McKinley in the national list, but he was unseeded in the tournament.

"They'll have to put me on the team now," Froehling said.

He is eminently correct.

Bob Kelleher, Davis Cup captain, said Froehling definitely figures in Cup plans for the inter-zone matches with England Sept. 26-28 and later tests, if successful, against India and Australia.

• • • •

FROEHLING was overlooked when the squad was named for the American Zone final against Venezuela at Denver Sept. 13-15.

The 6-foot-3 stringbean, a teammate of McKinley at Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., made mincemeat of Barnes, the dark-haired South American who upset third-seeded Dennis Ralston in the quarterfinals.

Froehling, a collection of arms and legs in a white baseball cap, never came close to losing his service, and broke Barnes almost at will with sweeping returns that zipped down the sidelines or caught the Brazilian stabbing at the ball as he approached the net.

Golf Series Scrambled

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the cherub-faced Ohio heavyweight, three-putted the final green from four feet for an even par 70 Saturday, and a tie with lefthander Bob Charles in the opening round of their 36-hole showdown in the $75,000 World Series of Golf.

Charles, the British Open champion from New Zealand, Julius Boros had a 72.

Nicklaus, the 23-year-old Masters and PGA king and the defender in this television spactacular that matches the top performers in the world's four major golf championships for a $50,000 first prize, led all the way until disaster struck on the final hole.

Needing a par on the last hole for a 68, he butchered away his advantage with a duffer's pair of stabs at the

Nicklaus Rages--Remarks 'in Jest'

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus stormed off the 18th green after three-putting for a double bogey and tore into two reporters for what he termed an article which turned the gallery against him.

The disastrous 18th hole saw Nicklaus lose his undisputed lead in the $75,000 World Series of Golf.

Nicklaus, who was upset over being quoted as saying Arnie Palmer does not belong in the World Series because he failed to win one of the four major tournaments, said the gallery was pulling for his second shot on the 18th hole to go into the trap. The ball skipped out of the trap and onto the fringe.

Nicklaus chipped to four feet from the pin and then three-putted. The story was run in an Akron newspaper and circulated by a wire service.

NICKLAUS WAS QUOTED as saying Palmer is an also-ran and shouldn't be in the World Series which originally was an event for winners of the four major titles. However, since Nicklaus won two of the championships the promoters decided to hold a playoff in which Palmer won the fourth berth by defeating Jack Cupit and Phil Rodgers.

"Nobody deserves to be in this thing more than Arnold," Nicklaus screamed at the two men who wrote the story. "When you have to take a remark made in jest and turn it into dirt then I don't want to have anything to do with you."

Earlier in the day, Palmer, who was present when Nicklaus made his remarks Thursday, said "Jack and I were kidding along. If I were Nicklaus I'd bury a wedge in their heads."

No Hat-Throwing for Don Reed

If you've been following Al Larson's reports on Long Beach State's football drills, you undoubtedly have noted the strange optimism of coach Don Reed.

Ordinarily at this time of year, a football coach is as optimistic as a clergyman behind the Iron Curtain. Not Reed. He's as bubbly as a soft drink—and not because he expects to win the CCAA championship, but because he believes his 49ers can finish as high as third in the tough circuit.

DON REED
No More Hat Tricks

"I'm so impressed with our training camp," said Reed the other day, "that I don't think you will see me throwing my hat around during a game. Besides, I have an elastic band in it and it will pop right back."

I can't quite agree with that statement. For Reed to refrain from disgustedly throwing his hat in the air during a game is as impossible as Cassius Clay shutting his mouth.

Reed has three reasons for his optimistic attitude.

"First of all, for once we've got enough people to do a better job," Don explained. "When you only have 33 or so boys to work with during practice you can't afford to lose a single man or else you have everyone doubling up to fill the gaps.

"This means the kids take their turns so often they tire easily. But we have 52 boys right now and only two have quit, one because of a previous injury.

"Then, I think we've got someone to complement Dee Andrews this year. Willie Martin has really shown his stuff in early drills and gives us two tremendous speed-burners.

"Mainly, though, my optimism stems not so much from talent but from the squad's attitude. The boys like our new dorm atmosphere and, instead of little cliques here and there, all the kids are getting to know one another right off. In previous years, it's taken three or four weeks for everyone to know each other. Now it's only a matter of a few days."

Clearly, it's Reed's thought that the family which stays together, plays together.

IN ADDITION TO Andrews and Martin, the 49er coaches are elated thus far over the performances of seven other athletes. Reed capsules his opinions of each in this manner:

Guard Don Crosby—"It looks like Don finally is rid of all his germs. He always seemed to be battling colds or boils or something last season and looks like a real team leader now."

Quarterback Jerry Otterson—"Jerry lost about 12 pounds during the summer while in Sweden and is throwing the ball real well now. He's pushing our veteran, Chuck Anderson, for the starting job."

End John Price—"He's back from Whitman College in Washington, shows good speed and is a hard-nosed kid."

End Don Montgomery—"Right now, Don is head and shoulders above all our ends. He's going to be one of the finest ends in the conference, especially on defense."

End Don Skinner—"Here's another boy who's going to be great. In fact, he has all the tools to become Long Beach's FINEST offensive end ever."

End Pat Brosnan (nephew of that noted author, Jim Brosnan)—"To give you an idea of his potential, Pat set a national JC record last year at Santa Monica. He's little 6-0) for an end, but has exceptional moves. Pat brought a new drill into camp for us which we call the flail drill. He picked this up from Tom Fears at a clinic. It makes it tough for defenders to decide which way our ends are going to cut."

Tackle Marty Johnson—"Marty should be our key man. He has accepted the responsibility at tackle. He knows that how our tackle play goes, so goes our season."

OBVIOUSLY, FROM THE ABOVE, the 49ers are well stocked with good ends. Reed is not unaware of this situation.

"We have everything I could desire in the way of receivers," declared Reed, "so that means we've got to develop something we haven't had much success with before—a passing game. Anderson, Otterson and Rick Lussier are good throwers, along with a new boy from Hancock JC (Bill Pierce).

"Now, all we have to worry about is that we're strong enough up front to give them time to pass."

Seems as though I've heard that song before. Like, for instance, the proving grounds at Chapman College in little old Orange.

If he doesn't develop those animals up front, Mr. Reed will revert to being a mad hatter before the opening game is history.

Flood Insures 9th-Inning Win

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Curt Flood singled home Bob Gibson in the ninth inning Saturday with the run that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The win was the 10th in the last 11 games for the second-place Cardinals who gained a game on the league-leading Dodgers.

PITTSBURGH'S first run came in the third inning when Dick Schofield got the first of his four singles to score Bob Bailey.

Clendennon's 14th homer leading off the fourth inning and Bailey's 450-foot double scoring Bill Virdon gave the Pirates two runs in the fourth.

X-rays on Dick Groat, the injured shortstop and spark-plug of the St. Louis Cardinals and the National League's leading batsman, were inconclusive Saturday and the team announced Groat will return to St. Louis for further examinations today.

Groat was hit in the ribs by Pittsburgh pitcher Don Cardwell Friday. Pirate physician Dr. Joseph Finegold said Groat did not suffer broken ribs.

ANGEL OF DAY

ALBIE PEARSON
Tripled and scored first Angel run in 5-2 loss to Kansas City.

Angels Cry for No 'Moe'

By ROSS NEWHAN

The Angels were crying no "Moe" after their first drink of cocktail hour baseball.

A Moe named Drabowsky limited them to four hits and only 2,687 fans showed up for the first-ever 5 p.m. Saturday contest at Dodger Stadium.

KMPC's insistence on airing the Ram-49er game at 8 p.m. cost the Angels about 6,000 in attendance and $12,000 in the pocketbook. Drabowsky's persistence cost them a 5-2 decision.

The defeat was the Angels' 22nd in their last 33 games and pushed them back into ninth place.

Drabowsky, a righthander by way of the Chicago Cubs, yielded only one hit after the third inning and retired 15 in a row from the fourth through the ninth frame.

Three of the Angels' hits went for extra bases, but some careless base running—an Angel trademark—helped bail Drabowsky out of trouble in the third when the Cherubs scored only once on two doubles, a walk and fielder's choice.

Drabowsky survived this scare and did not allow another hit until Lee Thomas singled with two outs in the ninth. Moe got Bobby Rodgers on a simple infield grounder to nail his sixth victory against 11 defeats.

• • • •

MEANWHILE, the sad September continued for Ken McBride, who receipted for loss No. 11 against 13 wins. McBride has won only one of his last 10 starts in the biggest reversal of form since Mr. K agreed to a test ban pact.

After stranding two Kansas City runners in each of the first two innings, McBride finally got himself into a noose he couldn't slip in the third.

A double by Gino Cimoli and single by Manny Jimenez produced one run and Ed Charles promptly made it a trio of tallies by blasting his 13th home run into the left-field pavilion.

The A's were still protecting a 3-2 lead and McBride was still alive when the eighth started. A single by Charles Lau and double by Bobby Del Greco made it 4-2, however, and a fielder's choice produced the fifth K-C run, finishing Ken again.

The Angels greeted Drabowsky as if they were going to blow him back to the windy city. Albie Pearson opened the first inning with a triple down the rightfield line and scored on Leon Wagner's infield grounder.

• • • •

McBRIDE came to his own cause in the third with a lead-off double. Pearson walked and Jim Fregosi promptly lashed a tremendous drive to dead center which was extra bases the moment it left the willow.

McBride, however, held up, which in turn held up Pearson and Fregosi's progress around the bases. The ball came down at the base of the 410-foot sign, but McBride barely beat Pearson to third and just managed to score as Albie was forced to hold at third and Fregosi at second.

Wagner, Felix Torres and Billy Moran were unable to bring either runner home and Drabowsky went on to shave the Angels' 5 o'clock shadow.

HARDWICK'S SPREE SETS PIN RECORD

Billy Hardwick of San Mateo smashed all Professional Bowlers Assn. records Saturday at Rose Lanes in Gardena when he led a field of 112 top national pro bowlers out of a 4-game qualifying round in the PBA $20,000 Columbia Open with a 5,644 total pinfall.

The 22-year-old western shooter racked up a tally of 844 pins over a 200 average for the 24-game qualifying stint to top by 179 pins Ray Bluth's former PBA record of 665 over 200.

With the last squad still on the alleys Saturday battling for positions in today's final tournament round, Hardwick was already confirmed leader going into the finals with a 238 average for the qualifier.

The high-8 shooters from the qualifier will begin today's head and head final round at 1 p.m.

Maris Leads Big Yank Explosion

The pennant-bound New York Yankees staged their biggest inning of the season Saturday when they scored eight runs in the fifth frame—four of them driven in by Roger Maris—to beat the Detroit Tigers, 11-6.

The Yankees, who notched their fourth straight victory, were trailing, 6-3, at the time of the explosion, thanks to a five-run rally by the Tigers in the fourth inning.

But after Mickey Mantle singled to open the New York fifth to knock out Tiger starter Don Mossi, Maris greeted reliever and loser Mickey Lolich with his 21st homer of the year. Later Maris stroked a two-run single to conclude the scoring in the inning, in which 12 Yankees went to bat.

Hal Reniff, who relieved in the sixth inning and shut out Detroit the rest of the way, was credited with his fourth victory of the year.

RICH ROLLINS singled home two runs in the 12th inning to give the Minnesota Twins a 4-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The win increased Minnesota's edge over Chicago to one and a half games in their battle for second place in the American League.

Home runs by Woodie Held, Max Alvis and pitcher Pete Ramos accounted for all but one of Cleveland's runs in a 9-2 victory over Washington.

Dave Morehead and Dick Radatz combined on a four-hitter while Lu Clinton supplied the batting punch in Boston's 4-1 victory over Baltimore. Clinton collected three singles.

Braves Hold On to Third

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves used a pair of walks and an error to pick up two unearned runs in the 10th inning for a 6-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday night, enabling them to hold third place in the National League.

Hank Aaron, who blasted his 38th homer in the third, and Eddie Mathews drew walks from reliefer Jack Baldschun to open the 10th.

Joe Torre, who had greeted Baldschun with a game-tying homer in the eighth, bounced to short and Aaron scored, with Mathews taking third when Bobby Wine let the ball go through his legs.

Mathews was cut down at the plate on Gene Oliver's infield bouncer, Torre taking third. Del Crandall hit a sacrifice fly for the insurance run.

WYNN

Man to Man

SCULLY

By JERRY WYNN

He's never hit a home run or even a pop fly, but ask Joe Fan who is the most popular man with the Dodgers and the answer is certain to be Vincent Edward Scully.

Vin Scully's voice is heard by more people at more times from March through September (and occasionally into October) than Long Beach has little leaguers. Instead of Hootenany, the people demand their Hooten-Vinny.

Blessed with an ingratiating personality, intelligence and lilting tonsils, the 36-year-old product of the sidewalks of New York has become the symbol of the Dodgers and baseball in Southern California.

After 14 years with the Dodgers, Vin, why aren't there any gray hairs among all the red?

"The first year I broadcast Dodger games, they lost the pennant in the 10th inning of the final game. The next year, they lost in the bottom of the ninth of the third playoff game. So I have had a heavy baptism in fire. Truthfully, I never fret about a game once it's over."

Did you give any thought to remaining in New York when the Dodgers moved West in 1958?

"No. It was my job, and I had to stay with it. I wasn't happy about the move. I was raised in New York, and all my relatives and friends were there. But I have no regrets now. We've been very happy here."

Do you think an announcer should be prejudiced in favor of the home team?

"No, I really don't. There are several reasons, but basically it is because you can do a better job if you are impartial. Of course, it's only human to want to see the team you represent and the players you know so well be winners. But it should not affect your judgment or honesty in describing a game.

"The crowd looks at a game with its heart. When Frank Howard hits a fly ball, they automatically roar and plead with the ball even if it has no chance to be a home run. An announcer must look at it honestly. A fly ball is only a fly ball.

"In our six years here, Jerry (Doggett) and I never have received one letter saying we described a play wrong or accusing us of bias. I believe in honesty."

What advice would you give to a youngster with ambitions to become a sports announcer?

"It's a question I'm asked often, and it is very difficult to answer. There is no set pattern to follow to become a sports announcer as there is, say, to becoming a doctor or lawyer. The best advice I have is not to specialize in sports. Aim to be an announcer—not just a sports announcer. It's like going into an apartment house. You first have to get into the house before you get into the apartment."

Did you have any idols among sportscasters when you were a boy?

"I admired most of them, but looking back today, the one man who stands out in my mind as the finest sports announcer with the most intelligent and honest approach to broadcasting is Red Barber. I could be biased because Red helped me get my start with the Dodgers. But I say without a doubt that he is the best in baseball."

Who ranks highest among your baseball heroes?

"When I was a kid, I worshipped Mel Ott of the Giants. I was raised close to the Polo Grounds and rooted for Ott and the Giants since I saw my first game. I had pictures of him on the wall at home, and spent hours practicing to imitate his batting stance."

With the current trend of ballplayers becoming announcers, are you fearful that any present member of the Dodgers is after your job?

"No, I don't know any Dodgers with such aspirations. They have a lot else on their mind right now. But seriously, my concern is that I feel badly for some kids trying to break into the business. The competition is getting tougher and tougher."

Is there one game you consider the most memorable of all you have announced?

"It was the final game of the 1955 World Series when Johnny Podres shut out the Yankees, 2-0, to give the Dodgers their first World Series victory. I knew how frustrated and disappointed they had been about losing in past Series, and when they got that final out, I'll never forget the thrill of that moment."

Are the Dodgers going to play in the World Series this season?

"I told you after those first two years, I never guess. I'm not making plans for the first week in October, mind you. I'm keeping it wide open. There is a good omen. My son, Mike, was born in 1959, and my wife, Joan, is expecting another child in November. She insists that we only have babies in pennant years."

A winner every time out is Vin Scully.

Dupas Slips, Falls From Title Throne

Italian Wins on KO in Ninth

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Hard-hitting young Sandro Mazzinghi of Italy won the junior middleweight championship Saturday night, scoring a surprise, ninth-round knockout of veteran Ralph Dupas.

Ex-shoemaker Mazzinghi, a 2-1 underdog, gave Dupas a terrific hammering in every round and caused the 28-year-old American to resort to butting, holding and other questionable tactics in order to save himself from the challenger's attack.

The end came at 1:45 of the ninth round, when helpless Dupas was counted out on his feet by referee Neuhold of Switzerland after a short right to the chin had floored Ralph for a count of eight.

When he rose, he staggered to his corner and obviously was unable to defend himself. So the referee counted him out.

Mazzinghi, 24, and scoring his 27th victory in 28 professional fights, was cheered loudly and almost constantly during the bout by an estimated 10,000 who had braved a light rain to attend the outdoor boxing show at the Vigorelli Velodrome here.

• • • •

MAZZINGHI weighed 153 pounds as he won the world 154-pound title from Dupas, 152½.

Mazzinghi, not even ranked among the top 10 junior middleweight contenders, burst into tears of joy when the referee lifted his hand as new champion. Mazzinghi was bleeding from a cut on the left brow and a nick on his right brow. He had claimed between rounds that both cuts had been inflicted by Dupas' butting.

Dupas, who slipped and fell out of the ring in the first round and was floored by a left hook in the second, was warned by the referee in almost every session from the third round until the finish because of his questionable tactics.

Hopes High in Westwood, Too

By JEROME HALL

Only a fortnight away is the collegiate football season, so it's high time to dissolve some widely held misconceptions about the USC and UCLA teams.

1. One says the Trojans have a couple of weaknesses at fullback and at tackle.

That's gibberish. Quite to the contrary, tackle is the strongest position in the veteran-packed line. And, barring injury, the team will open the season as well equipped or maybe even a little better equipped at fullback than when it started on the trail to 11 wins in '62.

2. The Bruins won't get off the ground this season.

Maybe that's gibberish, too. UCLA has gotten off to a fast start the past week and appears quite unlike a doormat. It's a new-look Bruin team with an offense far removed from last year's confused changeover-to-the-T team. Coach Bill Barnes has installed a "pro set" offense. Much of the time it will look much like USC's attack. And Barnes believes he has found a pro-caliber passer.

• • • •

TAKING THE No. 1 team first, USC has had a rough week of two-a-day workouts that included several scrimmages. Only injury of consequence was a broken hand to the lad who's the first-string fullback replacement for Ben Wilson.

But the injury, to Ernie Pye, hasn't kept him from going through most all the training routine and he will be ready to fill the gap by Sept. 21 at Colorado. Last year an injury kept Wilson quiet until the final two games.

The opening-day backfield, barring mishap, will be Pete Beathard at QB, Willie Brown at flanker back, Pye at full and sophomore Mike Garrett at tight halfback.

As for the so-called tackle problem, returning lettermen Gary Kirner and Mac Byrd along with Long Beach City College product Mike Giers have solved that. Giers, who was considered a third stringer a week ago, today, is in firm grasp of a second-string spot and is pressing the starters.

"I don't see how we can keep him off the first team," said one of the Trojan assistant coaches at practice Saturday.

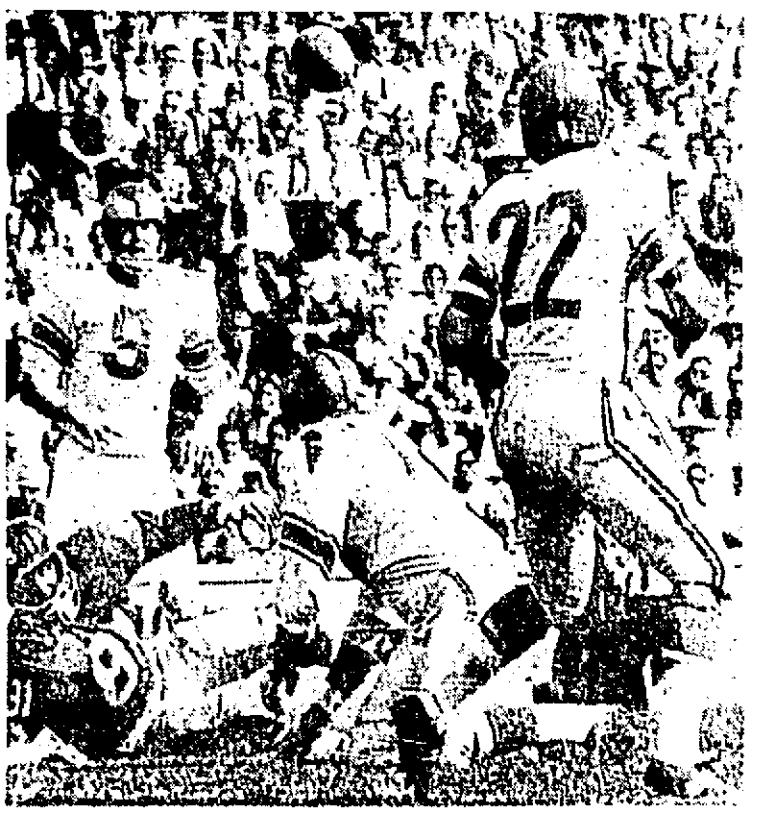

• • • •

AS FOR UCLA:

Carl Jones is the man making the Westwooders smile. He's the No. 1 quarterback. His passing has been described by Barnes as "pinpoint." Jones' passing was the big question mark. He weighs 199 pounds and he's fast. When he throws on the rollout, the Bruins will look like the Trojans. They'll have flankers and spreads that will look like the Trojans, too, though they've not copied USC's shifting-T formation.

Last year Jones completed 25 of 54 passes for two touchdowns and 412 yards while serving as a second stringer. Jones had no interceptions, which must be a comforting statistic to coach Barnes, who in '62 watched his first string quarterback, Larry Zeno, throw 11 interceptions.

Right now if you ask either coach what his big problems are, he'll say he hasn't got any. Which makes this, maybe, the best part of the whole season.

to the S.F. 37 which ended on an interception by Dale Messer. On the very next play, however, Charlie Britt made an interception for the Rams.

Rams 17, 49ers 0: The Rams added an insurance touchdown with 1:21 remaining on a one-ward drive by Ben Wilson after Arnett had reeled off a spectacular 64-yard run to the San Francisco 10.

With a first down on the Ram 21, Arnett took off on an end sweep, received a clearing block from Charlie Cowan and was finally knocked out of bounds on the 10 by Kermit Alexander.

Wilson then plunged for 5 and 4 yards before blasting over the goal. Villanueva converted.

DODGERS--

field fence and Willie Davis singled before Drysdale fanned to end the inning.

The Dodgers needed a misplay by Mays to reduce Marichal's lead to 4-2 in the seventh. Mays lost T. Davis' fly ball in the sun and was charged with a two-base error. Fairly's second hit drove in Davis with an unearned run.

After Skowron grounded out and Roseboro flied out, W. Davis drew one of two Marichal walks to put the tying run on base. In this situation, manager Walter Alston called on Frank Howard to hit for Drysdale, but Howard grounded out.

The Dodgers also had two on with none out in the eighth, and again managed only one run. Fairly produced it with a two-out single after Maury Wills bunted safely and Jim Gilliam walked.

Bears Deal Colts First Loss, 14-7

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Chicago Bears handed the Baltimore Colts their first exhibition loss of the season Saturday, 14-7, before 51,218 rain-drenched fans in the first professional football doubleheader ever played in the South.

Eddie LeBaron led the Dallas Cowboys to a 27-17 victory over the Detroit Lions in the first game.

Rain began falling with 7½ minutes remaining in the opening contest and showers continued throughout the night.

The Bears struck for a touchdown in the first and second quarters to snap Baltimore's four-game winning streak.

Chicago drove 68 yards in nine plays with fullback Rick Casares ramming off right tackle for the final eight yards.

Two penalties and a 12-yard pass from Billy Wade to Johnny Morris set up the score.

BALTIMORE, playing without the services of ace quarterback Johnny Unitas, who had a bad arm, broke into the scoring column late in the final period when J. W. Lockett cracked over from yard out.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Pint-sized Eddie LeBaron passed for 231 yards and two touchdowns Saturday night to lead the Dallas Cowboys to a 27-17 victory over the Detroit Lions in the first game of a National Football League exhibition doubleheader.

LeBaron, the 5-7, 169-pound quarterback from College of the Pacific, took over for injured Don Meredith in the first quarter. He threw touchdown passes of two and nine yards to halfback Amos Marsh and set up another touchdown with a 46-yard pass. The last seven minutes of the game were played in the final driving rain.

Jet jockey Gary Gabelich of Long Beach broke the eight-second bracket Saturday night in Bill Martin's fuel dragster with 7.99 elapsed time. Unable to run a two per cent backup run, the $1,000 is still up for competition.

The Stellings-Schieffer Manufacturing fuel dragster's driver Jeep Hampshire of Laguna Beach broke the strip speed record, turning 194.80 mph. Winner of the $500 top fuel award was Safford-Gaide and Ratican's dragster from Hollywood.

All runs were in 190 mph bracket with a low 8.3 elapsed time.

Tittle threw his first scoring pass of the exhibition season, fullback Alex Webster connected for a 74-yard touchdown on his first pass as a professional and the New York Giants routed the Philadelphia Eagles 34-10 Saturday in the final National Football League pre-season game for both teams.

A capacity crowd of 45,007 at Palmer Stadium saw Tittle run three yards for another touchdown and his substitute, Ralph Guglielmi, throw 20 yards for a fourth score as the Giants outclassed the Eagles both on offense and defense.

The rough contest was marked by personal foul penalties and the ejection of New York defensive end Andy Robustelli.

RUNNING STRESSED

'Little Guys' Sparkle in LBCC Scrimmage

By KEN PIVERNETZ

Long Beach City College's first serious contact in football practice Saturday evening proved size doesn't mean everything.

The Vikings scrimmaged for 75 minutes and two of the brightest running prospects were Chick Harris and Tony Van Coutren, both short on size, but not lacking in ability.

Harris and Van Coutren were only two of nine backs who showed flashes of promise in the scrimmage that had the coaches emphasizing running plays.

Jim Stangeland also singled out Homer Williams, Leonard Holt, Joe Pearson, Lou Tetley, Gary Lyon and Charles Williams, C. Williams, subbing for the injured Tim Russell, ran with Pearson and H. Williams in the green, or first string backfield that had Jim Dunn at quarterback.

• • • •

DUNN, Craig Vestermark and Jack Hannden ran series of plays with equal ability and there's still a wide-open scramble for the No. 1 job.

"For one week's work, it was a good workout," smiled Stangeland, who had good reason to be pleased. The Vikes take today off. A Monday morning brunch, sponsored by the LBCC Boosters Club for the team, will see Coach Stangeland's new co-captains named.

Packers Overcome 'Skins

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers twice clawed from behind Saturday night to notch a 28-17 triumph over the upset-minded Washington Redskins in the final National Football League exhibition game for both teams.

The world champions went ahead to stay in the opening seconds of the final period and then sacked up the game on an 80-yard pass from John Roach to Max McGee.

Bart Starr rifled a 25-yard scoring aerial to McGee in the first quarter but the Redskins surged ahead on a 33-yard field goal by Bob Khyat and a 17-yard touchdown pass from George Izo to Pat Richter.

The Packers moved in front at the half when George Pitts scooted 83 yards for a touchdown on a punt return.

The Redskins inserted regular quarterback Norman Snead in the lineup after the half and the field general, who had been ailing with the flu, put Washington back in front with a 7-yard pass to Fred Dugan.

Jacobs' 62 Takes Lead in Utah Open

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)— Young Tommy Jacobs, an up and down performer on the tour, rode a succession of birdies Saturday for an amazing eight-under-par 62 that vaulted him into the third round lead in the $40,000 Utah Open golf tournament.

The 28-year-old swinger from Bermuda Dunes, Calif., set a course record for the Salt Lake Country Club layout as he overtook second round leader Don January. Jacobs' sensational round included nine birdies and gave him a 54-hole total of 202.

January dropped into a second place tie with South African Gary Player, both with 205. January faltered to a two-over-par 72, while Player came in with a 70.

Once Over Lightly

Lions Should Have Stayed Lost!

The Rams draw the Detroit Lions as their opponent in Saturday night's NFL opener at the Coliseum—the club hit hardest by penalties levied by commissioner Pete Rozelle in last winter's gambling scandal that rocked pro football.

Alex Karras, one of the all-time great defensive tackles and a virtual one-man gang, was suspended indefinitely, the club fined $4,000 for coach George Wilson allowing unauthorized persons to sit on the Lion bench during games and also not acting on Detroit Police Department information that some players were associating with "known hoodlums," while five other players were fined $2,000 for betting on last year's championship playoff game between the Green Bay Packers and New York Giants.

ALEX KARRAS
Costly Wagers

The five players were team captain Joe Schmidt, Wayne Walker, Gary Lowe, Sam Williams and John Gordy.

If Karras and the other five had remained "lost" in Miami for another five minutes or so last December 30, the bets would never have been made that led to the stiff fines against all except Karras.

Karras, of course, was suspended for making other wagers—"six significant bets since 1958," according to the commissioner's office—as well as associating with "questionable characters."

The investigation showed that the bets made on the playoff game was "basically a group action" which was abnormal for each player except Karras. No other instance was found of the five players betting on any other games.

THE LIONS WERE IN MIAMI last Dec. 30—day of the playoff game—preparing for the following week-end's Runnerup Bowl game with the Pittsburgh Steelers in the Orange Bowl.

The six Lions players had been invited to the home of a friend of Karras to watch the playoff in New York on television.

However, while driving to the friend's house, they became lost. Kickoff time was approaching and finally one of the players reportedly said, "We're not going to make it in time. Why don't we stop at that bar up ahead and watch it from there."

They parked the car and went in just as the pregame show was going on. "You've got the phone number," one of the players said to Karras. "We ought to call and tell 'em we got lost and we'll see them later."

THE CALL WAS MADE. "YOU'RE just around the corner," said the host, later identified as an Archie Stone, when he learned where they were.

He gave them final directions and within five minutes they were at the house, where Stone also was hosting several other people at a TV party.

They arrived just in time to be included in the festive bet that eventually led to their fines.

KARRAS bet $100 on the Packers, and the other five each wagered $50 on the Packers, who won the game.

The investigation into the gambling probably would never have probed that deep to discover these wagers if Karras hadn't gone on television following the Pro Bowl game in Los Angeles in mid-January and admitted making "friendly bets" on games.

SCHMIDT, HIS ROOMMATE, also was invited to appear on the TV show for comment on the NFL's investigation into gambling. He not only refused, but pleaded with Alex not to appear.

Karras, of course, likely would have been "nailed" anyway.' The six "significant" wagers which Karras was reported to have made since '58 were placed for him by his business associate—presumably Jimmy Butsicaris—and by a "Florida resident" to whom he was introduced by the same business associate, according to the commissioner's office.

Now that the case has dropped from the headlines, what do the players who were fined think about the situation?

In answer to cries from some sources that they were made scapegoats, they admit publicly that although the fines were rather stiff for the offense, the commissioner's office was justified in the fines.

"We were guilty of misjudgment—nothing else," Walker says.

ACTUALLY, MOST OF THEM ARE STILL more concerned about the suspension of Karras than the $2,000 fines levied against them.

"It's a mortal sin, really, that they suspended Alex," says Lowe. "He's a really great player. I've never seen him play a bad game. He's given out 100 per cent all the time. I think all of us feel more hurt for him than for ourselves.

"I think the commissioner covered everything with regard to the rest of us. We were liable for making that one bet, although we didn't realize it at the time. But we were cleared of making any other wagers, selling information for betting purposes or ever performing less than our best in a game."

Gordy added that "we were definitely stunned by the penalties, but we all think that it helped the game more than hurt it. I think it probably is a greater testimony to the integrity of the game than anything else."

And Williams explained, "It was just one of those things that happen accidentally. It all started when we were at the hotel that morning and the conversation got around to the Packers and Giants. The first thing you know, we were making a couple of friendly bets. Later when we had the opportunity, we made those $50 wagers not thinking that anything was wrong because we weren't betting on a game in which we were playing!"

WINNER ON 19TH

Crown Noren New Jr. Golf Champ

Dennis Noren is the new Long Beach Junior golf champion.

Noren defeated Dick Mortensen on the 19th hole at Recreation Park Saturday in the fourth and final round for the title.

On the deciding hole Noren almost holed out his second shot for an eagle when he pitched over a trap and left the ball a scant inch from the cup. He then tapped in the clinch putt for his birdie.

Both Noren and Mortenson were three-putting a lot, obviously over-played after the long grind of steady golf.

Kathy Builds Lead in Golf

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, keeping up a pace as torrid as the 93-degree weather, widened her lead Saturday in the second round of the Spokane Women's Open Golf Tournament.

She kept things on a par Saturday—getting a 70 to go with her first round 67 Friday for a 137.

The Jal, N. M., swinger had two circuit competitors close behind however at 141.

Mickey Wright, Dallas, Tex., and Marilyn Smith were still in position to move in the 54-hole, $9,000 tourney.

Miss Wright, two-time event titlist, carded a 72 Saturday. She had a 69 on the first round.

Miss Smith was steady with a 70 and 71.

Stearns in Vichy Lead

VICHY, France (AP) — Jeannette Brown of Tampa, Fla., won the women's world water ski championship Saturday on combined points from the slalom, tricks figures and jump events.

Renate Hansluwka of Austria was second. Alicia Baumann of Switzerland placed third.

For the third consecutive day, the meet was interrupted because of bad weather. The men's jumping contest will be finished today.

When the judges called a halt, Chuck Stearns of Bellflower, Calif., was leading with a best jump of 39.10 meters (128 ft., 3⅜ in.).

Velasquez Heads Bullfight Card

TIJUANA, Mex.—Matador Antonio Velasquez—The Iron Horse of bullfighting, makes his first appearance of the season at El Toreo de Tijuana arena today, sharing honors with Luis Procuna and Benjamin Lopez Esqueda, two other Mexican veterans.

Born in Guanajuato of pure Indian extraction, Velazquez, now 43, has been a tough battling professional matador for 20 years and he is still in great demand. In four appearances at El Toreo last year he was awarded three ears.

No Big 3, No Loot—Just Golf

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Yes, Virginia, they are holding a national golf tournament here this coming week and Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player aren't in it.

And, horrors, there won't be a fat, jolly man with a $50,000 check so that the winner can pay off the mortgage on Santa Claus' reindeers.

Instead, the champion gets a piece of polished hardware which he can keep a year, or just about long enough to have his name engraved on it.

* * * *

LABRON HARRIS, the bespectacled mathematics student from Oklahoma State, is the defending champion here. The 1963 king will be determined on Saturday after a full week of torrid play over the 6,989 wooded yards of the baby mountain range that is the Wakonda Club course. Par is 36-36—72.

The amateur is decided entirely at match play with the field cut from 1,794 entrants to 200 qualifying tests last month. Single 18-hole rounds will be played Monday and Tuesday with double rounds at the same distance Wednesday and Thursday.

Friday's semifinals and Saturday's final will be over the 36-hole routes.

It is because of Wakonda's steep and narrow fairways that experts predict a young player will step forward when they crown the 1963 champion.

Boating Safety Classes to Start

With the beginning of the school season, it's time not only for the youngsters to get back to their books, but it's also time for people of all ages to give a thought to boating safety education. The Long Beach Power Squadron is hoping for a record registration in all its free classes.

The classes will run for a period of 12 weeks. In that time the students will be taught the basic problems of navigation, rules of the road, conditions affecting handling of boats under power and under sail, anchoring and mooring and general seamanship.

Three classes in this area are beginning on Monday, Sept. 16: Wilson High School cafeteria, 10th Street and Ximeno Avenue, Long Beach; Roosevelt Elementary cafeteria, 10835 Mallison, Lynwood, and Hamilton Junior High School cafeteria, 72nd Street and Orange Avenue, North Long Beach.

The other class begins registration on Thursday, Sept. 19, at Millikan High School cafeteria, 2800 Snowden Avenue. All classes start at 7:30 p.m. and last for two hours.

Never was boating safety more needed than it is right now. There have been far too many crackups of boats in Long Beach's front yard, mostly because of lack of navigational knowledge and common sense.

If you have just bought a boat or if you are considering it, by all means enroll in the school nearest your home.

THE HUNTING PICTURE: Si Nathenson, DFG public information officer at Los Angeles, says that the thunderstorm and rain scattered doves in Los Angeles County, but that hunting for both mourning and whitewings is at a normal pace along the Colorado River and in Imperial Valley.

Barbara O'Donnell, our ace correspondent in Kernville, sends word that the dove opener was terrific in Kelso Valley and at some places around Isabella Lake. In fact, says Barbara, it was hard to tell who was having the better luck—hunters or fishermen. Some of the open country around Kernville and Isabella Lake is producing many cottontail rabbits, in addition to doves.

Isabella Lake is one of the best lakes at this writing for crappie and bluegill. Some catfish are being caught in the South Fork and bass are hitting surface lures in the late evening.

The U.S. Forest Service pulled a fast surprise last week following the unexpected rain. It opened those closed sections of Los Padres National Forest for four days, Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, to deer hunting. They had been closed because of the fire hazard.

However, the tight ban goes back on Tuesday morning and stays there until we get more rain. That isn't likely for a while.

LONG BEACH SPORTSMAN'S CLUB, 3623 Santa Fe Ave., is planning a benefit fish dinner for the Ocean Fish Protective Association on Monday, Sept. 16, with the tickets going for three dollars each.

This probably is one of the most worthy benefits of the year because the proceeds will go to the OFPA, which has done so much to protect the rights of ocean sportsfishermen. It is well to remember that Robert Vile, OFPA president, led the successful fight against Sen. Fred Farr's anchovy grab.

Tickets are available at the door, but Paul Lowder would prefer that reservations be made. Call Lowder at TE 4-7977, or Clay D. Morrow, general chairman of the dinner, at HE 7-6750.

Bud Thomas, night club entertainer from the Roarin' 20s in Los Angeles, will present a program. Also, there will be a fishing film.

Other coming events: Redondo Beach Rod and Gun Club's fifth annual fish fry, 5:30 to 8 p.m. Sept. 27, in the Redondo Beach Community Hall Recreation Center. Reservations may be made by calling FR 2-0137.

Southern California Marine Association kicks off the fall boating season with a general membership meeting in Charterhouse Restaurant in Anaheim Saturday, Sept. 14. Buddy Ebsen, one of television's busiest actors and star of the "Beverly Hillbillies," will headline the entertainment.

SHORT BUT SNAPPY: The two-day sage grouse season in Inyo and Mono counties yielded a large number of birds, all in good condition and dressing out up to five pounds.

Glen Cantin, 12, of Gardena, fishing at Bridgeport Lake, caught a 5¼-pound rainbow on a plain gold No. 12 hook that didn't even have any bait on it. Dumb trout, huh?

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ray Eakin, daughter Dianne and son Davis, of Long Beach, took 27 trout in the same lake. Largest fish weighed 3½ pounds. Jim Bonser, 13, of Downey, also got a 3½-pounder.

Bob Davidson, who operates Long Beach-Dominguez Gun Club, says there will be an Indian summer trapshoot Sept. 14 and 15. Saturday events start at 10 a.m., Sunday's at 9:30 a.m.

We hear that Gleny Overmyer, Lakewood, one of the West's outstanding trapshooters, will be trying for that automobile in the Las Vegas Thunderbird Hotel's first annual fall ATA trapshooting tournament Sept. 12-15.

The Thunderbird is planning another shoot Dec. 5-8, with an automobile and $30,000 cash up for prizes.

Albacore news: Call Pierpoint or Pacific Landings; the operators are keeping close tab on the dock counts and what the boats are doing. The picture changes almost from hour to hour—so fast that I can't keep up with it and meet a deadline hours in advance of Sunday publication.

Honors Split at Del Mar

By ERNIE MASON

DEL MAR—Honors in the eleventh running of the Escondido Handicap were split evenly here Saturday between Triad Stable's Braganza, clever winner of the first division, and Richlew Stable's Moon Mad, photogenic victor in the second half in one of the tightest finishes of the summer meeting. A crowd of 15,394 attended.

Braganza, a solid second choice in the wagering, was confidently ridden by Miguel Yanez to score by two and one-half lengths over the favored Mary Mel, with Balsarroch Boy third, another half length away.

The New Zealand-bred gelding, close up throughout, came around the pacesetters at the turn and moved dominantly to the wire in 1:51 2/5 for the mile and a furlong in capturing the first split of the Escondido. He covered the distance under 114 pounds and paid $8.40 straight.

• • • •

COLUMNS RIGHT took fourth money in this heat, followed by A-Okay, Natural Flow, Needles Jet, Ballpoint and Interlocutor.

Moon Mad's division was much more exciting. Angel Valenzuela set all the pace with his colt, relinquished it momentarily at the head of the stretch to Milla's Truk, then went to the lead again to hold sway over the fast-closing Odd Fellow and Victory Beauty. The latter, high weight at 122 and the odds-on choice, ran afoul of bad racing luck just as he began his move.

Arlington Riches to Golden Ruler

CHICAGO (AP)—Mary V. Fisher's Golden Ruler, the 2-1 favorite, stood off a stirring stretch challenge by Chieftain and Dunfee to capture the world's richest race—the $352,500 Arlington-Washington Futurity—at Arlington Park Saturday.

Golden Ruler, ridden by Herberto Hinojosa, was well paced throughout the seven-furlong test of 2-year-olds and shook off Dunfee midway in the stretch and then won by three-quarters of a length over the fast-finishing Chieftain.

In scoring his fourth consecutive triumph, the unbeaten Golden Ruler took the top money of $112,500, after earning only $6,875 in his previous non-stakes starts.

Dunfee, a 21-1 choice in the crowd of 30,664, placed third, a head behind the onrushing Chieftain.

Golden Ruler was clocked at 1:24 4/5 for the seven furlongs, the first time this year two-year-olds have been asked to go that distance.

Carry Back Home Free by 6

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Katherine Price's Carry Back earned a chance to start in the $125,000 Invitational Handicap here ths week when he rambled home a six-length winner in the 1 1/16-mile race over the Atlantic City grass course Saturday.

The little 1961 Kentucky Derby winner, who was counted out at Chicago two weeks ago when he apparently bruised an ankle, got a tremendous ovation from the Atlantic City crowd of 24,049 when he finished far ahead of Monteplier Farm's Prince O'Pilsen in the co feature race of the day.

Prince O'Pilsen had won the Ventnor Turf handicap here Aug. 10. Grand Pep Stable's Fat Cat was third, three lengths behind Prince O'Pilsen, with Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage fourth in the field of seven.

Jack Price, Carry Back's trainer, said the 5-year-old colt who had retired to the stud last fall but was returned to racing this summer, was a definite starter in the U.N. Saturday on the grass course where he will meet many stars of the turf.

Carry Back, the favorite, paid $5.60, $3.80 and $3, and was ridden by Howard Grant.

The fourth-ranking money winner of all time passed Admiral's Voyage, top-weighted with 123 pounds, at the one-half mile pole and drew out with apparent ease. Carry Back had 116 pounds and was timed in 1:42⅗, just two fifths off the track record set by Li'l Feua Aug. 15, 1959.

The fans had an anxious moment in the post parade when Carry Back unseated Grant, and then went to the post without a warmup.

4 TD Passes by Otterson

The aerial combination of Jerry Otterson to Willie Martin clicked again, this time for touchdown strikes of 60 and 75 yards, as Long Beach State wound up its first week of practice with an hour-long scrimmage Saturday.

It marked the second scrimmage that Otterson moved the club with regularity.

In addition to his passes to Martin, he threw scoring passes to tight end Don Montgomery for 60 yards and to Larry Miller for 15 yards.

The former Cerritos JC all-American completed 10 of 15 passes.

Dee Andrews set up the first score with 45-yard scamper to the two. Fullback Dick Degen punched it over.

• • • •

AMID THE fine showing of the offense, the 49ers' first defensive unit drew praise from the coaches, allowing only 23 yards in 15 minutes while intercepting three passes.

"We had good team tackling and pursuit throughout," said assistant coach Stu Farber. Individual praise went to linebacker Rudy Duarte, tackle Jerry Pearlman and defensive back Chuck Anderson.

Head coach Don Reed said, "I was pleased that we were able to move the ball consistently after only five days. We are well ahead of last year."

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — The Professional Golfers' Association Saturday added a tournament at Fresno, Calif., Oct. 24-27 to its brief fall tour.

Parnelli Spins Out, Beaten by Vet Cantrell

Anaheim veteran Billy Cantrell upset a field of Indianapolis veterans Saturday night to win the 50-lap USAC midget car main event at Ascot Park in Gardena before a crowd of 6,940.

Cantrell, 49, made his fifth main event victory of the season his most impressive.

In taking the win, Cantrell beat out '500' record holder Parnelli Jones of Torrance. Cantrell started the main event on the pole and though Jones was in the 16th position, Parnelli came on strong to catch Cantrell on the 38th lap.

However, Parnelli spun out on the 44th lap and was unable to regain the lead. Cantrell went on to win by 100 feet.

Cantrell's winning time was 25 minutes, 29.61 seconds.

50-lap main event—Billy Cantrell, Parnelli Jones, Allen Heath, Don Horvath, Bob Hoyle, 25:29.61.
15-lap semi-main—Jack Bruner, Lowell Sachs, Bob Unser, Gary Hill, 9:44.67.
3-lap trophy dash—Horvath, Colby Scarpino, Don Leaver, Jones, 59.36.

Sears Tires Break Cross Country Records

Coast to coast, and border to border—a record breaking 9,000 miles of grueling mad travel over a 12-day period has clearly demonstrated the superior wear and performance features of Sears Allstate tires.

In the USAC sanctioned test, completed September 3rd, a set of Allstate tires, mounted on a Studebaker Avanti, was driven from Los Angeles to New York, back to San Diego, and from Tijuana to Vancouver and return with a tread wear of only 20%. Bill Carroll, automotive engineer and writer, captained the run with Pauls Murphy and Barbara Nieland, top west coast sports car racing drivers, completing the endurance trio.

The growing importance of automobile tires in the field of automotive safety has prompted Sears to go more deeply into the field of product analysis and testing. The first in a new series of consumer-use tests.

EVEN ACTORS'

There's Always Something to Deflate Egos

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Every now and then some little thing happens that keeps an actor from getting too big an ego.

Charlton Heston says: "Even if you win the Oscar for your performance, there is always someone who thought you stunk." Bob Mitchum's comment: "My pictures always do great in theaters where they give away free dishes."

And just the other night, two boys stopped at Tony Curtis' house. Obviously autograph seekers, one asked Curtis if he lived there.

Tony answered yes and the boys walked away dejectedly. One of them muttered:

"I told you none of the Three Stooges lived there."

GANGSTER STUFF

Sinatra, Crosby Look at the '20s

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gene Kelly, who ranks with Fred Astaire as the greatest of the screen's dancers, is a producer now—with singers as stars.

Kelly is producer of "Robin and the 7 hoods" starring Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby and Dean Martin.

Sinatra and Corsby, of course, are the two most popular crooners of their era. Martin learned to sing when Crosby had his tonsils removed.

The movie is a musical satire on the Robin Hood legend played against the gangster era of the '20s.

Kelly, as a producer, has problems he never faced as a dancer and actor.

THE MOVIE is a Sinatra production in partnership with Warner Bros. This means that shooting may start by noon. It may not. Frank works Sinatra hours. Some producers have fled with bleeding ulcers under such conditions. Not Kelly.

"I told Frank I don't care if he only works an hour a day. It's his money. And a guy has the right to do what he wants with his own dough," Kelly said.

But Gene knows that Sinatra's unorthodox working habits usually end up in a movie that is finished under budget and under schedule.

Sinatra doesn't care how long it takes the crew to light a set or fix the sound. When he's called on to act, he usually does the scene in one take—often without rehearsal.

"I dig spontaneity," Sinatra says.

KELLY SAYS Sinatra's working habits are the least of his problems.

"These guys actually all work too hard. Frank and Dean have night club engagements in the middle of shooting. Bing is doing a TV special and even I am going to do a Judy Garland show and a Danny Kaye TV show.

"We have to work around all these things during the picture.

"I think it will be a rather interesting few months," adds Kelly in a classic understatement.

Even Bob Hope has a comment.

"How about Sinatra giving Crosby a job? That's like Joseph P. Kennedy asking J. Paul Getty to cut the grass."

ICE FOLLIES COMICS

Pantomime veterans, Bill Wall and Dick Dova, again star with Shipstads & Johnson "Ice Follies of 1964," which will be presented Sept. 17-22 in the Long Beach Arena. The two comics will be seen in the all-new edition of "The Show of Champions" as the professor and the pupil.

Famous Poets Couldn't Write Lyrics, He Says

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Leonard Adelson, a musical comedy lyric writer, says he is no poet—and argues that even Henry Wadsworth Longfellow couldn't write lyrics if they made a modern musical version of "Hiawatha."

"Poets," says Adelson, "always have been a bunch of frustrated writers. They can only write on their own terms. And a lyricist can't.

"Edgar Allen Poe couldn't have written the lyrics for 'The Raven' and Oscar Hammerstein couldn't have written the original story."

Lou Nova Gets Fake Cauliflower Ear for Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One-time heavyweight contender Lou Nova is an actor.

In "What A Way To Go," Nova, who once fought Joe Louis for the title, plays a pug-ugly manager of a night club frequented by the fight crowd. "They called me in a day early," beams Lou, "looked me over very carefully, then sent me to makeup to get fitted for an artificial cauliflower ear."

From Freeway to Freeway, It'll Be Like This East of L.B.

THE GARDEN GROVE AND SAN DIEGO FREEWAYS will merge into one for a few miles in West Orange County, just east of Long Beach; but at Bolsa Chica Road they will separate again. The San Diego Freeway will angle off to the southeast through Westminster until it reaches the Santa Ana Freeway above Laguna Beach and continues southward as the San Diego Freeway. Above (at left) is shown how Los Alamitos Boulevard will cross the freeways. It goes northward past Rossmoor; and to the south it enters Seal Beach. In above map, there is a gap of several miles of straightaway freeway; then at right is shown intersection plans where freeways separate at Bolsa Chica Road. Eventually, interchange will connect to Valley View, a street to be extended from the north.

THREE FREEWAYS WILL COME TOGETHER at this interchange just east of Long Beach; and this map indicates how motorists will get from one place to another. Work is under way on San Diego and Garden Grove Freeway segments and funds for the San Gabriel River Freeway segment are in the 1963-64 state budget. The interchange probably will not be fully completed until in 1966. Where the San Diego and Garden Grove Freeways overlap from this interchange east to Bolsa Chica Road, the freeway will be 10 lanes wide. This will be one of the few freeway segments that wide in Southern California. From this interchange westward to Los Cerritos Channel, present four-lane route is to be improved into a six-lane freeway in about five years. Routing farther west and through Long Beach still is indefinite, with location in dispute. (Maps and information courtesy of State Division of Highways and A. J. Napier of Long Beach city engineer's office.)

CENTRAL LIBRARY ALMOST FINISHED

Anaheim Library Open Soon

ANAHEIM — Finishing touches are being made on the new $1,100,000 Central Library building in Anaheim's Civic Center, with completion scheduled this week.

The structure, with 67,500 square feet of floor space, has two stories and a basement. It is so built that more floors can be added when needed.

It will have a capacity of about 300,000 books; seating accommodations for 300 patrons; and an auditorium seat-

DURING REALTOR CONVENTION

Nixon Will Help Honor 'Industrialist of Year'

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will preside at a meeting of the heads of 12 leading business and professional organizations at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York on Sept. 19 to select the 1963 recipient of the Industrial ist of the Year award, presented annually by the Society of Industrial Realtors.

The award board headed by Nixon will choose the 1963 winner from more than a score of outstanding industrial executives who have been nominated by members of the society, a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

• • • •

THE SOCIETY'S 904 members throughout North America specialize in industrial real estate.

The award trophy, a green bronze statuette, will be presented by Nixon at the society's award banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York on Nov. 11, during the annual conventions of SIR and NAREB.

Blonde Ex-Economy Run Driver Now Boss of Big Redondo Beach Project

By DON KIRKLAND

REDONDO BEACH—Mary Davis, a blonde dynamo of enterprise and energy, doesn't bat an eyelash when she reveals her age.

"I'm 35," she smiles, "but nobody believes me. They say I'm too successful."

That she is.

As vice president and general manager of the multi-million-dollar Portofino Corp., Miss Davis sits smack in the middle of a score of big business headaches.

• • • •

IN HER OFFICE, which looks splendidly across a boat-filled corner of Redondo Beach King Harbor, Miss Davis coordinates the complexities of building a $2.8 million oceanfront hotel, scheduled to become the Portofino Inn upon completion late this year.

She and onetime partner Pierce Venable spearheaded construction of the harbor itself two years ago, and since have seen the facility become one of the nation's most promising young small boat harbors.

"I guess it was just by accident," says Miss Davis of the project, "but now it's fulfilled one of my life's dreams."

L.A. County Building Sets August Record

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Volume of construction last month in areas served by Los Angeles County's Building and Safety Division totaled $48,901,058, the largest figure ever recorded in Los Angeles County for August.

It also marked the fifth month this year in which new housing exceeded 2,000 units, according to County Engineer John A. Lambie.

The August total was a sharp drop, however, from the $62,414,944 volume recorded in July, the highest month on record in county history.

• • • •

CONSTRUCTION volume for 1963 through August was $368,846,146, as compared to $283,128,668 for the comparable period in 1962.

At the present rate, Lambie said, building volume in the 29 cities and the unincorporated area served by the Building and Safety Division should exceed a half billion dollars by the end of the year.

The $5.5-million Scottsdale Town House, condominum apartments at Avalon and Sepulveda boulevards, plus a large volume of one and two-family dwellings easily pushed the Lomita District well ahead of all others in August building volume.

During the month, the Lomita office issued 332 building permits with a total value of $9,423,740. They included 696 new housing units.

• • • •

TOTAL VALUE for the unincorporated area was $35,560,599. Volume for cities in this area was as follows:

ARTESIA—25 permits for $48,500.

AVALON — 3 permits for $27,900.

BELLFLOWER — 96 permits for $830,760, including 12 single-family dwellings

Matson Line Extending Its 'Container Freight' Service to Northwest

Matson Navigation Co. will extend its California-Hawaii container freight service to the Pacific Northwest ports of Seattle and Portland, Stanley Powell Jr., Matson president, has announced.

This means the movement of containerized freight between these ports and all of Hawaii major islands.

Powell said the Northwest container service could be integrated into the company's existing $27 million California-Hawaii system by early next year.

• • • •

MATSON'S Los Angeles-San Francisco-Honolulu container service is expected to be expanded in November to the neighbor islands of Maui, Kauai and Hawaii, and the Northwest container service will tie into this integrated system.

Cost of the Northwest container service will be $2.5 million, of which $1.5 million will be spent for 525 dry and 60 refrigerated steel-framed, aluminum-sided containers, each of which is 8½ feet high, 8 feet wide, and 24 feet long. Another $1 million will be spent for specialized container handling equipment and maintenance facilities at both Northwest ports.

• • • •

EXTENSION of Matson's container service to the Pacific Northwest will mean substantially improved service in both quality and frequency of voyages between the area and Hawaii, Powell said.

At present, Matson's Hawaiian Planter and Hawaiian Craftsman, both C-3 type freighters, serve Hawaii with fortnightly sailings from the Pacific Northwest. With the integrated Pacific Coast-Hawaii container service, the Northwest will see a Matson ship sailing for Hawaii approximately every six days.

$3 MILLION PROJECT
First major shopping center for the San Juan Capistrano-San Clemente-Dana Point area will be the $3 million Capistrano Valley Shopping Center at Capistrano Beach. General contractor for the project is Ernest W. Hahn, Inc.

IN SPANISH TRADITION

Capistrano Shopping Center Will Follow Mission Theme

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO—A $3 million shopping center, designed to carry out the Spanish theme of this mission community, will be built here at Doheny Park Highway and Victoria Avenue.

Named the "Capistrano Valley Shopping Center," the 82,000-square-foot commercial area will feature a Von's supermarket, Thrifty drug and Gilbert's Variety store plus miscellaneous satellite shops, a bank and a service station to be announced later.

The Capistrano area's first major shopping center will be built by Ernest W. Hahn, Inc., general contractors, of Hawthorne. It is scheduled for completion early in 1964.

• • • •

DEVELOPERS of the project include Lester R. Giegerich and Jerry Moss, both of the Los Angeles area, and John I. Gilbert & Co. of Laguna Beach. Leasing is being coordinated by Jerry Moss and Company with Gilbert as co-broker.

Design details by Ainsworth, Angel, McClellan, A.I.A., architects, of Pasadena, call for contemporary buildings with a strong Spanish influence.

An arcade running the length of the center will feature exposed weathered wood roof beams supporting a Spanish tile roof similar to the traditional Capistrano architecture.

The seven and one-half acre center will have parking facilities for more than 400 cars.

Blond Bosses Big Portofino Project

conversations with Venable, a co-driver with Miss Davis in 1958 when she was the first woman ever to win the Mobilgas Economy Run.

Venable, who since has died, proposed that he and Miss Davis bid on fuel docks at the projected harbor; but both finally decided they would try for the entire portion which now is Portofino.

• • • •

WITH A SUCCESSFUL BID, the pair mapped plans for a luxury harbor, patterned much after Italy's famed Portofino, which Miss Davis once visited.

"I fell in love with Portofino," she says, "and recreating it here became my dream."

Starting her work day at 9:30 a.m., Miss Davis handles her multi-faceted job with the ease of a veteran executive. She works six days a week, often until midnight, usually until 9.

A telephone call confirms meetings the next day with half a dozen contractors who will mold the Portofino Inn, and a pile of messages from two secretaries are mute evidence that Miss Davis won't have "banker's hours" tomorrow.

• • • •

ALTHOUGH she temporarily has abandoned auto racing (Miss Davis entered the Mobilgas run five successive times), she dabbles in boat racing on an occasional spare weekend.

She entered the annual Redondo Beach Neptune Days boating competition, but lost a spark plug midway through the contest and only placed second.

How much money does Miss Davis have?

"Everybody thinks I'm rich," she says. "I'm not. I guess I'm just trying to prove that we 'dumb blondes' can be good businesswomen, too."

Building at Grove 6% Over 1962

New construction in Garden Grove thus far this year approached $23 million today, running more than 6 per cent ahead of last year at the corresponding time, the city building department reported.

As of Sept. 1, building permits with a $22,825,538 valuation had been issued, compared with $21,489,784 as of the like date in 1962. It was an increase of $1,335,754, a 6.2 per cent climb.

During August, $2,099,602 was recorded. In the same month last year permits totaled $2,465,793.

• • • •

BOOSTING THE total during the week were the city's two branch library buildings, each valued at $83,000. To be leased to the county at $14,000 a year, they are being constructed at 9182 Chapman Ave., and at 11962 Bailey St.

Other high-value permits were issued during the week to the following:

Walter E. Lamsley, 8812 Yorkshire St., swimming pool, $2,900; Leslie Collins, 11831 Steele Drive, swimming pool, $1,900; Bruce C. 'Do-It-Yourself' Home Selling Efforts Seen as Poor Policy

GARDEN GROVE—"People sometimes try to sell their own homes because they think they can make or save some money," Dick Casterline, president of the Garden Grove Board of Realtors, said recently.

"But," he added, "unfortunately, they seldom do. As a matter of fact, in many cases where they fail to list it initially with a Realtor, they not only lose money but the house remains unsold for months with all the consequent inconvenience and worry."

• • • •

CASTERLINE then cited as an example a certain home owner who tried to sell his own house. He put his price too high, failing to understand market conditions; wasted time and money; then eventually had to have a realtor make the sale.

"He ended up losing money," Casterline said, "because he tried the 'do-it-yourself' instead of the professional way to sell his house—through a realtor."

• • • •

THE GARDEN GROVE board's president summed it up this way:

"The realtor knows the market because he is a professional posted on the actual day-to-day sales in the area, the fluctuating demand, the changing supply of houses offered, the varying mortgage loan situation, the highway or shopping center plans for the region—all factors influencing the sale of houses.

"He is a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and of the hometown Board of Realtors and therefore subscribes to a code of ethics and has access to the utmost in education and the latest techniques, thus assuring superior service."

Goodrich Enlarging Long Beach Plant

A multi-million dollar expansion program is underway at B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company's Long Beach and Avon Lake, Ohio, plants, according to Harry B. Warner, president.

New buildings are being constructed and new equipment is being installed at both plants for the production of Geon polyvinyl chloride resins and compounds, and a new building is being built at the Avon Lake plant for the consolidation of Estane polyurethan production.

The work will be completed during the first quarter of 1964.

• • • •

THE PROGRAM is the seventh expansion at the Avon Lake plant since it was completed in 1951 and is the second in the three-year history of the Long Beach plant, the newest of B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company's seven production plants.

A. R. Webber is manager of the Long Beach plant at 2104 E. 223rd St. Both plants produce Geon polyvinyl chloride reigns and compounds, while Estane polyurethane materials are produced at Avon Lake only.

'Old Farm,' 'Del Cerro' Homes Featured by Holstein & Sons

OLD FARM HOME HAS ATTRACTIVE STAIRWAY

"Room to grow"—that's the feature at Del Cerro and Old Farm homes in two Orange County locations where developers George M. Holstein & Sons are offering the big, luxury homes with extra second-story "bonus room" for play area, recreation room, or as an extra two bedrooms and third bath.

Along with the big "Bonus Room," the two locations give buyers built-in kitchens, decorator fireplaces and a score of custom features such as pantry, tiled bath floor, wallpaper, rich entries, front patio, and custom light fixtures and hardware.

Both developments are being pre-sold for occupancy late this year in an effort to give buyer selection of materials, colors and decorator details, now nearing the half-sold stage, buyers still may select from Hawaiian, Contemporary, or Traditional exterior and interiors.

Terms at both the Del Cerro and Old Farm homes are flexible to suit the buyer's needs, with carpet and landscaping included.

To reach the Old Farm from Long Beach take Seventh Street to Highway 39 and go south to Warner. Then take Warner to Cannery and right to the models. Del Cerro is easy to reach via the Santa Ana Freeway (take the on-ramp off 17th Street in Santa Ana) then go off at Red Hill and drive north.

Proper Planning Key Factor at El Dorado Park Estates

TWO-STORY SPACIOUSNESS AT EL DORADO PARK ESTATES

"A planned community can only exist for the betterment of its residents when all the houseowner's needs are considered," contend officials of attractive El Dorado Park Estates, located within the City of Long Beach.

In developing El Dorado Park Estates, the builders studied the locale thoroughly and its multiple advantages before commencing construction, double-checking that the region offered everything necessary a planned community can provide.

Adjacent to many fine parks and recreational facilities, plus surrounded by a variety of shopping centers, and close to one of the finest educational systems in the state, the region they felt, was ideal for their artistically designed one-story, split-level, tri-level and two-story residences.

• • • •

RECREATION, they learned, always has been a major planning factor in Long Beach. A total of 93 parks comprise 2,305 acres, with an additional 516 acres planned. Their planned community, El Dorado Park Estates, is next door to the planned El Dorado City Park.

Superior quality construction went into these de luxe residences. All homes feature genuine lath and plaster ceilings and walls, and the gleaming kitchen was designed for total ease of operation.

• • • •

UTILITIES in this prestige development are placed underground, an advantage usually enjoyed by homes in the very highest price brackets.

Several nearby freeways link this community to many important employment and business centers.

Priced from $24,950, excellent conventional financing is available.

A display of furnished models is open daily. Drive east on Spring Street across San Gabriel River to El Dorado Park Estates, east of Studebaker Road at Claremore.

The largest denomination bill of U. S. currency in use is the $10,000 bill, about 400 of which are circulating publicly.

Classes Will Be Tuition Free

Plans for a third Moore Realty real estate school in Orange County have been announced by E. Tennyson Moore, president.

Classes will be held on alternate nights in two locations, starting Sept. 17 at 8307 Garden Grove Blvd., in Garden Grove, and Sept. 19 at 305 N. Euclid Ave., Fullerton.

J. KRUEGER

Both classes cover a four-week period and are tuition free. They are for persons interested in phases of real estate covered in the state examination given applicants for a salesman's license.

Jack Krueger, Moore Realty general sales manager and former owner and teacher of the Real Estate School of Los Angeles; Robert Allen, Lakewood District manager; and Champ Crewse, Orange County District manager, will be the instructors.

Walker-Lee Department in New Site

Located at 853 Atlantic Ave., near downtown Long Beach, the new offices will be under the direction of Paul Rowland, manager of Walker & Lee's income department.

• • • •

THIS NEW department which was initiated in February of 1963 has already sold approximately $1½ million worth of residential income and investment properties.

Rowland explained that his staff of four investment counselors work closely with investors to assure them the maximum dollar value from their real estate investments.

Pointing up Walker & Lee's 22-year pattern of success, Hart stated that this new department has enabled the real estate firm to offer complete coverage in all phases of real estate.

Eye Enderle Gardens Models in Santa Ana

PICTURESQUE SETTING FOR ENDERLEE GARDENS HOMES

Hundreds of interested home buyers have visited Enderle Gardens, one of the first garden centers in Southern California, designed specifically for those who want high quality homes in garden and park surroundings without the maintenance problems usual with home ownership.

Enderle Gardens, a new concept brought to Orange County and Tustin by Nelson & Nelson, custom home builders, is a group of individually designed custom homes — each one completely different — set in a 20-acre park in Santa Ana, with common greens and beautifully landscaped surroundings. Each home is so located on the lots that every home has long views from the many picture windows in the homes.

• • • •

THE BUILDERS have made these homes different in that the heavy emphasis has been placed on large sized living rooms and master bedroom suites and on architecturally designed covered patios with screening, walls of stone and plantings.

"We have planned the elimination of extra bedrooms and unwanted family rooms," Ken Nelson stated in an interview, "for those adults and adults with older children — who still want the fine quality homes in the heart of Orange County — but do not want the care and maintance of a large custom home."

• • • •

THE ORIGINAL concept of Enderle Gardens is an outgrowth of the very $50,000 and up custom home that the Nelsons have built in the past for the larger families.

• • • •

ENDERLE GARDENS still is in the previewing stage on Yorba just south of 17th Street, because of the painters' strike. However, two complete models are furnished and over 16 of the eventual 62 homes are open to the public for selling and inspection.

Seven and one-half per cent of the total land area will be a community park complete with reflecting lagoon and splashing fountain with lights for the evening.

Each homeowner at Enderle Gardens will own his lot and home "in fee" and will be able to sell it as a separate home and lot.

Fences have been replaced by screening walls and plantings so that every homeowner may enjoy the beauty of common greens and the park.

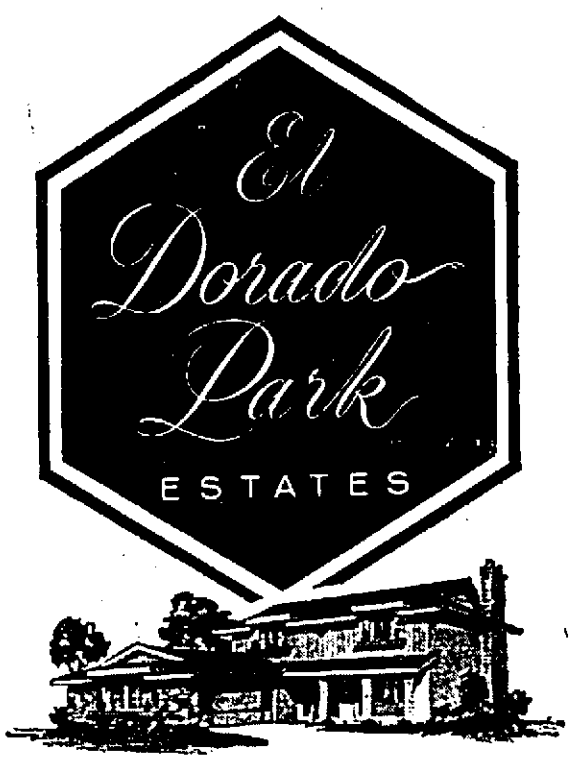

To find Enderle Gardens drive through Santa Ana east on 17th Street to Yorba and turn south a few blocks to the entrance gates.

"At Bolsa Park, two of our basic floor plans are offered with a choice of alternate kitchens to provide whichever arrangement is preferred — one more way we provide home buyers everything they want," he stated.

Homeviewer to Win Free Mexican Trip

A 15-day expense-paid trip to Mexico for two is the "treasure" of a contest to be held for homeseekers in Orange County by Farrow Development Co., Jerry F. Farrow, secretary-treasurer of the firm, announced today.

The "Treasure Trip" contest, he said, will be open to all visitors to the firm's various Tiara Estates series home subdivisions.

Farrow currently is building Tiara Estates developments in Orange, Garden Grove, Anaheim and Fountain Valley.

The two winners will spend 15 days at a Mexico City hotel, and will travel to Acapulco, Taxco, Xochimilco, Cuernevaca and Vista de Hermosa. Transportation to Mexico will be by jet, Farrow said.

"ALL HOMESEEKERS have to do," Farrow explained, "is to guess the number of nuggets in the large treasure chest in our sales display room at Tiara Estates Treasure series homes at Euclid and Chapman in Garden Grove and jot the number down on a printed card supplied at the development. Then they must visit one of the other Tiara Estates communities on an adjoining map and guess the number of nuggets in another chest there; then deposit their card with their guesses of both chests at the visited Tiara Estates development. Closest guesses win."

Farrow added that the contest will begin today.

Additional prizes in the contest, he said, are weekly dinners for two at a leading Orange County restaurant.

Garden Park Estates Near Recreation Spots

DINING-KITCHEN AREA IN GARDEN PARK MODEL

Garden Park Estates, at Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Boulevard, is a lively, walled-in community located in the heart of Southern California's most exciting recreational area, the builders report.

These stunning family dwellings are minutes away from world-renowned Disneyland; the picturesque bay of Newport-Balboa; the romance and intrigue of Knott's Berry Farm and near to many spanking new marinas.

With Americans now becoming more involved in leisure-time activities and the pursuit of outdoor pleasure, the builders of Garden Park Estates stated they selected the scenic countryside of Orange County with that fact in mind—the nearby abundance of pleasurable facilities.

• • • •

NOT ONLY will the resident there find a myriad of fun-time opportunities available, but he will live in a home that reflects the earnest attention of skilled craftsmanship.

This pride in workmanship shows up in many ways in every single residence, either the one level model (with many floor plans) or the spacious two-story home.

Constructed of such superior materials as genuine lath and plaster; forced air heating with thermostat and summer cooling switch and the comfort control of rockwool insulated ceilings, the homes reflect the builder's desire to construct a residence that will not only be fun to live in, but is also highly durable. This, they felt, would save the homeowner many future costly repair bills.

• • • •

THERE IS A variety in size offered at Garden Park Estates. For the smaller family, there is the one-story residence in a choice of two bedrooms and den and three and four bedrooms with dining rooms and living rooms.

Larger families will prefer the handsome two-story elevations. These boast five big bedrooms, a large living room and dining room and an extra wood burning fireplace in the master bedroom.

On the list of the many superior features of a Garden Park residence is the fact that one of the finest educational systems in California exists in Orange County. No less than eight schools are within five minutes of the area.

Prices start at $18,600 with convenient financing available.

Furnished models are open daily.

$63.5 Million Invested in 2 Mortgages

Two mortgage investments totalling $63.5 million have been made by New York Life Insurance Company on two of New York City's newest landmarks in the largest mortgage transactions in the company's 118-year history, Richard K. Paynter, Jr., board chairman, announced last week.

The New York Hilton at Rockefeller Center, the city's newest large hotel, was the subject of a $33 million mortgage loan made by New York Life as sole mortgagee. The loan represents an increase of $3 million over the original commitment of $30 million made to the hotel in 1960. The corporate owner of the hotel is Rock-Hil-Uris, Inc.

In another transaction, the Pan Am Building, the world's largest commercial office building, is security for a mortgage bond issue on which there was advanced $30.5 million by New York Life and $30.5 million by the New York State Employes Retirement System.

Talk on 'Secondary Financing' Slated

"Secondary Financing and How It Can Help You" will be discussed at the Tuesday meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, according to Mildred Stanley, program chairman.

WILLIAMSON

Speaker will be John A. Williamson II, loan manager with Pacific Plan in Menlo Park. The meeting will be at 7:15 a.m. in the Crown Cafeteria.

Williamson is a licensed real estate broker and has had experience in the building industry.

Bumper Crop

The fact that 4,000,000 babies were born in the United States in 1962, point out housing authorities, is a good indication that the current building boom will be with us for some time to come.

GI Loans Available on Prestige Homes

A limited number of GI loans are now available for purchasing the new Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach, according to Dan Mytinger, sales director for the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc.

These loans will be the first and the last available to the homebuying public on the first unit of Prestige Homes, Mytinger continued, and with the first unit 95 per cent sold out, those couples desiring to use a GI loan should avail themselves of the opportunity now.

The three, four and five-bedroom, one and two-story Prestige Homes, by the builders of Huntington Village, have enjoyed tremendous acceptance by the public.

• • • •

THE SECOND unit is now being constructed, the sales executive continued, and they hope to be able to begin the selling of the homes in the new unit very soon.

Built with the buyer in mind, Prestige Homes offer those "plus" features that appeal to the prospective home buyer; pantries in the kitchens of the two-story models, 14 foot long wardrobe closets in many models, built-in bureau-dressers in many of the master baths, a "boat-door" for the rear-yard storage of a boat or trailer, massive individually designed floor-to-ceiling fireplaces and many more.

The all-electric kitchens are by Westinghouse with built-in range, oven and dishwasher and color-coordinated wall-to-wall carpeting in entry, hall, living room and master bedrooms.

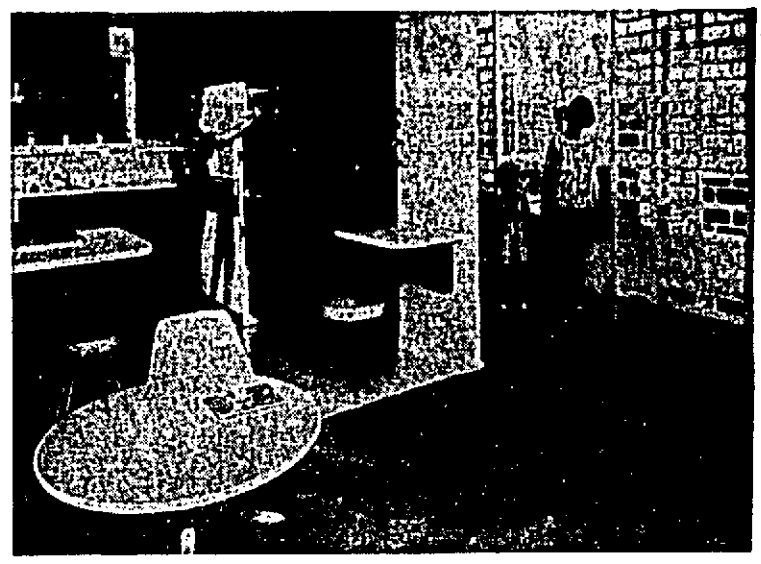

• • • •

PRESTIGE HOMES are located within a few minutes drive of the Southland's finest beaches and small boat harbors; 10 to 15 minutes away from several golf courses, both public and private; new grade schools and a sparkling new high school are closeby, as are many shopping centers.

Scheduled for completion in 1964 is the San Diego Freeway from Long Beach to the coastal area and a major new shopping center, with a Broadway Department Store as the principal, is scheduled to be constructed at the corner of Beach Bouvlard and Warner Avenue, less than a mile from Prestige Homes.

FHA and conventional financing, in addition to the G. I. loans, are available on the homes priced from $21,200.

From the Long Beach area: drive east on Seventh Street (Garden Grove Boulevard.) to Golden West Street. South on Golden West to Edinger, right on Edinger to Springdale, left on Springdale to the model homes open daily from 10 a. m. to 8 p.m.

AT HUNTINGTON BEACH

Add Salesmen for Final Selling at Leisure World

Typical Model Apartments at Rossmoor Leisure World

Because of the tremendous demand for the last remaining units during the final selling days at Rossmoor Leisure World, the sales force has been expanded to 30 representatives, from the original 20, reports William G. Brangham, general sales manager.

Of the 6470 apartments in the Seal Beach Senior Citizen Community, fewer than 600 remain. Almost 5,900 have been sold in a year and a half of selling, Brangham added.

This amounts to approximately $75 million in sales. At the present rate of sale, Rossmoor Leisure World will be completely sold out in the next few weeks.

• • • •

AMONG THE distinctive features is the medical plan, which includes in-home nurse calls, calls to the doctor's office (whether at the Medical Center, or one's own doctor), all prescription drugs, diagnostic tests and physical therapy treatment all included in the monthly payment.

The $500,000 Medical Center has been in operation since last December, it already staffed by 13 full-time and two part-time doctors, and 24 full-time nurses. Other specialists conduct clinics, as the need arises.

The $562,000 2,500-seat amphitheater is used weekly for special concerts, shows, motion pictures and other entertainment activities for the exclusive enjoyment of the residents.

• • • •

THE THREE LARGE clubhouses, all featuring different types of activities are busy from morning until night. "In the clubhouses, we entertain an average 1,500 buyers a month for luncheon," Brangham reported.

The Leisure World golf course is almost ready for play.

Other facilities include a swimming pool, therapeutic pool, lawn bowling courts, roque courts, horseshoe pitching, billiards and numerous other activities. Leisure World also has its own 12½-acre multi-million dollar shopping center, thirteen organized churches, and its own intra-city transportation system.

• • • •

INCLUDED in the down payment of approximately $1,000 is $374 to $419 for a share of stock in Seal Beach Mutual No. 12 and 14. The purchase of this share of stock carries with it the right to occupy a one or two-bedroom apartment of the buyer's choice.

Monthly payments—including principal, interest, taxes, insurance, maintenance, as well as medical care—range from $116 to $139.50. The two-bedroom have 759 square feet of inside living area and are priced at $12,300 to $13,900. Both include, at no additional cost, and all-electric built-in kitchen with oven, range, refrigerator and garbage disposal.

• • • •

ANYONE 52 YEARS of age or over is qualified to purchase at Leisure World, with no physical examinations necessary for acceptance.

Twelve model apartments are open daily from 9 to 6 p.m. at the project, located at the corner of Los Alamitos and Garden Grove Boulevards in Seal Beach.

From Long Beach to Leisure World go east on Seventh Street (Garden Grove Boulevard) to Los Alamitos Boulevard, then right to the sales office and model apartments.

Just What Is An ARCHITECT?

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

"If you don't have a view, we'll create one!" says Richard O. Prior, American Institute of Architects member.

"Most home builders in Long Beach want contemporary architecture because it lends itself to our temperate climate and outdoor living. It offers the opportunity for the use of lots of glass and garden vistas.

WHAT is an architect?

One who designs and oversees the construction of buildings, according to Webster's.

According to the State of California, which issues the license, an architect is one who has a degree from an accredited school of architecture with a five year curriculum.

During these years, he has studied design, planning of buildings, drawing, history of art and architecture, structural, mechanical and electrical engineering; office practice, building codes and the legal aspects of contracts for the construction of buildings.

He must then spend an additional two or three years working as an apprentice in the office of a registered architect.

THEN he must pass a rigid examination set up by the State Board of Architectural Examiners.

Or, if he has not had formal college training, he must have spent an equivalent time as an apprentice and draftsman in the office of a registered architect preceding the state examination.

BUILDING A HOME is the largest single project that most families undertake in a lifetime. The selection of the right architect can make it a tremendously exciting and satisfying experience.

According to local architects, Long Beach is in a period of transition from single dwellings to high-rise apartments. Announcement this week of a multimillion-dollar program for high rise apartment development on the Alamitos Bay Peninsula is typical of the trend.

The repeal of the 13 story restriction of building, which followed the 1933 earthquake, touched off possibilities of high-rise development similar to that of Miami Beach.

The City of Long Beach sets very high standards for this development with the new R-5 zoning. Local architects are very much for R-5, as it elim-

READY TO WELCOME visitors on the first annual home tour sponsored by the Long Beach District of the Southern California Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Women's Architectural League next Sunday are Mmes. Edwin Ripperdan, Richard Poper and Richard Prior.

DOORS OPEN ON BEAUTY . . .

Show Elegance in Living

Five outstanding homes in the Long Beach Harbor area will be open to visitors next Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. on the first annual home tour sponsored by the Long Beach District of the Southern California Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Women's Architectural League.

Proceeds from the tour will benefit a scholarship fund for promising students of architecture at the University of Southern California and other philanthropic purposes.

• • • •

INCLUDED IN THE residences on the tour is the Ridder home, 4601 Long Beach Blvd., designed by Hugh R. Davis, AIA, with a new wing designed by Heusel, Homolka and Associates, AIA.

The Ridder home was planned for large scale entertaining and combines a fluid floor plan and large entertaining areas with a cosmopolitan charm.

New and interesting home building materials have been used in the design of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mitchell, 5410 El Parque, designed by Jones and Poper, AIA. Every room in this house has a garden view.

The award winning home designed by Killingsworth, Brady and Smith, AIA, for Edward Frank is an example of architecture that transformed the problems of site into an asset. The Frank residence, 82 Rivo Alto Canal, achieves privacy on a very small lot, while taking advantage of the water view.

The problem of street and canal entrances has been solved in this home as an integral part of the design with interesting entries.

• • • •

ANOTHER INTERESTING HOME on the tour is the Signal Hill residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones and Miss Margaret McKinley at 2358 E. 21st St., designed by Richard O. Prior, AIA. The view from this hilltop home was the paramount consideration in the design.

The two story structure is turned on the lot and wrapped in floor to ceiling windows to give a really panoramic view. The living quarters are on the second floor.

The Rolling Hills home on the tour, the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Stein, 2 Crest Road West, designed by Williamson and Morris, AIA, has received national publicity stimulated by a unique design for an indoor swimming pool.

For further information and tickets for the tour telephone Mmes. Richard O. Prior, president of the Women's Architectural League, 6281 Marita Ave.; Donald H. Gibbs, 6652 Joyzelle St., Garden Grove; or Stanley V. Goldin, 6464 El Paseo St.

A Vacation—and a Thing to Daunt, Etc.

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

A FUNNY thing happened to us on our way to vacation. Funny, wonderful and the most remarkable timing this side of Cape Canaveral.

Two days before husband, Norman, and myself were due to leave for a tour of the Southwest an out-of-the-blue phone call came in from pleasant voiced Bob Edgecomb of Los Angeles. He asked how I was. "Fine" sez I, "but itching to get away on vacation." "Where?" sez he, so I tell him. "How would you like to drive a new Lincoln Continental on your jaunt?" he queried. Then it all clicked into focus. Once a year the Lincoln Mercury people asked about 10 women's editors of this area to use one of their gorgeous hunks of auto for a month's trial spin.

Can you imagine a vacation windfall of this magnitude? It's still the timing that flabbergasts me. It was delivered to our home just in time to pack it with travel paraphernalia and take off. New "owners" Norm and Iola are pictured with a very dear friend for a couple of thousand miles in the Great Southwest.

Here we are with a VERY dear traveling friend.

When we returned we turned over the car to Joyce Kent, assistant women's editor, to have her fling with it while we dawdled off to Catalina for 10 days bobbing at our mooring at the Isthmus.

Sunning and boat-hopping buddies during this period at various times over there were Shirley and Lee Caldwell, Ginger and "Mac" McCallum (the men did a good deal of air commuting while their wives stayed aboard), Gwen and Bill Dawkins, Rae and Stan Bean, Joan and Dr. Ed Beebe, Virginia and Norm Farquhar, Rus and Iris Hicks.

Add to dinghy dawdlers at the quiet island retreat Udell and Gareld Green, Hal and Pat Horrocks, Luke and Dolly Corzine, Wilma and Bill Moore (of San Pedro) and Hope and Bob Cunningham and the Horrocks' guests, Barbara and Marv Clark. Goodness only knows how many localites were frolicking at Avalon the while.

IF SOME things leave you undaunted, could you say others shake you up, daunt-like? Yes? In that case Nancy and Dr. Robert McAllister are deeply daunted.

Their brand new mountain retreat at Pine Cove (near Idylwild) burned to the ground after only five months ownership. Happened a couple of weeks ago and Nancy, it seems, arrived on the scene just as firemen were putting out the last embers. Totally demolished. Reason for the blaze still not known for sure.

Bound to bolster their flagging spirits, however, will be a trip Bob makes to attend an orthopedic convention in Seattle the week of Sept. 22 and Nancy will tag-along, too. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hipp will arrive from Aurora, Ill., the week before they leave to visit and stay on at the house to visit some more on their return.

Diann

Sharlene

BASED ON a long study of professional press releases from various airlines, am now convinced Long Beach must supply the major portion of the nation's new stewardii. Newest to join United's ranks are Diann Lee Stewart, daughter of the Jonathan A. Stewarts, 1965 Oregon Ave., Sharlene Sachiko Shiba, daughter of the Roy Shibas, 1942 California Ave., and Alberta Romeo, daughter of Amy Risi, Seal Beach.

Alberta

Diann, a Poly grad, attended State before flying off into a new career. Sharlene is also a Poly grad and serves from planes flying from Chicago. (Diann flies out of Seattle). Alberta, who attended U of Cal, also flies out of Chicago.

WONDERFUL (at least in part) week at Lake Gregory for Shirley and Doug Dalton with their three eldest (left the baby at home). Marvelous rest, they said. Especially in view of the fact that Doug Sr. and Jr. both spent part of the time battling a flu bug. Shirley, Julie and Jack stayed mile high healthy.

ALL LAST week was Albright-Strong week as parties flew for Sue Albright, fiancee of Steve Strong (son of Rod and Cal). They'll be married Oct. 5 in Lafayette, Calif.

Rod and Cal lead off with a tea to introduce Sue and her mother, Norma Albright of Danville, (which is right next door to Walnut Creek which is right next door to Lafayette). Fifteen gals manned the "battle stations" as assistants for the 100 or more guests. Blast off was perfect. It was followed by a buffet supper for Steve's friends, their mothers and fathers and for Sue's family.

Sunday brunch at the Long Beach Yacht Club was given by the Strongs for family units and house-guests.

Wednesday "Bun" (Mrs. Clarence) Sprague (now of Santa Ana) had a luncheon and "style show". Guests insisted she bring out her originally designed newest gowns and show them. Mainly, it honored Sue even although "Bun's" performing parakeet did his best to steal the spotlight amidst the giant paper roses used as decor.

Friday skyrocketed with a luncheon and shower given by Mickey McWhinney, Pat Van de Water and Dorothy Combs at the McWhinneys, complete with cool breezes and moss green table cloths.

Saturday climaxed the week when Jane and Frank Cornwall had a sit down dinner and shower for 50 old friends of Steve's with wives or dates plus family and friends of family. Suzanne and Clovis Cornwall came down from Redding to assist his parents and brought baby son, Chris, which almost (but not quite) undid doting grandma and 'pa. Nevertheless, they managed a beautiful party, all done in hearts and gold from table cloths on through to pool floats.

GYPSYING off to Estero Beach (below Ensenada) went Marie Fadden, sons Jim and Terry, and two buddies (where one boy goes another naturally is sure to follow) on rainy Wednesday morning. They rented a U-haul for camp gear; thought they'd have gear rattling around in it lonesomely. Not so. Filled to the brim with surf boards, tents, Mini-bikes, luggage, et al. The house is occupied because somebody had to stay home and tend the guinea pigs, of course.

THERE WAS conversational catching up to do and guests came a-purpose to do same at a "Brunch and Chat" party Wednesday at Assistance League House hostessed by travelers Bess (Mrs. Gail C.) Hudson and Mildred (Mrs. Howard) Coy.

Bess and Mildred needed as much catching up as anybody there. They returned recently from a trip which took them through the East. Then they flew from Chicago to Vancouver where they entrained for the gorgeous journey, via rail, into the Canadian Rockies, including Jasper, Lake Louise and Banff.

FROM MY PORCH, looking at the way the social weather vane is pointed, it's blowing up a storm of fall parties. Lawyers' Wives always widely anticipated fashion show luncheon (to be Oct. 15 at Balboa Bay Club) is well launched in the planning.

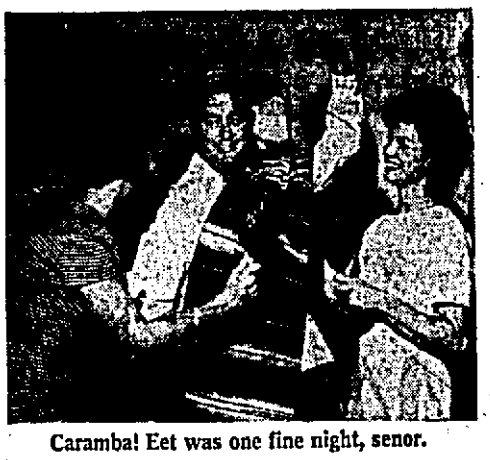

Kit (Mrs. Michael) Cullen, chairman, had luncheon at the Reef to get herself set straight on party theme, Valparaiso, Chile, our sister city. Not for the Reef's Polynesian atmosphere, but to meet with Consul General Miguel Bravo and his wife of Chile. They're to be special guests at affair; are helping Kit obtain Chilean exports for decor. Charming, delightful people, she reports.

IT WAS AN OLE, all the way, night Saturday if plans went as blueprinted for Rick Rackers annual summer party at Karen and Bob Dumm's in Lakewood. Hamming it up for cameraman, below, are Karen, Bob and Joan (Mrs. Mal) Lucas.

The charm and atmosphere of old Mexico permeated the house and gardens with authentic Sonora-style dinner around the pool and colorful Mexican entertainment plus all the decor to set the night's South of the Border pace.

A soupcon of the gala crowd attending included Sandy and Don Gill, Audrey and Ray Green, Neena and Dr. Dermot McHenry, Melva and Dick Miller, Joan and Dr. Jim Reitz, Bev and Les Weed, Jann and Joe Whisenant and Barbara and Tim Spangler.

Caramba! Eet was one fine night, senor.

NIGHT OF WINE, ROSES

Evening in Grand Manner

A party touched with the buoyancy and galety of the music of the gay 90's and the turn of the century will be given Friday evening at 8 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Weiss, 4297 Country Club Drive.

The gala affair is one of the special events given by the Long Beach Auxiliary for the Southern California Symphony Association.

Dubbed "A Night of Wine and Roses," a nostalgic one hour show will be presented by stars of the Long Beach Civic Light Opera. Blending their talents will be Harvey Waggoner, his wife, Jackie, James Doherty and his son, Robert, Betty Kimber and Bette Arntzen, Laura Killingsworth, Pat Zieg, Marvin Cloyd, William Womack and Bill Beadle.

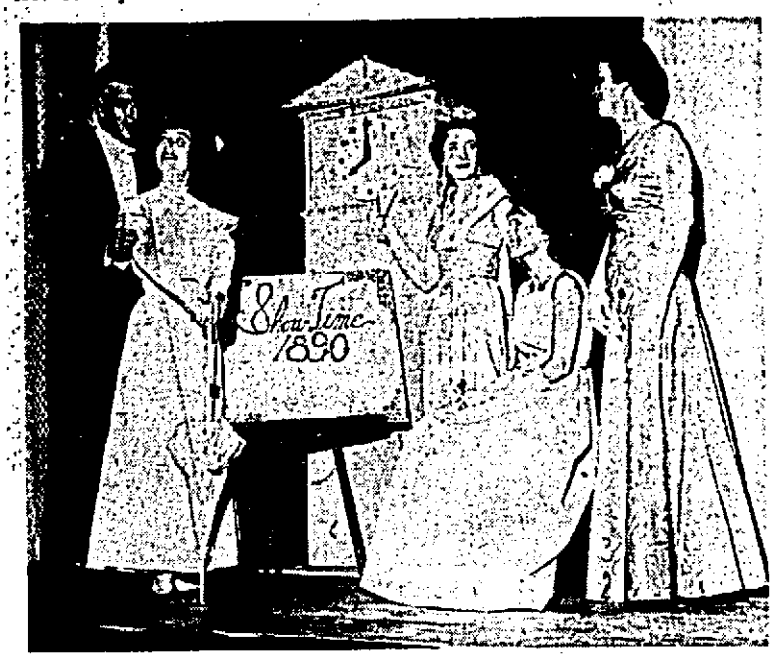

Among show numbers will be light opera scenes and duets from the "Merry Widow," "Die Fledermaus" and the Floradora Revue, as well as a rousing medley of George M. Cohan's songs and a barbershop quartet. Enhancing the music will be gay numbers of the Audrey Share dancers with Rose Bishop at the piano.

• • • •

MRS. ORVILLE W. Cole is party chairman, and receiving with her at the door will be Mrs. Weiss, hostess; and Mrs. James K. McCall, president of the auxiliary. They, with 12 auxiliary members as assisting hostess, will be attired in period costumes of silk and satin.

A pink Victorian motif will be followed in the decor, featuring a float in the pool covered with pink roses and foil wrapped wine bottles. Four serving tables on the terrace will be in pink and wine hues.

Attire for guests will be "black tie" or Victorian garb. Performance will be given on a stage overlooking the pool and guests will be seated as in an outdoor theater.

AT STROKE OF EIGHT on Friday evening the clock will be turned back to gay nineties era when Long Beach Auxiliary for Southern California Symphony Association gives a "Night of Wine and Roses" soiree. Performers will include Marvin Cloyd and Jacqueline Waggoner (left); and others are (from center, left to right) Mmes. Orville Cole, party chairman; Dominic N. Cavaliere, assisting hostess; and J. K. McCall, Auxiliary president.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Best Make the Whole Bed

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old girl and I have a big, fat, 14-year-old lazy slob for a sister. I try hard to keep our bedroom looking neat, but it always looks like a pig pen because of my sister. We share this bedroom which has only one large double bed in it. My mother tells me to clean up MY half, and to let my sister's half go, but, Abby, have you ever tried to make HALF a bed? It looks just awful! I hang up all my clothes but she leaves hers piled up on a chair so high you can't use the chair for sitting. Her shoes are all over the floor. How can I keep a tidy room with a slob like her for a sister? — LIKES IT NEAT.

ABBY

DEAR LIKES: You've given me a problem that should be solved by your mother. No child should be permitted to let his room look like a "pig pen." Because your sister is sharing a room with you, your mother should insist that she keep her half neat. A suggestion: Make the WHOLE bed, Honey. It's much easier than making half a bed.

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the plight of Lefty, the gas station attendant, I had to write. I am in somewhat the same fix. I operate a restaurant.

How about the carload of people who come in, order coffee all the way round, and then they bring out their own sandwiches and ask you for ketchup and mustard? If you have cherry pie, they want lemon. If you have lemon, they want apple. Whatever you don't have, they want. They order the coffee black, and when you don't bring the cream, they ask you where it is. So you bring it and one of the kids drinks the whole pitcher. When they leave they take along your silverware to, maybe, eat a melon in the car. They also take your salt shakers and two dozen paper napkins to clean off the windshield. After they're gone, you discover one of the kids left a wallet on the chair. It's got one dollar in it, but the identification is plainly printed on a card. So you have to wrap it up and take it to the post office and mail it back. And that's the last you ever hear from them. Thank heavens!

DEAR ABBY: Maybe you THINK you have heard everything. Well, listen to this. I just received an invitation to attend a shower for a bride. "TOYS" are requested—for "the baby." This is no joke, Abby. The two women who are giving this shower live in Worthington, Minn.—HEARD EVERYTHING.

FOURTH IN 'NEW MODEL YOU' SERIES

The Short Cut to Fashion

BEFORE—Ada Shortman's hairdo is too severe; full-skirted cotton dress adds bulk to figure.

DEAR FASHION EDITOR:
Do you really think you could "re-do" me? Let's see . . . you said to list my beauty problems: they're numerous—forehead too small, eyes too large, also a bit over-weight.
I'm not 40 yet, but pushing it hard.
I'm very proud of the fact, though, that we have been married 23 years and have two grandchildren.
Wouldn't it be a wonderful surprise for my husband—a new me? I don't mind growing older (I love being a grandmother), but I DO mind looking older.
Actually, at almost-40, I don't know how I SHOULD look. I definitely need an overhaul. Can you help?

Yours, truly,

Needy Me: ADA SHORTMAN
2044 Volk Ave.

Staff Photos by Joe Risinger

"To me, it wasn't just a day," writes Ada Shortman about the exciting few hours in which she found new ways to beauty and fashion during her I. P-T sponsored "New Model You" redo.

"It has opened up a whole new way of life—and, as time goes by, I find myself, more and more, trying to follow the tailored-to-me grooming and fashion hints suggested that day."

Under the deft and knowing hands of local fashion-beauty expert Wilma Hastings, she learned that elegance is important, that an uncluttered, unharried look is a combination of the right clothes, the right makeup and the right faith in oneself.

RED-HAIRED, 5-feet-2 and, in her words, pushing 40, Ada Shortman was selected for our glamor clinic series from more than 100 letters received last spring from readers.

A homemaker (married 23 years), mother of three (two married children, one boy at home) and grandmother of two, she has, at one time or other, met up with most of the beauty and grooming problems our readers write us about.

Her natural assets: wide-awake, blue-grey eyes, lovely face, beautiful skin, good hair.

Her deficits: a too-severe hairdo pulled back from the face, a weight problem (5-feet-2, 141 pounds), lack of know-how in applying makeup and in dressing-down figure problems.

Based on simple principles of fashion and beauty, steps in her dramatic redo can be approximated by most any woman, anywhere, who wants to look younger and more attractive.

ONE OF THE most rewarding beauty improvements for Mrs. Shortman was a new, more youthful hairdo created by Rafael at his posh salon. A light gold rinse gave vitality and gloss to her shorter, up-and-easy hairstyle which Rafael calls "Riviera."

By Mary Ellis Carlton
I. P-T Fashion Editor

Casual and sportive, the coif was lifted at the top to give height, was tapered and flipped at the nape to lengthen the neck.

Then came the wake up with makeup at Wilma Hastings' modeling and refinishing studio.

Brows were arched slightly upward to emphasize her expressive eyes; a light-toned, warm shade of makeup gave needed color. Also used: tile colored lipstick, brown eyebrow pencil, a hint of blue eye shadow—all applied lightly because of Mrs. Shortman's slight bone structure. Makeup was color-toned to blend in with her red hair.

NEW HAIRSTYLE, created by Rafael, gives lift. Mrs. Shortman's red tresses are fashioned higher at the crown, swirled softly at the sides, tapered and flipped up at neckline.

Warned Mrs. Hastings: "All makeup should be blended carefully to give a total, all-in-one appearance. If one makeup feature stands out, something is wrong."

BETWEEN the time Mrs. Shortman wrote us and the day of her do-over, she followed a prescribed eat-right diet. She lost 10 pounds, is still going down.

"Since I've improved my eating habits," says she, "I no longer feel I'm dieting, it has become everyday routine."

Meanwhile, in the interim while paring down her figure, Mrs. Shortman learned that a carefully chosen dress or suit can fool the eye as to figure proportions.

Here are some of the do's and don'ts outlined by Mrs. Hastings for camouflaging heavy hips and bulky thighs:

1. Don't wear full skirts, they only call attention to the problem (just as too-long hemlines call attention to large ankles). Do wear eased skirts, but keep them smooth.

2. Don't wear tuck-in blouses, do choose overblouses. Blouse and skirt should be all-of-one color; contrasts cut height, widen figure.

3. Don't ruin the silhouette by grimly squeezing in your waistline, only to bulge out below.

4. Don't economize on underpinnings; do wear a good foundation garment, preferably a high-waisted girdle in firm Dacron with bra that fits down over girdle top to eliminate a spare tire look.

5. Don't wear thick tweeds and gaudy "fattening" prints; do wear tailored lines, neutral colors, unshiny fabrics.

Most important: DON'T give up eat-right dieting.

AFTER—Ten pounds lighter, Mrs. Shortman looks up-to-now in slim silk suit; a tall toque, up-swept hairstyle adds height to her 5-foot-2 figure. Her dazzling do-over was accomplished by local fashion-beauty expert Wilma Hastings.

Daughter Is in a Dilemma Over Her Dad

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
My father is a man of 45 years and has been a widower for five years now. I am 18, old enough to understand my elders better than I did a few years ago. BUT he has me baffled.

If he wanted to settle down to a respectable marriage, I could understand that, but, no, he just runs around first with one woman then another.

I don't know how intense these affairs are (or whether they really are affairs) but I do know he took one woman away on a fishing week end. At least he said it was fishing.

I have tried to talk to him about playing at being Don Juan but he just laughs. How can I really get to him?
—ALICE A.

DEAR ALICE A.:
Your father is far from an old man, you know, but he is plenty old enough to mind his own business—and love life. Hands off!—M. M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
I'll be 16 next month and my mother won't let me date until then. But a few days ago I went on a triple-date which my mother approved of.

I can't see why an occasional triple-date like this one can do any harm. All we'd be doing is bowling or miniature-golfing. All summer I've had a baby-sitting job from 7:30 a.m. till 5:30 p.m. every Monday and Friday and I'm getting awfully sick and tired of a two-month-old baby!

I do so want to date (triple date, even) here and now. Don't you think mother should say yes?—M. J.

DEAR M. J.:
Yes, I really do. It will be October so soon now, and you have put in your stint of work this summer. I really think your mom ought to let you "triple-date," anyway.—M. M.

New Teen Trick

A new teen trick is to use a whisk of spray-on starch to keep cotton socks high and handsome. Faultless Starch Research reports that teens spray socks once while damp. After putting on dry socks they add an additional puff of spray-on starch to keep them neatly in place.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
I was married to this man, and then we broke up and got a divorce. Now I realize I still love him, and he feels the same and we want to go back together again.

The trouble is our 17-year-old son. He absolutely hates his dad and swears that if we go back together he will shoot him.

His dad has never been mean to him but just hasn't done anything for him. I'm about to have a nervous breakdown. Help!—BLUE

DEAR BLUE:
Your ex-husband ought to try and talk this thing out with the boy. Surely, he could make the boy see that your happiness comes first. If there is anything I don't like it's a trigger-happy youth. But I honestly believe that if your son cares for you at all he can be made to see sense.—M. M.

Name a Language, She'll Warble It!

By BETTY WENTWORTH

"I could eat 24 hours the hamburgers—so good! I have just three weeks ago come from Israel and it reminds me of home here. Both places so clean and the climates very similar. The drive to Santa Barbara — so lovely with the fresh smell of the ocean. When I come here they say you can wear the slacks wherever you wish and I say 'What!', but I like this living not so formally as in Europe," thus effervesced our sparkling visitor, Hanna Ahroni of Israel, in an interview last week.

Miss Ahroni is in the Southland for several singing appearances including the Art Linkletter show Thursday and a Wilshire Ebell recital Saturday. She appears in Long Beach at the Jewish Community Center next Sunday to open their 1963-64 program and forum series.

* * * *

CONCEALED in her dainty and chic 5' 2" and 100-lb. self is a bewildering amount of talent. She's gifted with a voice of four-octave range and great power. She sings fluently in eight languages including English, Hebrew, French, Italian, Spanish, Yiddish, and Afrikans, and "I've just added a Russian song," she told us. She reads and writes five languages also.

Her repertoire of songs includes everything from flamenco and calypso, to Yemenite lullabies, biblical songs and French chansons; in short she seems to be a sort of combination of Yma Sumac, Eartha Kitt and Lily Pons in her various renditions.

Miss Ahroni has given a command performance for the queen mother of Belgium, has sung to Lionel Hampton's vibraphones in Tel Aviv, has been on Edith Piaf's and Fernandel's shows in Paris and has sung psalms while Charles Laughton read from the Bible in London.

SHE WAS BORN in Eritrea into a large family, and with them moved later to Jerusalem. In a fairy-tale episode she was heard singing by an impresario while she was herding sheep. It took him three weeks to persuade her Yemenite family (who considered stage singing an alien thing) that this lovely child's voice should be trained.

The conservatory came next, then two years of Israeli military service when she was 18. Soon after, she made her first tour abroad, learning new languages with ease as it turned out, as well as new songs.

Her family now lives in Tel Aviv, but her mother still hand-sews all her beautiful costumes and off-stage wardrobe. She was wearing a vibrant flame-colored print when we talked to her, with accents of heavy gold earrings and bracelets that jingled melodically with her swift movements. Her shining dark hair was worn in a high chignon, but perhaps her most outstanding features are her huge, liquid brown eyes and her expressive speaking voice.

* * * *

A GREAT MANY of her songs have been composed with her exceptional vocal range in mind. A favorite is one in which she and the composer fitted sentences from the "Song of Songs" to the music. "I always sing this, and it has brought me my luck all over the world, Israel, in Europe, South America, Cuba and now America. One other thing I always do is to read a little from the 31st Psalm before performances," she told us.

Her concert at the Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave., is the first of three programs of entertainment and four intellectual forums sponsored by the center through the winter, with Mrs. Norman Gottlieb as over-all chairman. According to Emanuel Gyler, president of the center, they feel it has a responsibility to the community to present outstanding artists as well as mental stimulus.

* * * *

ALSO ON THE first series will be Paul Gilbert, supper club comedian, Nov. 24; and Baruch Lumet, Broadway stage and TV star, April 26. On the forum series will be Robert Goldman, author, lecturer and co-host on TV's Cavalcade of Books who will discuss "The Image of the Jew in Literature and Drama Today," Oct. 23; Joseph Roos, executive director of Jewish Community Relations Council of Los Angeles whose subject is "Changing Relations Between Negroes, Christians and Jews," Dec. 15; Dr. Kenneth Brown of UCLA, "Jewish Life in Many Lands," Jan. 19; and Dr. Fred Krinsky of USC, "Contradictory Forces in Jewish Thought, Chasidism and Reconstructionism," Mar. 15.

Tickets may be bought for individual evenings or for one or both of the series by contacting the Center.

VIVACITY AND WARMTH of petite Israeli songstress, Hanna Ahroni, fairly reach out of the page to capture the viewer's attention, and epitomize her talents as international folk song artist. She's first attraction next Sunday on Jewish Community Center program series.

Pre-Columbian Show

While Elise Emery is on vacation, her column is being written this week by Betty Wentworth.

Probably the largest exhibition of pre-Columbian art ever to be assembled in the U.S. will go on view at Otis Art Institute, 2401 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, on Thursday and continue through Oct. 27.

It is being presented under the sponsorship of Otis Art Associates and Stendahl Art Galleries, with Wayne Long, director of exhibits and instructor of design at the Institute, in charge.

Nearly 5,000 objects of art are in the show which is open free to the public, daily, except Mondays from 12:30 to 5 p.m. The art to be shown is of clay and stone, jade, jadeite, serpentine, gold, copper and semi-precious stones. It will go on a world tour following its close here.

Lenders include Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Altman, the Harry A. Franklin Gallery, Dr. and Mrs. George Kennedy, Elsa Lanchester, Oscar Meyer Gallery, Old Curiosity Shop, Bill Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Sheets, Southwest Museum, Proctor Stafford, Stendahl Art Galleries, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Stoudie, and David Stuart Gallery.

* * * *

WINNERS in the Long Beach Art Association show of paintings, drawings and sculpture of the human figure at the Villa Riviera Gallery during September have been named by judge Dr. Eugene Wallin of Long Beach State College. Rather than giving only first and second place awards he chose five which, in his opinion were outstanding.

Awards have gone to Pearl Jones, oil, "January Thaw;" Aline Thistlethwaite, watercolor, "Woman With Mandolin;" Llewan Hansen, ink drawing, "Conflict;" Marie Bucher, oil, "Tired Feet;" and Frances E. Stone, oil, "Portrait of a Young Man."

Pearl Jones, formerly president of the LBAA has also won second prize for a seascape and third prize for a landscape at the recent Paramount Art Association Art Fair. She has had 18 paintings on exhibit at the Security First Bank of Huntington Beach.

Seascapes by Cost Done Convincingly

By VIRGINA LADDEY

James Peter Cost, Long Beach artist, has a one-man show of oil seascapes on exhibit at the Pacific Coast Club Gallery, 850 East Ocean Blvd., through Sept. 27. That Cost is enamored of the sea with its waves breaking on rocks is without a doubt, and that he can depict it convincingly is without question.

While Cost confines himself to seascape, and to realistic, illusionistic techniques, the accompanying notes with each of the dozen paintings (ten done in the last two years) show that he has examined contemporary trends in art and found them wanting for the particular thing he wishes to achieve.

* * * *

COST ALSO confines his palette, thus tacitly eschewing any expressionism in color: his foaming seas are blue-green-grey, the mighty rocks are black and brown, his cloudy skies are pearly. The one expedition in this collection into higher color, "Impending Storm" is the least successful of his works and suffered from a shiny glazing.

Cost has examined the West Coast from north to south, demonstrated in "Sand Dollar," "Los Padres" and "Corona Del Mar" which he has sketched and photographed preliminary to studio painting.

* * * *

THOSE WHO know the sea will find it in his works, the sense of transparency in the thrust of wave below its crest, the faceted surface of water after the wave has broken, the rhythmic lines of the broad water's perspective, the spray where the force of the ocean strikes irressitible rocks.

Try-Outs Slated by Choristers

Civic chorus of Long Beach Recreation Department will have its first meeting, a social and try-outs, on Sept. 16 in Millikan High School Mirror Room. Frank Arnold, director, invites all interested local singers to attend.

The chorus winter season will consist of four concerts. The "Messiah" will be presented on Dec. 8, at 3 p.m. in First Congregational Church, followed by "Carols by Candlelight" later in December in the Municipal Auditorium Concert Hall.

* * * *

THE CAROL program this year will be colorfully staged with full costumes and lighting effects. There will be opportunity for soloists and ensembles in addition to the choral numbers.

A "Ports O' Call" program is planned for early March with the annual "Festival Concert" in May. Both will be given in the Concert Hall.

More Opera Lovers Write

By RACHEL MORTON
(L. P-T Music Critic)

My column of a few weeks ago entitled "Does Long Beach Want Grand Opera" brought so many letters of response, with no dissenting ones, that today's column continues with excerpts from more of these letters. The response has been very gratifying and I hope to have more replies.

* * * *

"AS PER YOUR article of August 18: Long Beach should have a grand opera season. I, for one, would buy tickets for same and even perhaps my wife would attend, too.

Carl Blatt
431 Harding St.

"I read your article with great interest and since you ask for opinions I would like to give you mine. Yes, we should have a short season similar to Laguna Beach at first to find out how the local public reacts. With such marvelous artists right at our door, a try should not be too complicated.

"The choice of operas is excellent. They are the most well known, and everybody — almost — knows the arias and tunes so they would have the greatest appeal.

"I was born and raised in Berlin. We have three opera houses as you know, where I heard every opera there is. So I would enjoy hearing them here. And I think it's high time our youth here were educated to classical opera."

Doris Fendler

* * * *

"YOUR ARTICLE on the possibility of grand opera in Long Beach was interesting. We were fortunate in attending the Greek Theatre's performance of "Madame Butterfly" and thought it a beautiful production, well sung.

"Assuming enough interest were to be generated in Long Beach for the production of a short opera season, where would it be given? The Convention Hall is a barren barn of a place and the Concert Hall has a seating capacity too small to make it profitable.

"The reaction of this family may be of interest.

Major and Minor Notes

We always attend at least three performances of the San Francisco Opera Company at the Shrine, although we don't like the drive; have attended a performance of every production this summer at the Greek Theatre, have even driven to San Diego for the Shakespeare Festival in Balboa Park."

Donald S. Grant
40 Via Di Roma

* * * *

"I HAVE BEEN following and enjoying your articles in the Independent, Press-Telegram during the entire time I have lived here in Long Beach. Your column, Does Long Beach Want Grand Opera" is a real inspiration. The introduction of "grand" opera, as you wrote, into this area could be a tremendous asset to the community on an educational, entertainment, musical, theatrical and cultural level. I sincerely believe that Long Beach could have a full-time company.

"The wealth of untapped art in the area is boundless, but there must be something to bring it out. With proper promotion and planning, Long Beach could become a national institution in the field of music. I must agree that the IBC, although it may be a temporary boon to the local merchants, and the same for the proposed Fair, a continuing musical sphere would bring business, art and culture to a "desolate" area, crying to be heard.

"That Long Beach as a city is interested in opera is proven by our well-stocked and well-patronized record department of the Long Beach Library.

"My vote goes enthusiastically to your idea—Yes, Long Beach does want Grand Opera!"

James J. Feeney
249 E. Bort St.

* * * *

"I HAVE JUST arrived here to live and have no idea what the history of serious music is in Long Beach. But I have been an opera fan for years, and I personally would support a season of grand opera in Long Beach IF it were done professionally. There is nothing worse than a bunch of hammy amateurs trying to sing grand opera.

"The suggestion of presenting such operas as "Carmen," "La Boheme" and "Madame Butterfly" is good because those would appeal to even doubtful opera audiences. It would be nice to think that Long Beach could support a short but top-notch opera season—as well as that atrocious International Beauty trash."

Mrs. Donald R. Fox

Symphony to Audition for New Musicians

Lauris Jones, conductor, and leader of orchestra sections, will audition musicians for openings in the Long Beach Symphony on Sept. 16 at 7:45 p.m., in the rehearsal hall at Municipal Recreation Center, 350 E. Ocean Blvd.

The orchestra has just concluded a brilliantly successful summer season of Starlight Serenades in Bixby Park. During the 1963-1964 season three series of concerts will be presented with well-known guest artists performing with the symphony. Among major works to be performed are Khatchaturian Piano Concerto, Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration," Beethoven's "Emperor Concerto," and "Concerto di Aranjuez" for guitar and orchestra. The season will conclude with a concert presentation of Smetana's opera "The Bartered Bride."

* * * *

UNION AND non-union musicians are invited to attend the auditions, when any vacancies in the personnel will be filled.

Rehearsals are held Monday evenings throughout the season at Municipal Recreation Center. Concerts are presented in the acoustically excellent auditorium at Long Beach City College.

For further information on the auditions or the concerts please call the Long Beach Symphony Association in Gilmore's Music Store, 1935 East 7th St.

New Play Opens at Off-Broadway

Winner of the Critic's Award for best play of its year, "Member of the Wedding," will be presented at Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., opening Friday at 8:30 p.m.

This play proved one of their biggest successes for Ethel Waters as Bernice, Julie Harris as Frankie and Brandon de Wilde as John Henry. It is a study of the loneliness of an over-imaginative young girl who is a mis-fit and her association with a warm and responsive negro woman and a neighbor boy, and uncovers with exceptional insight the problem of acceptance by society.

* * * *

IN CHARGE of production of the show is Danny Rogers, head of Los Angeles Theater Arts committee in charge of drama. This organization headed by Mrs. Jack L. Warner has associated with it many important show people, including Lucille Ball, Steve Allen and Spencer Tracy.

Appearing in the Off-Broadway production will be Toni Shay as Frankie. She has appeared locally in "Thieves' Carnival" and is winner of one of the awards of a recent play-writing contest sponsored by COLT. Ruby Terry is cast as Bernice. Many will remember her outstanding performance in Magnolia Theater's production of "Raisin in the Sun". John Henry is played by David Weeks who has just finished a part in Community Theater's play, "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker".

* * * *

FRANKIE'S brother, Jarvis, is played by Gerald LeRoy who has done work with the Goodman Theater in Chicago. Stuart Cheatham is cast as Mr. Adams and has just finished a run in "West Side Story" at the Off-Broadway.

The role of T. T. William, friend of Bernice, is being taken by Leon Bramley who was last in "Sweet Bird of Youth". Others in the cast are Cecilia Todd, Betty Blue, Lynn Cooney, Gregory Cheatham and Melanie Bryan who is also on the production staff with Barry Salvin. Gerald LeRoy is also aiding in staging.

Reservations may be made by calling the Off-Broadway Theater.

Free Finesse Is Avoided

When Virgil said, "I fear the Greeks, bearing gifts," he might well have been writing a textbook on bridge play. It is a pretty good policy to assume that if your opponent gives you a chance to take a free finesse that the play will not work for you.

North's jump to four hearts was primarily intended to shut out a spade bid. The fact that South was able to make the contract was a surprise dividend.

West's king of diamonds was allowed to hold the first trick whereupon West shifted to the deuce of clubs. Dummy's nine was covered by East's jack and South's king won the trick.

South led a low trump to dummy's queen and returned the suit. East discarded a low spade and West was in with the ace.

West promptly led the eight of clubs and South's first impulse was to finesse dummy's ten.

* * * *

RECALLING Virgil's advice, he decided that West was acting like one of those ancient Greeks and offering him a Trojan horse.

Therefore South played dummy's ace and discarded a low spade. His next play was the five of clubs. Up came East's queen. South ruffed and eventually discarded another spade on his good ten of clubs.

He still had to lose one spade, but that was the third and last trick for the defense.

Dear Reader:

What have YOU been doing lately?

We've been busy winning journalism awards

YOUR 1963 CALENDAR will be hanging around for quite a while, but already this looks like another red-letter year for the men and women who write the news and take the pictures for the Independent and Press-Telegram.

At state, regional and national levels we've been winning our share of the prizes and then some.

Ladies first? All right. Let's start with the I, P-T Women's Section. In the early part of 1963 it was judged the best among metropolitan newspapers in the state of California Press-Women's annual writing contest. Edited by Iola Masterson, the section cornered fifteen (15) awards.

More recently the National Federation of Press Women chose our Women's Section best in the nation. Iola says the credit should be shared by Joyce Kent, Mary Ellis Carlton, Mildred Flanary, Mary Neth, Elise Emery and Curtyne Driscoll.

In another coast-to-coast contest, Mrs. Neth was among seven writers receiving the Catherine L. O'Brien Award.

And now for the men: Ben Zinser, Medical Science Editor of the I, P-T recently received the only Press award given by the American Podiatry Association for distinguished science writing.

PICTURE EDITOR OF THE YEAR is the I, P-T's Bryan Hodgson. This national title was awarded for the first time by the University of Missouri School of Journalism, National Press Photographers Association and World Book Encyclopedia. Bryan went back to Columbia to receive the award on the University of Missouri campus and Ol' Mizzou called him back a couple of weeks later to conduct a seminar with some of the Nation's best photographers.

In the PHOTOGRAPHER OF THE YEAR CONTEST of National Press Photographers Association, our chief photographer, Roger Coar, won second on the basis of two first places, two seconds and two thirds in judging of monthly competitions. Bob Shumway scored with a couple of prizes in the same contest. One of the awards was for his picture of equine singers, called "Voices of the OK Chorale." It won another ribbon in the California-Nevada Contest sponsored by the Associated Press, and honorable mention in the National Editorial Association Contest. Writing awards in the same two-state contest were won by William Hunter and George Flowers.

. . . I, P-T PHOTOGRAPHER KEN HENDERSON'S picture of a one-pachyderm stampede at an elephant race in Fullerton was judged one of the top news photos in the nationwide competition sponsored by the National Editorial Association.

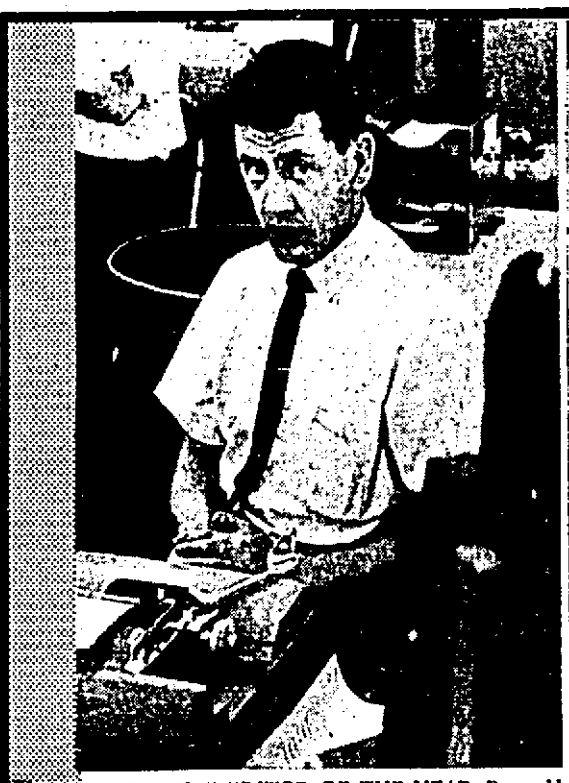

REMEMBER THE SERIES OF ARTICLES we published to alert everyone to the dangers of the "Death Alley" section of the Long Beach Freeway? The Independent, Press-Telegram garnered one of three citations given among ALL metropolitan newspapers in California by the National Safety Council. The "Death Alley" series had a lot to do with that award. But even more important than this national honor was the satisfaction of seeing emergency action by the Highway Department to make that part of the freeway safer for everybody.

KEEP IN TOUCH WITH US—we'll probably have more prizes to report before the year's out. But even if we don't, you can be sure the men and women of the I,P-T will be busy making this a better and safer place to live.

Independent, Press-Telegram

Edibles Accountable

By Mildred K. Flanary
I. P-T Food Editor

Chef of the Week

He has an aversion to shopping — but he's right there for the accounting end of the deal.

Today's Chef of the Week, public accountant Kenneth R. Davis, has, to his wifee's knowledge, never been in a grocery store. "Mens wear-wise," and fortunately for both, he thoroughly approves of her selections FOR him.

Kenneth R. Davis

Davis first saw the light of day in London, England. At the age of six his father was transferred to New Jersey as agent for an English firm. Three years later, his Dad apparently read the book, "Go West, Young Man, Go West," was impressed, and came to Long Beach in 1924.

Our chef had mastered his studies at Jefferson Junior, Wilson High Schools and Long Beach City College, just in time to meet the depression head-on, He had, however, worked at the YMCA during his school years.

* * * *

DAVIS eventually become affiliated with the old California Bank. That was in August of '35. In 1943 it became the Bank of America and it was then that his accounting profession began for real. He joined the late Charley Kibbie, a lawyer-accountant. After Kibbie's death, Davis affiliated with Roy Smith and Bart Smith (not related), two former employes of the Bank of America, and formed a partnership which was to last 15 years.

Davis now has his own firm and a new own-your-own office building, of which he is president.

He and "Mrs. D.," the former Marjorie Couch of Long Beach, have a son Dick, 22, who made a name for himself in track while at Poly High; a daughter Leslie Davis Murray, 20, an important person in her Dad's firm, and Lynn, 16, a junior at Poly High.

Daughter, Leslie, not only has become a component part of the firm, but seems to do the "anniversary bit" as well. She was born on the day he started his own business, and was 20 years old the day they had the champagne - christening - ceremony on new building.

* * * *

AS PRESIDENT of this year's United Way Drive, Davis has his work cut out for him. He is also an active Rotarian, a member of the Navy League, and is a member of the vestry of St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

He didn't divulge, during the interview, whether or not he could cook. At any rate, he IS breaking the egg for some Yorkshire Pudding to go with his prime ribs of beef.

ROAST BEEF

4 to 5 lb. standing rib roast. Place fat side up in roasting pan, season with salt and pepper. Do not cover and do not add water. Put in slow (325°) oven. Roast to desired doneness.

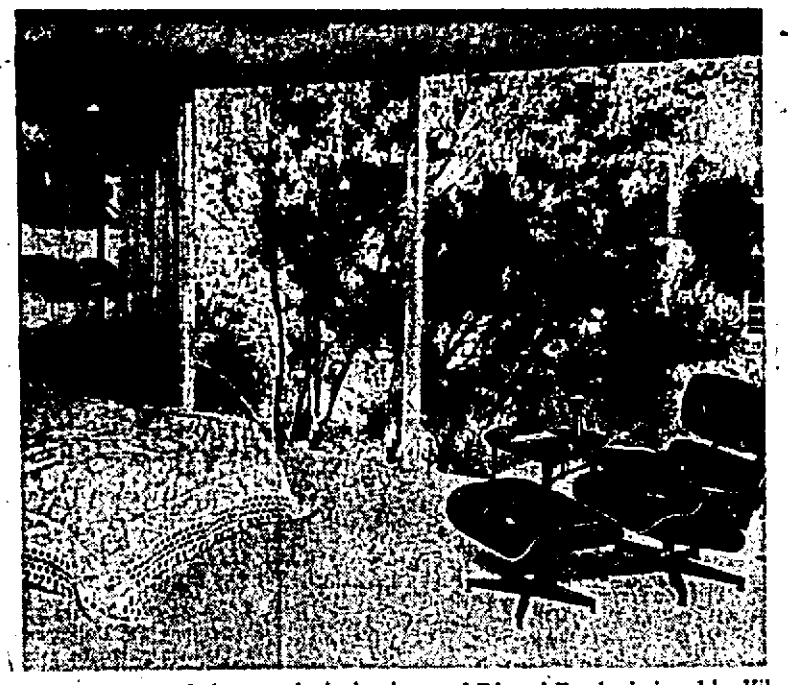

- 18 - 20 min. per pound for rare
- 22 - 25 min. per pound for medium
- 27 - 30 min. per pound for well done

Remove from oven and let set while pudding is baking. Up oven temperature to 450 degrees for pudding.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING

- 1 cup flour
- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs
- ¼ tsp. salt

Mix salt and flour and add milk gradually to form smooth paste; then add eggs and beat 2 minutes with egg beater. Put 4 tablespoons hot fat from roast in shallow baking pan. Place in oven until fat is sizzling hot. Pour mixture in pan and bake 25-30 minutes or until golden brown on top, decreasing heat as baking is accomplished.

THE BEDROOM of the award-winning home of Edward Frank, designed by Killingsworth, Brady and Smith, AIA, has a view and privacy, although the house is built on small Naples lot. The Frank home, 82 Rivo Alto Canal, will be open to viewers on the first annual home tour sponsored by the Long Beach District of the Southern California Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Women's Architectural League next Sunday.

Architecture on Display

inates the possibility of low cost building that could turn into a slum area.

COMPARED to other cities, Long Beach has no really bad slum areas, according to Prior.

Many local organizations are working on different facets of redevelopment, however, to improve potential slum areas.

The City of Signal Hill has stimulated home building by employing a nationally known planning consultant, Simon Eisner. New zoning ordinances and street development are having good results with more view lots to be available to future home builders.

THE ARCHITECT'S first consideration is his client's needs. As a creative person, he has an artistic duty to design a house that is esthetically pleasing to the client, but he must satisfy the needs for which the house is intended.

What every architect aims for is a happy client like Mrs. C. C. Mitchell, 5410 El Parque.

"This house is NOT for sale," said Mrs. Mitchell. "When we moved in last June, although I am a grandmother, I felt just like a June bride."

Medical Association's President to Give Talk

Following the luncheon Mrs. Sam Woolington, program chairman, will introduce William S. Kroger, M.D., who will discuss hypnosis and psychosomatic medicine.

Stanford University student Verryl Fosnight married Mary Roberts White at a ceremony in Holy Innocents' Catholic Church.

He is the son of the Verryl Fosnights of Long Beach and was graduated from Millikan High. His bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce S. White, also of this city, is an alumna of Poly High and attended Long Beach State College.

Following a honeymoon in Monterey and Carmel, the newlyweds will make their home in Palo Alto where the bridegroom will continue his schooling.

* * * *

FOR THE wedding ceremony, the new Mrs. Fosnight chose a floor-length, satin brocade gown with petal veil and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, and butterfly roses centered with a corsage of eucharist lilies tied with pearl decorated streamers.

She was attended by Jane White as maid of honor. Chuck Lyon served the bridegroom as best man.

Light Opera Artists at Tea

Artists from the Civic Light Opera will be featured guests at the annual membership tea of Lakewood B'Nai B'rith Women to be held Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at Long Beach Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave.

The program will feature Clayton Ivey, Cynthia Howard and Gary R. Murphy in selections from former Civic Light Opera productions.

Ivey started his professional career with the Robert Shaw Chorale in 1949. He has sung with the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, Los Angeles Opera Company, the Hi-Los and many other professional groups.

Miss Howard had an early career as a dancer before starting her singing career. She has appeared with the San Francisco Opera Company and the Lakewood Philharmonic.

MURPHY formed a jazz group while attending college that played hotels and clubs and appeared on the Gene Norman television show. Opera star Nina Koshetz heard him sing in a local nightclub and impressed with his natural baritone, coached him for solo performances in operetta and operatic concerts.

Membership chairman of the group, Mrs. L. E. Feldman, has announced that guest speaker at the tea will be Mrs. Howard Zimmerman, past president, District 4, B'nai B'rith Women. Her theme will be "13 Years of B'nai B'rith Service Around the World."

President Mrs. Myer Burnstein has invited all members and friends to attend the event.

Pat Walker's New Stauffer System Reducing Program Opens in Pasadena!

Long Beach Women Reduce and Regain Youthful Figure Without Rigid Diet Under Pat Walker's New Program

As told by Lillian Polak, L.B.

MRS. LILLIAN POLAK was ashamed to be photographed when she was a size 24½ and weighed 209½ pounds. Now she is down to a size 16, has reduced over 50 pounds and is still going down.

My name is Lillian Polak. I'm a housewife and I live in Long Beach. I am married and have 2 children and 3 grandchildren. I am 56 years old. I wish you could have seen me before I went to Pat Walker's System. I wish I had a photo of how I looked before I went to reduce with her system. I don't have one because I looked so awful for so many years that any time anyone took a picture of me, I made a point of hiding behind my husband and anyone else who was near me because I was ashamed of how I looked.

One day I was having my usual morning cup of coffee and reading the Independent, Press-Telegram and I read about Pat Walker's Stauffer System. That was 3 months ago. I really didn't think they could help me. I had given up so long ago, but anyway I called them. But before I did I called my next door neighbor who is a close friend of mine and asked her if she would go with me because I needed moral support. She said she'd go. Incidentally, she took the treatments too.

Well, we went in the next day and believe me, that was my lucky day. Miss Walker was there—in person—and she talked to me personally. Somehow just talking to her made me feel that I had a chance to look nice again. At that time I was a size 24½ and weighed 209½ pounds. In this picture I am wearing a size 16 and have lost over 50 pounds and still going down.

When Miss Walker was photographed with me in this picture she had just returned from the opening of her new Honolulu Salon and said, "The last time we photographed you, you were a size 18 and now you are a size 16 and the next time we photograph you, you'll be a size 14." I know she is right because everything she has said so far has come true.

My hobby is raising beautiful flowers and my favorite is bird-of-paradise. I love to garden. Now when I stoop over to cut my flowers, I don't huff and puff getting up. That alone is worth a lot. Besides my husband and children are pretty proud of me because somehow my whole personality has changed.

I told Miss Walker I was glad I had read that ad that day and she said she felt the best way of conveying a message to women who need help in reducing was to have a woman who had been helped tell her own story. So I said I would and what should I say. She looked at me and smiled and said just tell it in your own way.

So I have. I hope you'll be as anxious to see me in the Independent, Press-Telegram in another month wearing a size 14 as I will be when I see myself in the paper that morning. Well, I'll conclude my story by saying that I found my bird-of-paradise not among my flowers, but in Pat Walker.

—Lillian Polak

As told by Jackie Stevens, Seal Beach

I am smiling in this picture and really feel like smiling for a change. About 3 months ago I saw an ad with Pat Walker's picture telling about Miss Walker and the Stauffer System. It was a full page ad and it really impressed me. I went to work the next morning and took the ad with me.

My name is Jackie Stevens and I live in Seal Beach. I am married and have 2 boys, ages 12 and 8. I am 34 years old. I have a good job with Dean Van Lines in Long Beach.

For many years, it seems like forever, I was hiding my figure under a boxy suit or coat, huge handbags and full skirts. My problems were all from the waist down. I had given up slacks and told everyone I didn't like the beach when the real truth was I was ashamed to wear a bathing suit.

I'm proud to say I'm finished with my treatments. I had fun while getting my figure back. They are awfully nice people in the salon and I enjoyed every moment of it. Now I wear a size 10 dress. Before I wore a 16. I had to because my hips and thighs were so bulgy. I lost 7 inches in my hips and 5 inches on each thigh and my legs look decent again. —Jackie Stevens

Miss Pat Walker Talks About Reducing

I am often asked if I enjoy my work as the National Figure authority for the Stauffer System Salons. The answer is very simple, it is yes.

I like my work because it is so interesting and challenging. It's challenging because every woman has a different figure problem and each woman thinks that her problems are the ones no one can help.

This is because the average woman has tried so many methods of reducing and gone on to many different types of diets only to find she still had her figure problems.

Many women reach the point of thinking that there's nothing else that can be done for her. She thinks this because she has not been exposed to a system such as the Pat Walker Stauffer System.

Can you imagine how gratifying it is to see that same woman in a salon a few short weeks after she starts her treatments and to have her say thank you—thank you for showing me the way to a new figure and in many cases a new way of life.

Over the years we have been responsible for re-making over 5 million women's figures.

Actually there's no guess work to reducing today. Any woman can buy her figure just as she would buy clothes, carpets, furniture or anything else. The only difference is that it is a service and unfortunately it cannot be mailed to her. All she has to do is to pick up the phone and make an appointment for a courtesy treatment and a figure analysis. We offer it to her without obligation.

We pride ourselves in making reducing perfectly painless. We do this by giving wonderful service in pleasant surroundings.

The response of the women here has been so great that even though we had a large salon in Long Beach it has been necessary to open a salon in Lakewood also.

From the analysis we determine where she needs to lose, how long it will take and the exact cost of her correction. From there it is up to her to make her decision of whether she wants to continue to struggle the lonely and frustrating battle of reducing or turn over her problems to us, and let it be our responsibility. The response of the women here has been so great that even tho' we had an extremely large salon it has been necessary to enlarge it even more.

Many people have asked me if the figure problems in Southern California are different from anywhere else? The answer is no. Women are women, no matter where they are from. But each individual case is different and has to be treated as such but with our program the end product is the same perfect figure.

So many women think that they have to starve to death or experience painful or strenuous exercise to regain a good figure. Imagine how happy they are when they find that this is not true because relaxation is a part of our program. We have women of all ages who are reducing with us. Also, children. It's a smart mother who recognizes figure problems with her child at an early age and who comes to us to take care of it.

For the convenience of women who work or have baby sitting problems, we remain open in the evenings until 9 o'clock. I want to thank all of the women who write to me letters of gratitude for what we are doing for them, and also, to all of the women who write asking what can be done for their particular problems.

What Others Say:

Here is a quotation from the hundreds of grateful letters received from women who have taken the Pat Walker Stauffer System treatments:

My husband was all for my going — after all he's like every man who admires a pretty figure. My husband says I'm looking younger and prettier by the day. But what's really great is that I'm losing it where I need to lose it. — Mrs. Catherine Bevert, Long Beach.

Pat Walker Answers Your Personal Letters

DESIRES NEW FIGURE BY NOVEMBER

DEAR MISS WALKER:

When my husband and I married in 1947, I was 25 and he was 31. I wore size 13 and could always see the love mirrored in his eyes.

Now I'm 46 and wear size 18½ and since I had an operation there has never been even a little spark of love showing.

My husband's family plans a trip out here in November and it would be wonderful to be able to look nice when they are here.

I'm enclosing a photo, but as you can see I hide if I can. At least I try to hide my figure as much as I can as I am ashamed. Can you help me?

Hopefully,
MRS. D.R., Downey

DEAR MRS. D.R.:

Thanks for your letter. There is no question that you have your share of problems, but let me assure you that you are not alone. Figure problems are our business and we are used to them and know how to handle them. What you want to regain is only natural, but let me give you the best advice I know how—you have already taken one step and that is you have recognized you hav a figure problem. The next step is to do something about it! Come in to see us and we'll analyze your figure problems, tell you what we'll do for you, how much it will cost you and how long it will take. It's that simple. If your decision is to let us help you, you will probably find much happiness will be in store for you. Newly gained confidence in yourself brings about much in the way of personal attention, new found happiness and who knows, with the holiday season, just around the corner, your husband will again be an attentive, proud, and happy man who will shower much affection and flowers in your direction.

Sincerely yours,
PAT WALKER
National Figure Authority

HUSBAND SHOWS NO AFFECTION

DEAR MISS WALKER:

Perhaps you may understand this letter when I say that socially I am a coward.

For one thing I've had a whopping big weight problem all my life but held my own until 5 years ago, except I always had large upper arms which meant watch the sleeves so I took up sewing.

Then the big joke came. I broke my ankle and the weight came on from lack of daily activity.

Hopeless despair set in. I couldn't lose weight and no one seemed to care and here I am at 200 pounds.

My skin is clear but that's not my problem. It's large arms and hips and a limpy ankle which would be better if there was not so much weight on it.

I am 53 years old, 5 ft. 4 in. tall, and have to wear oxfords. I hate the fact I don't fit anything that comes in the stores. I have tried drastic reducing programs, even sane ones, but no one cares. Not even my husband.

I have become the sounding board of everyone else's troubles as if I didn't have enough of my own.

Once I got flowers from my husband and was gay; today I hurt inside and hate myself.

To me it's important to look right as I belong to a service club. I don't go to meetings anymore because I look like you know what.

Also to make a little romance in a so-called dead husband. I just can't be that old yet.

I think I got a book full of reasons why I need a remodeling job.

Maybe I try attacking the wrong end of this but whatever it is I continue to go backwards.

Oh, yes, I am nice and people like me but they don't invite me anywhere either.

What can I do?

MRS. W. M., Bellflower

DEAR MRS. W. M.:

Maybe the lack of interest your husband has shown is the indirect result of your own negligence. After all he once was the devoted husband you wanted and he can be again. If you have a complex about your appearance, it reflects in everything you do. There really is no reason for a woman to feel the way you do because today you can seek professional help with your figure problems. We have revamped over 5 million figures throughout the years and many of them with the same problems you have and women in your own community. It is just as simple as picking up the phone and asking for a personal figure consultation and free trial treatment.

Sincerely yours,
PAT WALKER

A. Only one, Bruno Pontecorvo, is Jewish. The most valuable espionage information passed to the Russians was the principle for the manufacture of the atom bomb. This information was passed by Klaus Fuchs, a German-born, naturalized Britisher, son of a Quaker pastor, and since his youth a dedicated Communist.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you?

Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy?

And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing, appliances and furnishings that appeal to her?

Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience?

Nowhere.

So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. And then watch someone's pocket or purse carry it to the conclusion you hoped for.

Print makes sense because print makes sales.

TV'S BEN CASEY: HE TREATS MILLIONS OF WOMEN

by LLOYD SHEARER

What is there about success and failure that arouses respectively the hostility and kindness in man, especially in this town?

Five years ago, when Vince Edwards was a 28-year-old job-seeker, bumming around Hollywood, trying to keep body and soul together playing heavy bits in Grade D pictures, dates like Marilyn Monroe and Shelley Winters described him as "a nice guy . . . an actor with training . . . a fellow who knows his business . . . a fine singer . . . all he needs is one good break." Colleagues spoke well of him; casting directors agreed that he had much potential as an actor; agents understood his frustration and were tolerant.

Fantastically successful as TV's Ben Casey, young Edwards today finds himself criticized as "an actor who runs the gamut from A to B . . . the original Mr. Lucky . . . a nothing whose temperament is larger than his talent . . . a surly sorehead . . . the living proof that anyone can become a star on TV so long as he has two eyes."

Seemingly from nowhere, but in reality from the basic depths of man's contradictious human nature, Vince's fame as the churlish, ill-tempered neurosurgeon, Ben Casey, has won an army of detractors, largely male.

The actor's agent, a super-shrewd cookie named Abbe Greshler, explains the antagonism in terms of economics. "Vince," he points out, "will probably earn a million dollars in 1964 or close to it. For a guy from Brooklyn who used to dig ditches not so long ago, this is pretty good pickings, and lots of people resent it.

"Let me show you just how great this guy is doing," Greshler pridefully continues. "To begin with, on the TV show he gets from $350,000 to $400,000 a year. In addition, he owns 12.5 per cent of the program outright. He also owns half of the merchandising. Very few shows lend themselves to merchandising, but we have Ben Casey doctor's kits, charms, blouses, pajamas, magazines, comic books.

"Then there's the very important element of nonexclusivity which I obtained for him. Bing Crosby Productions owns the Ben Casey show, but they had to agree to close down for six weeks so Vince could go over to Europe last year and star in a motion picture, The Victors, with Rosanna Schiaffino (see cover). He filmed for a little less than five weeks, for which I got him $100,000.

"Now he's up for three more films, all class productions: The Chase for Sam Spiegel, Catch-22 for Columbia, and Ship of Fools for Stanley Kramer. We turned down Youngblood Hawke for $200,000, so that'll give you some idea of his present movie salary.

A HIT AT LAS VEGAS

"In addition," Greshler goes on, "Vince is now a full-fledged night-club attraction. He opened in Las Vegas this year, getting $38,500 for the package, and he wowed 'em. Not everyone can afford Las Vegas prices, so we're booking him for five or six weeks at different spots at $25,000 per week.

"I guess you've heard of the Sony Corporation in Japan—electronics. They've offered Vince $100,000 anytime he wants to come to Japan. From Australia we've got a $50,000 offer. And I don't know if I've mentioned Vince's record album income. But his first album brought in close to $100,000 myalty money. He's also been paid $10,000 for by-lining a few articles.

"Now what I contend," says Greshler, "is that many people out here are jealous, particularly those who haven't done as well as Vince, and how many have? Not only that, but the boy has a fine head on his shoulders. He doesn't make many mistakes. When it comes to money he's careful and conservative.

"He employed a very fine firm of accountants, Arthur Young & Co., and they've arranged payments from the TV show so that Vince has absolute financial security for the next 14 years. He's assured, come hell or high water, of receiving a certain number of dollars every week.

"Edwards is the kind of guy who—although he's made it—wants to make sure he's made it. This guy doesn't have very many weaknesses, and that doesn't sit so good with the people out here who are constantly looking to tear him down. They are simply jealous because his earning power has zoomed so tremendously in the past two years."

A fundamental law in the psychology of man is that we always tend to do what makes us feel superior. If Vince Edwards is successful, many of his contemporaries, failures by comparison, downgrade his acting ability in order to feel superior. Those most envious of Edwards are those who feel most deprived of accomplishment or feminine admiration. In order for a man to like himself, he must achieve.

Vince Edwards is widely admired by women, because women are psychologically attracted to goodness, and on the TV screen, Ben Casey is the good surgeon, the life-saving doctor in sterile armor. Women do not need achievement to feel fulfilled. What they need is to identify with someone or something good, which in a way is why they like jewelry. They bask in its radiance. To women, Vince Edwards represents strength, goodness, accomplishment, virility and reliance—the good doctor—which is why they regard him not with jealousy, but with love.

What is Vince Edwards really like, and what has success done to him?

He is a kind, personable and friendly bachelor—not at all like the surly, sullen, forthright surgeon you see on TV. A big man (6-feet-2) with the gym-trained musculature of a veteran athlete, he is surprisingly more intellectual than he looks. Well educated (Ohio State, and the University of Hawaii, where he majored in swimming), he speaks fluently and grammatically on a wide variety of subjects ranging from esoteric philosophy to the fragile poetry of Emily Dickinson.

Basically a searching, introspective person, he goes to a psychoanalyst from time to time "in order to get to know myself."

Ask him a simple question: "Do you handle success better than you did failure?" And he thinks a moment, his green eyes growing meditative, then replies in a throaty voice tainted ever so lightly by a Brooklyn accent:

"It's much more difficult to handle success. With failure I had no responsibility except to myself, so I just drifted along. But with success, especially on television, a performer finds suddenly that he has many responsibilities. You have a public responsibility, a social responsibility; you have responsibilities to your work, to the people you are involved with—the company, the network, your colleagues. If you're delinquent in your responsibility, costs mount up.

THE COST OF SUCCESS

"The result," Vince continues, "is that success changes your behavior pattern. In the old days I could date any girl I wanted, providing she wanted me, and we could go to a movie or a night club, do whatever we liked, and no one cared. Now, believe it or not, I can't go for a walk on Hollywood Boulevard. I can't go to a movie on Saturday nights. I can't take a girl into an ice-cream parlor. I can't go to Disneyland without getting mobbed. I can't go to a race track without being bothered. I have to select out-of-the-way restaurants, or I become a spectacle.

"Wherever I go I have the feeling that people are watching me, so my behavior in public has to be like Caesar's wife, beyond reproach. The truth about me is that I'm a guy who likes to live and have a good time. I'm gregarious as hell, not tight-lipped. I enjoy my work.

In scene from Ben Casey show Vince Edwards, as Dr. Casey, visits young patient, played by Patty Duke.

and I like playing night clubs and establishing a rapport with a live audience. Maybe I'm introspective and moody once in a while—who isn't? But I'm not the surly character reporters have written about. I'm not a hostile, screwed-up guy. Occasionally I visit an analyst, not because I need the therapy, but merely to explore different facets of my mind. In this business you can lose your true identity overnight, and I'm not about to do that. I know who I really am."

Vince Edwards is really Vincento Zoino, the youngest of seven children—he's a twin—of Vincento and Julia Zoino, Italian immigrants. His father, now dead, was a construction laborer on the New York subways who tried as best he could to raise his family in a cold-water flat, in the Murder, Inc., district of Brooklyn. It was from this area that many of today's Mafia killers sprung, and it was with them that Vince was raised.

Even on stage Vince Edwards, 33, and still a bachelor, is shown exercising his magic powers over the fair sex.

Were environment the major conditioning factor of his life, he should be behind bars today. But in his case, his mother, an iron-willed woman fiercely determined to have her sons rise above their heritage, pulled Vince off the neighborhood streets at night, made him study and account strictly to her for his time.

Vince was sent to East New York High School, where he took a vocational course in aviation mechanics. But what got him into college was his swimming ability. He worked summers as a lifeguard and in 1946 won the Metropolitan A.A.U. 100-meter backstroke title. On the strength of that, Ohio State gave him a scholarship. "Otherwise," he says, "I couldn't have afforded college."

After two years at Ohio, Edwards transferred to the University of Hawaii so he could practice swimming all year around and qualify for the Olympic team. He was no great shakes as a student, wandering from one course to another, not really knowing what he wanted to specialize in. One summer he worked as a lifeguard at the Olympic Hotel in New York's Borscht Circuit. He filled in as an emcee and part-time entertainer. The following fall, when he returned to Hawaii, he decided to join the University of Hawaii Players and the Honolulu Community Theater.

He then decided to become an actor. He quit school and enrolled in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts along with Grace Kelly, John Cassavetes and Anne Bancroft.

For the next 11 years he liced the haphazard life of the struggling actor—chorus boy in High Button Shoes, the road company of Come Back, Little Sheba, television, a six-month contract with Hal Wallis, tours in theatrical stock companies, singing in night clubs—an actor on the prowl for "just one good break," disgruntled, frustrated, depressed, angry, unfulfilled, haunted by the feeling that "time was running out and I was going nowhere in a hurry," a hungry, hard-up actor finding escape in women, autos, airplanes.

Out of left field in 1961 came the long-sought "break." As Abbe Greshler tells it, "Ben Casey was originally called The Doctors. The idea for the TV series came from Jim Moser, who had previously written the Medic series. One day Howard Koch, who works for the Sinatra company and had been borrowed by Bing Crosby Productions to put Casey together, phoned me. 'We gotta have a guy,' he said. 'Got any suggestions?'

"I said, 'How can I suggest when you guys are hoarding the script and won't let anyone see it?' So they sent the script, and I read it, and I knew right away that Ben Casey was Vince Edwards, because they didn't want a pretty boy, they wanted a rugged guy. And Koch said, 'I think you're right. Bring him in tomorrow.'

"We tried to find Vince," Greshler explains, "and that was never an easy job. The guy knows six hundred thousand dames; he's also a motorcycle and sports enthusiast. We found him on a motorcycle track in Artesia. I sat him down in my den and said, 'Now read this. This is you.' So he read the script and agreed I was right, and the next morning I took him down to Desilu Studios and Howard Koch was there and Bob Coryell and Fielder Cook, the director, and they all agreed Vince was Ben Casey, but they wanted to make a test. I'm against screen tests, so I said, 'I'll tell you what. I'll send over some film from The Deputy,' a TV thing he had done. They liked it, and that's how Vince got the part. We signed originally for $1,750 plus 100 per cent residuals, but soon Vince was earning $3,000 a week because of overtime. Then when I saw how hot he was, six weeks after the show went on the air, I started getting calls from all over the country. They wanted Vince to make personal appearances. I renegotiated the deal."

STILL UNSPOILED

That was two years ago. Despite the fabulous financial and popular success these years have brought, Vince Edwards remains remarkably unspoiled. He still lives in a one-bedroom hillside Hollywood house. He pays the gardener $10 a month, which will give you a small idea of how large the place is. He works hard five days a week, employs two secretaries to handle his mail, doles out money and jobs to "fellows who knew me when," is partial to the company of women, "because I had a happy rapport with my mother as a child. I identify with her, and to me women seem like good and noble creatures."

"If you think women are such good and noble creatures," I asked him, "how come you're 33 and you've never married?"

"Well," Edwards confessed, "I'm apprehensive about marriage, because right now I don't have the time for it. After all, things are going pretty good for me, and in this business a fellow's got to make it while he can."

The truth about TV's Ben Casey and marriage, however, is that he's got more women pursuing him than he knows what to do with. Says Benny Goldberg, a former boxing champion who works for Vince, "This guy would have to be nuts to get married. He already owns the world's largest harem. There are 20 million dames in this country completely gone on him. Many of 'em actually believe he's a doctor. Only the other day we got a special delivery air mail letter from some dame in Dallas. She said she'd been wanting to have a baby for the past 15 years and no one could help her. Wouldn't Vince be a good physician and take her case? She'd love to have a little Ben Casey."

FRUITFUL YEARS. At what age does the typically successful American earn most money? Statistics taken from a large group of successful men show that total income received up to age 40 barely equals the income received during the next 6 years. The major accumulation period is almost invariably after age 55. In short, money comes with age when there isn't much time left to enjoy it.

POWER SHIFT. The design of the postwar world is changing. Its domination by the two great powers, the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R., is being challenged. Communist China feels strongly that it should usurp the leadership of the Red nations. Between the U.S. and France lies profound disagreement as to role and purpose. As a fledgling nuclear power, France proposes to lead a European coalition headed by itself and Russia. When China achieves a nuclear posture, its protective dependence on Russia will cease. What bothers us and the Russians, now that we have signed a nuclear test ban, is how to curb the spread of nuclear weapon experimentation by other nations. Can we and the Russians say to China or Israel or Egypt, "Nuclear weapons in your hands are too dangerous. We forbid them."? The days of the Cold War may be ending. To prevent a world holocaust brought on by other nations, we and the Russians may well find ourselves in the same bed. Certainly we are heading in that direction.

PHONEY WINE. Until a few weeks ago Italian wine bottlers were under no obligation to prove that their bottles contained the type of wine claimed on their labels. In recent years, for example, it's been estimated that one-third of Italy's wines came not from grapes, but from dates, figs, dried apples, synthetic alcohol and beans used for feeding horses. Hundreds of bottles labeled "Chianti," an exclusive product of Tuscany, contain a liquid which is anything but and comes from everywhere but Tuscany. The fraud has now become so outrageous that the Italian Ministry of Agriculture has proposed the first nation-wide census of wine growers and the types of wine they produce.

PRISON RULED OUT. Conscientious objectors to French military service will no longer be imprisoned. Instead they will be assigned noncombatant or civilian jobs for twice the normal military enlistment period of 18 months.

EFFECT OF HORROR FILMS. What is the effect of horror films on children? Dr. Frederick Wertham, psychiatrist and author, believes that violence on TV and in motion pictures has made the average U.S. child indifferent to human suffering, has contributed to the rise of crime by the young. "Thirty years ago," Dr. Wertham says, "a person who committed murder was at least 17 or 18. Today it is not uncommon to see murderers of 12 and 13, while children 8 and 9 are found torturing each other and committing acts of sadism." In refutation, Herman Cohen, Hollywood producer of horror films, says, "I'm performing a public service because my horror films provide a healthy way of releasing fear and tension." Cohen, who produces such films as I Was a Teen-Age Frankenstein, How To Make a Monster, Werewolf and others of that type, explains that by participating vicariously in on-screen violence, children rid themselves of their own violent and hostile impulses.

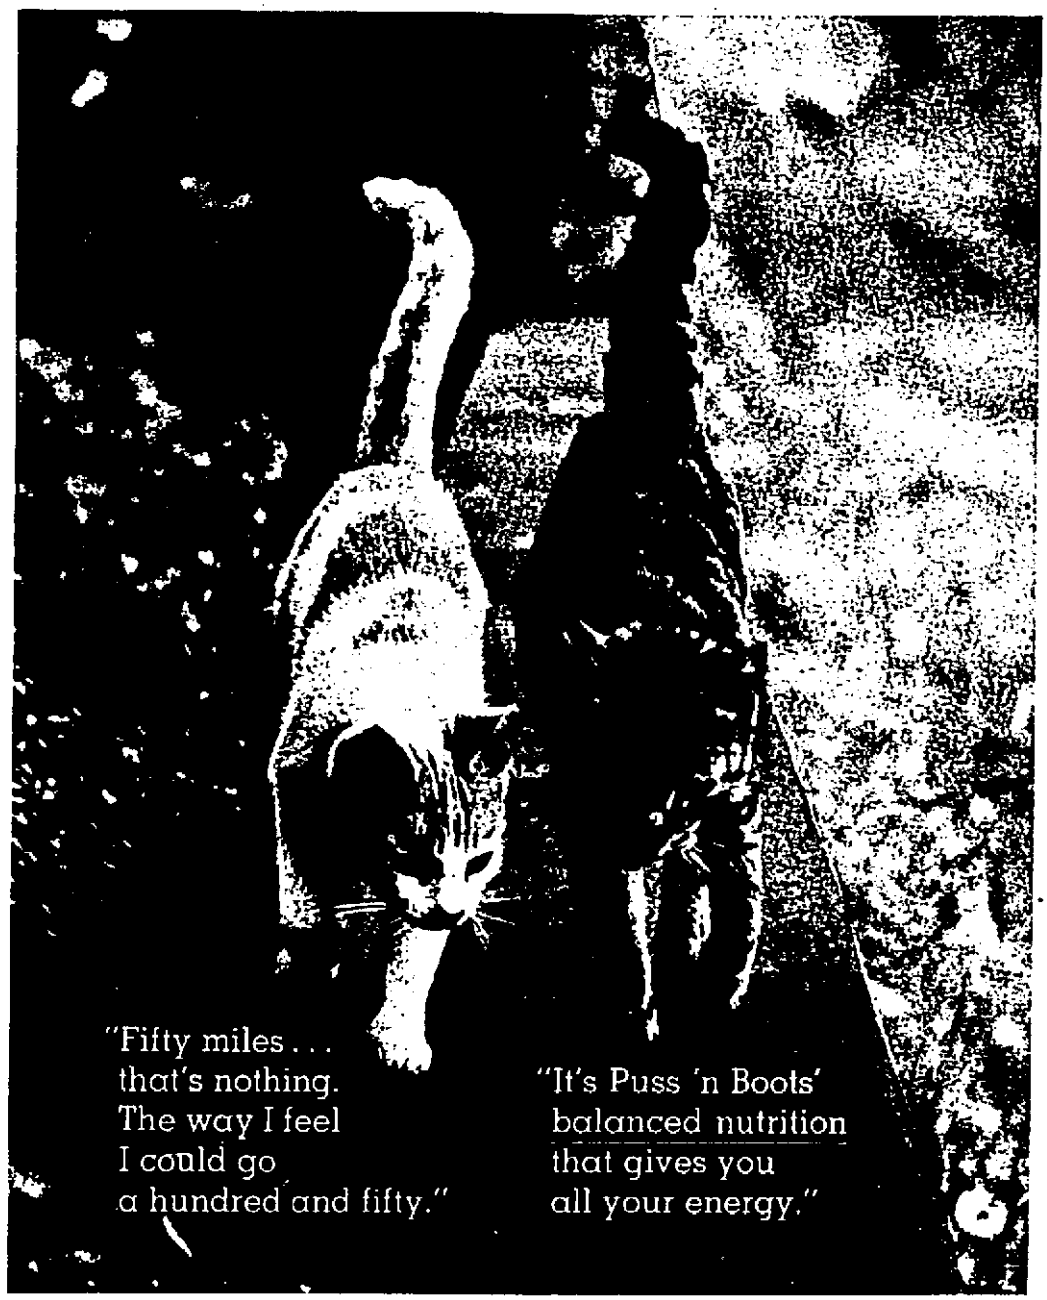

VINCENT PRICE IN HAUNTED PALACE SCENE.

SCOTCH-DRINKERS. Americans are the world's biggest Scotch-drinkers. They buy about 120 million bottles per year. We consume more than half of Scotland's whiskey output, making Scotch Britain's second-largest export to America. The first is machinery.

WEATHERVANE. If times are good for the auto industry, it follows that the nation's economic health will also be good. Reason: autos consume 1/5 of this nation's steel, 45% of its lead, 60% of its rubber, large percentages of its glass, zinc, nickel and aluminum.

HEADACHE?

If you've never tried Alka-Seltzer you don't know how speedy relief can be!

For speedy relief, take Alka-Seltzer. Unlike pain pills, Alka-Seltzer is already a liquid when you take it. Ready to go to work instantly to soothe and settle.

Alka-Seltzer provides the effective pain-reliever, sodium acetylsalicylate, in a completely dissolved solution. In the first ten minutes—when you really need it—the system quickly absorbs more of this Alka-Seltzer pain-reliever.

When you want a modern effective pain-reliever (and a soothing stomach alkalizer) take two Alka-Seltzer tablets.

NOBEL PEACE PRIZE WINNERS ANSWER THE QUESTION:

IS PEACE IMPOSSIBLE?

What is the path to peace? And can the world ever walk down that path?

In this thermonuclear age, this is the foremost question before all governments and all mankind. Agreement on an international test-ban treaty has offered the world a glimmer of hope, but all humanity knows that complete peace and tranquillity are still far away.

In the world one group of men have made this question a matter of special concern. They are holders of the Nobel Peace Prize, awarded yearly under a trust from late Swedish munitions-maker Alfred Nobel.

From the wisdom of these men might come the fresh start the world needs toward international peace. With this in mind, PARADE asked each for their ideas "of preserving peace and saving the world from nuclear war."

The answers of four of these men follow. And in their words may be the impetus the world needs to carry it to a final end to nuclear peril and tension.

LORD BOYD ORR, British agricultural and health expert, received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1949 for work as head of the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization.

"The two biggest problems facing our civilization today are the armaments race and the increasing poverty of the poor continents. I suggest that these evils should be made to cancel each other out:

"America and Russia, who are both anxious to avoid suicide in a nuclear war but cannot agree on terms of disarmament, should agree to reduce their military budgets by, say, 10 per cent and devote half of the savings to an international fund, to be managed by businessmen on business lines. This fund would give long-term credit to the poor countries to enable them to import food and the industrial products needed to improve agriculture and set up allied industries.

"This would change the conflict between East and West, with the threat of mutual destruction, to co-operation for mutual benefit."

FATHER DOMINIQUE PIRE, a Dominican priest, won a Nobel Prize for aid to war refugees and for his organization, "World of the Heart," sponsoring international goodwill.

"I believe that peace is not merely the absence of war, the 'silence of cannons,' the mere presence of two hostile disarmed people. Indeed, a disarmed man has not become a better man. Therefore peace is, above all, something positive.

"There are three paths to peace. The first, based on mutual distrust, is to arm.

"The second path, based on trust, is nonviolence. Its weakness lies in the fact that nonviolence presumes that one's opponent is trustworthy.

"The third and best path is based on the fight against a priori distrust.

"Such a short message, unfortunately, does not give us time to state all the essential facts about fraternal dialogues. But I can give my readers three concise sentences. The first comes from my friend Dr. Albert Schweitzer, who said to me, 'The best work for peace is to fight against preconceived mistrust.' The second, from an Orthodox friend, sums up how to practice Fraternal Dialogue: 'Men know and esteem each other by working together at something useful.' The last shows the importance of Fraternal Dialogue. 'If the atomic bomb falls on the world tomorrow, it is because you quarreled with your neighbor today.'"

PHILIP NOEL-BAKER, member of Parliament, political philosopher, is the British Labor Party's expert on disarmament and the United Nations. He received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1959.

"'Wars begin in the minds of men,' says the preamble to the Statute of UNESCO. And it continues: 'It is in the minds of men, that the defenses of peace must be constructed.' In the minds of men, not presidents and senators and ambassadors alone, but every reader of PARADE.

"In 1963, with nuclear armaments piling up throughout the world in fabulously greater quantities every year, men on both sides of the Iron Curtain need to examine very carefully what is in their minds.

"What are the illusions that threaten to become the unseen assassins of the human race? In the East, the Russians and the Chinese believe the Eastern capitalists are preparing to wipe out their Communist regimes. They can quote all too much history to support this view, but it is an illusion all the same.

"It is an illusion to believe, as many Communists profess to believe, that the Western people will ever abandon democratic rights and institutions. It is, furthermore, an illusion to believe that the German nation can be permanently divided.

"But we in the West have our illusions too. We speak of 'the horrors of Communism.' But we forget that the Russian people knew no democracy or freedom under the Czars nor did the Chinese people under their emperors.

"It is an illusion to believe that more bombs will make the Western nations safer. It is an illusion to believe that a viable society would survive a large-scale nuclear war or that democracy would survive.

"It is an illusion to believe that ideologies and economic systems can be contained, still less defeated, by military force. And it is an illusion to think that the ordinary citizen can do nothing about the arms race. It will end at once if enough people show they want it to.

"The only hope lies in the general and complete disarmament, under international control, which all the Western governments have declared to be their aim. Our hope of safety lies in the popular support which that policy receives."

ALBERT SCHWEITZER, philosopher, physician, musician, writer, operates a hospital for Africans in Lambarene, Republic of Gabon. His prize came for humanitarian works.

"It has been reckoned that with the powerful and numerous atomic weapons which East and West today have at their disposal, the death toll on the first day of a war would be more than 200 million people. Therefore, a political problem between them can no longer be important enough to be the cause of an atomic war. Any policy which does not take into account this horrible power of extermination is a policy of adventure.

"If we are to once again lead a civilized existence, nothing remains for us but to resolve to abolish atomic weapons.

"The big problem in negotiations about abolition of atomic weapons is that neither of the parties feels the other to be trustworthy. To set up controls is no way to replace mutual confidence. Mutual confidence can only be achieved through strong public opinion.

"There has been an effort to pursue political ends without the backing of public opinion. This is impossible with such a grave issue. If governments would let a public opinion grow up on this issue then agreement over the abolition of atomic weapons would come about naturally."

Does The Bible CONTRADICT Itself?

You might think so, from the variety of meanings people take from it today.

Divorce and remarriage, for example, is widely prevalent among Christians. And some try to justify it by Holy Scripture. Yet Jesus said: "What God has joined together let no man put asunder" (Mark 10:2-12). St. Paul tells us: "For the married woman is bound by law while her husband is alive ...that a wife is not to depart from her husband; and if she departs she is to remain unmarried..." (Rom. 7:2-3).

Confession to a priest is scoffed at by many Christians. "We confess our sins to God," they say. But if Jesus wanted us to confess directly and privately to God, why did He say to the Apostles: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost; whose sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose sins ye retain they are retained" (John 20: 21-23)?

The Bible says that Christ did establish a Church. For He told His Apostle Simon: "...thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." But what church is it? Did Christ mean that just any church was His Church? Or did He give His Church marks by which men might recognize it?

All Christians agree that faith in Christ is absolutely essential to salvation. But some believe that faith is the only essential. Catholics believe the words of St. Paul that God "...will render to every man according to his deeds" (Rom. 2:6)...and the words of Jesus: "Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of My Father" (Matt. 7:21).

Christians also take from the same words in the Bible, varied and often conflicting opinions on many things—for example: on the need for and effects of Baptism, and the real or symbolic Presence of Christ in the Eucharist. Is it any wonder that sincere people, trying to understand what Christ meant to tell us, are confused?

Catholics are often accused of opposing the Bible. This, of course, is ridiculous, for the Catholic Church is the mother of the Bible. And Catholic teachings are sometimes called "unscriptural", which will be found equally untrue by anyone who takes the trouble to investigate.

We believe that a correct understanding of Catholic teaching will bring new joy and understanding to all who truly seek Christ's way. Our free pamphlet on several Bible questions commonly misunderstood by many will come to you immediately, and nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. PR-42.

the cult of Barbra Streisand

Barbra Streisand sings at the Basin Street East.

In today's show business world, thousands of girl singers are offered at eight cents a dozen.

In the face of such tremendous imbalance, what is the magic ingredient that jets one girl to the top while the others fall by the wayside?

Take Barbra Streisand, a former Brooklyn switchboard operator, currently regarded as "the hottest canary in the country." At 21, Barbra has one best-selling record album with a second on the way, a contract to star on Broadway in Funny Girl, the story of Fanny Brice, commitments to appear on the Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Ed Sullivan TV shows. She gets $5,000 a week at Basin Street East in New York, $7,500 a week at the Riviera in Las Vegas, $10,000 a week at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe. She is booked into the Hollywood Bowl with Sammy Davis, Jr., in October, and come next year, according to her agents, "will be earning somewhere between four and six hundred thousand."

More important yet, there is springing up throughout the country a Barbra Streisand cult. It consists of a growing army of followers who insist that Barbra is in the great tradition of Helen Morgan, Judy Garland, Lena Horne. What she has is talent, a singing talent born of nature and practically no training. Discovering Barbra Streisand is like discovering a geyser, the terrain is peaceful, serene, quiet, then all of a sudden—boom. The result is shock, delightful, memorable.

Barbra doesn't look particularly like a night-club singer or Broadway star. She doesn't offer the slick, polished appearance which usually characterizes such performers, although her classic face does have a kind of beauty all its own. She has a nose variously described as "aquiline," "absurd" and "the beak of an eagle." One admirer called her brown eyes "great, big and soulful," and another viewer sees them as "slightly out of focus." Her hair, once worn stringy-beatnik style, is now done by famed hair stylist Kenneth (her only concession to all the attempts to re-do her), and her gowns, while actually in the high-fashion empire style, seem not to inspire admiration in her critics, who describe them as "tentlike."

SOMEONE SPECIAL

In short, Barbra Streisand is no Marilyn Monroe. But when she comes on stage, she generates a fascinating intrigue and electricity which attract and compel your attention even before she sings a note. And when the notes do come, you realize instantly that this girl is someone special.

She offers none of the stagey mannerisms —finger-snapping, intricate dance steps and flashy turn-arounds—so common among young singers. Instead, she stands there, one small girl in a long, simple, unsexy dress, and she sings and sings and sings. The voice is true and clear, vibrant, strong, well controlled and overflowing with emotion. And you don't just hear a song—you experience the sadness and laughter, the comedy and pathos, the love and anger which must have inspired the songwriter.

Barbra's style is unforgettably hers alone. When she sings Happy Days Are Here Again, which is usually interpreted as a sprightly ditty, it comes out approaching the national anthem. And somehow you're thrilled and swept along by her surge and throbbing beat. And when she sings Coloring Book, which ends with her sitting on a tall stool bathed in a single spotlight and intoning the words, "color him gone,"—you, too, are suddenly all alone and still and silent and sad. And when she gives out with her up-beat version of Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?, you can't help but laugh with her at the zany, comic flights of song, the silly patter and most of all at her mobile, expressively funny face.

Barbra Streisand was born in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn where her father, a high school teacher, died when she was 15 months old. Her mother went to work as a bookkeeper, and there was no time, thought or money for preparing Barbra's career; the object was to stay alive. Barbra's theater training consisted of part-time study in acting schools and a few weeks of summer stock.

When she was 18, recently separated from her job as a switchboard operator and having run through her last unemployment check, Barbra entered a talent contest in a Greenwich Village bar—as a singer, though she had never sung before—and came out the winner. The prize was a week's engagement (which stretched into three) at a small Village night club. This led to an audition at the Bon Soir, a basement club where she was hired at $125 a week and kept on for 11 weeks. "But I didn't regard that as really serious," Barbra recalls. "I didn't get managers and agents and all that jazz."

After a few months of haphazard employment—singing engagements in Detroit, St. Louis and back to New York at the Bon Soir and The Blue Angel, and TV appearances on the Jack Paar and Mike Wallace shows—Barbra got her second break. She was asked to audition for the ingenue part in the Broadway musical, I Can Get It For You Wholesale. But her comic expression and kooky "I can take it or leave it" attitude won her, instead, the comedy part of Miss Marmelstein, a frenzied secretary in the garment industry. The play opened in March 1962, and ran for nine months, thanks mostly to the brilliant talents of this offbeat wack from Brooklyn.

THE TASTE OF HONEY

Once the show closed, Barbra was swamped with offers from night clubs, recording companies, stage and TV producers. For her the taste of honey came quickly and easily, without the usual trauma of endless auditions and rejections and without the adjustment of her style and personality to suit the so-called demands of today's listening and watching audience.

"I didn't have to struggle in a dirty saloon," says Barbra. "I would never do that. I couldn't give away my pride, you know, like standing around in offices and auditioning and all that. I just am not built that way. I'd rather give it up and become a beachcomber. I somehow missed the area of $500-a-week singing and made the jump from a very small salary to a very large one."

When asked why she thinks major success has met her so quickly, she says: "I don't really know. When I first started singing, I just sang naturally. I can't stand phony theatricality, and I never had to do anything that I didn't want to do. I would never bastardize anything that I believe in. I just do what I feel is right, and don't care about anybody else. I was never biased by someone else's performance, because I was never in a night club before I sang in the Village. So when I sing, it's what I feel about the song—a spontaneous kind of thing—that comes out, and that, I guess, it what people are ready for. I'm not sure."

Along with her new-found fame, Barbra has a further reason for contentment these days. In March she married Elliot Gould, the handsome leading man of Wholesale. His love has erased some of the insecurity of her former years and, along with her increasing maturity, has calmed down some of her earlier "kookiness," a front for her basic shyness.

She has moved from her former $67.20-a-month railroad flat with a bathtub in the kitchen to a luxurious duplex penthouse in Manhattan, but protestingly insists: "I was happy when I was poor, too. It's the same thing, you know. It's just a matter of different problems. Instead of, could I afford to take a cab, it's can I afford the new seal coat I want. I could live without the taxi then, and I can get along without the seal coat now. If success changes me at all, I think maybe it will make me a little nicer—because I've been accepted."

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by RICKI DUNN

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ricki Dunn, billed as "America's funniest pickpocket," is a magician with a flair for comedy. He opens his night-club act with clever, topical comedy patter, then inveigles half a dozen men customers to join him on stage. While he cracks jokes, he deftly steals from these men their watches, wallets, belts, suspenders—even their shirts. Dunn got his start in show business at the age of 14 working in a carnival side show as a fire-eater. Later he learned the fundamentals of pocket-picking. He combined this with humor and worked out his comedy-pickpocket act. Dunn has played the Americana in Miami Beach, the Town Casino in Buffalo, all the leading night spots throughout the nation. He says the following gags draw the maximum audience laughter:

I see James Hoffa is going to court again. Wouldn't it be funny if this were his way of trying to organize lawyers! . . . Actually, you don't realize how many lousy lawyers there are until you visit a place like Sing Sing.

My brother got the electric chair, and I went to see him on his last day. It was a little uncomfortable. Like what can you say? You can't say, "Good-by," or "So long, I'll see you around!" So I said, "Well, more power to you!"

I saw one policewoman there who was so cute that I wanted to take the law into my own hands.

I just returned from Las Vegas. That's where the dice are honest, but the people are loaded.

I know a fellow who went to Leavenworth because he was making big money—about a third of an inch too big.

"You say," said one gold digger to her girl friend, "that the check your boy friend gave you bounced?"
"Yeah," came the reply, "The check came back marked 'insufficient fun.'"

Do you know who was the greatest positive thinker in history? It was General Custer. When all the Indians were attacking, General Custer turned to his little band of men and said: "Men, don't take any prisoners!"

A girl who went bowling for the first time came to the office the following day and was elated. Her boss asked her why she was feeling so well. "I went bowling last night," she explained, "and I found out that my bowling is much better than my golf."
"How come?" asked the boss.
"Well," said the girl, "I bowled all night and didn't lose a single ball."

With women you just can't win! If you stop praising a woman, she thinks you don't love her anymore. But keep it up and she'll eventually think she's too good for you.

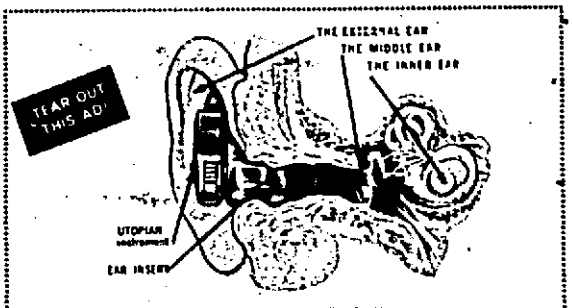

anecdote of the week

■ Asked by a PARADE reporter what primary lesson he had learned from life, comedian Red Skelton searched his memory for several minutes, finally declared: "I've learned that any kid will run any errand for you, if you ask at bedtime." ■

Hoofing It to 'Hootenanny Hoot'

THE TWIST and the Bosa Nova, America's most recent dance crazes, may be on the way out. The Watusi and Mashed Potatoes are marked for extinction, too. But don't look for a return to the waltz, the foxtrot and other steps that might not be as colorful but are a lot easier on the sacroiliac.

The youth of the land will soon be gyrating to a foot-thumping, hip-swinging, hand-clapping rhythm called the "Hootennany Hoot." It is a dance dreamed up by choreographer Hal Belfer for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new folk musical of the same name.

THE DANCE is the first specifically designed to go with the folk music trend that has swept over high school and college campuses from Nashville to New England to everywhere. And the guy or gal who can't dance it looks to be—nowhere.

"The 'Hootenanny Hoot' dance is for today," says Belfer, "yet it has its roots in music that has been alive for centuries."

The "Hootenanny Hoot," according to Belfer, has elements of hoedown, legomania (wild use of the legs), quick "rooster" movements, some eccentric steps (moving the feet in unison to travel without lifting them) and working the body so it appears a wave is going from the feet to the head.

"IF THIS SOUNDS as though the 'Hootenanny Hoot' is designed for athletes, don't give up," declares Belfer. "Anyone from 6 to 60 can perform it. Get the basic steps down and then go with it. It's easy to pick up just from seeing the film and it's made for improvisations. Whenever the spirit of the music moves you, the 'Hootenanny Hoot' will take you."

First movie to be built around folk music, "Hootenanny Hoot" will bring many stars to the screen, among them Ruta Lee, who has an important role. Beautiful Cathie Taylor, 18-year-old sensation, will sing "Ballad of the Frozen Logger," in one scene. Cute Pamela Austin also will be seen—and heard—along with such western music artists as the Brothers Four, Sheb Wooley, Johnny Cash, the Gateway Trio and Chris Crosby.

Ruta Lee has an important role in new film built around the folk music fad.

Pamela Austin will be seen and heard, as well as several western music stars.

Cathie Taylor gives out with a ballad in one of scenes in "Hootenanny Hoot."

Laboratory That Plays Detective

Carl Bjorkman, chief engineer for the Long Beach testing laboratory, runs a soil test as one of assignments.

By John P. Webster

FEW WILL deny that some of the happiest hours in any kids' life are spent making mud pies. But for men to do this in all seriousness and to get paid for it by the City of Long Beach—well, this calls for some answers.

Carl A. Bjorkman, chief engineer for the testing laboratory of the department of engineering, actually makes mud pies, but with clinical precision. It is an important phase of testing soils, known as the Atterberg Series, used to determine how any given soil will react to moisture.

One phase of this test, called the "Liquid Limit," shows exactly when a soil ceases to be a solid and becomes a liquid. From an engineering viewpoint, this is important in constructing an airport runway, a road, or figuring out what type of foundation a new home requires.

OF COURSE, soil has other uses. Sometimes it even grows grass and, unfortunately, crabgrass. Gramps used to feel the soil and hold up a wet finger, then sprinkle lime on the garden. Not so the city. Having a palm tree, or some grass, to plant, the tester finds out what chemicals are needed to make that particular plant flourish. Digging some soil from where the planting is to be done, he sends it to the laboratory. They determine what should be added to produce best results. Fertilizers are tested to be sure they are chemically correct.

Sometimes Bjorkman's lab is called upon to play detective. Often this has to do with water, in one way or another. On one occasion last winter, a property owner complained that a storm drain was leaking water into his basement. The engineers soon determined that the drain was below the basement level. Since water is not noted for running uphill, the dampness could hardly come from this source. Lab men ascertained that the water was quite pure. Further detective work disclosed that the roof had sprung a leak, and rain water was running down into the basement. The roof was patched and the mystery was solved.

BJORKMAN also cited the case of a parking lot at the foot of Signal Hill. The lot was well paved, but before long a small part sank several inches. This the contractor repaved, only to have it sink again and again. Once more the lab came to the rescue. This time strong traces of iodine showed in the water in the hole. Since iodine is usually found in oil-bearing water, the source was soon located. A drain pipe from an old storage tank on Signal Hill terminated beneath the parking lot. This was changed, and everyone was happy.

Actually, the lab not only plays a vital part in protecting everyday health and safety, it also saves taxpayers a lot of money annually. Paints used on streets and signs are checked for durability. Rotary brushes on street sweepers are tested for longevity. You name it—you'll find that the lab sees that taxpayers get the best for their money.

It is interesting to note that the lab tests the atmosphere constantly, thus keeping a sensitive finger on the smog pulse. When industry changed from fuel oil to gas last March, the level of impurities in the air dropped from 299 to 58 micrograms per cubic centimeter in a day or two.

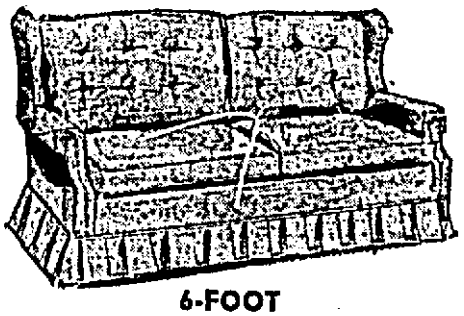

THE LAB can test almost anything to protect the tax dollar and the city's health and safety. The stuff that makes children's ice-cones look pretty has been tested. So has the additive that makes cream whip easily. Should tile start falling off a bathroom wall, the inspector can have the lab test to determine if the right stickum was used to hold it in place.

But back to mud pies: don't worry if you've forgotten how to make them. Page 1291 in the Manual of the American Society for Testing Materials will give you the recipe right down to the size of each grain of dust used and how long to bake it. However, you may run into trouble with the water. The book calls for absolutely pure water, just like the laboratory uses.

So, who's for a game of pattycake today, instead of mud pies?

California's major attraction for Fall

Granddaddy of the Fairs

Happy days of the Los Angeles County Fair are near again, starting Friday and running through Sept. 29. This is a view of monorail and one of main thoroughfares.

Harness, quarter horse and thoroughbred racing, with pari-mutuel wagering, is a Fair feature, daily except Sunday, providing thrilling action at big grandstand.

By Bob Maxwell

HAILED AS California's major fall attraction, the Los Angeles County Fair—biggest of them all—is bubbling over with exciting exhibits and special features for its 1963 season opening next Friday in Pomona for a gala 17-day run through Sunday, Sept. 29.

This 36th annual edition of the Southland's greatest exposition will be its crowning achievement—bigger, more spectacular and more enjoyable than ever. Along with its magnitude and diversity it still retains the charm of the time-honored county fair and the hospitable atmosphere so typical of California from its earliest days.

The exposition's more than 40,000 exhibits and dramatic displays, the continuous round of thrilling entertainment and hundreds of other attractions are highlighted by the mile-long scenic monorail with air-conditioned cars that give fairgoers a thrilling bird's-eye look at the beautiful 450-acre exposition park with its 200 permanent buildings.

A HUNDRED California counties, communities and organizations display prize products of harvest and wealth of natural resources in the huge Palace of Agriculture.

A premier livestock show has the cream of western flocks and herds with the big Junior Livestock Show occupying the stage during the first seven days of the exposition and the open division livestock moving in for the final 10 days.

More than 6,000 examples of women's handiwork are enshrined in the spacious Domestic Arts Building and on the adjoining lawn, the "Lady Nimble Fingers" speed crochet contest, set for 11 a. m., Tuesday, Sept. 17, is certain to draw an enthusiastic crowd.

Last word in California living is on parade at the fair's Home Show. And an intriguing model home called "Garden Penthouse," supplements the home builders' new products exhibit hall.

A dazzling riot of floral color spotlights the Flower and Garden Show with one wing of its huge building devoted to landscaping ideas, another to latest in garden gadgets and supplies and a shaded hillside in the rear devoted to patios, swimming pools and other examples of California outdoor living.

County exposition doors open Friday in Pomona

THE IMPRESSIVE Fine Arts Building houses the exciting International Photographic Exhibition and Art-in-Action demonstrations feature leading Southland artists at work and an exciting new attraction carries the "Creating With Light" theme.

The International Building exhibits reveal glamour of foreign lands as approximately 25 nations will display examples of their arts, crafts, cultural and recreational advantages.

The Sportsman's Show fills the big Sport Plaza with its ski pool where daily demonstrations of championship water skiing, skin diving, motor boating and sailing along with other aquatic sports and entertainment thrill spectators. On display here are all kinds of sporting equipment, boats, outboard motors, the West's biggest exhibition of travel trailers, camp coaches, house cars and many other products for the world of sports and recreation.

Delightful attraction for the children as well as the grownups is the Story Book Farm where fabled animals of nursery rhymes come to life. Here also is a full size reproduction of an 1880 farm house with a real-life "farmer's wife" performing household chores of yesteryear in an authentic setting. Newest feature this year, along with several other attractions, is the "Cuddle Corral" where visiting children can actually pet tame farm animals.

POULTRY AND caged birds, rabbits, pigeons, tropical fish, hobbies, gems and minerals, dairy products and Cali-

"Art in Action" exhibits add interest to the fair and top artists of the Southland are participants in this phase. There's something to interest everyone at the big show.

One of world's largest six guns is displayed by Roger (Smoky) Hunter who made gun and who is co-captain of a team in Blue and Gray organization.

Civil War Weapons Their Target Guns

Sharpshooters in Blue and Gray

By Larry Neth

VISITORS at the Long Beach Police Pistol Range on Carson Street the third Sunday morning of each month are likely to rub their eyes and wonder if the Civil War has broken out again.

Men in Union and Confederate uniforms blaze away with muzzle-loading pistols—but at targets.

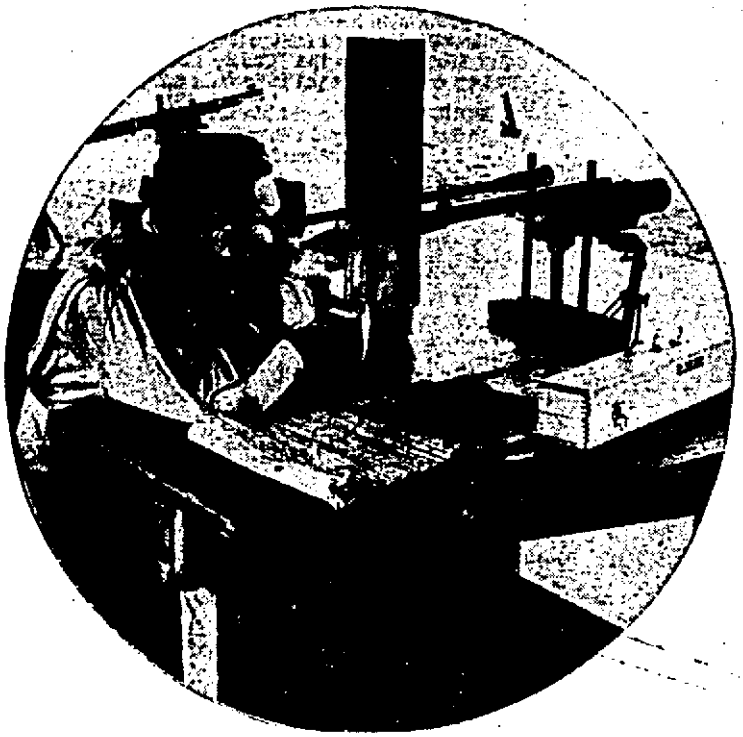

They're the Blue and Gray Skirmish Teams, founded in 1961 at the Long Beach Hobby Show, starting with four members interested in muzzle-loading guns and the Civil War, the group has grown to three teams of six men each, mostly made up of members from Long Beach and Orange County.

Their purpose, basically the same as the North-South Society in the Eastern United States:

1. Promote muzzle-loading pistol and rifle shooting through the use of Civil War weapons fired in the original manner and encourage the preservation and display of Civil War material.

2. Uphold our constitutional right to keep and bear arms by independent action and in cooperation with other organizations having the same objectives.

3. Commemorate the heroism of the men of both sides who fought in the Civil War, 1861-65, as a reminder of our American heritage.

Member of a Blue and Gray unit fires a muzzle-loading percussion weapon that is 100 years old, using 200-yard range. Civil War uniforms are worn.

THE BLUE AND GRAY marksmen come from Long Beach, Bellflower, Fullerton, Whittier, Anaheim and Santa Ana.

Each team selects an actual unit of the Civil War to copy and uniforms must be replicas of the uniforms worn by that outfit.

The three present teams: 3rd Mississippi Volunteers, a Confederate cavalry unit; Company A of the California 1st Cavalry, a Union cavalry unit; Company A of the California Volunteers for the Confederacy, a group started in El Monte and San Bernardino areas.

A fourth team, which will be a Union outfit, now is being formed.

While the usual range for the monthly shoot is 25 yards with standard National Riflemen's Association targets, twice a year the teams hold a skirmish shoot—an attempt to recreate the type of shooting done in the Civil War at actual battle range.

TWO TEAMS FIRE in competition at water-filled cans swinging on strings at 25 yards, clay pigeons at 25 and 50 yards and silhouette targets at 100 yards, balloons marking head, shoulders and body.

While most of the members joined for the experience of shooting muzzle-loading weapons, many find the study of the Civil War interesting and rewarding. Finding out just where and when a certain unit fought, tracing the origin of a piece of equipment or old weapon leads to many hours of study and discussion.

Relics that belonged to grandfathers and great-grandfathers are being dug out of trunks in attics and garages, where they have been stored for years. Members haunt second-hand stores and swap meets at drive-in theaters.

ONE GROUP is shopping for its own cannon of Civil War vintage to start an artillery team.

Because original equipment and weapons can be expensive, the majority of the members use replicas. Surprisingly enough in this age of missiles and rockets, a number of companies specialize in the reproduction of Civil War uniforms and weapons. An original Colt Navy model pistol may cost from $150 to $300 or up; a Navy Arms Co. model sells for $75 to $90. Since these guns are made of modern steel, with better workmanship, they are much safer to fire.

The author, Larry Neth, is area officer of Blue and Gray Skirmish Assn.; wears shirt and cap of team.

So there will not be an excess of "Kentucky colonels" the rank for each team is set down in the rules and by-laws. No member of any team, including the team captain, may hold rank over a sergeant-major. The only officers are the staff, or board members, who act as range officer, safety officer, secretary and treasurer.

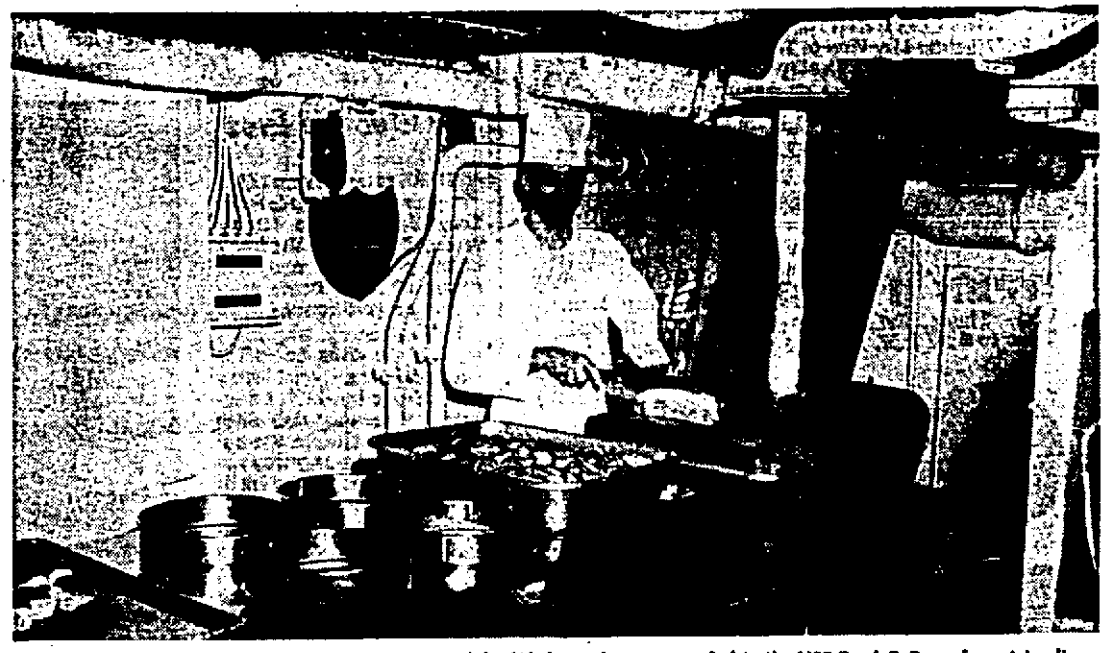

EACH NEW TEAM wishing to join must meet strict requirements. Each member must have a correct uniform, he must be able to handle his weapon safely and he must know the rules of range safety. Each team must pass an inspection by the staff to insure correct uniforms and equipment.

Only units that meet the high standards of the Blue and Gray Skirmish Teams are allowed to join. However, the members always are willing to help anyone who is interested in forming a team or joining a team.

Anyone wishing more information may attend a Sunday morning shoot (usually from 9:30 a. m. to noon the third Sunday of each month) or may contact an officer of the organization.

Also anyone who has a piece of Civil War equipment is invited to contact officers or members: The officers are Harvey Zaricor, commander, 11970 Pomering Road, Downey; Bill Pearson, adjutant, 20813 Verne St., Artesia; Burnie Conley, staff aide, 10515 Parise Drive, Whittier; Larry Neth, area officer, 9123 Hall Road, Downey.

Best Chow in the U.S. Navy

Plaque on the bulkhead back of Seaman Apprentice John W. Lavender was awarded to the USS Frank E. Evans for outstanding food service in 1962. Phone provides contact between steam line, where Lavender is slicing meat, and galley on deck above.

By Lt. (j.g.) Daniel O'Neill

HAVE YOU ever tried frying shrimp in deep fat with the floor pitching and rolling underfoot? What do you serve to keep them all happy? Hamburgers?

The USS Frank E. Evans (DD 754), a Long Beach-based destroyer, has these problems all the time. As a matter of fact, the commissarymen of the Evans have faced them so well over the past two years that the ship's general mess was picked as the best of 1,016 afloat messes this year.

Without serving hamburgers, hot dogs or even chocolate cake 365 days a year, the Evans managed to win the 1963 Edward Francis Ney Memorial Award. Winning the prize was no mean feat for the World War II destroyer. Since the award's inception in 1958, only one other destroyer type vessel—a new destroyer escort—has won. Usually one of the Navy's larger ships such as an aircraft carrier or a cruiser takes home the bronze trophy-plaque awarded by the Food Service Executives Association.

WORKING WITH an allotted $1.11 per man per day, the Evans offers a choice of two meats, several vegetables and five salads at its main meal. Its menus include a wide variety of dishes, ranging from onion soup to barbecued chicken, southern style green beans to apple pie. Special ration-dense foods are served at every meal. This food is stripped of waste and bulk for compact storage over long periods. In addition to allowing more storage space, ration-dense foods give the cooks and the crew an inkling of what to expect should wartime feeding become necessary. This gives the Navy an edge should it ever have to mobilize quickly.

Food is important on the Evans, as it is throughout the Navy, not only because of nutritional value but also because it is, or at least should be, a morale factor. At sea for long periods the men of a destroyer come to depend on good chow, attractively served, for a boost to their day-to-day existence. Baked goods are particularly helpful in this regard because, in a paraphrase, a delicious pie can cover a multitude of sins.

TO INSURE that the food served throughout the Navy is uniformly nutritious and appetizing, the Navy Subsistence Office provides a Navy recipe service. This service consists of approximately 700 recipes which cover everything from salad dressing to roast beef to breakfast rolls. Both ships and shore stations are encouraged to use these recipes but any command having its own favorite dish may submit it to the subsistence office for evaluation and inclusion in the service. Each recipe gives the necessary ingredients for 100 servings.

In addition to the recipes, the subsistence office offers sample menus with ideas for meal combinations and new foods. These menus are designed to offer a wide variety of food combinations while insuring a well balanced diet.

The Evans' Chief Commissaryman, Delfin R. Marquez, follows the Navy recipes closely but he prefers to make out his own menus. He spends about two days a week preparing a 21-meal menu.

As chief commissaryman he must also insure that the range, salad bar, dishwashing machine and all the items which pertain to a floating restaurant are working efficiently. He also inspects food handlers for cleanliness, issues the foods to be served and supervises its proper preparation.

HIS KITCHEN appliances include a grill capable of cooking 50 hamburgers at a time, an ice cream machine and four ovens. Besides hamburgers, the Evans' cooks, when the menu calls for them, fry steaks or eggs to order. During one night's baking the four ovens turn out 64 loaves of bread—enough for two meals—and a full supply of breakfast biscuits. Most of the gear was installed when the ship was built in 1944.

To support her galley while under way the Evans can carry 85 days' worth of provisions. This is stored in her 1,387 cubic feet of refrigerated storage space.

The old adage about armies certainly applies to all branches of the service. On the Evans the commissary department works hard to keep its part of the Navy running particularly well on its stomach. This year they did it better than any other ship in the Navy.

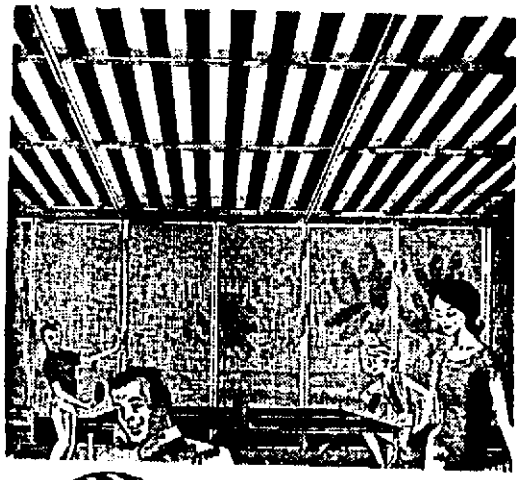

USS Frank E. Evans' mess decks, viewed across the ship's salad bar. Seating for 52 men is provided. Variety of food and appetizing service are back of destroyer's "best chow" award, an unusual honor for this type ship.

Sound With a Special Listing

By George Eres

Helen Kennedy of the Long Beach Public Library, displays a few of recordings featuring L. B. area artists.

THERE are more than 11,000 phonograph records in the Long Beach Public Library record division and the labels of many of them carry the names of Long Beach composers or performers.

Helen Kennedy, who keeps track of the discs, has culled out locals for a special listing and hopes to build this collection—not an easy task since some of the choices are out of print and the only way she can get them is for owners to come forward.

For example, records featuring Herbert L. Clarke, who is regarded by many as one of the greatest cornet artists and a one-time director of the Long Beach Municipal Band. Miss Kennedy would like to add his records to the collection.

There's "Percussion Music for Three Players," by Dr. Gerald Strang, former head of the Long Beach City College music department, a work that was recorded on a Period Label. The library had the record, but a borrower broke it. He paid for the disc, of course, but meanwhile, another recording of the work isn't easy to come by.

BUT, THERE'S a fairly good representation of area composers and artists in the collection.

Nelson Keys, former member of the City College music department, is among the most recent to be added to the section. His work, "Suite: Music for Monday Evenings," is performed by the Louisville Orchestra.

Morris H. Ruger, formerly with the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music and now a Long Beach resident, is represented by "Sonata for Piano" and "Suite No. 2 for Piano," performed by Amiram Rigai, pianist.

Marilyn Horne, Long Beach singer who went on to national fame, has "Lullabies from 'Round the World;" compositions of Gesualdo, "Prince of Madrigalists;" and "The Music of Heinrich Schutz."

ANOTHER Long Beach singer, Mallory Walker, is tenor soloist with the Robert Shaw Chorale recording of the Bach "Mass in B Minor" and his voice can also be heard on a record of "Music of Victor Herbert."

A Century Record label presents Lester Martin, tenor, singing English, Irish and Scottish ballads. Foster Rucker, known professionally as Galen Drake, former church soloist and Community Playhouse actor, now with CBS in New York, is represented with his Golden Crest album "Ten Most Requested Hymns" and Kenny Baker, a former Poly High School boy, has several records in the collection including "Babes in Toyland", (Decca) and Christian Science hymns. William Reeve is soloist with the Norman Luboff Choir on "Songs of the Sea" (Columbia).

CAMILLA WICKS, who went to school in Long Beach, is soloist with the Symphony Orchestra of Radio Stockholm on the Capitol Recording of Sibelius' "Concerto in D Minor for Violin and Orchestra."

Others on record in the "artists in residence—or former residence" section include: The New Hope Baptist Church Choir, the United Nations Choir of Long Beach; First Baptist Church organist Peter Slack; Marion Darlington Pratt (bird calls and songs on RCA-Victor's "Snow White"); Joe Stafford who appears as Darlene Edwards on a Columbia disc, "Piano Artistry of Jonathan Edwards;" Bernard Wilets' opera "Bontche Schweig;" and a group of recordings of various Long Beach State College musical groups.

NOT IN THE LIBRARY collection, recordings of works of two Long Beach State College music department staffers: Dr. Leon Dallin and Frank Pooler. Dr. Dallin's "Songs of Praise" for chorus and orchestra, were recorded on a Recorded Publications label by the Brigham Young University Chorus and orchestra and his "Sierra" (Century Records) by the Brigham Young University Band. Pooler's Columbia recording is "A Child Is Born" performed by the Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir. Two of his works are out of print—the cantata "America Was Promises" (WGN Label) and "Gird Yourself With Lamentations" (Opal).

In addition to the above there are numerous Long Beach musicians who have appeared on jazz and pop records, but the library as such has no pop or jazz records—"just some of the old classics," said Miss Kennedy.

Abundant in Features for a Family's Happy Living

By Stella George

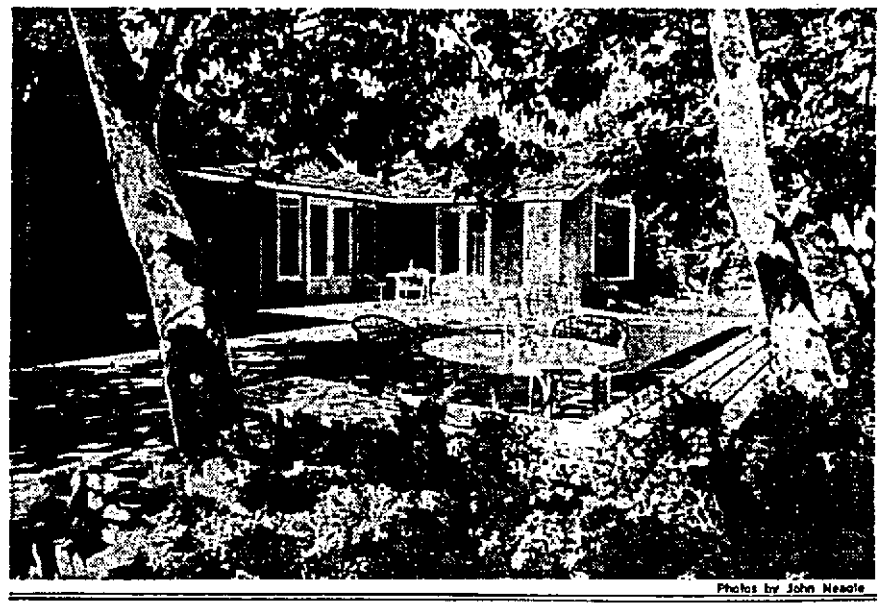

EVERY DETAIL that might add to family enjoyment and fun was incorporated into the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hebenstreit, 3425 Via Palomino, Palos Verdes Estates. Located on a tree-lined street, the home combines a multitude of outstanding features for the close-knit, happy family.

The wide driveway (or park area) in front of the home doubles as a badminton court. Typical of the Palos Verdes area, shrubs, plants, and trees are in abundance.

The wide, inviting entry views a living picture at the far end of the living room where, in an alcove, an outsize window looks out to the garden, patio, and pool. Gold and white, accented with tones of orange and brown, are used in the decor. Furnishings grouped in the alcove include a sofa which faces the garden, flanked by chairs on either side and a center coffee table. Two additional groupings in the living room center around or towards the fireplace.

THE DINING room has an air of formality which invites leisurely candle-lit dinner parties or family dinners. There is a built-in buffet and furnishings are designed to maintain space.

The kitchen is exceptionally well planned with a curved counter, serviceable and handy for quick breakfasts. Appliances are arranged so that few steps are needed to perform almost any kitchen chore. The kitchen is sparkling white, cheerful and sunny with the window above the sink viewing the trees and greenery beyond.

Adjacent to the kitchen is a long service hall with an enclosed bar, ready for adult entertaining, but out of view for the teen-age crowd. It is ideally located next to the much-used family room with its comfortable couches, TV, and fireplace.

ALMOST every room in the home, including the master bedroom, opens to the patio. The master bedroom has a private patio where adults can sit in peace and quiet while teen-agers dance on a specially designed dance floor near the pool at the far end of the garden.

Hebenstreit's private workroom is probably the envy of many of his friends. Tools are arranged in meticulous order in built-in cupboards. There is an immaculate work-bench which can double as a desk, a power saw, and all necessities and luxuries which combine to make the room an ideal retreat. The room is so large that a complete train set is permanently set up with ample space for guests to mill around.

There is no grass to mow around the home; just concrete or bricks. The landscaping includes many plants, shrubs, and trees—large and small—and an automatic watering system eliminates a tedious chore.

HINTS ON CARPET "FLUFFING" & "SPROUTING"

Fluffing, or shedding, occurs when fuzzy tuft ends that have been sheared from a new carpet work their way to the surface. These ends are sheared off during manufacturing to give uniformly even pile height. In the final processes most of these shearings are removed. However, some of them become lodged between the carpet tufts and later appear as fluffing.

Fluffing can begin at any time. With frequent vacuuming it should gradually disappear over a period of several months. This fuzz or fluff is not really part of the carpet. As it leaves, the rug will gain a new evenness of texture.

As your rug is used, a tuft may rise above the surface of the pile. During weaving, these tuft ends curl into the pile and are difficult to shear uniformly, especially in twist or frieze carpets. With use, the ends are drawn up by the vacuum cleaner and may appear to be coming loose. They are simply long ends and should be carefully clipped off at the length of their neighbors. Do not pull them out.

The Priceless Extra of Experience

Think for a moment of the many choices we make in life which are determined by our confidence in somebody's experience. Choices in important things, like selecting a doctor, a lawyer, or an investment counselor. In less important things, like having something repaired. In even minor, everyday, personal problems, where we want wise guidance. So deeply ingrained is this basis for choice in all our actions, it comes as no surprise that the Southland's wise buyers have continually sought the counsel of the area's most experienced keyboard merchant, Mr. Piano (Bob Pierce), who also had the world's first Hammond Organ, deems it a proud compliment to advise an ever increasing number of shoppers.

Split level advantages and colonial charm are united in a rare combination in this good-looking, four-bedroom home. Multi-purpose foyer room provides for expansion.

Two-Story Look That's Stylish

By Jules Loh

WITH A long porch, or loggia, extending across the front, this four-bedroom home obtains a colonial appearance uncommon among split level designs, and a garage wing on the foyer level adds to the effect.

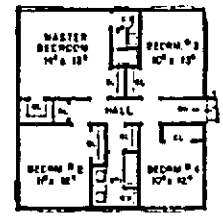

"For lasting style, it's hard to beat the two-story look," says architect Fenick A. Vogel who designed House of the Week B-96. "This home preserves the popular look and at the same time provides the advantages of split level design."

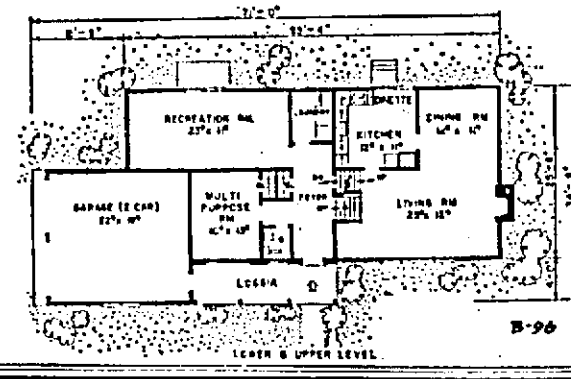

One of those advantages is clearly defined zoning, and the larger the family the more important this feature becomes because of the varied activities of all the members.

THIS HOUSE has all the formal living facilities—living room, dining room and kitchen—on one level, the informal area on the foyer level, and the sleeping area on a third level. Because of their uncluttered design, the living and bedroom levels pack an awful lot of living area into 1,540 square feet. The equally well ordered foyer level adds 802 square feet, excluding the garage, for a total area of 2,342 square feet. The basement, not included in the square footage, is located under the living level.

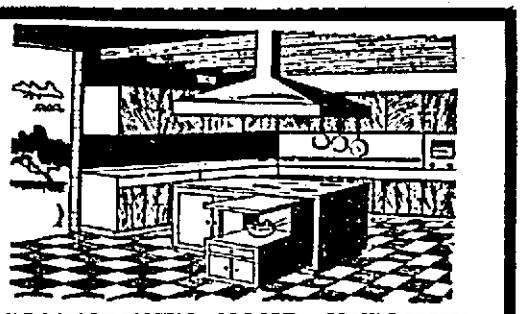

Including the garage the house is 71 feet across the front by 31 feet 8 inches in depth. Because of the location of the garage door on the side, and because the garage has the same roof line as the foyer level, the house appears even larger than it actually is.

The kitchen, 12 feet 8 inches by 11 feet 4 inches, is roomy enough for a dinette near the floor-to-ceiling slid-

Garage wing, with doors on side, make house appear larger than actual dimensions. Lower and upper level shown below. A basement, not shown, is under living level. Upper left, layout of second floor.

WILLBANKS

DRAPERIES, CARPETING ... SIGNAL HILL

Bright and efficient, this kitchen has plenty of room for a dinette, out of the way of the work area. Counter space is ample and there are 28 linear feet of cupboards.

ing glass doors—out of the way of the L-Shaped work area. There is plenty of counter space, and 28 linear feet of cabinets.

THIS HOUSE is for a large family, and the 253 square feet recreation room is an excellent asset. It has sliding glass doors out to a rear terrace or play area plus exposure on one other side. If the multi-purpose room isn't used as a bedroom, the entire 802 square foot foyer level could be regarded as an informal area.

Storage facilities in this house likewise are generous enough for a large family. Two linen closets upstairs are in addition to the bedroom closets; there is a four-foot closet in the foyer, a closet in the multi-purpose room, plus extra storage space in the oversized double garage and in the basement.

THE HOUSE has two full bathrooms plus a handy lavatory on the foyer level which is convenient both to the formal entertaining area and the family recreation room. The main bath, just a couple of steps away from all four bedroom doors, has a double sink, alcove toilet, alcove tub with overhead shower, and a linen closet just outside the door. The master bedroom has its own bath, with tub and shower and built-in vanitory.

A multi-purpose room, 10 feet 4 inches by 13 feet, gives this house a good deal of versatility. Located on the informal level, the room would serve nicely as a den, hobby room, study or what have you; and its relative isolation and convenient bath make it an excellent guest room. It also provides the house with obvious expansion possibilities if a fifth bedroom ever is needed.

The four upstairs bedrooms all are of good size, amply supplied with closet space, and all with good ventilation. Notice also that excellent sound buffers—hallway, bathroom, back-to-back closets—insulate each room from noise.

THE FRONT loggia not only provides a sheltered entrance from the garage, but also a gracious entry to the handsome foyer. Up a half flight of stairs is the living-dining room ell, 25 feet in both directions, with a grand fireplace directly opposite the stair entry.

Pardon Me! My Mistake!

By Adelaide K. Roeslein

NO ONE is perfect. That's why everyone makes mistakes. But—oh—the boners that some people pull!

Take, for instance, the two Long Beach police officers who directed a visitor from out of state to the City Animal Shelter when he reported that his car, an English Zephyr, was stolen. The poor man was confused! He went back to the two officers and explained again—slowly—that his English Ford-Zephyr had been stolen.

"Zephyr!" exclaimed the officers. "Pardon us, please. We thought you said, 'English setter'!"

And then there was the school crossing guard in Weathersfield, Conn., who was so conscientious about her job that she stopped a fire truck on its way to a fire so some children could get across the street.

AND THE Arizona taxpayer who got his letters mixed and sent a love missive written to his girl to the State Income Tax Division and his income tax returns to his girl. The tax division returned his girl's letter with a note that said an agent would be around soon to discuss any other recent mistakes he might have made. He quickly scanned the letter again—and there it was—oh, that revealing sentence! It said, "I just sent in my state taxes. Boy did I rook them! Ha, Ha."

Then there was the Southern California man who had his house rewired using fuses that did not need replacing. He thought everything was just fine. When his two little girls announced that the lights in their bedrooms were out, he very confidently went down into the basement, but found all fuses in the "on" position. Something was wrong. He called the electrician. After a quick check, the electrician announced, "I located your trouble. The bulbs were burned out."

Well, who'd expect two bulbs to burn out at the same time!

A few days later, a bulb went out at his bar. Now, he wasn't going to make the same mistake twice. No sireee! He put in a new bulb. Still no light! On his hands and knees, he checked all wires and outlets in the room. Still no light! So he called the electrician again. That very efficient gentleman went to the basement and was up in half a minute. "A fuse blew," he said, "It was in the 'off' position. I put it back on."

A woman in Edgewood, Tex., was preparing a bath for her husband, and she decided to put in "some sweet smelling stuff." He got into the tub and relaxed for only a moment and then began to yell. He was burning and turning red. His wife took another look at the bottle. It was meat tenderizer.

THE WRONG house mistake has plunged a lot of people into trouble. A man in Columbia, Mo., returned home one day to find his front porch almost demolished and a bulldozer about to finish the job on the rest of the house. He stopped them and a quick check showed they should have been tearing down a house about three blocks away.

In another case, a man in Detroit returned from a hunting trip to find a new roof on his house. It should have gone on the house across the street, but the material had been delivered to the wrong address and the job was all done. There was no charge.

In Nutley, N.J., an oil man delivered 285 gallons of oil to a house that didn't even have an oil burner, having been converted to gas heat. All that was left of the oil burner was the intake pipe, and when the delivery man spotted this, he delivered the oil which ran through and covered the basement floor. The owners were away — so police, firemen and employes of the oil company wiped up the floor.

And, speaking of embarrassing moments, in Seattle a woman was awakened by a burglar and chased him into the street. She stood outside yelling for help as he fled, until her daughter rushed out of the house shouting, Mother, mother! You don't have any clothes on!"

And a wrecker in Minneapolis bought the iron salvage rights in a fire-damaged two story building for $25. But after knocking down a lot of pipes and hauling away several loads, he discovered he was on the wrong corner of the intersection. It cost him $25,000 to restore the missing pipe and controls.

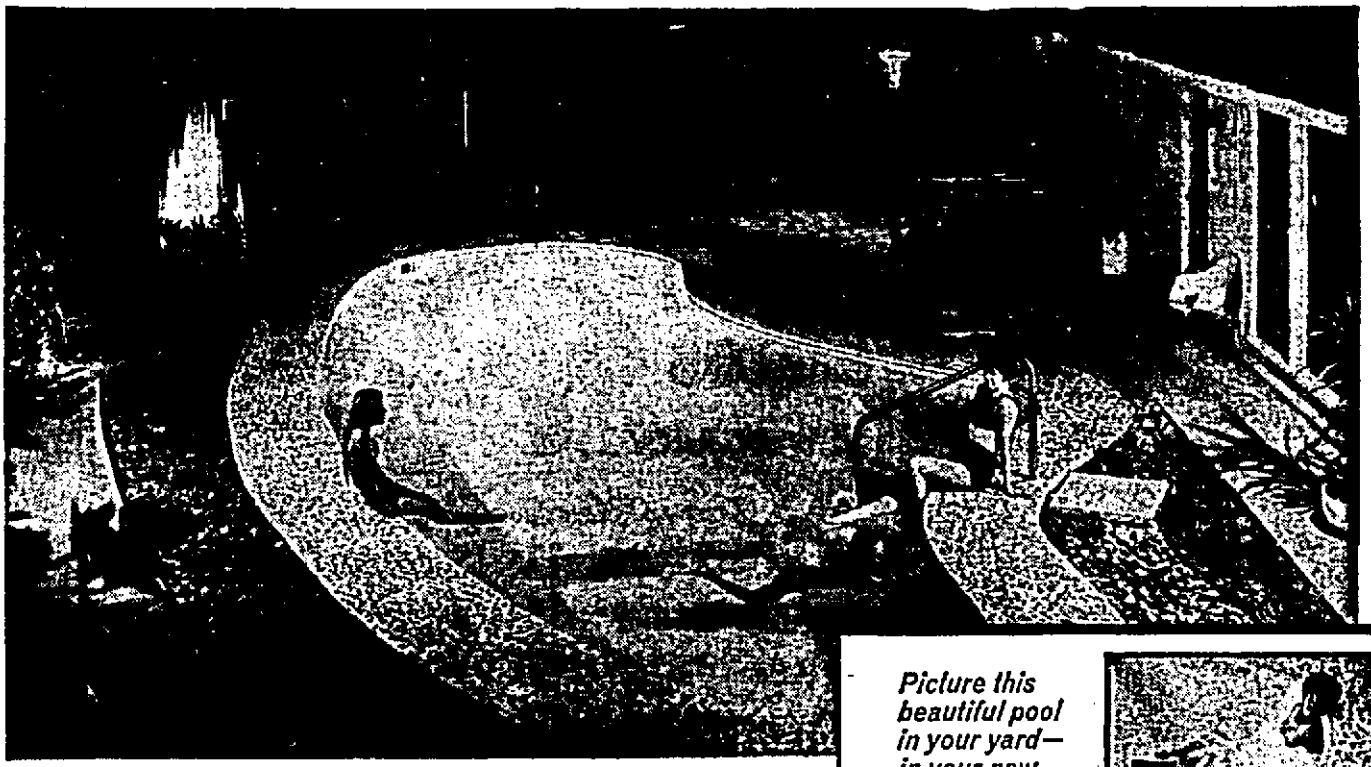

SOME MISTAKES can cause a mighty lot of trouble. Like the racing bookie in London! When Perkin Warbeck and Rodolphus were joint favorites, each paying odds of 5 to 2 in the Stuntney Maiden Stakes at Newmarket, they finished so close in the race that it was difficult to decide which was the winner. Before judges could decide, someone called out "Perkin Warbeck," and then the same news was flashed by a news agency. And so for eight minutes the bookies paid out on Perkin Warbeck. Then suddenly a correction came over the loudspeakers, "Rodolphus won. Perkin Warbeck was second." A bookie at Doncaster chased a man into the street, but he escaped with his winnings. And in hundreds of shops people who had thrown away tickets on Rodolphus got down on all fours and scrambled frantically to retrieve their now valuable tickets.

In St. Joseph, Mo., a mother took her two sons, five and ten, on a shopping tour. The five-year-old became rather obstreperous and she whispered a promise to him. He was so delighted he shouted to his brother, "Jimmy, mama says if I behave, we can go to the jail and see grandma." The mother felt herself growing hot as all eyes within hearing distance turned in her direction. But she decided there was no use explaining. They probably wouldn't even believe it if she told them that grandma worked as deputy sheriff and cook at the county jail.

After a ceremony at the White House in Washington, D.C., a woman forgot her brief case and went back for it. She opened the wrong door and found herself in the President's washroom—with the President. He politely took her by the arm and escorted her out.

Good Things Come in Pears

Ham-Beef Loaf with Pears Piquante, Pear and Tuna Salad Exotica and Pears with Cherries Jubilee demonstrate the versatility of the most elegant of summer fruits, Bartlett Pears. See recipes below.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

GOOD THINGS COME IN PEARS, especially fresh Bartlett pears—things certain to make for enthusiastic table talk every time you serve this versatile fruit.

Whether munched out-of-hand or cut into halves or wedges for breakfast fruit, salads, main dishes or desserts, the just-plain-good eating that juicy pears provide makes them one of the most sought-after delicacies of the summer and early fall.

Pears run the gamut from main dishes, to salads, to desserts, and here are some recipes as examples:

Ham-Beef Loaf With Pears Piquante

- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup crushed cereal crumbs
- 1 tblsp. instant minced onion
- 1 tsp. celery salt
- 1½ tsp. dry mustard
- 1½ tsp. summer savory or thyme
- 2 eggs
- 1 lb. smoked ham
- 1½ lbs. ground lean beef
- 3 or 4 fresh ¼ cup catsup Bartlett pears
- 1 tblsp. brown sugar
- 1 tsp. prepared horseradish

Heat milk; pour over crumbs. Add 1 onion, celery salt, mustard and savory. Beat in eggs. Grind ham and add to crumb mixture along with beef. Mix thoroughly. Shape into loaf; place in shallow baking pan. Bake uncovered in 350-degree (moderate) oven 1½ hours or until done. About 30 minutes before loaf is done, halve pears, remove cores and, if desired, pare. Mix together remaining ingredients. Spoon into pear halves; arrange around meat and continue baking. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Pear and Tuna Salad Exotica

- 2 cans (7 oz. each) solid pack tuna
- 1 cup thinly sliced celery
- 2 tblsps. pimiento strips
- 2 tblsp. slivered crystalized ginger
- 2 tblsp. thinly sliced onion
- ¼ cup toasted slivered almonds
- ¼ cup dairy sour cream
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ½ tsp. seasoned salt
- 4 or 5 fresh Bartlett pears
- Salad greens

Separate tuna into chunks. Combine with celery, pimiento, ginger, onion and almonds. Combine cream, mayonnaise and seasoned salt. Pour over tuna mixture; mix carefully. Core pears and cut into wedges with pear slicer or knife. Arrange wedges spoke-fashion on greens-lined plates; spoon tuna mixture into center of each. Serve at once. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Pears With Cherries Jubilee

- 4 to 6 fresh Bartlett pears
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup water
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 jar (1 lb., 1 oz.) dark sweet cherries
- 1 tsp. cornstarch
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ tsp. nutmeg
- 2 thin slices lemon
- 2 or 3 tblsp. Kirsch

Pare, halve and core pears. Arrange in shallow pan. Add 1 cup sugar, water vanilla. Simmer 5 to 10 minutes or until pears are barely tender. Chill. At serving time, drain and pit cherries, saving syrup. Blend cornstarch, ¼ cup sugar and nutmeg into syrup. Add lemon and cherries. Cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until sauce comes to a boil and is clear and slightly thickened. (Or cook in chafing dish at table.) Spoon 2 pear halves into each dessert bowl. Warm Kirsch, flame and pour over cherries, spoon cherries over pears. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

September Care Means Christmas Roses

Roses at Christmas—the old dream—depend largely on the care you give them in September. If you maintain the same schedule of spraying, watering and feeding which you've followed through summer (provided you have been diligent in this respect) the California Association of Nurserymen says your chances for late fall bloom are good.

Flowers should be picked as they start to fade and not allowed to form seed pods. Once a plant forms seed, it feels its work is over for the year and will taper off.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Starting at Six OK

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: "My little girl, 6, seems so young and immature to be going to first grade. Isn't 6 too soon?"

ANSWER: There has to be a starting point. And 6 is the usual age in most schools because it is an age when most children seem ready to begin settling down to classroom routine.

True, some children aren't as ready as others; some are ready much earlier than 6. To meet the problem presented by different rates of development among children, many schools "group" children in the classroom according to readiness and ability.

Parents often are unnecessarily worried about sending a child too soon. More often than not the child is ready for simple instruction. The school program takes into account that the experience is a new one. If a child is healthy and of normal intelligence, and if he has had normal cultural and economic advantages, he is probably ready for school at 6.

NOTE: It may be hard for readers of this column to believe, but there are many, many homes where children never have stories read to them and lack even such simple things as scissors and paste.

A child who has not had normal advantages in his pre-school life may profit from entering school earlier than usual in order to get the skills and experiences needed for satisfactory progress in later school years.

This possibility is being explored in a pilot study in a Pennsylvania school district. In this program children as young as 3½ years will be enrolled for school this year!

QUESTION: "My 5-year-old son is so eager to read that he asks me about the letters and words on cereal boxes at the breakfast table. What shall I do?"

ANSWER: Say a prayer of thanks, tell him what those words are, buy him some simple books, and read him some stories.

MEDICINE AND YOU

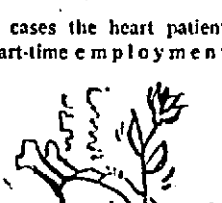

Heart Cases Activity Favored

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical Science Writer

HEART ATTACK victims, barring complications, should return to work within three months and reach full working capacity within six, recommends the World Health Organization.

In extreme cases the heart patient should seek part-time employment rather than falling into a sedentary life at home.

Stay-at-home activity—housework, gardening, taking walks—requires as much energy as that needed in clerical work and many industrial jobs, the WHO says.

TOXICOLOGISTS recently had a tough case: Three elderly Canadian couples suffered a violent digestive upset after eating a turkey dinner—but no evidence of poisonous micro-organisms could be found.

The investigation eventually turned to the onions in the turkey dressing. One of the "onions" proved to be a daffodil bulb, an item that can cause food poisoning.

FINAL PROOF of whether a drug causes birth defects in man must be sought in man, says a renowned birth-defects specialist.

Dr. F. Clarke Fraser of McGill University, Canada, insists that animal experiments are no safeguard whatsoever.

The reaction of one species of animal to a drug may vary from that of another species. Example: Cortisone causes cleft palate in mice and rabbits—but not in rats.

A BRITISH doctor says there are no psychiatric grounds for committing an abortion.

Dr. Myre Sim of United Birmingham Hospitals says abortion can't prevent a possible mental disturbance from occurring in the expectant mother. Instead, abortion may trigger a severe disturbance.

"Pressure may be brought to bear on the psychiatrist to recommend termination (of pregnancy)," Dr. Sim states. "He may be told the patient is threatening suicide."

Nonsense, says Dr. Sim. Suicide is less a risk in pregnant women than in non-pregnant women.

ANYONE who suffers a kidney injury, even though it appears to be minor, should be checked periodically by a physician for at least five years.

The advice is that of Dr. John F. Patton, Washington, D. C., a consultant to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Complications may occur months or even years later, Dr. Patton explains. He recommends, among other measures, a check of the blood pressure annually for five years.

A TEST of the once-and-for-all type for the drug procaine to see if it possesses rejuvenating powers will be conducted in Canada.

About 800 residents of homes for the aged—persons from 65 to 90—will be given the drug, it has been announced by the Ontario Geriatrics Research Society.

Intramuscular injections of procaine will be given three times weekly for a month.

Earlier studies have not supported the claims of Dr. Anna Aslan of Bucharest. She has reported striking improvement in elderly patients given procaine (she calls it H3) for conditions such as degenerative joint disease, Parkinson's Disease, peptic ulcer, cardiovascular disease, baldness and skin disorders.

Procaine is also known as Novocain. It is customarily used as an anesthetic.

RECURRENT kidney stones can't be prevented by moving to another section of the country, says a consultant to the Journal of the American Medical Association. There is no such thing as a stone-free belt in the United States.

Science has learned, however, that kidney stones are more common in the southeastern part of the U. S. than elsewhere in the nation.

Plunge Geraniums

Clay-potted geraniums plunged in a redwood planter will add a colorful touch to patio or porch areas. Since geraniums are sun-lovers, be sure and select a bright spot for the planter, though some protection from the noon and late-day sun will result in more blooms.

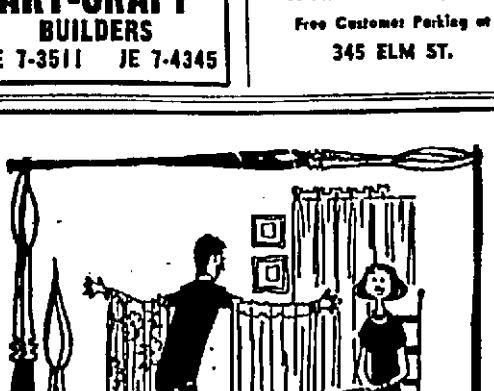

Pack the area between the clay pots and the planter with peat moss and keep the moss wet. The geraniums will soak up sufficient moisture through the porous walls of their clay pots.

Play locomotive and/or caboose can be constructed from an easy to follow plan and will give kids loads of fun.

By Bill Meyerriecks

CHILDREN love to play "grown up." Much of their fun is based on pretending. Boys imagine a discarded cardboard box to be a space capsule while girls become mothers to rag dolls. And it follows that the more realistic the toy, the more fun is involved.

Sketchbook's popular design idea, the Play Train, provides youngsters with a very realistic setting to allow their imagination to run full throttle. What child hasn't thrilled to being a locomotive engineer?

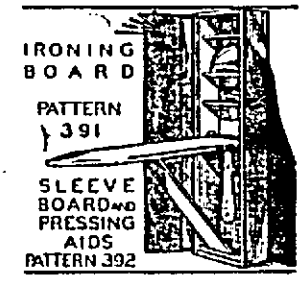

EACH OF the play train's three project, the locomotive, caboose or flat car sand box are pleasant projects to construct. All are made from exterior plywood. Dad's enthusiasm in building the locomotive or caboose will rival his child's enthusiasm to play trainman. Take the locomotive for instance. It is 2 feet wide, 8 feet long with cab headroom of 4 feet. Outside of the circular wheels, it's nearly all straight cuts and simple nailing. Both locomotive and caboose (which is 2x7 feet) are scaled for preschoolers, but older sisters and brothers will have no trouble imagining themselves as engineers and conductors. Both projects, too, are excellent, safe, exercise climbers.

Typical comment about the Sketchbook Play Train plan was received recently from parents in Columbus, Ohio. They had built the caboose and it is the continual delight of their children's backyard recreation. They're ready now to tackle the locomotive.

TO OBTAIN Sketchbook Play Train Plan S-124, send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Six Miles Over Europe in a Thunderstreak

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

WHAT IS IT like up there, 2,000-pounds of man and machine slashing across the skies at the speed of sound, riding the icy edges of heaven on rolling thunder and a swirling contrail?

How feels the man with power at his fingertips to destroy a city, chop a concrete roadway to gravel, flip an 80-ton tank and bring a napalm Armageddon, a storm of fire, to a scurrying company of foot soldiers?

These are questions for the jet fighter-bomber pilot, men such as Richard Bach of Long Beach, author of a remarkable evocation of the airman's special world, "STRANGER TO THE GROUND" (Harper & Row, $3.50.)

This book, a moment-by-moment re-creation of a solo night mission over Europe, takes the reader into the tiny, crowded, seemingly complex cockpit of an F84F Thunderstreak.

There, six miles above the earth with most of a continent spread at your feet, sealed in with your bank of instruments and thoughts and tethered to the rest of mankind by only a radio beam, you view with immense clarity the strange, beautiful, fearful and remarkably precise world of the fighter pilot.

Bach, an Air National Guardsman, tells of the adventure of flying, from gunnery practices to mass formation drills at air shows to long alert drills, in a tone, cadence and lucidity that marks this small (178-pages) book for a place among the classics of aviation writing.

He is a poet-pilot who, you say, cannot possibly fly as well as he writes, or long ago he would have escaped the earth forever.

"Divorced from my airplane I am an ordinary man, and a useless one—a trainer without a horse, a sculptor without marble, a priest without a god. Without an airplane I am a lonely consumer of hamburgers, the fellow in line at the cash register . . . a brown-haired fellow who is struggling against pitiless odds to master the guitar . . ."

"Europe is a pitifully small place. From 37,000 feet above the Pyrenees I can see the cold Atlantic at Bordeaux and the shores of the French Riviera on the Mediterranean. I can see Barcelona, and in the haze, Madrid. In 30 minutes I can fly over England, Holland, Luxembourg, Belgium, France and Germany. . . . So this was a school for mankind. A small school yard. . . ."

The airplane and man are one to Bach. Both are demanding, unforgiving and oddly charitable of the other. We, Bach uses again and again, to describe the man-machine, the ultimate weapons system.

This great pluralistic monologue—the enchanted, spellbound peruser of these pages will agree—is extended to a third person, the reader.

ONLY WOMAN White House correspondent whose sole full-time assignment is to cover the activities of President Kennedy is Marianne Means, author of "THE WOMAN IN THE WHITE HOUSE" (Random House, $5.95). She presents profiles and personal histories of 12 women who have occupied the White House: Martha Washington, Abigail Adams, Dolly Madison, Sarah Polk, Mary Lincoln, Helen Taft, Edith Wilson, Florence Harding, Eleanor Roosevelt, Bess Truman, Mamie Eisenhower and Jacqueline Kennedy.

JULES FEIFFER

"For some time I've been interested in exploring notions concerning 'love' that we've been reading about: how our ability to love depends on our ability to give, to make contact, to relate meaningfully. So I invented Harry, a man who never considered loving, giving, or making contact and who was perfectly happy—until he began to listen to people around him." Thus Jules Feiffer describes his first novel, "HARRY, THE RAT WITH WOMEN" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50).

Spanish colors of red, white and gold enliven this living-dining room designed by Edna O'Brien, Long Beach, seen in Los Angeles Decorator-Home Furnishings Show.

A Reflection of Spanish Decor

By Caroline Coleman

REFLECTING the new overtones of Spanish influence in home decor, a handsome living-dining room designed by Edna O'Brien of Long Beach highlights the 14th annual Decorators and Home Furnishings Show now under way in Pan Pacific Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Edna O'Brien, a native Californian, is responsible for many beautiful home interiors in the Long Beach area.

Her room at the decorators show is resplendent in red, white and gold, Spanish colors. The floor is of hexagon flagstone. A crystal bead curtain individualizes the dining area. The smart setting can be seen in the Grand Promenade center section of the show, where "avenues" lead to new interiors for every room in the house.

THE SHOW, in the 100,000 square foot Pan Pacific Auditorium, 7600 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, continues its run from 1 to 11 p.m. daily through Sept. 15. The Southern California Chapter of the National Society of Interior Designers sponsors the show, with Robert L. Boyle, president of Pacific Shows, Inc., the producers.

The theme "Avenues to International Design" stresses important design trends from countries around the world which influence 1963 home interiors. In more than 200 room settings interior designers create complete exhibits for every room in the home, including living and dining rooms, bedrooms, outdoor living areas, kitchens, baths. All emphasize new home furnishings, carpets and floor coverings, wall treatments accessories, fabrics and colors.

If you have to remove a dead tree or shrub from your garden, be sure to get every particle of decayed root out of the soil because wherever a tree has died, sour sap or root rot is apt to follow as a result of decomposition, regardless of whether a disease caused the death of the tree or not. Destroy all these root particles definitely and do not under any circumstances leave them lying around.

For further safety, in replacing the soil taken out with the tree, I suggest intermingling about 2½ pounds of agricultural sulphur in the soil you use for replacement. Water it down well and disinfect it with a copper-ether solution. Permit the area to dry out 10 days or so and give it a thorough soaking. Thus you will cleanse your soil to a greater depth and create a fine soil for the growing of new plants.

Give roses their last feeding this week or next. Mid-September is about the latest they should have food.

Plant native shrubs and trees now and water them in well. Set out annual bedding plants for winter bloom. . . .

"Remove Not... the Landmark..."

—Drawing by Dick Wallmeyer

Long Beach shares in California's romantic heritage and historical landmarks here make note of this fact.

By Maymie R. Krythe

CALIFORNIA'S Admission Day, in its 113th anniversary tomorrow, will recall two events of interest to Long Beach: the posting of historical landmarks in 1947 and 1961. And this year Long Beach also is marking an anniversary of its own — Diamond Jubilee year of the founding of the city.

Biblical importance of preserving landmarks is noted in several injunctions among them PROVERBS 22:28: "Remove not the ancient landmark which thy fathers have set."

Despite the speed of modern progress, Long Beach is taking time to observe the Bible's instruction and to take note of the events of the past that future ages may want to understand. The two such events mentioned above were the placing of historical landmarkers at Rancho Los Cerritos and the Bixby home at Rancho Los Alamitos.

WHEN THE Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West met in Long Beach for a three-day observance of Admission Day in 1947, the climax of the meeting was joined with the Historical Society of Southern California at Rancho Los Cerritos to mark the hacienda as a historical landmark.

Men and women prominent in historical and civic activities were present, and a tour of the grounds was provided.

Fourteen years later, the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West again held a 3-day convention in Long Beach over Admission Day and activities included the placing of the historical marker at the Bixby home. Again civic and historical organizations were well represented and the grounds were open for inspection.

Canines Can Communicate

Speaking of expression, the bassets have it. Champion dog above, owned by Mrs. Clarice Gill, is an example.

By Eleanor Avery Price

JOHN GALSWORTHY wrote, "It is by muteness that a dog becomes for one so utterly beyond value—his adoring soul comes through his eyes."

A dog's eyes do "speak." They can become eloquent with love. And they can shine and dance with happiness until, like Jack London toward Buck in "The Call of the Wild," his owner wants to exclaim reverently, "God! You can all but speak!"

Some say their dog's eyes actually fill with tears at times. Most of us have never witnessed a dog weeping, but we have seen a dog's eyes plead to be understood or to understand, especially when we are scolding him. A dog also can carry a hooded expression of cool defiance when his disobedience was intentional or he feels he does not deserve scolding. And his eyes may gaze with mysterious but simple thoughts of his own.

A DOG'S MOUTH also plays a big part in his "speech." His throat may vibrate when he is pleased or happy. He barks to warn of impending danger, real or imaginary, and he barks in play or to gain attention. He frequently mimics the wailing sound of a siren, and he makes conversational throat noises. He appears to smile or laugh, and he may take his owner's hand in his mouth to feign a bite for a loving caress. (When he is a puppy, he often bears down too hard!)

The dog communicates a great deal with his body. When he is fearful that he is to be punished for something he has forgotten all about or when he has unintentionally made a misdeameanor, his head and tail will lower noticeably. He may even tremble, press himself against a wall, fence, or the floor, roll over on his back or squat in abject surrender.

IF HE HAS deliberately disobeyed, his stance may be dejected, but you will see a more rigid appearance as though he were bracing himself in defiance. Or he may be coolly disdainful.

Disgust is often shown by a tail dropped between the dog's legs and a back turned. Usually a tail between the legs means insecurity, although some breeds normally carry tuck-up tails.

When your dog dashes against you, presses his wet nose into your clothing, leaps up against you, or wiggles from stem to stern, he is showing his pleasure in your company.

A dog may squirm and get into ridiculous positions when he is self-conscious. He may snap at imaginary flies, flick non-existent "things" out of his ears, and in other ways show his embarrassment.

A puppy on a leash may "speak" by leaping about, winding around his trainer's legs, or crying. He needs reassuring.

BEVERLY RIVIERA Kennel Club has its show next Saturday and Sunday at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. Entries close Monday for Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club fall show and obedience trial Sept. 22 at Orange County Fairgrounds; also for California Associated Specialities, Sept. 21, Hollywood Turf Club grounds.

Good Shrub

One of the finest shrubs in the nursery trade is the Pink India Hawthorn—Raphiolepis indica rosea. It thrives in the toughest going, with poor soil and lack of water, always maintaining its clean good looks.

In spring the Pink India Hawthorn is a mass of delicate pink blossoms and these give way to clusters of berries which ripen to a blue-black color by late summer. Try it by the seashore or near the desert. You can't find the place that it won't do its best to please and please it usually does.

Ornamental cycad group creates an exotic setting.

Theirs Was Mesozoic Age

By Bertha Blanchard

ONE OF THE oldest survivors of the original land plants, according to fossil evidence, cycads flourished 300,000,000 years ago, in the early Mesozoic Age, at the same time as the dinosaurs.

Whether the cycad is a palm tree trying to become a fern or a fern aspiring to be a palm is of no concern to us, but they do represent an evolutionary link between ferns and needle-leaved conifers. Cycads are often called "sago palms," although, botanically, they are not a palm.

Today, cycads are among the most ornamental plants of tropical and subtropical gardens. In the Huntington Library gardens in San Marino, there are about 50 specimens from different countries growing in the palm garden. Nurserymen grow the plants in greenhouses from seeds imported from Mexico, Australia, India and Africa or from offshoots of the plants themselves. The hardiest, most popular cycad is the Cycas revoluta and the Ceratozamia mexicana, both may be grown in the garden or in containers. The beautiful, fern-like Dionedule, long a favorite, also can be grown in the Southland.

Fall Arrives in Palm Springs

Two additions to Palm Springs' constantly-changing facade: Aerial Tramway (top) and Palm Springs Spa Hotel.

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

FALL will come to Palm Springs a little earlier this year—this week, in fact.

And the season will close later than ever before in 1964.

That's the opinion of Eddie Davidson, a resident hotel man in the famed California desert resort since 1950.

Davidson cites the opening of the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway as one of several big reasons for his prediction of the resort's lengthening season.

The tramway officially opens Thursday with an inaugural trip on which state and business executives will ride. These well-knowns will include Gov. Edmund Brown, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Art Linkletter, and such industrial leaders as O. N. Miller, president of Standard Oil of California, and Irwin Schuman, president of Palm Springs Riviera Hotel. Each will pay $1,000 for the privilege of the "first ride."

THEN, ON SATURDAY, the $7.7 million "Golden Ride" over chasms and cliffs—to a height of 8,516 feet in the San Jacinto Mountains—will be open to the public. Rates will be $3.50 weekdays and $4 on weekends for adults, $2.25 and $2.75 for children.

Davidson points to the Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce estimate that 3 million vacationers from all over the world will visit the resort during the upcoming 12 months.

He concurs that the tramway will excite the imagination of adults and youngsters everywhere.

But contributing heavily to the expected increased influx are a number of other attractions which include the Palm Springs Spa Hotel and Mineral Springs, one of the most lavish of its kind in the entire country; the opening this month of Palm Springs' department stores; and the scheduling of the Frank Sinatra Golf Invitational for early November.

THE SPA HOTEL, of which Davidson is executive director, is built on the site of the original mineral springs from which Palm Springs derives its name. Its opening in April was an unheard-of event.

"No one opens a hotel in the desert in April," says Davidson, "but we felt then, and our occupancy rate confirms the fact, that a great number of people will come to enjoy the desert during the so-called off season if the right facilities are available."

The scheduling of the Frank Sinatra Invitational for the benefit of the Boys Club of America Nov. 7-12, is certain to attract visitors to the California vacationland. Invitations have been sent to such personalities as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Dean Martin, Bill Casper Jr., Bing Crosby, Bob Goalby, Bob Hope, Doug Sanders, Perry Como and Sammy Davis Jr.

"Time was," Davidson said, "when Palm Springs began its season the week before Christmas and ended it the day after Easter. But now, with the tramway on a year-around schedule, so many golf courses available, hundreds of swimming pools and many fine hotels open, vacationers will find plenty to do and see in Palm Springs—no matter what month they plan their visit."

It's Apple Time in Oak Glen

It's apple time again in Oak Glen, the mile-high orchard paradise north of Beaumont.

All of which calls for a day's outing by thousands of Southlanders who like to picnic amid the bright coloring of fall leaves and at the same time get a supply of tree-ripened apples, fresh from the orchards. And cider!

You can reach the Oak Glen apple ranches—there are 18 of them—by driving north out of Beaumont on Beaumont Ave.; or by taking Oak Glen Road east from Yucaipi.

The apple harvest, just starting, continues into December.

Travel Talk

TRANS WORLD Airlines last week started showing first-run movies in first class cabins on flights operating between Los Angeles and Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washingtotn.

The airline has been showing such film on transatlantic flights to first class passengers for two years, and to economy passengers since May.

Expansion of movies to domestic service will bring to nearly 300 the number of such flights operated each week by TWA over its domestic and international routes.

Current planning calls for changing features every Wednesday. Midweek change will help preclude frequent travelers from seeing the same film twice.

"GOLFOPHILES" often say that a vacation without golf simply does not come up to par.

To combine golfing at some of the world's famous fairways with an European holiday, Lufthansa German Airlines has created an interesting three-week tour with Howard E. Smith, well-known California pro, conducting a group from Sept. 14 to Oct. 5.

Two days after arrival in London, golfing starts at St. Andrews Old Course. Then follows a day at St. Andrews New Course, another at Gleneagles' famous inland course, followed by golfing at Sunningdale Golf Club, Berkshire; Prince's Golf Club, Sandwich; and Royal Cinque Port Club, Deal.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

ST. THOMAS, VIRGIN ISLANDS

"We both prefer not to fly. Is there a way to get into Mexico by train? How are they?"

I HAVEN'T been on a Mexican train for a long, long time. U.S. trains make Mexican connections at Nogales, El Paso and Laredo. Word I get is the Aguila Azteca, Laredo to Mexico City daily, is best. Swiss coaches, de luxe compartments, lounge and bar cars and dining service.

Mexico is unpredictable so I'd get ticketed through a travel agency in the U.S. They say the ticket office opens a half hour before the train leaves and at that time everybody's in line.

". . . or could we go around around the country by bus?"

OK IF you take the first-class (sometimes called Pullman) buses. You can find out about these through Greyhound Lines in the U.S.—Greyhound has a very good and inexpensive 18-day tour too.

The big bus lines are very good and have fine buses. But I'd be thoughtful about those second-class commute jobs in the back country. They're always going off roads. And when you go off a Mexican road, it's often 2,000 feet down. The country drivers are all courage and no brakes.

"Where do you get information on those sunny, hideaway islands—anywhere?"

THERE ARE a few islands off the warm, north coast of Australia. Information on them comes from the Australian tourist offices in the U.S., Pan American Airways and Fiji Visitors' Bureau, Suva, Fijis for those islands.

Robin Kinkead went there for Pan American and tells me they are building resorts on some of the atolls around the big island of Viti Levu. Wakaya, 70 miles from Suva, rents native huts sleeping four for $22.70 a week. Daily delivery of kerosene for refrigerator and stove. There's a general store with a radio telephone and supplies.

Tahiti info comes from the French Tourist Bureaus in the U.S. But it's mainly about hotels. The French want traffic through these islands—not settled residents. They figure after two weeks you gear your spending down to the local economy. You're no longer an asset. Fairly expensive for the visitor.

Can't find out much about the coconut islands of Western Samoa since the natives took over from New Zealand. There's been some question whether they wanted any tourists. Used to be expensive.

The Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico are cheap on luxury goods (because of free ports and taxes) but higher than the U.S. on imported staples. Beautiful, tropical country, with lots of little islands. You write for information and I'll send along to somebody who will answer.

Jamaica and the Bahamas are a little stiff with imported British starch. Expensive. I don't know whether their tourist bureaus give you much help. They didn't for me.

The Canary Islands. Supposed to be the greatest with good Atlantic beaches, warm climate off Africa and $5 a day keeps you living like a grandee. Probably true since this is Spanish economy. Spanish tourist offices in the U.S.

"You gave a Mexican recipe for sangria with hot sauce but in Portugal that is not what we got . . ."

SANGRITA, not sangria, is the Mexican hot sauce chaser for tequila. Sangria is the refreshing wine punch of Portugal and Spain: Slice one orange, one lemon and put them in a pitcher full of ice. Add a bottle of dry red wine and a third that much of soda. Let it stand for about 15 minutes to let the fruit flavor get in it.

"I would like to arrange and pay for a very good dinner at a very good restaurant for a honeymoon couple going to Europe . . ."

"BE MY GUEST," 20 W. 43rd St., New York City, specializes in this service. They'll send you a catalogue—dinner in Spain at Casa Botlin, $6.75; boat ride on the Seine with dinner in the Eiffel Tower Restaurant, $16.75 etc.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Avenue, Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy for reply only in this colum.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you inform us on the name PRATT. — Mrs. C.P., Garden Grove; Mrs. C.W., Long Beach.

C.P., C.W.: PRATT ancestry began with an Englishman baptized Praett meaning "clever one." The Hundred Rolls record of 1273 lists 30 descendants with this surname in various parts of Britain. The family shield, granted to Edmund Pratt, Lord of the Manor of Carles in Norfolk in the 1500s, is silver. Emblazoned on it are three gold diamonds with black centers, placed between three black balls on a black chevron. The will of John Pratt, an American forefather who died in Massachusetts in 1647, states in part, "Wife sole executrix. When my debts are discharged she shall have ye rest, soe to improve to bringe up the children, and when as they come to age and able to manage it, to give to each one a portion alike."

DEAR MISS RULE: What do you have on STERRENBURG?—B. S., Palmdale.

B. S.: STERRENBURG is Dutch. This word originated as a town name and prior to that was a locality term. Sterren-burg had two divergent meanings. It meant "town among the stars," describing a settlement located at the top of a mountain where it appeared to be "among the stars" at night. Sterren-burg also meant "town where rams are raised," a place in a sheep-raising region. The Sterrenburg coat-of-arms from Holland has a silver horizontal stripe placed between six gold stars on a black shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on BALDWIN. — D.G., Norwalk.

D.G.: BALDWIN, meaning "bold friend and protector," is traced back to Baldwin the Sheriff, a companion of William the Conqueror during the Norman-French subjugation of England in 1066. A probematical ancestry is alternately traced to Baldwin of Flanders, a famous Crusader who became King of Jerusalem in A.D. 1096. Family records list Thomas Baldwin of Oxford, 1273, and and Roger Baldwin, 1390. The Baldwin shield is silver, emblazoned with a black "X"-shaped cross. Timothy, Joseph and Nathaniel, sons of Richard Baldwin of Buckingham, England, settled in Connecticut in 1639. One of their descendants fought with American patriots at Lexington, Mass., in 1775. The Baldwin apple was named for him.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain RHODES.—P.T., Long Beach.

P.T.: RHODES, from the early English word "rodes," had three divergent meanings. "Rhodes" designated "property at a crossroads," while other Rhodes lineages descended from an ancestor who resided at a "rodes," or group of roadside crosses that formed a religious shrine. Rodes also refers to "clearings in a forest." The shield granted to descendants of Gerard de Rodes, 12th century owner of Horn Castle, Lincolnshire, is silver, deco-two blue acorns.

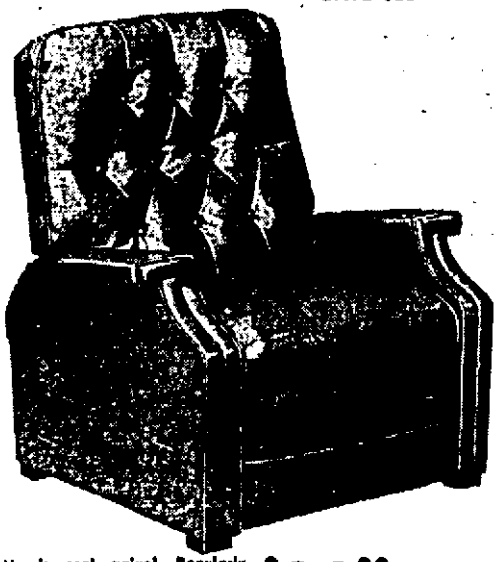

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give information on BURNEY.—C.B., Long Beach.

C.B.: BURNEY is primarily from an English locality called "Burne-ig," meaning "river island." Another source is the Gaelic Scotch clan name MacBiorna, meaning "Sons of the Bear." MacBiorna was modernized as MacBurney and Burney.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze CRANER.—V.A., Orange.

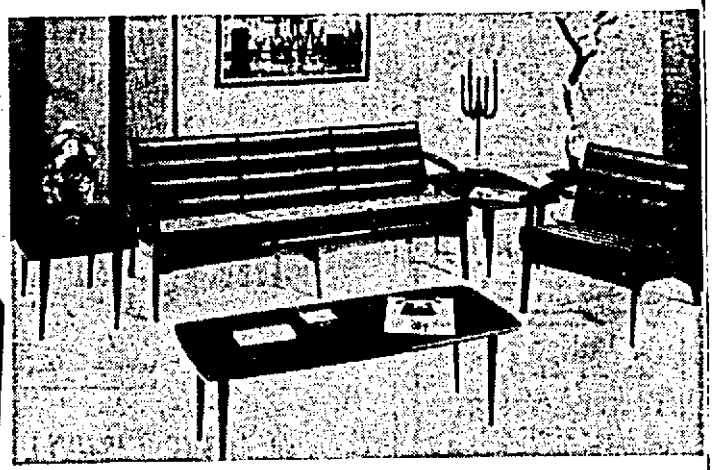

V.A.: CRANER is Americanized from the dialectial German surname of Kraner. The original usage of Kraner was locational, for it meant "owner of a pool."

Schedule Your Garden Chores

Among garden chores for those who have hydrangeas is pruning to within two-three buds of last season's growth.

By Joe Littlefield

WORKING and living at the modern pace increases the need for relaxation and recreation, whether it be sports, some type of hobby or just getting outdoors in the garden.

Some men don't like gardening, even though they feel mowing the lawn saves money for the garden budget.

Other men take to gardening, like baby ducks take to water. They love it, the hard digging part of gardening as well as pleasant action of cutting beautiful flowers to bring proudly into the house for the "missus" to use in flower arrangements.

SOMETIMES, men who hate gardening when they first start in, eventually develop a liking for it. Something about gardening grows on them. Perhaps its the consciousness of the mystery of life in unfoldment of beautiful flowers, growth of plants, lawns, and trees.

As they continue to garden, whether on weekends or odd moments of time, every day or so, unconsciously they work into a groove of doing seasonally what comes naturally. They seem to work into the knack of doing first things first.

For instance, when we finally were able to spare a few odd moments nearly each day for a week, we first decided cannas in the long narrow flower bed were too huge. Out they came. That's all the time we had that day.

Next spot of garden time was spent in cutting off old brown amarcrinum foliage.

As we cleaned the old amarcrinum foliage, we discovered a few mealy bugs. We pondered a moment . . . should we drop our work right here, get out the spray gun and spray or should we finish the cleanup job, pulling off old iris foliage, cutting the back rest of bloomed-out stalks of Little Gem asters, and pulling out rest of weeds in immediate garden area. Common sense dictated we finish grooming the garden which we did.

A day later, we did the spraying job. We sprayed not only the amarcrinums, but the rest of the plants in that garden area, even though they didn't need it. Part of good gardening is preventive pest control.

WE DID a thorough job of not only spraying the plants, but the premoistened soil between plants; because pests sometimes exist on fallen foliage, and maybe pest or two is nesting in the soil. Spraying was all we could do this time.

A couple of days later, the preciously hoarded gardening time enabled us to clean off old day lily foliage, loosen soil for better water absorption, thin out short twiggy rose growth, cut off old flower heads, then soak the soil heavily and feed the roses.

As you can see, these gardening jobs weren't done in one day. But what a difference those little jobs made in the improvement of the plants and small garden areas.

Had we tried to do it all on a weekend it would have been a truly formidable assignment.

Dahlia Show

Dahlia fanciers from all areas of the state will put their best blooms and arrangements forward next Saturday and Sunday when the Southern California Dahlia Society presents a spectacular floral event at Long Beach Municipal Auditorium. Show hours will be 2 to 10 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. Nominal admission will be charged; children under 12 free when accompanied.

Thousands of dahlias will be shown in specimen bloom and mass display competition and the artistic skill of many of the state's best flower arrangers will be presented in an arrangements section. Besides the dinner-size dahlias, a full division will be devoted to the increasingly popular miniature and novelty dahlias, it was stated by R. L. Pyle, president of the society.

All of the flowers in the show will be given away to visitors at the closing hour Sunday. Groups may obtain armloads of flowers by contacting the show manager at the show.

Garden Club

Are Wood Yachts Due for 'Deep 6'?

Hull of the all-aluminum yacht, Kialoa II, is shown under construction in a factory building in Torrance.

By Lou Jobst

A REVOLUTION of yacht racing may be shaping up in a Southland factory.

A 73-foot sloop, Kialoa II, is being constructed for builder-sportsman John B. Kilroy at the Harbor City yards of Yacht Dynamics.

The Kialoa II is all aluminum from stem to stern and will be the largest all-aluminum racing sloop in the United States when completed. Will it signal the end — in nautical terms, the "Deep Six"—for wooden yacht building? Time and experience will decide.

Slated to fly the colors of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, Kilroy hopes to have the sleek, metal offshore racer ready for the Newport Harbor to Ensenada International Yacht Race next spring.

THE BOAT will weigh 96,000 pounds and will carry 2,700 square feet of sail and a crew of 16.

Although sailing purists say a metal boat is out of place in a sport which has been dominated by wooden boats throughout history, the Kialoa's builder, Kenneth Watts, president of Yachts Dynamics, cares to differ.

"Costwise," said Watts, "we believe aluminum boats can be built cheaper than boats of wood.

"THE VALUE of a boat like the Kialoa II 20 years from now will be worth a lot more than the money paid for it.

"An aluminum boat will not get what we call tired. After 30 years of use, it will be just as rigid and strong as it is today.

"A wooden boat has a tendency to get sort of lax or hogback, just like a chair. It requires greater upkeep and takes on a musty odor in a few years.

"An aluminum boat won't leak, requires little maintenance especially below the waterline which is important for racing and weighs one-third less than a wooden boat about the same size."

ALUMINUM, he continued, is more reliable than wood.

"One spruce mast may be fine and maybe a second one, too. But the third could be flexible and rubbery."

Heresy?

Only the racing season will tell.

Planting Hobby

We're becoming a nation of pot plant hobbyists. Nearly seven out of ten U. S. households now has one or more living plants growing either indoors or on fully or semi-enclosed porches, patios and terraces, according to a recent study by the National Clay Pot Manufacturers, whose member companies produce the millions of porous clay flower pots in which most quality plants are grown.

Recipe of the Week

DISH THAT'S A WINNER with the appetite at suppertime scores in the weekly Best Recipe contest, too, winning $5 for Mrs. Virginia Jay Rolley, 2411-B E. Ocean Blvd., Long Beach 3. The recipe:

"Sweet and Sour Summer Supper Delight"

2 lbs. ground beef
1 large red onion or medium yellow onion
1 regular size can tomato soup
1 can whole kernel corn No. 2 size
Salt and pepper to taste
Sour dough French bread slices

Chop and saute onion. Add meat and saute, chop, stir and mix until all meat is finely cooked. Lower heat and add can of tomato soup. Stir well and allow to cook over low heat for 20 minutes as minimum time allowed. Drain corn and add whole kernels to meat mixture. Remove from heat and serve over sour dough French bread spread with Miracle Whip or cream cheese.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

THELMA MACK
American and Cantonese

REMEMBER your last trip to Hawaii? Remember the islands' dazzling colors, the pretty barefoot girls, men in gay shirts and all the gorgeous flowers?

It may be some time before you get back there. Meanwhile you can recapture all the tropical glories of the islands simply by visiting the spacious, glamorous Hawaiian restaurant at 4645 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. With its lush green plants, bamboo, fish netting, and lighted aquariums, this fine dining establishment offers unmatchable relaxation and outstanding dining pleasures. The hostesses are pretty girls with flowers in their hair who often go barefooted, and the waiters are elegant gentlemen in white trousers and colorful Hawaiian shirts.

Owner-hostess Thelma Mack, a tiny bundle of supercharged energy, provides her guests with entertainment nightly, including the brilliant voice of George Kainapau, The Islanders orchestra and Hawaiian and Tahitian dancing by lovely maids in tropical costumes.

Thelma also directs the bustling activities of the restaurant's banquet rooms which accommodate small groups as well as throngs of hundreds. Banquets and special parties may enjoy American or Cantonese specialties from the Hawaiian's extremely versatile menu.

Dinner guests continually compliment Thelma on the high quality of her cuisine. The American dinners, extremely large and complete from soup and salad to dessert, are priced from $2.60. The Cantonese dinners, mingling elaborate, exotic flavors, are from $3.25. Charcoal-broiled steaks, sea food and chicken are also featured.

SPECIAL

DISCOVERY '63—Frank Buxton and Virginia Gibson move with their award-winning children's program to a new weekly time, at 2 p.m., ch. 7. Opener examines how life begins in one-celled animals, birds, fish, butterflies, poodles, cats and man himself. Highlights show birth of puppies and of a seahorse, latter from the pouch of a male where eggs were laid by female.

HUNTLEY-BRINKLEY—An advance report on NBC's new expanded news show takes a behind-the-scenes look at TV news techniques at 6:30 p.m., ch. 4. Use of communications satellites, transatlantic cable films and jet flights are shown.

DAVY CROCKETT—The show which sold a million records and four million coonskin caps returns for its first color telecast at 7:30 p.m., ch. 4. (Star Fess Parker, incidentally, has recorded a new version of the ballad.) Buddy Ebsen co-stars with Parker in opener, as Crockett uses his frontier wiles to quell an Indian uprising. ("Davy Crockett Goes to Congress" and "Davy Crocket at the Alamo" will be other reprises.)

OPEN END—The mind-changing drugs—LSD, psilocybin and mescaline, and their effect on the conscious mind, are discussed at length by host David Susskind and psychiatrists, psychosomatic specialists, medical hynotists and psychologists at 11 p.m., ch. 5. Both beneficial and hindering aspects are probed.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

The president and general manager of KCOP (channel 13) believes Southern California is a "high-brow television market."

And John Hopkins, the aforementioned executive, is putting his money where his mouth is.

Starting 9 p.m. Thursday, channel 13 premieres the "Festival of Performing Arts," a one-hour series opening with violinist Isaac Stern.

JOHN HOPKINS

"We bought and scheduled this series because we think Southern California is the type of market that will support this type of venture—a high-brow market," said Hopkins.

"Arts in Southern California get a higher reception than anywhere else in the United States."

Hopkins' reasoning was bolstered by the success of "The Play of the Week" when it was aired here a few seasons past.

"It laid an egg most everywhere else," he said.

The "Performing Arts" 10-program series purchase was "pretty expensive," according to Hopkins.

He candidly admitted that it would have to get good ratings if the station were to commit itself for the purchase of another 10 programs.

Hopkins is pretty confident the initial series will get good ratings.

"IT'S QUALITY TELEVISION that will satisfy the desires of the people in this area who have been demanding something like it."

The "quality television" series includes such offerings as Paul Scofield and Joy Parker in "A Duet of Poetry and Drama," Rudolf Serkin and the Budapest String Quartet, and Cyril Ritchard and Hermione Baddeley in a "Festival Revue" satire.

The series has been produced by David Susskind and James Fleming.

Hopkins isn't scheduling all his fall programming for the "high-brow market."

He's also convinced that Southern California is the most sportsminded and color-television conscious community in the United States.

"Take junior colleges, for example," he said. "Alumni of junior colleges in Southern California seem to display as much interest in their alma mater as do graduates of four-year universities elsewhere."

SO HOPKINS HAS SCEDULED 10 junior college football games to be aired starting Sept. 20. Among the competing teams will be Santa Ana, El Camino, Compton and Chaffey, but not Long Beach.

In the color department, KCOP will nearly double its offerings in the fall.

It's upping its color programs from 14 to 27 half hours. The total, claims Hopkins, will be more than any other Southland independent television station.

The station has discovered a colorful secret.

"Take a program like 'Ripcord,' which we will be starting in the fall," said Hopkins.

"It has already been re-run by another network affiliate.

"But we'll do it in color, not black-and-white, and pick up a new audience."

HOW CAN he be so sure?

"Nothing is ever sure," replied Hopkins. "But we did exactly the same thing last season with 'Northwest Passage' and we got a new audience for that old series."

Among the newer series—first-run off the networks—that KCOP will offer this fall are "The Dick Powell Theater" and "Stoney Burke."

In addition, the station is "beefing up" its children's programs and already claims to lead Southern California rating-wise in what it currently is offering.

Former Football Player in 'Lieutenant' Role

A 26-year-old ex-football player named Yurosek will try to score this new TV season in a series debuting 7:30 p.m. Saturday on channel 4.

But he won't be called Yurosek.

Using his stage-screen name of Gary Lockwood, the 6-foot, 1-inch-tall bachelor will play the title role of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Lieutenant."

M-G-M and NBC-TV are wagering the magnettism of the star will boom the show into the Top 10.

• • • •

HIS MAGNETISM as a football player at UCLA did

GARY LOCKWOOD

not prevent the university from expelling him for brawling.

His magnetism did help when the late Red Sanders, who coached the UCLA football team, helped get him a job as a Hollywood stuntman.

His brawling days over, Lockwood graduated from stuntman to actor and appeared in that performing capacity in several movies.

On television, he had a featured role in the defunct "Follow the Sun" series, a television program which he considered a professional disgrace.

• • • •

HE'S EXCITED, however, about "The Lieutenant," a series about a Marine Corps officer during peacetime.

"I'm playing a young, sensitive guy with brains."

WHY GO BALD?

California's Leading Scalp Specialist Answers Your Questions About Hair

S. I. Turoff, California's leading hair and scalp expert, who has just announced a Save-Your-Hair-Week. As long as you have some hair, you have an excellent chance to grow thicker hair with remarkable new methods, Specialist Turoff says. Turoff recently opened the 9th permanent Turoff Clinic in Long Beach.

"There are many causes of baldness," says S. I. Turoff, California's foremost hair expert, "but the most important cause is ignorance!"

This startling announcement was made by Mr. Turoff in a recent interview in his Long Beach office. And there's no doubt that Mr. Turoff speaks with authority, for he has spent over 26 years studying and correcting the hair ills of thousands and directs scalp treatments in his many offices.

He has treated show people, businessmen, athletes, workers—men and women from every professional background. With this long and varied experience, he is generally regarded as one of the nations top trichologists.

"The hardest part of helping men and women with hair troubles is to show them that they can be helped," says Mr. Turoff. "After all these years, it still continues to amaze me how little people have learned about the advances that have been made in hair science field."

Leading Questions

According to Mr. Turoff, most men—and women, too—have the same general misconceptions about their hair.

"I have heard the same questions for so many years that I have made a list. Four men out of five who come in to see me for their free scalp examinations ask me one of three questions first. Usually," he added with a smile, "I can tell when a man walks through my office door which one he'll ask first."

Mr. Turoff agreed to publish his "little list," for the help of those who haven't got around to getting help for their hair problems. Here they are:

Q. "I have been worried about heavy hair-fall for the last year. How can I get rid of this disorder?"

A. Heavy hair-fall is a symptom of scalp trouble, not a disorder in itself. The problem is to find what's causing the loss and to treat the cause, not the symptom.

By far the most common cause of hair loss, as revealed by the thousands of case histories at Turoff Hair Experts, is infectious dandruff.

This dandruff may not be the kind you see. In its most dangerous form, it becomes imbedded in the hair tubes and blocks the emergence of new hairs.

You cannot get rid of such dandruff with ordinary methods of shampooing and scalp hygiene. You must have expert help if you are to avoid baldness!

Q. "I've lost so much hair lately that it's quite thin on top. Is it possible to regrow this hair?"

A. Some re-growth is almost always accomplished by Turoff treatment and after care. In many cases, we re-grow most all of the lost hair.

The amount of recovery depends on the amount of damage done before you start treatment. Where hair loss has been going on for years, some hair follicles will be completely closed and the hair bulbs withered away. Nothing can be done to reactivate growth there.

But where follicles still produce even "fuzz," they can usually be stimulated to produce hair of full length and strength.

You see, your scalp naturally has a tremendous urge to keep on growing hair. Once a follicle is cleared of dandruff and infectious bacteria by Turoff treatment . . . and the "manufacturing" mechanism stimulated, nature takes over. From then on, following a proper schedule of hair care will keep your scalp healthy and hair growing.

Q. "I have a pronounced 'bald spot,' and my hair is very thin elsewhere on top. Would I benefit from Turoff scalp treatment?"

A. Almost any man with any hair left will benefit from our modern treatment . . . and quickly, too!

From your very first treatment your scalp looks and feels better. Soon dandruff disappears and excess hair loss slows down to normal. Too oily or too dry scalp is cleared up.

Wherever you have new hair growing—even thin "fuzz"—you can have thicker, healthier, handsome hair. But it's all a matter of timing.

You must remember that the one sure thing about a "bald spot" is that it will spread unless attended to. The spreading does not stop naturally—until you're slick bald. You must stop it with expert care. And that's the least benefit you can expect from Turoff treatment. It will enable your hair "to hold its own."

"Do-It-Yourself" Treatment

Mr. Turoff says that there is a fourth question that is quite popular although it does not apply to residents of California who can get to the Turoff office easily.

Q. "I live sixty-five miles from your office and cannot get in to the office frequently enough for regular treatments. Is there any hope for my hair?"

A. Most assuredly. For those who live out of town or who travel frequently, Mr. Turoff has developed a combination home-and-office treatment that is highly successful. After your initial office examination, you are given a self-help plan of hair care that is remarkably effective.

Hundreds of men from cities and towns around Long Beach have a healthy head of hair today because of the Turoff "Do-It-Yourself" system.

Free Examination

No matter how far advanced your hair-loss is, the most important consideration is that you do something about it NOW.

If hair loss is severe, you had better tend to it immediately before you lose everything . . . and hope, too.

If thinning is just beginning, you're lucky—if you get expert help NOW. For with the assistance of the Turoff Hair Experts, you can regain your hair, get it in a healthier condition probably than ever before, and be assured of a full head of hair the rest of your life.

Trial Treatment

During "Save-Your-Hair Week" only, the Turoff Hair and Scalp Specialists offer a complete scalp treatment for $2 to any eligible man or woman.

Here's the way to get it:

Visit the Turoff Hair and Scalp Specialists office this week at any time between 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. daily (10 to 3 Saturday; Thursday, 4 to 8 p.m.). Have the Turoff specialist examine your scalp and give you his findings.

If your condition is "hopeless," he'll tell you so frankly. About 5 per cent of those he examines are hopeless.

If you are acceptable, your first trial visit (with coupon) will cost just $2.

Since your scalp, like your fingerprint, is not the same as anybody else's, the examination must come first.

These are the questions most people want information about:

1. How often should you wash hair?
2. Which kind of shampoo is best?
3. Is brushing necessary? Desirable?
4. What can be done about oily scalp?
5. What about dry scalp?
6. Are "tonics" and dressing helpful?
7. Does it help to cut hair short?
8. When is dandruff dangerous?
9. Can your hair be thickened?
10. What is a scalp treatment like?

Take this list along with you tomorrow to see Turoff Hair and Scalp Specialists.
